The increasing demand for lead and zinc is too obvious to need detailed statement. Both metals are in a ready demand and at steadily advancing prices. The prices have gone up since 1899 from $61.12 per ton for lead and $24.61 for zinc to $57.00 for lead and $60.00 for zinc. The lead and zinc industry is now right at the front in the great commercial enterprises of the country. This southwestern district produces 60 per cent. of the zinc produced in the United States.

The earning capacity of the Sunburst's property, handling ore that averages from 8 to 15 per cent, can be estimated from the production of other companies. The Center Creek Mining Company, of Webb City, Mo., from an 80-acre tract, has taken out nearly $7,000,000 and is still producing.

The report for the year 1901 shows the following production during that year from the several properties mentioned:

	Acres.	Value.
American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co.	4000	$ 367,160.00
A. W. Taylor	180	160,765.00
J. W. Aylor	40	670,871.00
The Burgner Mining Co.	80	156,570.00
Center Creek Mining Co. (production to date)	300	6,962,194.00
Mrs. E. J. Chinn	120	225,780.00
Majestic Consolidated Zinc & Lead Co.	52	254,000.00
Continental Zinc Co. (production to date)	200	1,573,543.00
Consolidated Troup Mining Co.	40	191,917.00
Daughtery-Davy-McMillan Estate	50	456,000.00
The Empire Zinc Co.	411	120,319.00
Fox Heirs	30	120,324.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1905		1,287,951.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1904		1,025,000.00
John G. Guinn	640	82,267.00
Pittsburg-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co.	10	90,000.00
Pittsburg-Missouri Zinc & Lead Co.	170	413,294.00
United Zinc Co.	126	290,376.00

From these figures it can be seen readily how such large dividends are paid. The Dinger Co. pays 120 per cent., the Chapman 130 per cent., the Omega 117 per cent., and many others yield enormous returns.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF PROPERTY.

These profits are possible because of the concentrated richness of the ore, the fact that it is near the surface, that it requires no expensive machinery, that the buyers come to the mine and take the product right from the mine, that the climate is favorable, that the market is advancing, and the owners of the mine get steadily improving values for their ore produced. This is why lead and zinc mining is the safest and most profitable investment in the world today. Do you want 100 per cent. or more on your money?

Press Reports Rich Strike by Sunburst Mining Company

From the Baxter Springs News, of November 8, 1906.

One of the richest strikes made in the Baxter Springs mining camp, south of this city, for some time past, was that made by the Sunburst Mining Co., operating on one of their properties just east of the Sunnyside and north of the Hobo. The Sunburst Co. have large shafts in ore, with a large amount of drifting done, and this strike was made in No. 3 shaft, and apparently in the Hobo run of ore, which has always been considered one of the very best in the Quapaw reservation. The farther this run of ore is developed the richer it is showing.

The Sunburst Mining Co. also has made a very important deal the past week by purchasing from the Great Northern Mining Company 280 acres of leases one mile east of the Johnson, less than one mile southeast of the new rich strike made by the Irish Maid, and about two miles west of Monkey Hill, where the most famous lead strike was made ever encountered anywhere in the southwest. The Monkey Hill strike showed as much as 28 inches of solid lead of the very highest grade. The Great Northern, which is one of the largest holders of the best leases in this camp, made this sale the past week.

The purchase of this large tract of land by the Sunburst crowd means important developments in that section, in addition to those already made, and, following on the heels of the rich lead strike made on the Charley Blackjacket land to the north of the tract and the purchase by a syndicate of Minnesota iron men, will cause an unusual amount of activity in that part of the camp.

The Sunburst Mining Co. will also start drifting their No. 1 shaft on the tract east of the Sunnyside to encounter the rich strike made to the north of it in the Isley mine. The Isley has encountered ore which will undoubtedly yield all the way from 75 per cent. to 90 per cent. The strike was made near the north line of the Sunburst tract.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Cobalt,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took ten or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President.
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

HANDLING A TIGER.

How a Turkoman Subdued a Snarling, Angry Man Eater.

"In a cage near the room in which I lived while in Khiva," says Langdon Warner in the Century Magazine, "was a tiger from the Oxus swamps. He had taken a dislike to me, and every time I passed his cage he got up and paced angrily toward me, snarling.

"Into the cage of this beast, at the command of the prince, a Turkoman stepped, armed with a short stick as big round as his wrist. With this stick he struck the tiger's nose as he made for him, and then, with palms out and eyes fixed, he walked slowly up to the shrinking beast and stroked his face and flank.

"The tiger snarled and took the man's hand in his open mouth. I held my breath and looked for the bleeding stump to fall away; but, keeping that hand perfectly still, with the other he tickled the tiger's jowl and scratched his ear till with a yawn and a pleased snarl the big cat rolled over on his back to have his belly scratched.

"The man then sank to his knees, always keeping his hands in motion over the glossy fur, and with his foot drew toward him a collar attached to a chain. This he snapped round the beast's neck and, rising to his feet, laid hold of the chain and dragged the tiger out.

"This was only the second time that the cage had been entered. As soon as the tiger was outside he espied the watching party and started for them, but came up short on the collar. If he had chosen to use his weight and strength no four of them could have held his tether, but it was the Turkoman found little difficulty with him and held him kneeling, while a groom was hunted."

THE REFUGEES

"Hola!" cried an officer in excellent English. "Lay her to or we fire!"

"Who are you, and what do you want?" shouted Ephraim Savage in a voice that might have been heard from the bank.

"We come in the king's name, and we want a party of Huguenots from Paris who came on board of your vessel at Rouen."

"Brace back the foreyard and lay her to!" shouted the captain. "Drop a ladder over the side there and look smart. Now we are ready for them."

The yard was swung round, and the vessel lay quietly rising and falling on the waves. The boat dashed alongside, her brass cannon trained upon the brigantine, and her squad of marines with their fingers upon their triggers ready to open fire. They grinned and shrugged their shoulders when they saw that their sole opponents were three unarmed men upon the poop. The officer was on deck in an instant, with his drawn sword in his hand.

"Come up, two of you," he cried. "You stand here at the head of the ladder, sergeant. Throw up a rope, and you can fix it to this stanchion. Keep your muskets down there and be all ready to fire. You come with me, Corporal Lemoine. Who is captain of this ship?"

"I am, sir," said Ephraim Savage submissively.

"You have three Huguenots aboard."

"Tut, tut. Huguenots, are they? I thought they were very anxious to get away, but as long as they paid their passage it was no business of mine. An old man, his young daughter and a young fellow about your age in some sort of livery."

"In uniform, sir—the uniform of the king's guard. Those are the folk I have come for."

"And you wish to take them back?"

"Most certainly."

"The old man is in his bunk asleep, the maid is in a cabin below, and the other is sleeping down the hold."

"Sleeping, you say? We had best surprise him."

"But think you that you dare do it alone? He has no arms, it is true, but he is a well grown young fellow. Will you not have twenty men up from the boat?"

Some such thought had passed through the officer's head, but the captain's remark put him upon his mettle.

"Come with me, corporal," said he. "Down this ladder, you say?"

"Yes, down the ladder and straight on. He lies between those two cloth bales." Ephraim Savage looked up with a smile playing about the corners of his grim mouth. The wind was whistling now in the rigging, and the stays of the masts were humming like two harp strings. Amos Green lounged beside the French sergeant who guarded the end of the rope ladder, while Tomlinson, the mate, stood with a bucket of water in his hand exchanging remarks in very bad French with the crew of the boat below him.

The officer made his way slowly down the ladder which led into the hold. The corporal followed him, and had his chest level with the deck when the other had reached the bottom. It may have been something in Ephraim Savage's face or it may have been the gloom around him which startled the young Frenchman.

"Up again, corporal!" he shouted. "I think that you are best at the top."

"And I think that you are best down below, my friend," said the Puritan, who gathered the officer's meaning from his gesture. Putting the sole of his boot against the man's chest, he gave a shove which sent both him and the ladder crashing down on to the officer beneath him. As he did so he blew his whistle, and in a moment the hatch was back in its place and clamped down on each side with iron bars.

The sergeant had swung round at the sound of the crash, but Amos Green, who had waited for the movement, threw his arms round him and hurled him overboard into the sea. At the same instant the connecting rope was severed, the foreyard creaked back into position once more and the bucketful of salt water soused down over the gunner and his gun, putting out his linstock and wetting his priming. A shower of balls from the marines piped through the air or rapped up against the planks, but the boat was tossing and jerking in the short, choppy waves, and to aim was impossible. In vain the men tugged and strained at their oars, while the gunner worked like a maniac to relight his linstock and to replace his priming. The boat had lost its weigh, while the brigantine was flying along now with every sail bulging and swelling to bursting point. Crack! went the carronade at last, and five little slits in the mainsail showed that her charge of grape had flown high. Half an hour afterward a little dark dot upon the horizon with a golden speck at one end of it was all that could be seen of the Honfleur guard boat. The smoke of Havre lay like a little cloud upon the northern horizon, and Captain Ephraim Savage paced his deck with his face as grim as ever, but with a dancing light in his gray eyes.

"I think that you are best down below."

CHAPTER XVII.

FOR two days the Golden Rod lay becalmed close to Cape la Hague, with the Breton coast extending along the whole of the southern horizon. On the third morning, however, came a sharp breeze, and they drew rapidly away from land until it was but a vague, dim line which blended with the cloud banks.

"I am frightened about my father, Amory," said Adele as they stood together by the shrouds and looked back at the dim cloud upon the horizon which marked the position of that France which they were never to see again.

"What do you mean, Adele? My uncle is hale and hearty, and he will accustom himself to this new life."

"If it only could be so! But I fear, I fear that he is over old for such a change. He says not a word of complaint, but I read upon his face that he is stricken to the heart."

De Catinat was about to suggest that the voyage might restore the merchant's health, when Adele gave a cry of surprise and pointed out over the port quarter.

"Look!" she cried. "There is something floating upon the sea. I saw it upon the crest of a wave."

He looked in the direction in which she pointed, but it was so far from him that he could make nothing of it, but sharper eyes than his had caught a glance of it. Amos Green had seen the girl point.

"Captain Ephraim," said he, "there's a boat on the starboard quarter."

The New England seaman whipped up his glass.

"Aye, it's a boat," said he, "but an empty one. Maybe it's been washed off from some ship or gone adrift from shore. Put her hard down, Mr. Tomlinson, for it just so happens that I am in need of a boat at present."

Half a minute later the Golden Rod had swung round and was running swiftly down toward the black spot which still bobbed and danced upon the waves. As they neared her they could see that something was projecting over her side.

"It's a man's head!" cried Amos Green.

But Ephraim's grim face grew grimmer. "It's a man's foot," said he. "I think that you had best take the girl below to the cabin."

Amid a solemn hush they ran alongside this lonely craft which hung out so sinister a signal.

She was a little thirteen foot cockleshell, very broad for her length and so flat in the bottom that she had been meant evidently for river or lake work. Huddled together beneath the seats were three folk, a man in the dress of a respectable artisan, a woman of the same class and a little child about a year old. The boat was half full of water, and she woman and child were stretched with their faces downward, the fair curls of the infant and the dark locks of the mother washing to and fro like water weeds upon the surface. The man lay with a slate colored face, his chin cocking up toward the sky, his eyes turned upward to the whites and his mouth wide open, showing a leathern crinkled tongue like a rotting leaf. In the bows, all huddled in a heap and with a single paddle still grasped in his hand, there crouched a very small man clad in black, an open book lying across his face and one stiff leg jutting unward.

Have No Teachers

Kingston, Feb. 17—The information comes from Desert Lake that three schools in that section of Frontenac are without teachers. It is suggested that if this long continues the next generation will have to spell to open voting, for the electors, then will be unable to read the names of the candidates printed on the ballots. The School Act has few admirers in North Addington. Nearly seventy-five per cent. of the children of school age have now no opportunity to attend any school, owing to the absence of teachers.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of Two full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

THE CHILD'S MIND.

Give It a Chance to Develop by Its Natural Processes.

The littler they are the better, because farther removed from the world that is ours and deeper plunged in their own world. A good baby radiates peace. Every one who is rightly constituted smiles at the sight of it.

They are busy, they are cheerful. As a rule, they seem to be kind to one another. They are not bored, and unless the weather is insufferable or they are sick they are not depressed.

What philosophers! What heroes! Is it strange that the attitude of an unperverted child should be the Christian ideal?

The great merit of children as companions lies in the breadth of their tolerations. They are easy to please, agreeable to most propositions and not very critical.

They do not "know better." That is one of their delightfulest traits. Children will trust you, and that is one of the most gratifying compliments possible.

In the company of children you have relief in considering what will pay. The things that they do and prefer to do, do not pay, as a rule, except in the doing of them.

Wise elders who are qualified to train the mind of a child are pretty scarce. The next best thing is the elder who is wise enough to respect the child's mind and give it a chance to develop in a sympathetic atmosphere by its own natural processes.—E. S. Martin in Harper's Magazine.

Strange Fog Signal.

When fogs prevail in Boston harbor, the attention of passengers on the Nantasket Beach line of steamers is attracted by a faint metallic sound which might be mistaken for the sound of a bell. But it is not the clanging of a bell which the passengers hear. Suddenly through the mist there appears ahead, like a specter, a large tripod, from the apex of which is suspended a big steel triangle. It is this which causes the strange sound and signals vessels as to how to guide their course through the difficult channel of the fog.

A Line on Her Age.

"Oh!" gasped the beautiful woman as she fell back, clutching at her heart, and permitting the telegram to flutter to the floor.

Her fashionable guests rushed forward, crying:

"What is it? Has your husband met with an accident?"

"No, no," she moaned. "It is from my son-in-law. I am a grandmother!"

The Alteration He Wanted.

Customer—Yes; I like this suit. I suppose you will make any alterations I may require free. Tailor—Oh, yes, sir; certainly. Customer—Very well, then. Just alter the price from £4 to £2 and I'll take it with me.—London Tit-Bits.

Appropriate.

The society editor was writing up a church fair.

"Mrs. Green, the wife of our prominent milk dealer," he wrote, "was appropriately gowned in watered silk."

You must bear that which hurts that you may gain that which profits.—Selected.

RECURRING HEADACHES

Do They Bother You ?

You fine life a miserable affair because you have headaches, but you have neither nausea nor are you weak —You know if you could only prevent headaches you would enjoy perfect health.

Such headaches indicate a general lowered condition, because they arise from a general decay of the nervous system.

This depressed condition of the nervous system has its origin in the reduction of the quality and quantity of the blood.

The blood is thin—its red coloring is reduced—it contains no nourishment.

The digestive organs are not supplying it with sufficient nutritive matter.

The result—nerve weakness, nerve debility, ill-health.

If you had used Ferrozone you would know how powerfully all the digestive and assimilative functions of the body are stimulated.

Ferrozone does more—it supplies all the elements that are essential to the rebuilding of the body—supplies the reconstructive forces that contribute to the formation of rich, red blood.

You see, Ferrozone doesn't treat a symptom—it remedies a cause—and that's why a month's streatment will absolutely remove every vestige of recurring nervous headaches.

Nothing like Ferrozone to build you up, to give the reserve of force, that happy health that contributes so much to happiness and contentment.

Ferrozone will make you feel like new, try it—sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

Fire Brigade Has Useless Run

The fire brigade was called out at noon yesterday to the Carbon works, where a fire was supposed to be in progress. However on arrival a "Nothing Doing" card was on perhaps should have been hung out. This thing of bringing a lot of self-sacrificing and hard-working men from their various trades is too prevalent. When a fire gets beyond control or seemingly dangerous it is time to summon the fire fuddies.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

Yesterday afternoon a telephone call was received at the police station from the Crown Hotel. It seems that a man who had come there with a larger cargo of liquor aboard than his capacity was enabled to properly control, began to use blasphemous language. The proprietor at once called up the police, and Officers Newhall and Mehaffy set off on the run. Newhall not even waiting to put on his overcoat, to face the stormy weather. On arrival the officers entered by different doors, but the "jag" had "flown the coop." A rather funny incident was that when the station phone was called the officer answering could hear the man swearing.

Yesterday the "Morbid Mind" Club gathered in full strength at the police court, presumably to hear the trial of Mrs. Louise Howells and William Austin, charged with keeping a house of ill-repute. They pleaded not guilty.

P. C. Newhall proved service of a subpoena upon a witness not present when the other witnesses were called in this case.

Mr. Gordon of O'Connel & Gordon, who appeared for the prisoners, claimed that the indictment had been laid under an incorrect section of the act. This objection, however, was over-ruled.

The first witness, who lives on McDonel street, knows the prisoners by sight. Has seen both men and women going into the house of Mrs. Howell's, which is just across from his residence. Has heard generally that Mrs. Howell's house has a bad name. Has heard yelling and terribly bad language there. Has seen the male prisoner going into the house frequently. He picked Mrs. Howell off the pavement one night recently, helplessly drunk. Within two weeks from present date, he saw a man thrown out of Mrs. Howell's house, with his clothes in disorder and no hat. He recognized the male prisoner's voice as the man who threw him out.

To Mr. Gordon, sometimes four or five men would come together at times, often drunk.

Another resident on McDonel St., near the Howell house, corroborated what the first witness said. Recognized the Ames girl who was in the dock as an inmate, as having lived at the Howell residence for some weeks.

To Mr. Gordon, the Howell's house is a public nuisance to the neighborhood.

A young man in the witness box, recognized Mrs. Howell, but did not know the male prisoner. Was in the Howell house last Wednesday evening. He went to search for a girl whose name he thought was Smith. He searched the house but could not find her.

Still other witnesses were heard whose testimony all went to show that the house in question is of an unsavory character, although some of the prosecution's witnesses said they knew nothing wrong about the house.

Mr. Gordon then put the Ames woman to the box. She swore that she had been a servant at Mrs. Howell's at $3 a week, and at first claimed to know nothing wrong about the place, until cornered by Chief Ditezek when she had to make damaging admissions both as to herself and the Howell woman. Mrs. Howell then give evidence saying she had been very ill. She totally and emphatically denied selling liquor in her house.

The magistrate summing up the case, at once found Mrs. Howell guilty, and sentenced her to six months in the Mercer Institute, Toronto.

Mr. Gordon here made a strong and well argued plea, not so much for clemency, as for the city's interests as well as those of his client, saying that if the woman were allowed to go on suspended sentence, and given a short time to settle the large property interests, she holds in the town, it would save her from going to jail in her present acknowledged sick state and save the city from further trouble. The magistrate, however would not "listen to the charmer, charm never so wisely," and stood to the original sentence. Regarding the man Austen, charged as a co-partner in running the place, he said this man, whilst "a miserable specimen of a man and a bad member of society," had not been proven to be a participant in the crime charged, and let him go with a warning. The Ames woman, who is a well built and rather good looking girl of only 19 years of age, was given 48 hours to get out of the city.

Cecil Shannon, well known in police circles, as a bar room loafer, was charged with being a vagrant. After the evidence had been heard, a relation of Shannon's, pleaded for clemency for the prisoner. He was given a pretty strong hint that Peterborough's progress would not be retarded should he seek other climes; or in other words Shannon will either have to "Jump town," or go behind the bars at the Central.

Mr. Madill's Mother Has Passed Away

We regret to say that on Monday Mrs. James Madill, mother of Mr. William Madill, druggist, of this city, passed away in Toronto, at the venerable age of 82 years. The deceased was born in Ireland, and came to Canada at the age of 17 years, settling in Pickering township. Her maiden name was Margaret Finnie, and about five years after her arrival there she married James Madill, who yet survives her, at the age of 86 years.

Her death is attributed to a paralytic stroke which she received last Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, and she died at the residence of her son, James, 526 Ontario street, Toronto.

Of the 65 years in Canada, only about ten were spent in Toronto. The remainder of her life was spent in Pickering and Whitby.

Taxation Likely to be Raised

Taxpayers of this city will probably get into a quiet corner and discuss with themselves, in language only intended to be heard by themselves (for fear of arrest otherwise) the probable raise in taxation for the coming year. Well if the taxes are raised so is the prosperity improvement and growth of the city. Still that long narrow paper served by the assessors, followed by a seemingly inevitable raise in the rate is not conducive itowards peace and good will towards all.

Monaghan After Better Ry. Facilities

Last night the members of North Monaghan Council, with a number of influential men from that township held a conference at the Oriental Hotel with Mr. Nelson, superintendent of the C.P.R. for this division with a view of establishing Kendry, the nearest point on the C.P.R. to Springville as a permanent station, with regular stops. At the last meeting of the township council this matter was taken up, and arrangements made for the meeting noted.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody, Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulæ, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the active medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption.

Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

Hydrophobia May Develop in Boy

The boy, a son of Mr. N. J. Watson, of Chambers street, who was bitten by a dog on Monday evening at the C.P.R. station, was able to be at school yesterday.

It seems that young Watson, who is only eight years of age, is a newsboy, and was at the station waiting for the arrival of the local to secure his supply of papers. His story is to the effect that he was standing on the platform when a collie dog ran up to him, biting his hand and tearing the nail off one of his fingers. His attracted the attention of the bystanders and he was taken in a cab to a doctor. The dog was afterwards shot.

It is reported that the dog showed evidences of hydrophobia, and the injuries to the boy may prove more serious than they appear at the present time. This lamentable occurrence is an evidence that when anyone is bitten by a dog suspected of hydrophobia, the animal should be kept alive for a sufficient time to establish whether it has the rabies or not.

It is to be hoped however, that no such complication will develop with the little fellow hurt.

BRITISH MINISTRY MANY PROBLEMS

Political Situation Most Interesting Since Home Rule Bill.

New York, February 20.—The London correspondent of the Sun cables as follows: Curiosity has not yet been satisfied regarding what measures the Government proposes to adopt for getting rid of the obstructive powers of the House of Lords. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's speech on the subject at the opening of Parliament was vague, asserting merely that the opposition to the will of the people interposed by the House of Lords must be overcome by necessary constitutional changes.

The Premier meant by the will of the people the will of the Liberal majority in the House of Commons. The supporters of the House of Lords are quite ready to join issue with him on this point. They reply that the Lords are always quite willing to give way in any matter on which the will of the people has been clearly demonstrated. They argue that it is the prerogative of the House of Lords as well as that of the House of Commons to interpret the popular will. They instance the passage of the trades disputes bill by the Lords entirely against their judgment, because they believed the country favored it. Moreover, they are willing to test the question at any time.

It is suggested in behalf of the present system that in case of a deadlock of the two houses the House of Lords should be required to pass a disputed bill with an amendment reading: "This act will not take effect until approved by a majority in a popular referendum." This is the Swiss system, where all disputed bills in the Legislature are referred to a popular vote. The Liberal party, however, is utterly opposed to this solution.

PLANS OF REFORM.

Several interesting plans for reform of the upper house have been advanced this week. Goldwin Smith advocates a somewhat enlarged privy council in place of hereditary legislators. The Spectator offers a somewhat elaborate scheme whereby only such hereditary peers as have held high office in the army or navy, the administrative or the judiciary should be entitled to seats. The remaining hereditary peers choose one-fourth of their number to represent them. The crown should also be entitled to create life peers. Such a House would number roughly 700. It is suggested that in case of a deadlock the two houses could then vote on a disputed measure in one body. Lord Newton will introduce a bill to this effect in a few days.

It is obvious that there are many loopholes for partisan abuse in this measure. The temptation will be great for the retiring party to create many life peers and appoint temporarily to qualifying high office hereditary peers of their own complexion in order to retain power in the upper house.

Taken all in all, British domestic politics present more phases of dramatic interest at present than at any moment since the defeat of Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill.

City Board of Works in Session Last Night

There Are on Fyle Several Protests Against Closing Gilchrist Street to Meet G. Walter Green's Extension Requirements

The City Board of Works met last night when there were present, his Worship Mayor McWilliams and Chairman Ald. Geo. Duncan, Aldermen Wilson, Johnston and McIntyre.

The committee took up the matter of the account with the Street Railway Company, for their share of the permanent crossings laid last year. In 1906, the Board of Works and the company agreed that of the city furnished material the company would pay the cost of labor for laying crossings over their roadbed and adjoining portion of streets they are responsible for. The city was to do the work and charge it up to the company.

The city, however, took the total cost of the crossings and charged the company with an equal portion. The latter objected, and refused to pay any share of the cost of the material.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson,—That the city engineer be instructed to adjust the bill, and charge the company with the full cost of the labor, plus 25. per cent. additional; also that all such other crossings built be charged on the same basis.

The latter clause was charged so that the company will be charged per square foot; the engineer to make an estimate of the average.

The motion carried.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—That Mrs. McGregor's offer to allow the city the use of her property in the east ward (Ashburnham), for a piling ground be accepted.—Carried.

The city will pay the taxes on said property, and draw street scrapings on to the land.

There are already on fyle several protests against the closing of Gilchrist street, to deed to Mr. G. Walter Green, that portion he is anxious to purchase for the purpose of extending the factory buildings.

On the suggestion of Ald. Johnston the Board of Works will go and look over the ground before making any recommendation to the council.

On motion of the mayor, all parties living outside the present area for street watering desiring to have their street embodied within said area, must petition for same without delay, as the estimates will be considered next Monday in Committee of the Whole, and finally adopted in council the following Monday.

All petitions for local improvements sufficiently signed will be referred to the city engineer unless otherwise directed by the Board.

The engineer reported that the Canadian Sewer Pipe Co., have quoted prices on all orders for six and nine-inch pipes, received up to March first at 75 per cent. (Discount) on 12-inch pipe, 73 per cent. off; and 70 per cent. off all sizes during the season after March first.

The Dominion Company offered 75 per cent. off their price list for deliveries in January, February and March, 70 and 10 per cent. discount after above months.

Both were F.O.B. at factory.

The engineer reported that during the last two years he had experienced considerable trouble with the Dominion Company, by reason, orders not being promptly filled.

The engineer was authorized to exercise his judgment as to which company he deals with, and to purchase such quantity of sewer pipe as he expects will be needed this season, based on the extent of the work done last year.

The engineer thought the city should order the steel beams needed for Dalhousie and Reid streets bridges. The Board authorized this.

According to present arrangements by the Finance Committee, the Board of Works' appropriation this year will be $17,400. The Board then adjourned.

Athens Wrought Up Over a Bigamy Case

Prominent Resident Disappears After Contracting a Second Marriage.

Brockville, Feb. 21.—Athens, a small village near here, is much wrought up over a social sensation which recently came to a head. A few years ago Benson Towriss, a wealthy young farmer, and his wife and family, came from the township of Yonge to live in Athens. They were members of old and highly respected families of this district, and were much esteemed. Not many weeks ago, however, rumors of irregular conduct on the part of the husband began to creep about, and it was alleged that his affections were being placed in other quarters. It was said that he had been married in Brockville by a leading minister, the arrangements being made by the girl herself and her mother, and the ceremony witnessed by two witnesses in the regular way, the minister not having the slightest suspicion of anything being amiss.

Investigation of the official records here show that on Jan. 30th, Towriss was married to Miss Mabel Allingham of Athens, the contracting parties asking that the affair be kept quiet, as the father was averse to the match, but that in a few weeks the husband would have a home for his bride.

On returning to Athens, Mrs. Towriss No. 2, went to her own home, while Towriss continued to reside with his legal wife and three children. When the affair became common gossip of the place and proofs were bright for his arrest on a charge of bigamy, Towriss disappeared, and his whereabouts are at present unknown, though it is said he purchased a ticket for Seattle, Wash.

Found Guilty of Defrauding People

Niagara Falls, Feb. 21.— W. E. Taylor of Queenston was arraigned Qbefore Col. Cruickshank yesterday afternoon for obtaining money under false pretences, and using the Canadian mails for fraudulent purposes. The principal witnesses being a Mr. Passmore of the Telegram, Toronto, and Inspector Henderson of the Post Office Department. County Crown Attorney Benson of St. Catharines and Chief Haines conducted the prosecution, while the defendant, Taylor, who is a dapper little Englishman, with a decided cockney accent, conducted his own cross-examination cleverely.

He worked the addressing of envelopes game, promising a fountain pen. The court found the defendant guilty, and after Taylor made a strong plea for mercy, Col. Cruickshank reserved sentence, and remanded the prisoner for eight days.

Earthquake Felt In New Brunswick

St. John, N.B., Feb. 21.—A severe earthquake occurred at St. George, 70 miles down the coast, about five o'clock yesterday afternoon.

It lasted two minutes, and buildings trembled perceptibly.

It was feared they would be shaken down, but no serious damage was done.

Residents of the town were greatly alarmed.

A second but less severe trembling occurred twenty minutes later.

CUBA MAY FIGHT UNITED STATES

Liberal Leaders Threaten War if Uncle Sam Does Not Vacate.

GEN. CASTILLO DEFIANT

Conservatives Condemn Yankees for Gorging Radicals.

Havana, February 21.—Open signed threats of war against the United States if it does not get out of Cuba are being made now by leaders of the Liberal party, to whom everything has been given by the American provisional government except absolute control. The party is insatiable and impatient over the delay of American withdrawal, when, it was promised, they would be left masters of Cuba.

Leaders resent the suggestion of the conservative classes that an American protectorate might be a surer guarantee of peace than the unbridled rule of any embittered Cuban faction.

CASTILLO DENOUNCES TRAITORS.

Over his own signature, in El Rebelde, the Liberal organ, Gen. Eloinaz del Castillo tells what will happen if the United States listens to the demand for protection by Cubans who want to make sugar in peace and safety.

"Welcome peace," says Gen. Castillo, "but with independence and liberty. The only peace possible in Cuba is to strike down the imbeciles who place their faith in a dictatorship or who believe that with a protectorate or annexation they can make sugar. What will be made is war—war, colossal and without quarter, sparing neither lives nor property. These are traitors to the fatherland. What is to be thought of them? We are resolved we shall not see our adorable Republic of Cuba ruled by foreigners or a plaything of ambition."

This is not an idle threat. The newspapers of Cuba condemn the American Government for feeding the Liberals so much meat in the form of patronage and abject consideration that they have grown blatant and dangerous.

THINKS WAR IS OUTCOME.

"What has fallen on Cuba," says the paper, "is not an administration but a regime. The provisional governor legislates, executes and administers. In him center all powers. With the stroke of a pen he dismisses senators and representatives. With another pen stroke he opens all penal institutions. He will increase the public force, or diminish it, or maintain it in its present status, all according to his own whim.

"The intervenor now has the saucepan by the handle, but if the radicals revolt, with them the intervenor will have to fight, and this should convince him that upon the day he ceases to truckle to radicalism in any matter which radicals consider radical to their interests war must ensue between him and those who now seem so friendly.

"The problem, therefore, is simple. Either the intervenor must do all the radicals demand or he must impose a limit on their pretensions. If the former, the intervenor must remain indefinitely in Cuba to protect the non-radical portion of the country, for otherwise peace among ourselves will precarious, or, rather, there would be no peace. So if the intervenor decides to check the radicals he will do well to prepare to fight them."

Toulon, France, Feb. 21.—The section of the Russian squadron, which is anchored in this harbor, in buying provisions from Greek and German houses, has incensed the French merchants, who have placarded the city with denunciations of France's allies, and have forwarded indignant resolutions to Minister Thomson.

Doukhobors Beat Off the Police

Yorkton, Sask., Feb. 20.—The Doukhobors who live in the communal reservation attacked Constable Pettit, who attempted to levy on their cattle for the head tax which they have refused to pay. One hundred and ninety-two warrants were sworn out, and additional force called out, but again the Doukhobors assisted by a horde of their women, drove the officers off and recovered their goods. Now the Mounted Police have been called in. The English speaking settlers have helped the authorities.

Trouble has been experienced for years in this section, the Doukhobors being impressed with their Russian ideas of not being subject to the head tax when living in communal colonies, and that their goods are not subject to attachment to pay the head tax.

SPORTING TOPICS

THE TURF.

The result of the Westwood races on Tuesday, which were run off on the river Ouse on a half-mile track were as follows;

2.30 class—

City Queen, G. Lipsett	1	3	1	1
Little Will, A. Elmhirst	2	1	2	2
Litt Girl, J. Elmhirst	3	2	3	3

Named Race—

Peggy, Charles Fife	1
Pudo, Godfrey	2

• • • •

Today the horses which took part in the Westwood races will go to Harwood.

• • • •

Mr. Martin Connors and other local sports leave this morning to take in the ice races at Harwood this afternoon. These Harwood races are invariably attended by a large crowd.

• • • •

Much indignation was caused in local sporting circles yesterday by an item appearing in a local contemporary in which insinuations were made to the effect that the recent winter races in Peterborough were unfair and that the races were practically run up town before the races took place. A certain well-known horseman, has authorized a Times representative to note that the said horseman is ready to put up $500 to $5, that no such charges can be substantiated. He went farther by offering to bet from $200 to $1000 that a certain horse presumably referred to in our contemporary's remarks, can beat any of the "dubs" that ran against the horse in question on any registered track in Canada. Here is a chance for the instigator of the article referred to, to make good or crawl in to a hole and drag the hole in after him.

• • • •

Mr. John Cottingham yesterday sent his well-known local race horse Harry Direct, to Harwood, as did Mr. Geo. Lipsett, his fast mare City Queen. These horses will enter in the free-for-all class there today.

HOCKEY.

The Crescent A.C. hockey team of New York, which will play here on Friday night, in an exhibition game against Peterborough, will be accompanied by 60 rooters from New York to see their team line up against Canadian teams. The Crescents have written Secretary Graham, of the local club, asking him to reserve 60 seats for their supporters. The game promises to be one of the events of the season.

• • • •

The City League games this week will be of much interest. The Charlotte street team will play Lakefield, and the "Temperance Town" aggregation will have their strongest line-up of the season. The Orphans and Strathconas are contestants in the second game, and the Orphans are going to make a big effort to win.

The production department of the C.G.E. accept the challenge from the Knox church team, the latter to make arrangements for the rink.

Knox Church Seniors will not play St. Andrew's Guards tonight, as reported but will play a C.G.E. team.

Berlin, Feb. 21.—The Foreign Office here has been notified by the German Legation at Teheran, Persia, of the murder there of a German subject named Hamman and the wounding of two other Germans by robbers. The Legation protested to the Persian Government, and demanded the punishment of the guilty men.

No political or other advantages for Germany are being urged on the Persian Government.

Mrs. Thaw Subjected to Examination by Jerome

District Attorney Questions Star Witness for the Defence in the Celebrated Case--- Was Unfeeling.

New York, Feb. 21.—There was a great rush of curious persons to see Evelyn Nesbit Thaw under the ordeal of cross-examination at the Criminal Courts Building yesterday. Mr. Jerome began his cross-examination by showing Mrs. Thaw a photograph of herself, taken in a kimono, and asked if she could recall the date of the picture.

"I think it was taken in 1904."

"Where did you live after your return from Europe in 1904, until the time of your marriage?"

Mrs. Thaw gave eight or nine addresses.

"Was the defendant present when this photograph was taken?"

"I don't think so."

"Did not the kimono belong to the defendant?"

"No."

"Did not he take the kimono to the studio that day?"

"I don't think so."

"Did not the defendant give you the kimono?"

"Yes."

Mr. Jerome exhibited another photo and asked when it was taken.

"Late in 1901, I think.

"Were you acting at that time."

"Yes."

"What company?"

"Florodora."

"Was this a Florodora costume?"

"No. It was the red dress my mother made me, and the red cape Stanford (White gave me."

"How long did you live in Philadelphia?"

"I don't remember."

"How old were you then?"

"Fourteen."

COULD NOT REMEMBER.

Mr. Jerome, by the next few questions, indicated that he did not in any way intend to spare the feelings of the young woman. He interrogated her sharply as to the details of her dress when she was posing for artists in Philadelphia and New York. He persisted in certain questions even after Mr. Delmas had objected, and insisted on having definite answers, though Mrs. Thaw usually said she could not remember.

"Was there any exposure of the person, or did you wear the so-called artistic draperies?"

"I would not say that," replied the witness. "I posed in a Greek dress, and a Turkish costume."

Mr. Jerome persisted with questions as to the exposure of the person, and Mrs. Thaw replied;

"I posed with low neck draperies after I was on the stage.

HER FIRST EMPLOYMENT.

Mrs. Thaw testified that she and her mother first lived in West 38th street, and her first employment was in the Florodora Company. She took a photo of herself to the Broadway Magazine, and it was published over the name of Evelyn Florence. Reporters were given other pictures by her mother. She acknowledged meeting and corresponding with Ted Marks, a vaudeville manager. She said she visited a warehouse with Lawyers Warren and Hartridge, but did not remove any letters. Mr. Jerome here asked;

"Have you any letters from Stanford White?"

"I did have."

"Was there a single word of impropriety or indecency in Stanford White's letters to you?"

"I don't remember."

"Have you a copy of the letter you wrote Mr. White from Boulogne?"

"No."

"Do you remember its contents?"

"No."

GAVE LETTERS TO THAW.

She testified that she gave fourteen letters to Thaw in Paris in 1903. Afterwards she received them from Thaw's valet and gave them to Thaw again, presumably after he had shot White. All of these letters she said were received from White while she was abroad in 1903, and were given to Thaw. She also gave him some letters which had been received before that time. She did not know where they were now.

"I DIDN'T SAY THAT."

When Mr. Jerome would ask occasionally a pointed question, Mrs. Thaw would reply with an emphatic nod; "I didn't say that."

"Didn't you in 1905 take letters from a warehouse in this city?"

"Yes."

"Weren't some sent you afterward?"

"Yes White sent me a trunk from the warehouse, and it contained some papers, but no letters."

"Why didn't you give Thaw all of White's letters?"

"I didn't say that."

"You said some were in a trunk in Paris."

"I said they might be."

"Didn't you retain some letters?"

"I don't know that I did."

"Thaw was pressing you all the time to give him all the details of this affair with White, wasn't he?"

"Yes."

"You gave him the letters before your marriage?"

"Yes."

The Great Curling Bonspiel Yesterday

Results of the Rinks in the Local Competition.

Yesterday was the second and possibly the busiest day of Peterborough's great bonspiel. Some of the best curlers went down to defeat whilst green hands won out. However a careful onlooker could observe some pretty exhibitions of the roaring game. An amusing incident was observable at the Charlotte St. rink during the morning, when a couple of the ——— rink made "wides" and turning round to the spectators for sympathy, remarked. "Why this Peterborough ice makes a man's stone twist like a snake!" Perhaps never in the history of Peterborough, has so much interest been taken in the game. Even those sitting inside the heated rooms, looking through the glass partition, at times would be heard to yell, "Sweep her up you idiot!" "Bring her along, what's the matter with you fellows anyway!" and seen to jump from their seats and clap hands as a particularly ticklish shot was consummated.

Among the games decided yesterday were the following;

First Round—Primary—

Napanee.	Peterborough.
J. Ham, 19.	W. Talbot, 9.
Peterborough.	Lindsay
W. McIlroy, 5.	L. V. O'Connor, 11
Bobcaygeon.	Port Hope.
W. J. Read, 16.	Capt. Peacock, 5.
Peterborough	Peterborough
J. Connal, 16.	D. Davidson, 9.
Oshawa.	Keene
T. H. McMurtry, 18.	W. Campbell, 3.

Consolation—First Round—

Aberdeens.	Port Hope.
G. W. Ormerod, 14.	W. J. Colwell, 9
Keene	Peterborough
R. J. McCamus, 11.	T. Rutherford, 13
Aberdeen.	Peterborough.
W. Booth, 16.	T. F. Matthews, 7
Peterborough.	Norwood
C. N. Brown, 3.	T. Finlay, 16

Consolation—Second Round—

Claremont, 17.	Peterborough, 9.
Peterborough.	Lakefield
Neil 13.	Ridpath, 14.
Peterborough.	Lindsay
Connal, 14.	O'Connor, 6.

The finals for the primary will be played today.

The consolation is now down to 16, and will be played today.

Owen Sound, Feb. 21.—An event of rather more than common interest took place yesterday morning in the shape of a police court wedding. The contracting parties were Sareaas Zatino—T. Young, Roumanian, who was arrested in Toronto last week for abducting Josephine Pasbman, and the fair Josephine.

Peterborough Defeats the Toronto Marlboro's

Last night the Senior Hockey team succeeded in defeating the Marlboros of Toronto, by a score of 13 goals to 6. The ice was good, and a large crowd witnessed the game. Before the game, the Peterborough men had to don the sweaters of the T. A. S. club, owing to the similarity in colors which existed between the two teams.

The game began at nine o'clock, both teams playing fast hockey. After three minutes of hard playing the Marlboros scored one which was disallowed, as Forbes, Peterborough got together, and Crowley and Parnell worked a nice combination, which ended with the locals tieing the score. At this period of the game, Tyner, the crack goal-keeper of the visitors, broke his skate, and the game was delayed for a short time. This gave both teams a little rest, and Kent upon the renewal of the game, put another in the net for his team. Morgan following this in short order with a rush, got through the points, and succeeded in again evening up the score.

Marlboros began to get weak, and within the next six minutes, Morgan, Miller and Moore, had each placed a goal to Peterborough's credit. After the face-off, Forbes, with the help of Roesler, made several brilliant rushes, and after a lot of scrapping and slashing, put the disc in. The first half closed as Miller scored, making the half six to three in favor of the locals.

The second half had barely started, when Roesler and Morgan were sent on a one-minute call to the timekeeper. Moore got a start with the rubber and put it past Tyner. Morgan came on the ice when his time was up, and did not take a rest until he had placed the rubber twice in goal. Miller who had been very conspicuous by his brilliant checking, made a grand rush, assisted by Moore, resulting in another tally for Peterborough. Then Marlboros scored. Peterborough took another strong spell. Moore and Morgan scoring. Hockey got so excited with the way things were going, that he accidentally turned his stick in the wrong direction, and made the Dukes one point higher. Crowley and Morgan made a visit to the bench again. The game finished very slow, Miller and Forbes each scoring for their respective teams.

THE SUMMARY;

Kent 1.
Crowley 1.
Morgan 4.
Miller 4.
Moore 4.
Forbes, 4.

The teams lined up as follows;

Peterborough		Marlboros
	Goal.
Lang		Tyner
	Point.
Glover		T. Brown
	Cover-point.
Crowley		Roesler
	Rover.
Parnell		Birmingham
	Center
Morgan		Winchester
	Left Wing.
Moore		Kent
	Right Wing.

FEAR FOR THE IRISH

Opponents of Home Rule See Grave Danger.

SAY IT WOULD BRING WAR

Status of Army Will Not Be Changed.

London, February 21.—Parliament will will be occupied during the sessions which opened last week with the questions of home rule for Ireland and the abolition of the House of Lords, both very grave questions for the British Empire. A few days before embarking for America Mr. Bryce gracefully retired from the fighting line, shouting "No surrender," and nailed his colors to Mr. Birrell's mast at Dublin Castle. It has not taken Mr. Birrell long to discover that the benevolent ambassador has bequeathed to him not the olive branch of peace, but a sword.

Mr. Birrell is nothing unless candid. He does not pretend that the measure which he has promised this session will embody the policy he desires to pursue in regard to Irish self-government. It is to lead on to a larger policy, and will be expressly drafted with that object in view.

MANY TO OPPOSE PLAN.

It is already admitted in the Parliamentary lobbies that many of the nominal supporters of the present proposals would not be able to bring themselves to vote for "a larger policy" if they thought it had a chance of passing. They believe that if successful it would smash up the British Empire, distract parliament and plunge Ireland into the miseries of civil war.

But they intend to vote for the first "instalment" measure promised by Mr. Birrell, knowing, or at least believing, that it will be rejected by the Upper Chamber, and then the radical battle battle cry for the next general election will be "Down with the House of Lords" which, it is hoped, will win more votes than any home rule proposals is likely to do.

That the gravity of the lookout has been quickly appreciated by London papers is indicated by the fact that most of them are sending special correspondents to the "distressed country." One leading journal is actually sending a military expert to write a series of articles on "home rule and the army," believing that if the magistrates of police are handed over the national government, Ireland will have the interests of Great Britain and of the minority practically at its mercy.

ARMY STATUS NOT TO CHANGE.

The Prime Minister has stated that there is to be no change in the position of the army under home rule, and that it is to remain subject to the same control as at present.

There will, however, be a change in the position of the viceroy. He will, if the Premier has his own way, be given an executive committee or privy council to aid him, and it is natural to assume that in all important matters he will be guided by their advice.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland has the power to give such orders as the highest civil authority might deem to be necessary, and if the intended bill follows on the lines of Mr. Gladstone's measure the new magistrates will have the power of requiring the aid of troops in support of their orders, and if necessary ordering the troops to fire.

The whole postal telegraph system of Ireland would be placed under local control. Military dispatches and messages might be delayed or lost in transmission, and offending subordinates would no longer be subject to the stern control of the postmaster general in London.

Oldest Canadian Dies In Montreal

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Montreal, by the death yesterday of Mr. Timothy Collins, in his 112th year, loses the right to claim among its citizens the oldest man in Canada. There was universal regret when the news of his death spread through the city, because old Timothy was dearly beloved by all who knew him. Up to a few months ago, when struck down with pneumonia, old Timothy enjoyed very good health, and had full possession of all his faculties. Every morning it was his custom to walk from his son's residence to the Franciscan church for mass. He was always unattended. He was born near Cork, Ireland, in August, 1795, twenty years before the battle of Waterloo was fought, and came to Canada in 1812. For over half a century he had been a resident of Montreal, and during his latter years was often visited by people anxious to secure information of the early days of the city.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HE IS CORRECT

Dr Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused by Constipation and Strong Catharties?

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Lueders, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly; there are none better. They at once relieve and pervent a constipated condition of the bowels, and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to every girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

Good for men, excellent for women, and most effective for children. All ages and both sexes find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a marvelous medicine. Although active, they do not gripe or cause inconvenience, system, thereby maintaining a high still they cleanse and purify the standard of health. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail, from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

GREAT ISSUES BEFORE ENGLAND'S PARLIAMENT

The rejection by the British Lords of the education bill and the anti-plural voting bill was followed by many warnings and threats from high Liberal sources. The Commons, it was said, would not submit to oligarchic rule, and the people whose mandate had been contemptuously disregarded would support their elected representatives in a determined campaign for the mending or ending of the Upper House. Then the excitement subsided, and the opposition began to congratulate itself on the "collapse" of the agitation against the Lords.

The King's speech at the opening of Parliament shows plainly that the Liberal Cabinet has not abandoned the idea of challenging the Lords to a struggle over the privileges claimed by them. The reference in the speech to this serious question is, of course, colorless and guarded, but its significance is none the less considerable. The speech alludes to the "unfortunate differences" between the two houses and announces that the Cabinet is considering solutions of the difficulty. From the Premier and the Ministers more emphatic and pointed language is naturally expected, and, judging by the first utterances in the debate on the speech, the subject will be attacked with resolution and vigor. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman spoke of the Lords as a somnolent watchdog whose indifference was occasionally succeeded by an access of bitter ferocity, and declared nullification of legislation by the hereditary, unrepresentative body to be an outrage and mockery of popular government. The situation, he said, was "discreditable, dangerous and demoralizing." He went on to say that the solution of the problem might prove easier than many anticipated.

Various methods of limiting the power of the Lords have been suggested, and the records have been diligently searched for precedents. The ministry, however, has not by a single hint indicated the course it intends to pursue.

This issue alone would make a session memorable, but the royal speech also promises the introduction of an Irish "devolution" bill. Measures will be presented for further associating the people of Ireland with the management of their domestic affairs and otherwise improving their system of government in its administrative and financial aspects." The Tories accuse the Government of seeking to establish home rule "by installments," and "devolution" of domestic affairs is characterized as a mere euphemism. But it is well known that several strong members of the Government are opposed to "home rule" in the old Gladstonian sense, and the proposal must, therefore, be modest and compatible with the principle of union.

A strenuous and interesting session is foreshadowed by the King's speech.

MARTYRS OF SCIENCE

HEROES WHO HAVE SACRIFICED THEMSELVES TO RESEARCH.

Acted So In Order to Determine Things In the Aid of Mankind—Awful Experiences of Dr. John Hall-Edwards of London Who Devoted His Life to Experimenting With the X-Rays—Is Now Dying.

Slowly, inexorably, there is being enacted in London an inexpressibly sad ending to a drama which, unless a miracle intervenes, must result in another martyr to science.

There Dr. John Hall-Edwards is dying. He is president of the British Electro-Therapeautic Society, and has been one of the great leaders in the investigation of X-ray phenomena.

He is a man of means, with position, loved ones, everything desirable to live for, and yet he must die—another victim of the great cause of science.

Can you imagine anything more altruistic than the motives that led to the fast-ending career of this man? No pecuniary consideration has impelled him to the experiments which have already disabled him. His whole desire has been simply to add another truth to the dazzling crown of science.

Devoted His Life to It.

Since Roentgen gave to the world the mysterious electric ray which penetrates flesh as easily as daylight pierces glass, it has been patent to investigators that untold possibilities for aiding the human race lie back of the wonderful glass tube.

Already this force has been proved a great aid in the cure of cancer, goitre and skin diseases, while as a means of diagnosis it has been the boon of the age to medical science.

Among those men who devoted their lives to experiment with the X-ray, hoping to develop its possibilities, was Dr. Hall-Edwards. He was one of the pioneers of the Roentgen ray. The first operation ever performed by aid of a Roentgen-ray photograph was from one taken by him.

Unconscious of Peril.

Once an expert photographer, he threw all his being into the new science, working day and night. He worked all unconscious of peril, and neglected his general medical practice, until he was acknowledged to be one of the most capable experts in England. In 1900 he went as a radiologist to the Boer war, and published the result of his work on the battlefield.

At present a truth is known regarding X-rays which was not suspected when Dr. Hall-Edwards took up his work. It is that, while the energy is beneficial when applied occasionally to a patient, it is extremely harmful to one who spends too much time in its vicinity.

He Still Experiments.

Not knowing this, Hall-Edwards slept near his instruments; he spent whole days in a room where the mysterious current was turned on full force.

The result was a drying-up of the blood in the veins of his hands. When the vitality had left his hands, the skin became broken out with warts—very painful little lumps—and they increased in number and virulence constantly.

Excruciating pain, as if a red-hot needle had been run into his hand, attacked him. He slept with difficulty, and intermittently.

After having exhausted all possible methods of cure, and now certain that death is but a short way off, Dr. Hall-Edwards does not cease his experiments. Thus does he prove a love for science which does not balk at death.

Cries Out With Pain.

Warts have now broken out on his brow. He wrote a few days ago: "I have not experienced a moment's freedom from pain for more than two years, and at times the pain is so severe that I am rendered absolutely incapable of work, either physical or mental.

"Hope I have none. Death is certain, and I am waiting for it with such fortitude as I can command. I adjure all who have engaged in X-ray work to protect themselves before it is too late."

Fortunately, it is possible to protect one's self against X-rays. This is the truth which Dr. Hall-Edward's death will give to the world. It has been shown that the rays do not penetrate lead.

A Barricade of Lead.

Thanks to the experience of those who have fallen martyrs to this branch of science, the X-ray investigator now places between himself and the tube a wall of lead. Here, behind the barricade, he may manipulate the levers of the switchboard, while watching through a mirror the operations of the rays.

This is the method adopted by Dr. M. K. Kassabian, of Philadelphia, whose hands are covered with warts, as are those of Dr. Hall-Edwards. Dr. Kassabian believes that, in time, he will recover from the dreadful affliction, which robs him of sleep and causes him constant pain while awake.

As a result of constant exposure to X-rays in perfecting the fluoroscope, Clarence M. Daily, an electrical engineer, assistant in Thomas A. Edison's laboratory at West Orange, N.J., died October 2, 1904.

He had undergone no less than seven surgical operations to remove a cancerous growth on his left wrist. Finally, both his arms were amputated.

Spirit of Martyrdom.

Throughout all his sufferings he retained his mental faculties. As an indication of the spirit of martyrdom that lay back of his suffering, one of his last expressions was the hope that Edison, who has been similarly afflicted, but in less degree, might be spared. Much to the surprise of physicians, amputation did not stop the progress of the treacherous ailment, which soon penetrated Daily's system.

By inches, Dr. Louis A. Weigel gave up his life at Rochester, N.Y., in pursuit of the solution of mysteries of the Roentgen light.

ORIENTAL JUGGLERS.

Feats Performed by Chinese and East Indian Magicians.

"During a trip through the far east I was much impressed with the wonderful feats performed by some of the Chinese and Indian jugglers and sleight of hand artists," said a Chicago man the other day. "In American theaters we see some skillful work along these lines, but the performer is usually at a considerable distance from the spectators and could employ many aids that the orientals do not use.

"I have seen Chinese and Indian magicians come on board a ship and in the center of a circle of passengers perform tricks that are little short of marvelous. For instance, one of the Chinese would ask a spectator to place a coin in the latter's hand. The Chinaman would close the fingers one after another over the piece of money and then, by passing his hands over the closed fist of his "subject," would in some mysterious manner extract the coin. I have had this trick worked on me a number of times, and I am no nearer to knowing how it is done than I was the first time.

"Then I have seen an Indian magician come out on deck, place a small seed on the planks, pour a little water over it, cover with a small cloth for a moment and then remove the cloth to disclose a living plant a foot or more high. These fellows do not wear long, baggy sleeves in which a piano might almost be concealed, but have bare arms. There is said to be a clan of jugglers, among whom the secrets of the craft are jealously preserved and handed down from father to son."—Detroit Free Press.

DRESSED SEALSKIN.

The Way This Beautiful Fur Is Brought to Perfection.

If a lady's sealskin jacket be compared with the coarse, hard or dry-salted sealskin as imported, or, still better, with the coat of the living fur seals, one is struck with the vast difference between them.

Passing our fingers among the hairs of the cat or dog, we may notice fine short hairs at the roots of the longer, coarser general covering of the animal. This is so called under fur. But in the greater number of these animals the short hairs are so few and often so fine as to be, comparatively speaking, lost sight of among what to our eyes constitutes the coat.

The operation which the skin undergoes to bring out, so to say, the fur, may be briefly described as follows:

The skin, after being washed to rid it of grease and so forth, is laid flat on the stretch, flesh side up. A flat knife is then passed across the flesh substance, thinning it to a very considerable extent. In doing this, the blade severs the roots of the long strong hairs, which penetrate the skin deeper than do the soft, delicate ones under the fur. The rough hairs are then got rid of while the fur retains its hold.

A variety of subsidiary manipulations, in which the pelt is softened and preserved, are next gone through, and then the fur undergoes a process of dyeing which produces that deep uniform tint so well known and admired.

Von Bulow's Rebuke.

It so happened that two ladies were making their way to their seats at the very moment Von Bulow finished his introduction of the first movement of Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetic." This so irritated him that he purposely commenced the allegro at such an absurdly slow pace as to make the quavers in the bass correspond exactly to the time of the ladies' footsteps. As may be imagined, they felt on thorns and hurried on as fast as they could, while Von Bulow accelerated his tempo in sympathy with their increasing pace.—Barnett's Musical Reminiscences.

Debt Owed to Antiquity.

Are we indebted to antiquity? Yes, immensely. It is the labor, the experience, even the failures of ancestors, that have placed us where we are. We still repeat many of their mistaken experiments which they thought wise. It was tentative effort with them, though mistaken, and they did the best they knew. But, on the whole, the world is doing well. Its chief debt to antiquity is in the lessons it has learned through which it avoids or may avoid repetition of old errors and absurdities.—Portland Oregonian.

A Diplomat.

Mrs. Climber—My dear, Mrs. Highup has had her portrait painted by a celebrated artist, and I haven't a thing but a common, ordinary, everyday photograph to show. Husband (a wise man)—The idea of advertising to the world that her complexion is so bad that it won't stand the camera! Mrs. Climber—Well, that's true.

She Was Careful.

Spats—That old maid, Miss Van Shelf, is the most careful and methodical boarding mistress I have ever had disturbing my den. Socratoots—Yes; I can imagine when she goes to heaven she will want in summer time to lay away her wings in camphor.

Petticoats.

The really economical woman is careful about exercising her economy when she buys a petticoat, particularly a silk one. A cheap silk petticoat is never worth having sent home from the shop, for as a usual thing it is skimpy in quantity as well as poor in quality, and a really good silk or moire will more than repay the original outlay in durability and satisfaction. When buying a silk petticoat, among the minor details to be taken into consideration is that of color, for some dyes render the silk much more brittle than others. All shades of blue, dark as well as light, are good for this reason, the dye having but little effect on the wearing qualities.

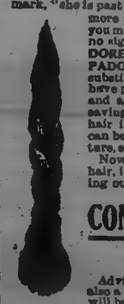
TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now! if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.



CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND

DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a featherweight fac-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

Developments in the last few days are reported by the press and verified by the company's officers, again attract public attention to the famous Sunburst Mines—having added 280 acres of rich lead and zinc land in the heart of the world's richest producing district to original holdings, the Sunburst Company has ordered the permanent equipment of shaft No. 1.

WORK BEGINS ON THE SUNBURST MINES

Machinery being installed and work on No. 1 shaft immediately resumed. Drifting being pushed to connect the No. 2 and No. 3 shafts, which, according to the drilling, will open up immense bodies of ore for the full distance, which is about 600 feet. The Eastman Development Co.'s White Eagle Mill, which was started within the last 60 days, is now producing some-eight to ten tons of zinc ore per shift—being the record breaker of the district so far. This property is immediately to the northwest of the Sunburst property. The Clarissa, to the southwest, has made a phenomenal strike in the last week. The opportunity to share in this wonderful fortune making is now presented by the development of the Sunburst property. Millions will be taken out of this district in 1907, and shrewd investors are now seizing their opportunity to reap a golden harvest from the vast mineral wealth in the Baxter Springs Camp. Many properties are now returning from 21 to 120 per cent. dividends on the investment.

IMMENSE ORE BODIES PROVEN UP

The Sunburst Mining Company owns a vast property in Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory, generally known as the Baxter Springs District. The history of the company is well known to the public. The great richness has long been admitted. Now development work proves the [illegible] The Baxter Springs News, December 6, 1906, says:

"The Sunburst is showing up some mighty big ore the past week. J. C. Bogart, who is doing the development work, brought in samples of his latest ore taken out of shaft No. 3, and it certainly shows up fine. This shaft now has 90 feet of drifting to the south, showing rich ore all the way, and the deposit encountered the past week is the same as the Hobo mine is cutting in its north drifts, which are only eighty feet to the south, and which are being driven north to connect with this south drift in the Sunburst. The Indiana, just to the west, is showing up remarkably rich lead and jack in its east drift. Gatlin is encountering the same to the east and north, thus demonstrating that immense ore deposit covers the Ayers-Sloan, White Eagle, Western Mines Co.'s Omaha, Winner, Good Luck, Hobo, Gatlin, Indiana and Sunburst leases, all of which are within a radius of a few hundred feet of each other. This is the richest deposit yet opened up, and while this is a fact it is owing to the intense development in this particular section of the camp, which is proven up the drillings which have been made since the camp started."

This immense rich property lies four miles from Baxter Springs, Kansas, in Jasper county, the state line in the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory. All around and immediately adjoining this property are good producers with fine mills, which are making their owners rich. Just west is the mill owned by the Whitneys of New York. On every side, are surrounded by producing mines, operating in ore bodies that run in and through our section, and from the reports of experts and engineers actually richer and richer the surface here than in any other place in district. The formation consists of a blanket deposit of mineral of the best quality, from 15 to 30 feet in thickness, lying at a depth of from 60 to 75 feet, thus making it very easy and inexpensive to mine.

Thousands of dollars were expended in drilling holes and sinking shafts to prove not only the existence in paying quantities of lead and zinc, but the unusual richness of the ore. The drilling and shaft sinking have demonstrated a uniform bed of ore over the entire acreage of 15 to 30 feet in thickness, and found only 57 feet under the surface. The water is only sufficient to wash the ore while milling. This is an important point, as in many lead and zinc mines the superabundance of water is a very dangerous factor. The ore is found between well-defined flat beds of limestone, which allows of the ore being taken out without the use of any timbers, however, pillars of ore being allowed to support the roof, which is thus permanently safe.

The Same Ore Body That Makes Others Rich

No other district can produce so many rich mines in so small an area as a portion of the Baxter Springs Camp. Look at the map and you will see the Sunburst holdings are the very heart of this section. To the north are the Dark Horse, Isley, Tipton, Magazka, all well-known properties. To the west are the Sunnyside (the oldest mill in camp), White Eagle, Indiana, Ayers and Sloan. To the south, the famous Hobo (the richest mine ever opened in the district, which has drifted to the south line of the Sunburst on extremely high-grade ore). The ore milled last week by The Hobo ran 18 per cent. In three months 504,000 pounds of rich ore was taken out by the Hobo. This mine is 195 feet from our property and is in the same ore body. Shaft No. 3 is only 70 feet from the Hobo north drift, with the same kind of ore. The drilling shows this bed to run across the entire Sunburst property. Shaft No. 1 is 400 feet from the northeast drift of the Hobo and is in the same ore bed.

To the south are also the Omaha Mines and Mill and the Good Luck Mine, where the lead has proven to be so heavy. On the properties mills are erected and extremely rich ore extracted, making great returns for the owners.

SHAFT NO. THREE.

ADVANCE IN PRICE

On account of the additional holdings, which are of great intrinsic value, as well as the remarkable proof of richness afforded by the development already begun, the price of Sunburst stock will not remain long at the present figure.

Every step forward in the workings of the company is attracting wide attention, and is justifying the most liberal expectations.

As this work goes on Sunburst stock is bound to increase in value, as it is bound to be a mighty source of profit. The public demand because of public confidence in this great property has already absorbed thousands of shares and has steadily advanced the price, but this advance will be small in comparison to what is coming.

The shrewd investor will realize this opportunity now, and will buy before the next big advance.

Buy now and share pro rata in the demonstrated profits of this enterprise. Make your reservation for as many shares as you may desire at the present price, remit 10 per cent. of the full price for the block and send us the balance in nine monthly payments. Upon the completion of your payments your certificate will be sent you for the desired number of shares, fully paid and non-assessable, no matter how much the price of stock may have advanced during that time.

You will thus become a stockholder in this company on equal terms with all the other stockholders, and by payments so small as to be hardly felt.

The tremendous advantage to the small investor through this plan of investment must be apparent at a glance. By subscribing, for instance, for $800 shares and remitting only $8.00, you will obtain the whole block subscribed for at the present low price, and receive the full advantage of every advance on the whole $80.00 worth, although your first payment is but $8.00. You really invest $8.00 and get all the benefit of an investment of $80.00. Could anything be fairer?

In order to secure the benefit of this offer it will be necessary for you to make your reservation at once, with the understanding that you will be entirely free to withdraw it if further investigation fails to convince you of the merits of the stock.

The officers of this company, who have the handling of your money, the product of the mine, and paying of dividends, are stockholders like any other.

What is more, they are well-known and successful business men. Look them up. Investigate their standing, their accounts, their integrity. This is a business proposition. Here are business men conducting it, and I invite your investigation.

MAP OF DISTRICT SHOWING SUNBURST MINE.

Why Stock is Now Offered at 8c a Share

This issue of fully paid and non-assessable stock is for the purpose of procuring immediate funds to build a concentrating mill, equip the plant with hoisting machinery, and continue development work and put day and night shifts to work—in a word, to apply to this immensely rich property the same development that is resulting everywhere around us in paying great dividends and enormously enhancing the value of the property. Have you ever heard of a failure in a true lead and zinc mine? Have you not heard on the contrary of the fortunes taken out right in this district, not by one, but practically by all mining plants in the last few years? Have you ever had the opportunity to get in on the ground floor of such an investment? At this price the immense profits simply depend on this: Are the facts such as we have stated? Now, this we prove in detail—we will even arrange to take you to the mine—we refer you to any of the reports on this property—to banks—to engineers—to the evidence of surrounding properties; we lay the proposition before your business judgment, with the full appreciation that you owe it to yourself to investigate this simply as an investment in a commercial enterprise.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

In compliance with the request of the officers and stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., a detailed examination of the property was made October 1, 1906, by M. S. Parker, the well-known mining engineer and member American Society C. E. Excerpts from Mr. Parker's report follow:

The Sunburst Mine is located in the southeast corner of Section 29, Township 29, Range 24, east of the Indian Meridian, in the Quapaw Reserve, Indian Territory. It is joined on the south by half its width by the famous Hobo Mine, which produces the richest lead and zinc ore of any mine in the district thus far developed, and prospect drill holes and shafts north of the Hobo, on the Sunburst, show the same grade of ore, and at the same depth and of the same thickness.

The Omaha Mine, which is now successfully operating a new 150-ton mill, also adjoins the Sunburst on the south, and have drilled along their north boundary, striking the same body of ore as developed by prospecting over the line on the Sunburst.

The Hobo and Omaha Mines on he south have been prospected along he line of the Sunburst by drill holes and the present working shafts and drifts, which verifies the results of the prospecting done on the Sunburst Mine, north of the south boundary of the Sunburst.

FORMATION.

This mine comes under the blanket formation class. Out of the last eleven holes drilled, only two holes were barren of lead or zinc ore, most of them showing lead and zinc ore in paying quantities, while some of the holes drilled showed very rich deposits of lead and zinc.

One of the drill holes on the Hobo Mine showed very rich cuttings; within a foot of this hole was a blank spot 50 feet in diameter. The shaft of the Hobo Mine was sunk within 4 feet of a drill hole showing a very rich zinc ore, and went down through such a spot—no zinc ore being encountered—within a foot of the shaft walls very rich zinc and lead ore was found.

The thickness of the ore body, as shown by the drill holes, is from 15 to 30 feet. Ore is struck in shaft No. 1 at 57 feet depth, and the shaft is still in the ore at 75 feet. The drill cuttings at this shaft showed ore down to 91 feet depth. From all the drill holes this depth, viz., 91 feet appears to be the floor or bottom of the ore body, and is very uniform. The roof, however, varies in depth from the surface, 57 feet being the nearest it comes to the surface, while at places it is shown to drop down to 80 feet in depth, but the average depth to roof is very close to 65 feet. This would indicate an average thickness of the ore body of about 25 feet.

Three shafts have been sunk. No. 1 shaft, 5 1-2 by 8 feet, is down 88 feet, well timbered, and has good shafthouse and derrick. From this shaft prospect drifts have been driven, in all about 300 linear feet, mostly in leading ground. A small office building is near this shaft.

Shaft No. 2, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 80 feet, well timbered, with shafthouse, derrick and boilerhouse in good repair. From this shaft a drift is driven north 20 feet, then west 50 feet. Head of west drift is in good ore. The face of this drift is in zinc ore, while the bottom is in rich lead ore. This shaft should go down to 90 feet depth. This will give a 25-foot face of ore.

Shaft No. 3, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 75 feet, well timbered—a first-class shaft. No buildings on it. A short drift is running south in good zinc ore. The bottom of this shaft is in good lead ore. These three shafts, with 18 drill holes, constitute the present development of the mine.

The Sunburst is located within four miles of the Frisco Railway, Baxter and Quapaw stations being about equally distant from the mine. A road is projected from Baxter to Miami that will run within a quarter of a mile of the mine. This road is to be a freight and passenger electric road for the accommodation of the mines. Baxter Springs business men have subscribed $25,000 toward the building of this line, and every assurance is given that the road will soon be constructed. This will make transportation of fuel and mine products materially cheaper than at present, although the cost under present conditions is not heavy.

It is needless to say that work at the Sunburst can be carried on the year round, the climate in this section being so mild in winter that very little trouble is experienced in mining operations in the Quapaw Reserve.

Summing up the points in this report, I will say that you have a first-class lead and zinc property. Rarely will one find a tract of ground so universally mineralized as the Sunburst Mine. If you follow the recommendations I have made regarding development, I feel assured you will reap your reward in good dividends. Trusting that this report will meet with the approval of the President and Stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., I subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours,
M. S. PARKER.

As an investment proposition we believe that the Sunburst Mine will certainly pay no less than 75 per cent. We quote from other reliable sources the following figures showing the enormous annual dividends earned by lead and zinc mines in the Southwest field:

Oscoda Mining Co.	74 per cent.	Katydid Mining Co.	50 per cent.
Cottonwood Mining Co.	65 per cent.	Mocking Bird Mining Co.	54 per cent.
Waddell Zinc Co.	27 per cent.	John Jackson Mining Co.	60 per cent.
Conqueror Lead and Zinc Co.	90 per cent.	Omega Mining Co.	117 per cent.
Hudson Mining Co.	78 per cent.	Dinger Mining Co.	120 per cent.
B. & H. Mining Co.	40 per cent.	Chapman Mining Co.	120 per cent.
		Underwriters' Land Co.	60 per cent.

Buy Stock on Easy Payment Plan

A rise in the price of these shares to par means over 1200 per cent. for every $1 invested—besides the dividends.

Subscriptions will be accepted for 200 shares and upward, either by cash in full, with reservation, or by 10 per cent. down and 10 per cent monthly for 9 months.

The cost is the same either way, but by the installment plan you can reserve a much larger block of stock, and when the price advances, as it will immediately on disposal of this block of stock, you can reap the immediate profit.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive, upon request, certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 8 cents per share, par value, $1.00.

A few dollars will start you. Read the following table, then act promptly:

$16.00 buys 200 shares of stock; $1.60 down, $1.60 a month for 9 months.
$32.00 buys 400 shares of stock; $3.20 down, $3.20 a month for 9 months.
$80.00 buys 1000 shares of stock; $8.00 down, $8.00 a month for 9 months.
$160.00 buys 2000 shares of stock; $16.00 down, $16.00 a month for 9 months.
$240.00 buys 3000 shares of stock; $24.00 down, $24.00 a month for 9 months.
$400.00 buys 5000 shares of stock; $40.00 down, $40.00 a month for 9 months.
$800.00 buys 10,000 shares of stock; $80.00 down, $80.00 a month for 9 months.
$1600.00 buys 20,000 shares of stock; $160.00 down, $160.00 a month for 9 months.

Stock fully paid and non-assessable. All stock shares alike. No preferred stock, no bonds.

Property of Fabulous Wealth

HEMMED IN BY PRODUCING MINES

Thousands of dollars expended on shafts and development work show ore runs from 8 to 12 per cent—while a yield of 4 per cent. in Center Creek Mine has produced nearly $7,000,000

The increasing demand for lead and zinc is too obvious to need detailed statement. Both metals are in steady demand and at steadily advancing prices. The prices have gone up since 1899 from $51.00 per ton for lead and $36.51 for zinc to $82.00 for lead and $45.00 for zinc. The lead and zinc industry is now right at the front in the great commercial enterprises of the country. This southwestern district produces 80 per cent. of the zinc produced in the United States.

The earning capacity of the Sunburst's property, handling ore that averages from 8 to 15 per cent. can be estimated from the production of other companies. The Center Creek Mining Company, of Webb City, Mo., from an 80-acre tract, has taken out nearly $7,000,000 and is still producing.

The report for the year 1901 shows the following production during that year from the several properties mentioned:

	Acres.	Value.
American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co.	4000	$ 257,169.00
A. W. Taylor	180	358,758.00
J. W. Aylor	40	676,571.00
The Burgner Mining Co.	80	198,579.00
Center Creek Mining Co. (production to date)	200	6,852,394.00
Mrs. E. J. Chinn	120	221,779.00
Majestic Consolidated Zinc & Lead Co.	52	284,850.00
Continental Zinc Co. (production to date)	200	1,578,388.00
Consolidated Troup Mining Co.	40	124,617.00
Daughtery-Davy-McMillan Estate	80	255,006.00
The Empire Zinc Co.	441	126,311.00

Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1905	[illegible]	[illegible] Parkins death was the re-
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1901	[illegible]	[illegible] of stock of $5,850.00
John G. Guinn	[illegible]	82,467.00
Pittsburg-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co.	10	98,000.00
Pittsburg-Missouri Zinc & Lead Co.	170	413,201.00
United Zinc Co.	136	380,376.00

From these figures it can be seen readily how such large dividends are paid. The Dinger Co. pays 120 per cent., the Chapman 120 per cent., the Omega 117 per cent., and many others yield enormous returns.

BIRDS-EYE VIEW OF PROPERTY.

These profits are possible because of the concentrated richness of the ore, the fact that it is near the surface, that it requires no expensive machinery, that the buyers come to the mine and take the product right from the bins, that the climate is favorable, that the market is advancing, and the owners of the mine get steadily improving values for their ore produced. This is why lead and zinc mining is the safest and most profitable investment in the world today. Do you want 100 per cent. or more on your money?

Press Reports Rich Strike by Sunburst Mining Company

From the Baxter Springs News, of November 8, 1906.

One of the richest strikes made in the Baxter Springs mining camp, south of this city, for some time past, was that made by the Sunburst Mining Co., operating on one of their properties just east of the Sunnyside and north of the Hobo. The Sunburst Co. have three shafts in ore, with a large amount of drifting done, and this strike was made in No. 3 shaft, and apparently in the Hobo run of ore, which has always been considered one of the very best in the Quapaw reservation. The farther this run of ore is developed the richer it is showing.

The Sunburst Mining Co. also has made a very important deal the past week by purchasing from the Great Northern Mining Company 240 acres of leases one mile east of the Johanna, less than one mile southeast of the new rich strike made by the Irish Maid, and about two miles west of Monkey Hill, where the most famous lead strike was made ever encountered anywhere in the southwest. The Monkey Hill strike showed as much as 28 inches of solid lead of the very highest grade. The Great Northern, which is one of the largest holders of the best leases in this camp, made this sale the past week.

The purchase of this large tract of land by the Sunburst crowd means important developments in that section in addition to those already made, and, following on the heels of the rich lead strike made on the Chanky Bluejacket land to the north of the tract and its purchase by a syndicate of Minnesota iron men, will cause an unusual amount of activity in that part of the camp.

The Sunburst Mining Co. will also start drifting their No. 1 shaft on the tract east of the Sunnyside to encounter the rich strike made to the north of it in the Isley mine. The Isley has encountered ore which will undoubtedly yield all the way from 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. The strike was made near the north line of the Sunburst tract.

TO LIVE FOR 100 YEARS

WHO ATTAIN CENTURY MARK HAVE VARIED EXPERIENCES.

Do Not All Agree Upon the Reasons Which Conduce to Great Longevity —The Ancient Search For Long Life—Consideration of the Question Through Mrs. Osler's Recent Attainment.

One of the most disappointing features of extreme age is that those who attain it are unable to agree on the reasons that conduce to it. There can be little doubt, for example, that the kind of life led by Mrs. Featherstone Osler is quite different from the lives led by many other centenarians, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The wife of a pioneer missionary in Ontario, Mrs. Osler no doubt had her share of hardship in the earlier years. One might therefore conclude that a certain amount of roughing it was favorable to extreme age, but modern science gives no authority for this belief. Some supposed experts go so far as to say that the more care one takes to avoid exertion and hardship the better is one's chance of reaching the century mark. It is well known, for example, that Mr. Chamberlain, who is a young man at 80, never takes a step that he can avoid. He shuns exercise, and yet his health and mental vigor are remarkable.

Beneficial Hardships.

In favor of the theory that hardships have a most beneficial effect on the human constitution may be cited the notorious longevity of soldiers, especially of those who have been fortunate enough to draw pensions. It is quite recently that the United States Government has ceased paying pensions to some soldiers who fought in the War of 1812. Hiram Cronk, of Oneida County, N.Y., at the age of 103 applied for an increase in his pension allowance. He did not actually fight in the war, but he enrolled, and so became entitled to a pension. An even more striking illustration of the healthfulness of exposure is furnished by Izai Rodofoski, a Russian, who was recently reported alive in Warsaw at the age of 136. Up to his 126th year Izai was in full possession of all his faculties, but age came upon him in a single stroke, and when last heard of he belonged to the dead rather than the living, for he could neither see nor hear and had no sense of feeling.

Some Venerable Citizens.

Next, in point of antiquity, comes an American, Noah Raby, who, at the time the facts were gathered, lived in a poorhouse at Piscatamay Township, New Jersey, and was 129 years of age. Like the long-lived Russian, Raby had spent most of his life out of doors, working as a farm hand, and afterwards as the overseer of a plantation. He never slept more than six hours a day. Another of the world's centenarians is a Servian, Osman Turrenxi, who claims to have seen 126 winters. His principal food has always been grapes and nuts. Altogether 218 cases of persons ranging in age from 95 to 136 have been reported upon. These reports go to show that to be abstemious of diet, a hard worker, an early riser, and to live in the open is the way to acquire length of years. In many cases of remarkable longevity it has been found on enquiry that the parents enjoyed a very long span of life.

The Ancient Search For Longevity.

It is on record, or, at all events, legendary lore so relates, that the Egyptians tried to extend their term on earth by liberal indulgence in sudorifics and emetics. Frequent perspirations and emetics twice a month were supposed to remove from the system the elements making for dissolution. The Pharoahs were certainly wiser than their successors, for the Turkish bath is a good thing, while the stomach, unless carefully attended to, is known to be the seat of many complaints. It would have been well for the men of the Middle Ages if they had had the common sense of the Egyptians. These people, however, resorted to astrology, and all sorts of absurd nostrums, in the hope that they might escape the common lot of all. The astrologers did a roaring trade among the well-to-do, telling them what stars were adverse to them and how to dodge these celestial enemies.

Resort to the Talisman.

The amulet and the talisman were consequences of the belief in astrology. It was supposed that certain metals could counteract the influence of a man's evil star upon him. Thus, persons traveled with necklaces of iron or bracelets of copper to keep the star at arm's length. The carrying of a potato or of a horse chestnut to ward off rheumatism must be the modern adaptation of this fashion. While the astrologers labored with the stars, other equally potent operators made search for the "Elixir of Life," doses of which, taken "three times a day in a little water," were expected to restore youth and to postpone death. One man—a count—professed to have produced the decoction, but when the liquid was closely examined it was found to be a mixture of sandalwood, fennel, and senna. Another count, Cagliostri by name, made a great fortune in France by the production and sale of an "Elixir of Life," which was nothing more nor less than a stimulant, producing unnatural activity on the part of patients, and requiring to be used constantly and in increasing quantities. It must have been the forerunner of whiskey!

The Fountain of Youth.

In all probability it was the success of this charlatan that induced Ponce de Leon, one of the pioneer visitors to the Continent of America, to make his journey hither. This man had heard that somewhere on the Western sea there was an island upon which the fountain of perpetual youth was forever pouring forth its valuable waters. Persons partaking of the stream could not possibly get old, try as they might, and death was out of the question. A table water having this virtue would bring a splendid price per bottle. Ponce de Leon sailed for America bent upon the discovery of the fountain. He reached Cuba, and, failing to find it there, proceeded farther west, with the result that he landed in Florida and was killed by the Indians. Florida water, it is well to remark, is not the beverage in the search of which Ponce met his end. After the astrological and medicinal experiments had failed animal magnetism was tried for the purpose of prolonging life. Mesmer, a Frenchman, was the discoverer of this treatment, and from him we get the mesmerism of to-day. [illegible]

The Span of Life Increasing.

People are hardly so credulous nowadays, and as a rule they are much more interested in living well than in living to an abnormal age. But medical science is steadily increasing the span of life. One by one the diseases that decimated our forefathers are run down and practically abolished. Sanitation and science are, in fact, prolonging life.

OLDEST MAN IN CANADA.

Interesting Career of Timothy Collins, Born in 1755, Resident in Montreal.

Probably the oldest man in the world is a resident of Montreal. Timothy Collins was born in 1755, and was, consequently, 20 years of age when Napoleon and Wellington met at Waterloo. Collins arrived in Montreal in 1815, and after spending a short time there, went to New York, where he remained about three years, when he returned to Montreal and engaged in commercial business. Up to very recently, he talked interestingly of the days when the business section of Montreal was entirely on St. Paul and St. Francis Xavier streets, and when St. Antoine street, now Craig, was a river of considerable proportions, spanned at Bleury street by a bridge. Much of his life was spent in St. Colomba, about 40 miles from Montreal, where he followed agricultural pursuits. While he was in New York he was married to a Miss Brown, from Ireland.

He refers with a gleam of humor to the issue of the first newspaper in Canada, The Spectateur Canadiene. Then he digs back into his memory to the day when the late Queen Victoria was born, and tells with the greatest pleasure imaginable of how the British Empire was stirred when she was made the Queen of England. Two years ago, when President Roosevelt was re-elected, Collins read the news, and remarked: "But I was on earth when Washington was President."

Collins has never taken over-much care of himself. He has never known, to use an umbrella, and in the coldest of winter days his overcoat, which was far from being that worn by the average Canadian. He has been a constant smoker, and one of his greatest pleasures right up to the present has been to enjoy a pipe before breakfast. In the household he was the heartiest eater.

A few months ago he was as much grief-stricken as were the parents over the death of the 11-year-old daughter of Thomas Collins, who owns at least one hundred houses in the east end of the city.

Plants Near the Sea.

Plants growing near the sea have thicker leaves than those growing inland. Apparently the sea salt is the cause of this phenomenon, as plants cultivated in artificially salted soil yield thicker leaves.

Quaint Yorkshire Custom.

A quaint custom is still in vogue in winter at Bainbridge, a Yorkshire village. Every night at 9 o'clock a huge horn is blown on the village green, so that any one lost or rambling on the surrounding fells may be guided to safety. Very welcome has the sound often been to many a wayfarer lost in snow or fog on the cheerless moors.

Tallest Britishers.

The tallest people in the British isles are to be found in the district of Galloway, in south Scotland, where records of the stature give an average height of five feet ten and a half inches. The shortest stature is found in Wales and southwest England.

Pulled Bread.

For those to whom coarse breads or even light fine wheat flour breads are indigestible and unappetizing a form of the latter known as "pulled bread" may be welcomed. Simply pull out the crumb part with forks in long strips after the loaf has been cut in quarters. Toast these in the oven and keep in a dry place." So prepared they cost less than the zwieback which is on sale.

The Wolverene.

The wolverene, now almost extinct, is one of the greatest gluttons and thieves among animals. It robs the hunter's trap of his game and his hut of blankets, gun, ax, knife and dishes. When any one approaches it sits up on its hind legs and shades its eyes with its paws.

Chocolate.

Chocolate was first introduced into England from Mexico in 1520. It was made from the flower of the cocoanut, soon became very popular and was generally used in the London coffee houses.

Hawthorn Buds.

Hawthorn buds are known among English children as "bread and cheese" and are sometimes eaten by them. They have, however, poisonous qualities, due to the presence of calcium oxalate, and a girl at Penrith died after eating some.

Chinese Mourning Custom.

During thirty days after a death in China the nearest relatives of the deceased do not shave nor change their clothes.

Rebottling Eggs.

When on removing part of the shell of a boiled egg you find that it is not cooked at all or else too soft to suit your taste if you will put a tablespoonful of vinegar in the water in which it is to be reboiled or if you will shake a little salt and pepper in the open egg you can then drop it in the water until it is cooked without spilling even a taste.

Copper Coins.

In 1620 the first large copper coins were minted in England, putting an end to private leaden tokens.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part, through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron pyrites.

This last vein has been traced for 5 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly clear that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. per oz. equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 10 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5280 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

A TREE OF ILL REPUTE.

The Fresh Juice of the Upas Acts as a Deadly Poison.

An evil reputation has long been borne by the upas tree, Antiaris toxicaria, which grows in Borneo and other East Indian islands. It is still a common belief that birds flying within the influence of its poisonous vapors instantly perish and that it is fatal for animals or men to rest beneath its shade. It resembles certain rhus plants (like the poison ivy) in emitting a volatile substance which affects the skins of certain susceptible persons, though others are unaffected. The sap is very poisonous and is the chief subsfance used by the Dyaks of Borneo for poisoning the tips of their darts.

In this process an incision is made in the bark of the tree and the milky exudation collected on a palm leaf and dried first in the sun and then over a fire until a thick brown mass is left. In this state it can be kept without deteriorating, and when required for use it is made into a thin paste with the juice of "tuba" root, which is used to stupefy fish, or with tobacco or lemon juice, and the ends of the darts dipped into the mixture and dried. These darts are made from the middle stem of the palm leaf and are about six or eight inches in length and of about the thickness of a knitting needle.

They are used with a wooden sumpitan, or blowpipe, which is about seven or eight feet in length and has an internal diameter of about one-quarter inch. A bird struck by one of these little darts is instantly killed, and a pig dies in about twenty minutes. The fresh juice of the upas tree, whether swallowed or injected into the blood, acts as a violent poison, causing convulsions and death.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

with the heel of the foot resting between the rowlocks.

A boat had been lowered by the Golden Rod, and the unfortunates were soon conveyed upon deck. No particle of either food or drink was to be found or anything save the single paddle and the open Bible, which lay across the small man's face. Man, woman and child had all been dead a day at the least, and so, with the short prayers used upon the seas, they were hurled from the vessel's side. The small man had at first seemed also to be lifeless, but Amos had detected some slight flutter of his heart, and the faintest haze was left upon the watch glass which was held before his mouth. Wrapped in a dry blanket, he was laid beside the mast, and the mate forced a few drops of rum every few minutes between his lips until the little speck of life which still lingered in him might be trained to a flame. Meanwhile Ephraim Savage had ordered up the two prisoners whom he had entrapped at Honfleur.

"Very sorry, captain," said the seaman, "but either you had to come with us, d'ye see, or we had to stay with you. They're waiting for me over at Boston and so in truth I couldn't tarry. Which would you prefer, to go on with us to America or to go back to France?"

"Back to France, if I can find my way, if only to have a word with that fool of a pranner."

"Well, we emptied a bucketful o' water over his hatstock and priming, d'ye see, so maybe he did all he could. But there's France, where that thick cutting is, over yonder."

"I see it; I see it! Ah, if my feet were only upon it once more!"

"There is a boat beside us, and you may take it."

"My God, what happiness! Corporal Lemoine, the boat! Let us push off at once."

"But you need a few things first. Good Lord, who ever heard of a man pushin' off like that? Mr. Tomlinson, just sling a keg of water and a barrel of meat and of biscuit into this boat. Hiram Jefferson, bring two oars aft. It's a long pull with the wind in your teeth, but you'll be there by tomorrow night, and the weather is set fair."

The two Frenchmen were soon provided with all that they were likely to require and pushed off with a waving of hats and a shouting of "Bon voyage!" The yard was swung round again, and the Golden Rod turned her bowsprit for the west.

But while these things had been done the senseless man beneath the mast had twitched his eyelids, had drawn a little gasping breath and then finally had opened his eyes. Old Catinat had come upon deck, and at the sight of the man and of his dress he had run forward and had raised his head reverently.

"He is one of the faithful," he cried. "He is one of our pastors. Ah! Now indeed a blessing will be upon our journey!"

But the man smiled gently and shook his head. "I fear that I may not come

Kneeling hand in hand before the dying pastor.

this journey with you," said he, "for the Lord has called me upon a farther journey of my own. I have had my summons, and I am ready. I am indeed the pastor of the temple at Isigny, and when we heard the orders of the wicked king I and two of the faithful, with their little one, put forth in the hope that we might come to England. But on the first day there came a wave which swept away one of our oars and all that was in the boat—our bread, our keg, and we were left with no hope save in him. And then he began to call us to him, one at a time, first the child and then the woman and then the man, until I only am left, though I feel that my own time is not long. But, since ye are also of the faithful, may I not serve you in any way before I go?"

The merchant shook his head, and then suddenly a thought flashed upon him, and he ran, with joy upon his face, and whispered eagerly to Amos Green. Amos laughed and strode across to the captain.

"It's time," said Ephraim Savage grimly.

Then the whisperers went to De Catinat. He sprang in the air, and his eyes shone with delight. And as they went down to Adele in her cabin, and she started and blushed and turned her sweet face away and patted her hair with her hands as woman will when a sudden call is made upon her. And so, since haste was needful and since even there upon the lonely sea there was one coming who might at any moment snap their purpose, they found themselves in a few minutes—this gallant man and this pure woman—kneeling hand in hand before the dying pastor, who raised his thin arm feebly in benediction as he muttered the words which should make them forever one.

Ere the stars had waned again one more toiler had found rest aboard of the Golden Rod, and the scattered flock from Isigny had found their pastor once more.

CHAPTER XVIII.

FOR three weeks the wind kept at east or northeast, always at a brisk breeze and freshening sometimes into half a gale. The Golden Rod sped merrily upon her way, with every sail drawing alow and aloft, so that by the end of the third week Amos and Ephraim Savage were reckoning out the hours before they would look upon their native land once more.

"Tomorrow we should make land by my reckoning," said Captain Savage.

"Ah, tomorrow! And what will it be—Mount Desert, Cape Cod, Long Island?"

"Nay, lad; we are in the latitude of the St. Lawrence and are more likely to see the Acadia coast. Then, with this wind, a day should carry us south, or two at the most. A few more such voyages, and I shall buy myself a fair brick house in Green lane of north Boston, where I can look down on the bay or on the Charles or the Mystic and see the ships comin' and goin'. So I would end my life in peace and quiet."

The mate's watch that night was from 12 to 4, and the moon was shining brightly for the first hour of it. In the early morning, however, it clouded over, and the Golden Rod plunged into one of those dim, clammy mists which lie on all that tract of ocean. So thick was it that from the poop one could just make out the loom of the foresail, but could see nothing of the foretopmast staysail or the jib. The wind was northeast, with a very keen edge to it, and the dainty brigantine lay over, scudding along with her lee rails within hand's touch of the water. It had suddenly turned very cold—so cold that the mate stamped up and down the poop, and his four seamen shivered together under the shelter of the bulwarks. And then in a moment one of them was up, thrusting his forefinger into the air and screaming, while a huge white wall sprang out of the darkness at the very end of the bowsprit, and the ship struck with a force which snapped her two masts like dried reeds in a wind and changed her in an instant to a crushed and shapeless heap of spars and wreckage.

The mate had shot the length of the poop at the shock and had narrowly escaped from the falling mast, while of his four men two had been hurled through the huge gap which yawned in the bows, while a third had dashed his head to pieces against the stock of the anchor. Tomlinson staggered forward to find the whole front part of the vessel driven inward and a single seaman sitting dazed amid splintered spars, flapping sails and writhing, lashing cordage. It was still as dark as pitch, and, save the white crest of a leaping wave, nothing was to be seen beyond the side of the vessel. The mate was peering round him in despair at the ruin which had come so suddenly upon them, when he found Captain Ephraim at his elbow, half clad, but as wooden and serene as ever.

"An iceberg," said he, sniffing at the chill air. "Did you not smell it, friend Tomlinson?"

"Truly I found it cold, Captain Savage, but I set it down to the mist."

"There is a mist ever set around them, though the Lord in his wisdom knows best why, for it is a sore trial to poor sailor men. She makes water fast, Mr. Tomlinson."

The other watch had swarmed upon deck, and one of them was measuring the well. "There is three feet of water," he cried, "and the pumps sucked dry yesterday!"

Raided University

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The Social Revolutionists have been holding meetings here lately under the cover of university autonomy. The police, however, determined to put an end to these gatherings, and yesterday surrounded the University, arrested 71 revolutionists, and seized 1,500 pounds weight of incendiary proclamations. The prefect of police has ordered the arrest of all persons distributing election literature in behalf of the Radical party, and yesterday closed two printing establishments where radical bulletins were being prepared and seized 10,000 of them.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide". The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins of ore on the property have been opened on the strength of the report, and that PAYNE's death was the result of the strain, and that [illegible] death

A WISE HOUSEKEEPER.

She Mixes Brains With Humanity In Dealing With Her Servant.

Brains and humanity—those are two qualities every man and woman needs to possess before it is given to either of them to have supervision over [illegible]

Such a wise housekeeper starts out with a servant in perfect understanding.

She lets the girl know what is expected of her, and she keeps faith with that girl in any promises she may make.

She does not begin by saying, "It's just nothing at all to do the work here," and then bring four women in to luncheon on ironing day.

She realizes that the kitchen is the most important room in her house and that when she has everything there running smoothly the rest of housekeeping is a sweet and simple dream.

She realizes that the person who feeds a family acceptably and keeps it comfortable 365 days in the year is entitled to some consideration.

Therefore she sees that there is a comfortable room, with plenty of air, a good bed, a cheery, pleasant, homelike place, ready for the girl when her work is done.

She arranges her work systematically.

It is a woman like this that keeps the same help in her home for years and makes them say of her, "She's a real lady, she is."

The girls say that lack of consideration on the part of the women who employ them is the reason for the revolt against unspecialized housework.

They say that the general housework girl is supposed to combine the duties of cook, waitress, chambermaid, parlor maid, laundress, lady's maid, nursemaid, bellboy and errand girl.

She is never supposed to be too tired to respond to the buss of a bell, and she is expected to put up with whatever accommodations are left after the rest of the family is comfortably provided for.

And I believe there is a fairly good foundation for her complaints. A whole lot of incompetent, selfish, inconsiderate women are so placed in the scale of fortune that they can keep house and "have a girl." Women of this type have the idea that the placing of a girl in the kitchen and paying her so much a week end their responsibility as far as housekeeping goes.—Exchange.

Ancient Warfare.

At the storm of Magdeburg by Tilly in 1631 this noted authority on the art of war laid down the general maxim that after a successful assault the soldiers ought to have three hours of pillage.

The Franks.

The Franks took their name from the franciasques, or battleaxes, which they threw with deadly effect.

Coal.

Coal is comparatively a modern product. History shows that it was first used in England during the ninth century. In 1316 the king prohibited its use on the ground that it was injurious to health, but the high price of wood finally compelled the Londoners to use it again.

Cynical La Bruyere.

When asked for his married experience La Bruyere replied, "Few wives are so perfect that they do not give their husbands cause at least once a day to repent of matrimony."

The Smokers.

The greatest smokers are unquestionably the Dutch, each inhabitant consuming about 3,110 grams of tobacco a year. Their neighbors, the Belgians, come next, with 2,488 grams; then follows Turkey, with 2,177 grams. The United States, Germany, France, Italy and Spain consume on the average about 1,866 grams, while the English content themselves with about 715 grams each a year.

"Chap" as a Man.

Not until the end of the sixteenth century did "chapman," a trader or peddler, get contracted into "chap" even in vulgar speech, and even then for a long time it did not advance beyond the meaning of buyer or customer. In this sense Steele speaks of "hunting after chaps," and Wilkes writes that "perhaps Mrs. Mead would buy, but she would be a hard chap." "Chap" seems to have reached its ultimate stage as a casual equivalent of "man" through the intermediate sense of a man with whom one has dealings, not of business, but of good fellowship. The case of "customer" is very similar. Shakespeare used it to mean a boon companion, but "a queer customer" now means little more than "a queer man." There is a trace of the old companionship idea, however, when a young woman speaks of "my chap."—London Chronicle

Bilious Paleness, Now Easily Cured

If you are frequently bilious or have feelings of nausea there is a reason.

When the liver action is normal the bile is secreted in the proportions necessary to ensure the digestion of fats.

When liver action is irregular it is an evidence of impairment of nerve force.

When these derangements occur an undue amount of work is thrown upon the liver and kidneys, they rebel—the whole system suffers, and ill-health follows.

Another dangerous result of derangement of the biliary function is constipation. Deadly disease results from this condition.

This is a hateful condition because it ensures two results—heavy dark rings under the eyes and a sallowness that's absolutely abhorrent.

These derangements if allowed to continue excite the formation of gallstones, cause jaundice, catarrhal inflammation of the bowels, and indigestion.

If you wish to get better, the very root of the trouble must be reached.

This can be accomplished only by Ferrozone—a remedy that strengthens the system, the blood, the liver and kidneys.

Ferrozone is food for the nervous system.

It fortifies and strengthens it.

The nervous system controls all the functions of the body.

Improve its tone, you improve the tone of the whole body and this is what Ferrozone accomplishes.

Its first action is to fortify digestion—this means nourishment and more building material.

Ferrozone makes rich, red, blood—lots of it, and this means the proper action of all the large and vital organs of the body.

Quickly there comes strength, vigor, endurance—that glow of feeling which we call health.

You are sure of robust health; sure of strong nerves, good appetite; sure to look and feel your best if you use Ferrozone; try this great tonic, sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—The Bay of Quinte Conference will meet at Bowmanville in June.

—A large meteor fell near the village of Haliburton on Monday evening.

—Last night at St. Luke's church, Rev. Hon. Ofiel was the special preacher at the Lenten service.

—Last night a concert under the auspices of Court Queen Alexandria, A.O.F., was held, when a good program was presented.

—Mr. J. H. Burnham's splendid lecture on Sir John A. Macdonald, was well received by a large audience in the township of Eamismore.

—Nothing in the police court yesterday except a lady swearing out an information, the consequent trial to be held Saturday morning.

—Notwithstanding the counter attraction of the Rink-pick, last night's hockey match between the Marlboros and the locals was well attended.

—Every policy member of the Peterborough Council of Chosen Friends, No. 423, is urgently requested to be present at the S.O.E. Hall on Friday evening.

—A special meeting of the Bricklayers' Union will be held on Saturday night at eight p.m., when business of great importance will be transacted.

—The Y.M.C.A. Boys' Rally will in future be held on Thursday afternoon at 4.15 instead of Friday as before. At this week's meeting Mr. J. F. Thornton will speak and sing.

—Indications point upwards the price of cheese going up. It seems that now-a-days the poor downtrodden citizen contemplating the raising prices for all necessary commodities is apt to remark, "Cheese it!"

—Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's special service in the Peter Hamilton Mfg. Company's Works, was well attended, some of the employes from Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons' factory, as well as those of the Peterborough Canoe Company being present.

—Invitations will be sent out today for "An Evening in the Skies," Rev. Dr. Marsh, to be held in ... street church Sunday School ... under the auspices of the ... Men's Guild, on Tuesday night next.

School Matters at Bridgenorth

The school trustees of Bridgenorth, called a public meeting for Monday last, to discuss the new Whitney School Act. There was very little interest manifested. It was decided to put a new floor in the school, also new seats, as these improvements were deemed necessary.

Monaghan Concert Aftermath

Referring to an article in yesterday's Times concerning a "kick" over an alleged incorrect report in these columns of a concert held in North Monaghan, wherein a phonograph played a prominent part, we might say that if certain events do not transpire by next Monday night, that in Tuesday's issue will appear another article on the subject in question.

Rifle Expert Shoots Chickens

One of the proprietors of the local shooting gallery, yesterday, getting tired of shooting at a stationery target went a-hunting. After going some miles into the country looking for bears and deer, he, whilst walking through a woods saw something move, quickly the trusty rifle went to his shoulder, and bang, ... two Farmer's chickens bit the dust. After the chickens had been carefully tied the Babes-in-the-Wood disposed under some brushwood, the rifle expert succeeded in bringing down some better and wilder game.

FOR STOMACH SUFFERS

Don't Use Any Remedy That Keeps Its Formula a Secret.

People who are troubled with stomach weakness cannot afford to use any remedy unless they know what it contains.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive giving only temporary relief, but a specific for all disorders of the digestive organs, and so effects a permanent cure for stomach troubles.

Your physician will tell you that nothing is better than a combination of chemically pure bismuth subgallate to allay any inflammation of the stomach and bowels; cerium oxalate, to strengthen the stomach nerves; sodium bi-carbonate, which neutralizes the poisonous acids that are present in stomach troubles; and nux vomica, which will restore vigor to the digestive organs and tone the whole nervous system.

This combination is found only in Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and it so rarely fails to strengthen the digestive system and cure all forms of stomach disorders that the remedy is sold under a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

If you suffer from indigestion, distress after eating, specks before the eyes, headaches, pains in the back and side, emaciation, bloating, nervousness, sleeplessness, or any other symptoms of stomach troubles, begin the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets at once. Sold in 50c. boxes.

Write today for a free sample package, and also give us your symptoms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give your case his careful and personal attention without charge. Booth's Mi-ona Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Charlotte Street Church Petition

The Charlotte street Methodist church Quarterly Board, has sent the following petition to the Ontario Government, which sufficiently explains itself, viz.:

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, of the Province of Ontario, in Parliament assembled:

The petition of the Official Board of the Charlotte street Methodist church of Peterborough, humbly showeth;

That the evils of intemperance which are facilitated and encouraged by the license liquor traffic, results in this province in much poverty, disease, law-breaking, immorality, and general injury to the moral and material welfare of the people;

That previous to the last session of your honorable body, the power to prohibit the liquor traffic by municipal by-law, approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon, was enjoyed by the people of this province, and the said power was exercised from time to time, in different places with beneficial results:

That at the last revision the law was changed so that such a municipal by-law cannot take effect unless approved by three-fifths of the electors voting thereon, and that such requirement is not in accordance with the principle of majority rule and its operation has prevented the closing up of bar-rooms in many places in which the majority of the people desire to have them closed, and has been unfairly forced on unwilling communities a traffic that causes much damage and suffering;

Therefore, your petitioners earnestly pray your honorable body to amend the said law, and provide that, as formerly, a by-law prohibiting the retail sale of liquor, shall become law, if it is approved by a majority of the electors voting thereon.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

Signed at Peterborough on behalf of the Official Board, this 19th day of February, 1907.

Pastor.

Monaghan Citizens Meet C.P.R. Officials

As foretold in these columns members of North Monaghan township council, including Mr. J. Brown, reeve, and Messrs. G. H. May and W. G. Howden, and Mr. G. W. Bennett, township clerk, representing the council. The committee was composed of Messrs. T. E. Wilson, Thos. Brown, Rev. Dr. Marsh. Mr. Hofid, the local C.P.R. agent, was also present to meet Mr. J. R. Nelson, superintendent of the C.P.R., and Mr. Brown, general freight agent, in the Oriental Hotel parlor on Tuesday night. The deputation petitioned the railway authorities to have the siding extended and a flag station established at that point.

Mr. Nelson was pleased with the way the committee presented their case and left a hopeful feeling in the minds of the representatives as to gaining their object. The matter will be decided in the near future.

House of Refuge Badly Handicapped

It now seems that the recently opened House of Refuge, near Lakefield, is handicapped for lack of sufficient help. Mr. Robert Scott, reeve of Smith township, is at present stopping at the House of Refuge, where he is looking up help for that institution. He states that they are in bad shape at present, the well has gone dry, the pipes have been frozen up, there is only one cow giving milk and only one woman to cook and care for seven inmates. Mr. Scott hopes to have things in better condition in a few days.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has THE BADGE OF HONESTY on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disagreeable, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription;" it will not perform miracles; it will not disolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

Ice Cut at Chemong Lake

Mr. W. T. Cullen, of Bridgenorth, has almost completed his ice cut, which was 26 inches thick, for the season on Chemong Lake. During the winter he supplied 5000 blocks to various persons. About 1000 of these were brought down to the city for Mr. Wm. Snowden, proprietor of the Snowden House. The Central Smith cheese factory was also supplied with 500. The remainder was distributed among farmers and dairymen of Smith township.

Rev. Dr. Marsh Was Right

Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville, who is known as an expert astronomer is out with an explanation of the sun spots observable by those using telescopes yesterday.

Last week there were spots of unusual size noticed on the sun by Dr. Marsh, and he correctly predicted that there would be some electrical disturbances. His prognostications have been verified by despatches received from Petersburg, Pa., when the unusual phenomenon of thunder was heard during progress of a blizzard.

An Actor Steals a Towel

Yesterday morning a local hotelman, with whom several of the Beauty and the Beast Company had been stopping, happening to miss a Turkish bath towel from one of the rooms occupied by these actors, got busy. He went to the actor occupying the aforesaid room, and touching him on the shoulder, remarked; "Say mister didn't you put a towel in your grip by mistake?" At first the actor denied the accusation, but on the hotelman insisting on a search, the actor's grip was opened and here amid a lot of face paint, wigs, etc., was the missing towel. It seems to us that whilst such petty theft is no reproach to the local opera house management, where such companies play, any actor, who would steal a towel is too cheap for mention and the papers of this country should warn hotel keepers of such victims of kleptomania or towelsitis.

VOL XXXV. NO. 44 PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, FERBUARY 22 1907 PRICE TWO CENTS

OVER A HUNDRED ARE DROWNED IN WRECK

British Steamer Bound for Rotterdam Goes Down and Only One Man Out of 141 Persons Floats Ashore.

Rotterdam, Feb. 22.—A disastrous steamship wreck, attended with great loss of life, occurred yesterday off the north pier of the Hook of Holland, when the Great Eastern Railway Company's steamer Berlin, bound from Harwich to the Hook of Holland, was lost. All on board, 141 persons in all, of whom 91 were passengers, were drowned, with one exception.

The wreck occurred at five o'clock yesterday morning during a terrific south-westerly gale. The steamer struck the north jetty while trying to enter the new waterway at the Hook of Holland. She broke in two forward and sank while the passengers and crew gathered aft and vainly attempted to use the lifeboats. One person was saved and 25 bodies have been washed ashore.

The agents say that although they are not positive regarding the numbers, they believe the vessel carried 120 passengers and a screw of 50 officers and men.

Herr Dominger, of the German Opera Company, who arrived here via Antwerp, says 35 of his colleagues were on board the Berlin.

The Berlin was a British steamer, 302 feet long and of 1,775 tons. The ship was commanded by Captain Precious, and was built in 1894.

Hook of Holland, Holland, Feb. 21.—The afterpart of the wrecked steamer Berlin did not slip into deep water, as the people on shore at first believed, but seems to be firmly embedded in the sand-bank. There are still a few persons on board, clinging to the wreckage, and it is hoped it may be possible to effect their rescue at low tide. During high water at the height of the storm, the waves shut off all view of the wreck, which led to the belief that no trace of the Berlin had been left. The receding tide, however, revealed the remains of her stern with a handful of survivors.

The only person who thus far has succeeded in reaching the shore is Captain Parkeston of Belfast, Ireland. He is now in a high fever.

London, Feb. 22.—The Great Eastern Railway Company officially confirms the loss of the steamer Berlin, with all on board, off the coast of Holland. The Berlin carried passengers and crew to the number of 141. Among those drowned are nineteen of the German Opera Company, who had just concluded their season at Covent Garden.

Arthur Herbert, one of the King's messengers, who was journeying to the Continent, was also lost.

The manager of the Covent Garden confirmed the statement that 19 members of the German Opera Company left on the steamer Berlin.

"So far as we know," he said, "these did not include any of the star artists, as the party was made up of members of the chorus returning to their homes. They made arrangements directly with the railway company, so that we are not yet able to get an exact list of their names."

"The disaster has aroused the most intense alarm among the other members of the company, owing to the friendships and relationships existing."

WAITED FOR LONDON TRAIN.

The Berlin left Harwich at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, upon the arrival there of the London train, with the greater number of the passengers, who subsequently lost their lives. The steamer should have reached the Hook of Holland at six o'clock yesterday morning, and would have proceeded for Rotterdam.

A great gale was blowing in the North Sea when the Berlin started, but the weather was no worse than on the previous night, when similar vessels made the trip without mishap.

WIND WAS TOO STRONG.

As the Berlin was entering the waterway at the entrance of the River Maas, however, she apparently became unmanageable on account of the force of the wind, and was driven ashore. The alarm was given and life-boats from the shore proceeded to the assistance of the stricken steamer, but the seas were so high that the boats were unable to approach the Berlin close enough to take off any of the passengers or crew, and the lifeboat men had to sit helpless while the steamer pounded, until she broke in two, and every soul on board was carried down.

FOREPART BROKE OFF.

The steamer apparently struck about midships, as her forepart broke off, and sank immediately, while her afterpart could be seen for a considerable time afterwards.

The waterway in which the disaster occurred is a new one on the north side of which is the pier and railroad station. The steamer must have been within a few minutes of tying up after her rough passage across the North Sea, when she was overtaken by the disaster.

LAND A FEW YARDS OFF.

Land was but a few yards away and except in the roughest weather those on board the Berlin could have been rescued without difficulty, especially as the waterway is navigable at all tides.

The Berlin was a steel steamer only twelve years old, and popular with travellers to the north of Europe.

CREW WERE ENGLISH.

One of the inspectors of the railroad, who saw the steamer rain off at the Liverpool street station, said last night that he thought there were more first-class than second-class passengers, most of them being commercial men or persons having professional business engagements on the Continent, or inhabitants of the Continent returning home from business trips to Great Britain.

The members of the crew, totalling 50, were mostly Englishmen from Harwich. The officers were: Captain Precious, First Officer C. Norsley, Second Officer, J. Wyatt, Chief Engineer Rennant, four assistant engineers, and four stewardesses.

Mr. McWilliams to Get Annuity

It is now rumored that Mr. J. B. McWilliams, former Crown Timber lands agent, who was retired from office over a year ago, has made application to the Ontario Government for a retiring allowance or pension. Mr. McWilliams was for thirty-three years in the employ of the Crown Land department. It is said that he bases his claim on his "long, faithful and energetic services on behalf of the department." It is rumored that he has a reply from the Attorney-General stating that the matter had been favorably considered and that he would receive a retiring allowance."

Cross Examination Well Combatted by Mrs. Thaw

New York, Feb. 21.—Mrs. Thaw's memory has suffered a relapse since she told her story on direct examination, and by far the greater part of her answers were in the words, "I do not remember." With the exception of these of the repeated admissions her story has not been shaken. Just what feature of the case Mr. Jerome will bring out today it is hard to say. So far he has asked practically no questions touching on the meeting of Evelyn Nesbit and White and their subsequent relations, and has not referred to the stories she testified she told her husband about seeing White on the street twice after she was married. Nor has he in any way questioned her on the story of the events of the night of June 25. Mrs. Thaw was unable yesterday to give exact, in many cases, even approximate, dates. So far Mrs. Thaw has stood the ordeal of the cross-examination well. She is apparently in deadly earnest, and although the strain under which she is laboring is plainly apparent there is no sign that she will not be able to bear up underit.

FROWNS OR POUTS.

The color comes and goes in her face as the examination proceeds, and occasionally she frowns or pouts, but she answers promptly, and in most cases with apparent frankness. Occasionally she hesitates, and leans forward in her chair as if to assure she understands not only the words in which Mr. Jerome's question is framed, but his motive in asking it as well. Her childish face is mobile, and continually changing as the district attorney's questions follow each other rapidly. Sometimes the expression denotes interest, occasionally indignation, never defiance. She seems to realize the importance of her position and the fact that to a great extent her husband's life is in her hands.

FENCES WITH JEROME.

When the rapid flow of questions reaches a critical point she fences with the district attorney in a manner worthy of a much greater experience in such matters than her appearance and her words indicate. She seems constantly watching for pitfalls in Mr. Jerome's questions, and carefully avoids them, as if determined that no word of hers, no moment of carelessness shall injure the man to save whose life she has bared her pitiful story to the world.

GENTLE, BUT SEARCHING.

Mr. Jerome's examination has so far been gentle, but searching. He has evidently decided to go into every phase of the story the girl on her direct examination relentlessly.

Mr. Delmas sits besides Mrs. Thaw, never missing a word, and ready to to protect his witness if necessary.

Mr. Jerome is taking the fullest advantage of Justice Fitzgerald's ruling which gives him the privilege of questioning the truth of the story Mrs. Thaw says she told her husband, on the ground that the truth or falsity goes to question her credibility as a witness.

Mr. Culverwell Wants to Sell the City Power

Mr. J. Alexander Culverwell, managing director of the Central Ontario Power Co., was in the city yesterday. He proposes to bring his power from Burleigh Falls to Peterborough and wants to get a contract from the city for sufficient power to run the electric light plant and to supply cheap power to new manufacturing concerns.

It is estimated that the Central Ontario Power Company have at least 5,000 horse power at Burleigh Falls. The Burleigh power can be harnessed so cheaply that the company should be able to transmit it to this city at as low or even a lower price than the companies developing power much nearer the city.

Mr. Culverwell interviewed a committee composed of Mayor McWilliams, Ald. Stevenson and Ald. Hurlburn. These gentlemen advised him to get his matter in shape and come to the council with something definite when the council will be only too glad to close on equitable terms.

Who Has Got Any Historic Wood?

His Worship Mayor McWilliams yesterday received a letter from Ansor A. Gard, of Ottawa. Mr. Gard intends sending a volume of his book "Pioneers of the Upper Ottawa," to his Majesty King Edward VII. The book is to be encased in a rare casket of historic woods found in Canada. The letter reads as follows:

Dear Mr. Mayor,

I am desirous of having the autographs and photographs of all persons, now living, who took an active part in the entertainment of the Prince. If you will have all such persons in your community, send these to me; you will confer a favor on both myself and your own people, as I wish to feature all the cities and towns along the tour of the Prince.

It will be a favor if you will have sent to me the population of your place in 1860 and 1906, that I may show the growth of the country, since the Prince was here.

I am desirous of having bits of historic woods to be worked into cases which are to be most elaborately made.

If there are in your city anything in historic woods, I will be pleased to have a small bit of it sent to me.

Nothing approaching these gifts to King and President has ever before been sent from Canada and I want that old places should join in the honor to the two great rulers.

Have all communications sent to me thus:

ANSON A. GARD,
Ottawa, Ont.

P.S.—I am desirous of getting bits of historic woods to work into the King's box. What have you in the historic line?

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

"The Girl Patsy"

A High Grade Comedy Drama in the Hands of an Admirably Balanced Company of Talented Artistes

The audience at the Grand Opera House last night fully appreciated the dramatic luxury presented in "The Girl Patsy," a beautiful and touching comedy-drama in four acts, by Jane Mauldin Feigl, author of "Texas" and "Paris Model." The offering is high class in every way, and is in the hands of a splendidly balanced company, of such exceptional histrionic ability as is seldom seen in Peterborough. After witnessing last night's presentation, one can readily realize that this is the original company who made so big a hit with "The Girl Patsy" in the Savoy Theater, New York; and were it not for the fact that they are making long jumps to large American centers, Peterborough would not have been favored with their presence last evening. So many companies tour Canada, starring one talented actor or actress, most wretchedly supported in the majority of characters, that when one sits before a company like that handling "The Girl Patsy," of which each artiste is a matter of his or her particular role, one leaves the theater with regret that outside the large cities such opportunities of seeing the dramatist's conception of his piece faithfully portrayed, are rare indeed.

"The Girl Patsy" is a presentation of everyday life, void of all vulgar exaggeration and side-play, charmingly enhanced with pathos, sentiment and humor. The spectator's attention and interest is held unbrokenly throughout all the four acts, and last night the talented company carried their audience with them as they gradually unfolded the plot, up to the climax which called for demonstrative approval.

The play hinges upon the changing of infants, that of a wealthy judge's wife for that of the sister-in-law of a worthless drunken character. This is effected for mercenary motives, and the judge's child is reared as a county charge, while the other is brought up, and petted and spoiled in wealth and affluence. Of course, love complications arise, which eventually are overcome when the judge's recognized daughter elopes with her guardian, on the eve of her marriage with a young banker who is really in love with the wronged girl, and the county charge is acknowledged by the conspirators to be the legitimate heiress.

"The Girl Patsy" is staged with a perfection and realism highly commendable. The scenic offerings are exceedingly natural, in thunder, wind, lightning, light and cloud effects, and also in drawing room setting. Its tableaux are thrilling, not in overdrawn spectacles, but in the highest phases of histrionic art. It is a piece that leaves one with pleasant memories, and a strong desire to see it again.

Each member of the company has a correct and very acceptable conception of his or her role, and "The Girl Patsy" is quite safe in their hands. Loretta Harris is charmingly correct and true to life in her interpretation of the difficult character of Mrs. Heritage, the designing mamma, who schemes to make her social circle green with envy over the marriage of her son with the richest heiress in the country. She is an exceedingly talented and clever actress, who entirely loses her individuality in the character she is impersonating. She is quite irresistible as the doting mother of inherent beauty and aristocratic principles. She can sing too. Jane Tree, as Placide, the vivacious French maid, is very strong indeed; she has a charmingly faithful conception of her character. Jane Mathis as Patsy, and Grace Cahill as Miss Patricia Clifford, are ladies of high dramatic ability, and fit their parts admirably. Morris Burr makes an ideal Judge Clifford, while Francis Herbelin has a true and appreciable recognition of what is demanded of him in the character of Noel Heritage, the happy joyous and generous hearted artist, true to the best instincts of manhood.

The company leave for Hamilton today, where they will play two nights, and thence for Scranton, Pennsylvania.

SCHOOL TEACHER

and Coffee Drinking.

Many good people are loth to give up coffee, even though they admit that it is doing them harm, because they fear that nothing else in the way of a hot beverage will satisfy them. A school teacher says:

"I always enjoyed coffee for breakfast. The day seemed lost without it. But in time I began to experience bad results from its use. I grew very nervous and lost flesh and finally was prostrated by a complete nervous break down. Then I was compelled to abandon the use of coffee.

"I adopted Postum Food Coffee as my hot beverage at breakfast. Have been using it for more than two years. My health is restored and I am able to take an interest in life once more.

"My whole family, children and all, drink Postum Food Coffee, and we all thrive and keep healthy on it. It is to us a delightful drink, delicious and tempting and with none of the harmful effects that usually followed the use of coffee. The choicest brands of Java and Mocha, offered free, would not tempt us to quit the use of Postum Food Coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

JOHN PERKINS WILL APPEAR FOR CROWN

But Is Sorry for the Woman and Dislikes His Duty ---McDonald Has No Confession to Make.

Cayuga, Ont., Feb. 21.—Crown Attorney Murphy is preparing a list of witness who will appear on the preliminary hearing of the murder charge against Mrs. Mattie Perkins on February 27. The summons will be served on Monday, and those required to attend include Thos. McDonald, the star Crown witness, and the G.T.R. foreman at Welland, under whom Perkins worked for three months before he died, and to whom he sent a telegram while on his death bed asking him to come at once. Mr. and Mrs. John Dorrah, tenants of the dead man's farm; Mrs. Hyslop and Ralph Curry, sister and brother, respectively of the accused woman, are regarded as among the most important witnesses.

Chief Farrell said yesterday morning that there were no fresh developments in the case, but certain parties are under surveillance and will be arrested if necessary.

Mr. R. Hyslop, brother-in-law of Mrs. Perkins, was present at the legal conference held in the prisoner's cell yesterday afternoon, but declined to outline the defence.

PRISONER IS CHEERFUL.

Mrs. Perkins is cheerful and confident, said Mr. Hyslop to a press representative, "but I feel that silence is the best course for us to pursue for a while."

Mr. Hyslop is under the impression that Mrs. Perkin's present position is due to the enmity of some one of their former friends.

"It is the result of a scrap," he explained to Juler Williamson during the visit of Lawyer Grant yesterday. "I don't know when they can have against me," is the repeated statement of Mrs. Perkins to those who attend her in her cell. "I am as innocent as can be, and I should not be in here."

Mrs. Perkins, whose temperament is intense, and who is highly sensitive, does not make a quiet prisoner. She desired to furnish her cell from the Curry home, asking especially for a reverse rocking chair. Major Williamson procured a chair from his own home, and Mrs. Perkins, who was a dressmaker before she was married, spends a part of the time in looking through current fashion periodicals. She was requested by her counsel to think as little as she could of the case, and quantities of reading matter have been supplied her in the hope that her mind would be diverted from the murder charge.

The prisoner's cell opens into a large corridor, and during the daytime she is granted its use. Owing to her restless and nervous disposition, she is compelled to pace up and down until the monotony of the trip leads her to the barred window which overlooks the Grand River, or to her magazines.

CROWN WON'T BE READY.

The defence is based on the assumption that Perkin's death was the result of ulcer of the stomach, and that for some time previous to his death he was subject to fits of violent vomiting.

That the Crown in all probability will not be ready to go on with the preliminary investigation on Wednesday next was the statement made by Crown Attorney Murphy yesterday.

SPORTING TOPICS

RUNNING.

Last night a number of local sports gathered on Brock street, when a 100 yard race for a side bet was run off. Dan Sullivan won out over W. Warboy. The time was not taken as the only stop watch in the crowd gave up in disgust, owing to the steen degrees below zero.

HOCKEY.

The Strathcona's won out at last night's hockey match in Brock street rink by a score of 5—3 over the Orphans. Charlotte street trimmed Lake field by 3—2.

Clifton, Springs, N.Y., Feb. 22.—Dr. G. H. Ball, founder and president of Keuka College, at Keuka Park, N.Y., died in a sanitarium here last night. He was 86 years old.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. How few realize that twenty-five per cent. of all disease has its origin in some interference with the function of elimination.

The whole body exists by reason of the transfusion of fluids through its component parts.

Up to a certain point the body has power to reject to destructive elements, but this power is limited. When it happens that the body is loaded with wastes and poisons which it can't eliminate, fermentation, decay, and germ life run riot through the blood.

Serious illness is the result unless nature is assisted by a cleansing tonic like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are purely vegetable, contain no mercury, no bismuth, no injurious metallic ingredient of any kind.

Such a medicine is the greatest possible assurance to every man and woman of health, spirits and contentment.

Grand results are achieved and famous cures made every day by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, as this letter proves.

From Newfoundland, Miss Lillian Anthony, of Upper Gullies, Conception Bay, writes; "In praise of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I must say that I have used them with grand success for three years. They never fail to cure me of indigestion or constipation. Formerly my face was full of pimples, but now my complexion is clear and ruddy. In more ways than I care to mention have Dr. Hamilton's Pills helped me; they would be good for every woman to use."

PETERBOROUGH, FEBRUARY 20, 1907

CANADA'S LACK OF APPRECIATION

The fact that the so-called interference of international labor leaders in the disputes between Canadian employers and employes, has occasioned much discussion in this country and has also come up very prominently in the House of Commons and the Senate, leads the New York Sun to poke fun at the international leaders. "Apparently," says The Sun, "Canada does not appreciate properly the gentlemen of advanced and incendiary theories and practices who have contributed to the industrial system of this country."

"These eminent, warlike personages" continues The Sun, "have planned and executed some of the most successful riots the Dominion has known. They have done much to stir up Canadian wage earners against their employers. Yet in the face of their deeds the Canadian Senate is considering a bill to bar them from the country, and the trade unionists whom they have aided so generously show little inclination to oppose the proposed legislation.

"This conduct appears most inconsiderate and ungrateful. The opportunities and immunities for labor agitators in this country are practically unlimited. The agitator who deliberately turns his back on them to offer his services for the destruction of peace and the demolition of property in a foreign community makes a real sacrifice. The rewards of violence and bloodshed are smaller in Canada than in this country; one can hardly imagine the Governor-General, Earl Grey, entertaining a party of proved and valorous firebrands at luncheon in his official residence.

"Why, then, should an American promoter of industrial strike forsake his native land and cross the northern border, unless he is animated by the highest and most disinterested zeal in a sacred cause? Is he not justified in a bitter complaint if he finds his advances received coolly and is informed not too politely that his room is preferable to his company?"

KEENE

In perusing over the columns of The Examiner my attention was directed to a few items of a very personal character written by a Greystock scribbler. I feel under conviction that this scribe is laboring under the impression that he is a smart Alex., and a very expert reporter. But vice versa. There is a vast wideness in opinion. I, as well as many others, feel convinced that this fellow is troubled with a big head; in fact, it is so large at times that it crowded out space for hair to grow on. He is also subject to severe fits of despondency, especially when deprived of the pleasure of escorting a young lady to a tea meeting. Now Joe, take your medicine without a murmur and do not cry any more over disappointments. If current reports are true, you, in the near future, will have a girl of your very own and will be all O.K. for next New Year's tea meeting.

Several anonymous letters have been mailed in the village this winter. To the writer of those letters we do hurl scorn and shame. If you are ashamed to sign your name you certainly should be ashamed to engage in any such nefarious business. Be a man and sign your name to all your letters, for remember you are not unknown to the world.

Several sleigh loads of young people left here on Tuesday evening to attend a concert in Bethel in connection with the Methodist church of that place.

Mr. George Gall, our enterprising merchant, reports business very good. We wish George every success in his new enterprise and trust that he will receive a goodly share of patronage from the citizens of this place.

About nine o'clock last Thursday night the citizens of Keene were startled by the report of firearms and the rattle of cow bells. On inquiry as to the cause of the disturbance it was ascertained that a young couple in the village were quietly married. The boys therefore took the unwonted liberty of serenading them. The boys were welcomely received by the young couple and, after bestowing the usual congratulations, they departed feeling gratified with their reception.

Quite a number are at present engaged cutting and packing ice for summer use.

The sleighing is first class in this neighborhood and the farmers and others are taking advantage of it by hauling wood and delivering their grain and other products at the market.

Old Roman Swords.

The Roman swords before Cannae, B. C. 230, were pointless and sharp on only one side. After Cannae the short Spanish sword for cutting and thrusting was adopted.

The Discovery of Iron.

According to the traditions of the Greeks, the first discovery of iron by the human race was made on Mount Ida by a tribe called Dactyles. It is said that the forest was set on fire by lightning, and so intense was the heat of the great masses of fallen trees that the bed of iron beneath was melted and trickled in small streams down into the valley.

Niagara Ran a Sawmill.

The first use of Niagara's power was made in 1725, a primitive sawmill being operated.

Maid and Widow.

By the old Saxon law a maiden and a widow were of different value. The latter could be bought for one-half the sum which the guardian of the maid was entitled to demand. A man, therefore, who could not afford to buy a maiden might perhaps be able to purchase a widow.

"Book of Sentences."

The first ecclesiastical anthology was the "Book of Sentences," by Pierre Lombard. It was a compilation of the leading arguments of the fathers upon points of divinity, arranged and digested under heads. It is said 244 commentators have written annotations on this book, among others Thomas Aquinas, Guillaume Durand and St. Bonaventure.

Da Vinci's Wheelbarrow.

Leonardo da Vinci, the painter who painted the famous picture of the "Last Supper," is said to have invented the wheelbarrow.

When the Sun Will Burn Up.

That the sun is slowly but surely being consumed by its own fires there is but little doubt. No one can tell, however, to a certainty whether it is or not. Astronomers say that its diameter could be reduced two feet per day for 3,000 years before the finest instruments could detect the fact that any reductions had taken place.

The Venetian Rialto.

The Rialto at Venice is said to have been built from designs of Michael Angelo. It consists of a single marble arch ninety-eight feet long and was completed about 1592.

The Sausage In Vienna.

In the homes of the great middle class of Vienna, says a paper of that city, the sausage is a necessity. It appears at the table at least once every day, and the variety is so great that there may be a certain kind for every day.

Largest Size Paper.

The largest size of paper is known as "antiquarian." The sheets are 53 by 31 inches.

Does Not Color Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, does not stain or color the hair even to the slightest degree. Gray hair, white hair, blonde hair is not made a shade darker. But it certainly does stop falling hair. No question about that.

This is an entirely new preparation, just placed on the market. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

WOMAN'S WORLD

MRS. MARY QUACKENBOS.

She Is a Special Assistant United States District Attorney.

Mrs. Mary Grace Quackenbos, one of New York's best known woman lawyers, holds the responsible position of special assistant United States district attorney, to which she was appointed by Henry L. Stimson, United States district attorney.

Mrs. Quackenbos is the first woman who has attained so important a position in the legal profession. Her energy and thoroughness in investigating peonage cases in the lumber and turpentine camps of the south, which had come to her notice as representative of the People's Law firm, brought to her the recognition of the United States district attorney.

Mrs. Quackenbos' rise in the profession of law has been remarkable. Admitted to the bar in July, 1904, she has in the short space of time since then figured in several celebrated cases. Perhaps the best known of these was the case of Mrs. Antoinette Tolia, murderess, of Kingsland, N. J., whom she saved from the gallows. On March 9, 1905, three days before Mrs. Tolia was to hang, Mrs. Quackenbos, after an untiring week's effort, induced the Board of pardons of New Jersey to commute this death penalty to seven and a half years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Quackenbos has devoted her attention chiefly to the philanthropic side of the law, having been first connected with the Legal Aid society and later with the People's Law firm, a concern interested in the securing of legal rights for the unfortunate. Because of her humane and unselfish work, there are many among the unfortunate poor who have cause to remember Mrs. Quackenbos with great gratitude for the generous services she has rendered both as attorney and as friend.—New York World.

Treatment of Clothes.

A bit of real lace often will contribute greatly to the style of a frock, and it is an excellent plan to rip any lace trimming from garments before they are thrown aside.

No matter how badly soiled, every scrap of lace is worth saving. And this applies to the imitation as well as to the real, for if there is only sufficient to trim a stock collar it may be used for that purpose very conveniently and effectively on some future occasion, and as lace does not occupy a great deal of space and is not so popular with moths as are many other materials it may be easily preserved.

You ought to save all the pieces of velvet, if they are not hopelessly soiled, always remembering, however, to brush them thoroughly first and then roll them around a cylinder.

This same treatment should be accorded to ribbons, silks or satin as well, for if they are worth keeping at all they are worth keeping in good condition.

Eternal vigilance is the only salvation of gloves. Never wear a pair that has even the smallest tear or lacks a single button. In their most decrepit days they must neither be rolled into a ball nor squeezed into a shapeless wad, and be sure to give a sufficiently large size, for not only does a glove that is too small disfigure the hand, but its period of usefulness is certain to be brief.

A net veil that has the misfortune to get caught out of doors in a storm is not necessarily a ruined veil, for by carefully detaching it from the hat, in order not to tear the mesh, and then pinning it over a pillow the impromptu bath will sometimes prove rather a blessing than otherwise, and the original stiffness will be renewed.

Chiffon veils stand considerable rough usage, and the black ones will sometimes survive a season of almost continuous wear if only they are not folded over when damp.—New York American.

The Wife's Influence.

Every married woman, no matter how limited her life may seem, no matter how shut up she may be in the nursery or the kitchen, has a means of contact with the great world in the man who goes out into it—has a means of influence on it through him. Seen or unseen, it is there. The man who is happy in his home carries the atmosphere of it with him. He is himself more in touch with others because of it. In this day and age, when so many women are seeking scope for their powers in arts and professions and business careers, there are some who realize that in their marriage there is the very widest scope—women who put the enthusiasm, the brain power, the artistic perception, the clear sighted effort into their profession as wives and mothers, mistresses of households. These are the women who use their brains and their souls to love with, as well as their hearts, and who wield an extraordinarily far reaching power, all the greater because that power is the last thing they are thinking of or seek to attain. That intangible thing that we call the spirit of the home walks abroad with every member of it. The "nice" children in school gravitate instantly toward the children of that household, gravitate toward the house itself, because there is something there that they need.—Mary Stewart Cutting in Harper's Bazar.

The Dishcloth.

The dishcloth in many homes is a breeding place for microbes and contains more disease germs than almost anything else of the same size. Many diseases are in a large measure caused by filthy dish rags, contaminated water and impure air. The cheesecloth bags that sugar is sold in make good dishcloths and towels for wiping dishes. It is a good plan to have two sets for constant use. Those in use should be washed every morning in warm water, with soda, ammonia or washing powder, then rinsed and hung in the air to dry while the other set is in use. Besides this, it is well to wash each time after using and to boil them once a week. Keep your dish rags clean, sunned and aired if you value the health of your family.

Putting In Sleeves.

To sew in sleeves take your tape measure and measure one inch back of shoulder seam, fold the arm scye together at this point and place inside sleeve seam at the opposite point of fold. After the sleeves of a waist are sewed in and the seam bound or finished in some way, turn the seam so it rests up against the waist instead of down on the sleeve and tack it to the shoulder seam to keep it in this position. You will be surprised to notice what an improvement this makes in the set of the upper part of your sleeves.

The Dado Is Economical.

Nothing is more economical in wall decoration than a dado, according to Wall Paper News. As the lower part of the walls become soiled more quickly than the upper, a room can often be freshened simply by renewing the dado without touching the upper walls. Another advantage of the dado is that it gives a room a comfortable and furnished appearance without the addition of a lot of furniture. This is particularly true of a hall or stairway where there is a lot of space that needs breaking up.

Bags For Clothes.

When you are making dust bags to slip over your prettiest dresses, make blue ones for your white things. White will yellow. There's no denying that. Many a pretty party dress, hung away for a little while, has yellowed on the books until it is a far cry from the pretty, fresh bit of daintiness it was at first. But a blue bag—one of the deeper china blues is a good depth of color to get—makes a mighty good ounce of prevention.

Gathers.

In putting in gathered sleeves, sunbonnet crowns or any work you wish gathers to be even use two threads, one where the seam will be and the other one-fourth of an inch inside first. Remove second thread after sewing, or you can use machine to gather by making tension very loose and drawing up threads. By using second thread it does away with the ugly little plaits so often seen in gathers.

Moods.

Can one help having the "blues?" Can one help having a bad temper? Certainly. Moods are as subject to the will as any mental faculty, asserts a woman writer. The difference between the successful, popular woman and the woman who by her disagreeableness drives every one from her is simply the power of the former to control her moods and her temper.

To Keep Washing Soda.

It is advisable to keep soda in a jar covered with a lid, especially if the atmosphere of the room is dry, as soda exposed to dry air effloresces, yields some of its water to crystallization, leaving a white powder, which is therefore stronger than washing soda and is injurious to certain kinds of clothes.

Cheap Silence Cloth.

An economical yet serviceable silence cloth, without which no dining room is complete, is made from two or more thicknesses of old sheeting quilted together and bound with wide tape. A sheet of wadding may be added to give greater thickness.

If one knows how to crochet, it is much better to make a rug for the bathroom than to buy one. These rugs are much liked, maybe made to match the room, wash splendidly and are not difficult to make.

Every woman is at heart the happier for a pocket. A pocket is a woman's right. She has as much reason to demand it as a vote, and it would be far more useful to most of us.—Lady's Pictorial.

The butter with the least amount of water in it is the most economical to buy. More money is paid for it, but it goes further.

She is a very wise girl who knows enough not to pretend to know too much.—Chicago News.

He Didn't Rush.

"Mamma," queried little Willie "what is 'hush?'"

"Why do you ask, dear?" said his mother.

"Because," explained the observant child, "when I asked sister why she made her hair all powdered after I seen was here this afternoon she said 'Hush, dear.'"

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scraggy. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light, airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.

CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND

DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a

and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a featherweight fac-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

ROYAL NAVY CUSTOMS

ONE OF THEM DATES BACK BEFORE THE DAYS OF DRAKE.

Senior Officer Must Always Enter a Boat Last and Leave It First—The Scran Bag and Its Contents—Admiralty Lords More Generous Now In Replenishing It Than Formerly—Some Quaint Rules.

In the British navy, to say that a thing is a custom of the service is to say that it must be done that way and no other.

It is nowhere laid down, for instance, that the senior officer shall always enter a boat last and leave it first; but the expression on a certain captain's face might have led one to believe that one of the laws of the Medes and Persians had been broken when, on taking the newly-joined chaplain ashore with him on one occasion, he said, "Now then, padre, jump in," and the reverend gentleman politely replied, "After you, sir."

This custom is one of the oldest in the service, says The Grand Magazine. It doubtless dates from before the days of Drake, if not, indeed, from those of Noah himself, probably the last to enter the Ark after all his juniors and proteges had been safely embarked.

The gunroom mess consists of the sub-lieutenants, all other commissioned officers of equivalent rank and all midshipmen and cadets. Midshipmen are divided into two lots, "senior" and "junior." The former are over 18 years of age, and are allowed many privileges, such as smoking and so on, denied to the juniors.

As a specimen of the customs which remind the juniors that they are still in bondage, the one known as "Fork in the Beam" is worth notice. It may be sprung upon its victims at any time during or after dinner.

When the president of the mess sticks a table fork into one of the beams overhead it is a signal for all juniors to clear out of the mess as fast as legs, arms or anything else can carry them. The last out receives several good whacks with a dirk scabbard on the most convenient part of his body as he disappears through the door. The scramble that results would disturb the equilibrium of most older and more sedate diners than those usually found in a gunroom.

The Scran Bag.

One of the most important and best known institutions in the service is the scran bag. It is well known that the allowance of paint and materials for keeping a ship clean, as laid down by the British Admiralty, is quite inadequate for that purpose. My Lords are much more generous nowadays than they used to be, but the first lieutenant or commander has still to put his hand in his pocket if he wishes his ship to look really smart.

The small supply of these necessities which the Admiralty provides for cleaning brasswork, etc., is augmented from the takings of the scran bag. A ship must be spick and span and tidy as any housewife could wish to see her home.

Nothing must be out of place, and nothing must be left lying about; but sailors, like other mortals, are only human, and, consequently, leave articles of clothing and personal property in places where they ought not to. This is an offence for which they are liable to disciplinary punishment; but a brilliant, though unknown, officer many years ago devised a scheme by which all the articles thus found are promptly seized by the ship's police and placed in the scran bag.

There they remain until the next Thursday afternoon, which is the time set aside for men to make and mend clothes. The bag is then opened by the master-at-arms, and the owners may redeem their lost property by paying a fine of an inch of yellow soap for each article.

The price of this soap is a penny an inch, and the fine is usually paid in cash, not in kind.

Some Quaint Rules.

Several quaint rules are enforced in the officers' messes, the origins of which are lost in the oblivion of antiquity. For instance, one rule lays down that no officer may place his feet on the table unless he has sailed around both capes—i.e., Cape of Good Hope and the Horn. Any one not eligible found in this elegant attitude is fined drinks around by all the members who happen to be in the mess.

The same penalty is enforced if an officer happens to unsheath his sword in the mess. It is very difficult to see why this should be regarded as an offence, unless that in olden days, when times were harder and men rougher, swords were sometimes drawn in earnest among officers.

One sometimes hears one officer remark to another: "I say, So-and-so, your sword looked pretty rusty at divisions." Thereupon, perhaps, the unsuspecting victim draws the maligned weapon to prove its cleanliness, only to be greeted with a shout for drinks.

If any one mentions a lady's name, or makes a bet at dinner before the King's health has been drunk he is liable to be called on by the president to pay for a round of port at dessert.

When an admiral or captain comes on board a ship he is piped over the side; that is to say, as the boat comes alongside a boatswain's mate gives forth a shrill crescendo pipe and repeats it as the officer steps on to the quarter deck, every one present saluting at the same time. The origin of this is to be found in the privilege which all officers of a certain rank enjoyed many years ago of being hoisted on board in a chair slung from the main yard of the old three deckers. The sacredness of the quarter deck is well known to all; no person in His Majesty's navy goes on to it without saluting—be he the humblest boy or an admiral of the fleet.

False Economy.

There is a vast difference between the economy which administers wisely and that niggardly economy which saves for the sake of saving and spends a dime's worth of time to save a penny. I have never known a man who overestimated the importance of saving pennies to do things which belong to large minds.—Success Magazine.

CATCHING BIRDS IN NETS.

Method Employed Along the Coast Lands of England.

In various parts of the country flight nets are used on certain parts of the coast for taking birds during the nighttime, but those at Friskney, on the Wash, in Lincolnshire, have become famous on account of their size and the quantity of birds that are taken in them.

On this particular portion of the coast, says The London Daily Graphic, the tide goes out for a very long way. Next to the big sea bank, which prevents the surrounding country from being flooded, there is a large marsh intersected with dykes, and covered with glass wort, which is locally known as samphire; next to this is a big stretch of sand, and following this a vast mud flat, famous for its cockles. There are several men there who work flight nets—George Braw, the old wildfowler, has four of the longest, consisting of eleven lengths, each length of net being 36 yards long and about six feet deep, made of fine, strong black cotton twine, with a mash six inches square. Along the top and bottom of the net runs a thin strong cord, to attach it to a strong ash pole, which is placed at every 37 yards distance. The lower running cord is attached to the pole about two feet from the ground, so that there is plenty of slack. If it were placed at its full stretch the birds in striking would often be thrown back and escape, instead of being curled up in a hopeless tangle. The best time to catch the wildfowl is on what are known as the "darks,"—that is, dark, stormy nights with high tides, and the wind blowing north and northeast. Quiet moonlight nights are bad, as the birds flying low, see the net and avoid the snare by rising over the top of it. Of course with so large a mesh many small birds pass through without being caught, and, being of thin twine, often when a large bunch of ducks or geese strike it, they go clean through it, leaving nothing but a big rent in the net and a few feathers to tell the tale. The writer has seen various ducks and gulls, woodcock, snipe, plover, owls, and many different species, both large and small caught in the toils. One has to visit the net at daybreak to take out the spoil, otherwise the gulls and the grey-backed crows make very short work of the poor captives.

In netting the ubiquitous and destructive sparrow all that is needed is a special sparrow net, pocketed on two long, thin poles. The ivy on the house sides and walls and the stacks in the farmyards are worked all over by raising the net as high as possible, clapping it on to the wall or stack, and then drawing it gradually downward. The birds, as they are disturbed, fly out into the toils. Several scores of birds may be captured in an evening.

The number of persons killed in India in 1905 by wild beasts was 2,054, as against 2,157 in the previous year, and the number of deaths reported from snake bite (21,797) is also a little smaller than that of 1904.

A feature of the 1905 returns is the increase in the number of deaths, both of human beings and cattle, attributed to leopards. It is suggested by a writer in Baily's Magazine that these beasts seek their prey more readily than they used to do in the neighborhood of villages. The fact that more licenses to possess firearms were held in 1905 than in the previous year may be noticed; but it has long been recognized that it is impossible to discover any relation between the number of firearms in native hands and the number of deaths from wild beasts.

During 1905 more dangerous wild beasts were killed than in 1904. The official figures are: Tigers, 1,355; leopards, 4,811; bears, 2,236; wolves, 2,016; and hyenas, 554. Well known man-eating tigers were killed in several districts. A regular crusade against wolves has been carried on in parts of the Central Provinces where these brutes are most numerous and most troublesome.

To the success of the campaign no doubt may be attributed the great decrease in the number of persons killed by wolves—in 1904 244, in 1905 only 153. Before dismissing this subject it is worth noting that the Bengal Government in September last offered a special reward of Rs. 200 for a man-eating tiger which killed seven persons last year in Goilkera Forest, Singhbum district. The ordinary reward for a tiger is Rs. 40.

Story of Dr. Guthrie.

The keenness of the Scotsman's grip on siller—says the Glasgow Evening News—is seldom used as a text upon which to base a few remarks, as was done in an exceedingly pawky manner by Mr. Guthrie at the opening of the Springbank U. F. Church bazaar. This well-known banker possesses much of the charming humor that was characteristic of his father, the late Rev. Dr. Guthrie. On one occasion, he related, he was sitting at a coroner's inquest at Liverpool, where an enquiry was taking place into the circumstances attending the death by drowning of a man in the Mersey. The body had been recovered by a Scotsman, and the judge asked him if he did nothing to resuscitate the body. Being a Scotsman (Mr. Guthrie said) the witness at once emitted a stentorian "Eh." The question was repeated, and then its purport seemed to dawn on the exile, as he instantly responded, "Aye, I searched his pockets!"

Poison In Fodder Plants.

Mysterious poisonings that occur occasionally in farm stock have been traced recently to the development of prussic acid in fodder plants. Dr. J. W. Leather in India has found that green jowari (Andropogum sorghum), flax, the Rangun and certain other beans and the tapioca plant contain glucosides that produce prussic acid when acted upon by a particular enzyme and that this ferment becomes active only under rare conditions, when the ordinarily wholesome plants become suddenly poisonous.

Croup can positively be stopped in 30 minutes. No vomiting—nothing to sicken or distress your child. A sweet, pleasant, and safe Syrup, called Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure, does the work and does it quickly. Dr. Shoop's Croup Cure is for Croup alone, remember. It does not claim to cure a dozen ailments. It's for Croup, that's all said by J. D. Tully.

This Company owns FIVE MINING CLAIMS containing 160 ACRES, all of which are under active development and heavily mineralized, as follows:

1 claim, 40 acres, Bucke Township, showing 4 veins, shaft 20 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Coleman Township, showing 3 veins, shaft 50 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Portage Bay District, showing 6 veins, shaft and 500 feet of vein uncovered.
2 claims, 80 acres, Anima-Nipissing district, showing 5 veins, shaft and vein uncovered across entire eighty acres.

A recent assay on Anima-Nipissing claims, taken from 3-foot level, show 148 oz. of silver to a ton.

The company own TOWNSITE OF NORTH COBALT, containing 600 ACRES, divided into 4,000 lots beautifully situated on shore of Lake Temiskaming. Building operations are active. SILVER DEPOSITS LOCATED and being developed.

A syndicate has been formed to build a $100,000 HOTEL ON THIS TOWNSITE.

We anticipate that within 2 years a city of 25,000 people will be located on this property and neighboring shores.

"Cobalt has the richest and most easily mined ore in the world. The average value of all the millions of ore mined in Coleman Township is over $700 per ton. The Government system of inspection throws a safeguard around the companies operating in the camp. It gives the investor greater protection than he ever had in any other mining camp.

"Cobalt is a long way past the experimental stage. It is recognized everywhere as the camp without a loss. It has positively made good and is today making greater profits for the investor than any other mining camp in existence."

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 40 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mingralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 6 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1281-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

THE PETERBOROUGH MORNING TIMES

Developments in the last few days are reported by the press and verified by the company's officers, again attract public attention to the famous Sunburst Mines—having added 320 acres of rich lead and zinc land in the heart of the world's richest producing district to original holdings, the Sunburst Company has ordered the permanent equipment of shaft No. 3.

WORK BEGINS ON THE SUNBURST MINES

Machinery being installed and work on No. 3 shaft immediately resumed. Drifting being pushed to connect the No. 2 and No. 3 shafts, which, according to the drilling, will open up immense bodies of ore for the full distance, which is about 500 feet. The Eastman Development Co.'s White Eagle Mill, which was started within the last 60 days, is now producing some eight to ten tons of zinc ore per shift—being the record breaker of the district so far. This property is immediately to the northwest of the Sunburst property. The Clarissa, to the southwest, has made a phenomenal strike in the last week. The opportunity to share in this wonderful fortune making is now presented by the development of the Sunburst property. Millions will be taken out of this district in 1907, and shrewd investors are now seizing their opportunity to reap a golden harvest from the vast mineral wealth the Baxter Springs Camp. Many properties are now returning from 21 to 120 per cent. dividends on the investment.

IMMENSE ORE BODIES PROVEN UP

The Sunburst Mining Company now owns a vast property in Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory, generally known as the Baxter Springs District. The history of the company is well known to the public. The great richness has long been admitted. New development work proves the most sanguine expectations. The Baxter Springs News of December 6, 1906, says:

"The Sunburst is showing up some mighty big ore the past week. J. C. Bryner, who is doing the development work, brought in samples of his latest ore taken out of shaft No. 3, and it certainly shows up fine. This shaft now has 30 feet of drifting to the south, showing rich ore all the way, and the deposit encountered the past week is the same as the Hobo mine is cutting in its north drifts, which are only eighty feet to the south, and which are being driven north to connect with this south drift of the Sunburst. The Indiana, just to the west, is showing up remarkably rich lead and jack in its east drift. Gatlin is encountering the same to the east and north, thus demonstrating that immense ore deposit covers the Ayers-Sloan, White Eagle, Western Mining Co.'s Omaha, Winner, Good Luck, Hobo, Gatlin, Indiana and Sunburst leases, all of which are within a radius of a few hundred feet of each other. This is the richest deposit yet opened up, and while this is a fact it is owing to the intense development in this particular section of the camp, which is paying up the drillings which have been made since the camp started."

This immense rich property lies four miles from Baxter Springs, Kansas, and is just across the state line in the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory. All around and immediately adjoining this property are gold producing mines with fine mills, which are making their owners rich. Just southwest is the mill owned by the Whitneys of New York. On every side we are surrounded by producing mines, operating in ore bodies that run in to and through our section, and from the reports of experts and engineers are actually richer and nearer the surface here than in any other place in the district. The formation consists of a blanket deposit of mineral of the richest quality, from 15 to 30 feet in thickness, lying at a depth of from 57 feet to 74 feet, thus making it very easy and inexpensive to mine.

Thousands of dollars were expended in drilling holes and sinking shafts to prove not only the existence in paying quantities of lead and zinc, but also the unusual richness of the ore. The drilling and shaft sinking have demonstrated a uniform bed of ore over the entire acreage of 15 to 30 feet in thickness, and found only 57 feet under the surface. The water is only sufficient to wash the ore while milling. This is an important point, as in many lead and zinc mines the superabundance of water is a very dangerous factor. The ore is found between well-defined flat beds of limestone, which allows of the ore being taken out without the use of any timbers whatever, pillars of ore being allowed to support the roof, which is true permanently safe.

The Same Ore Body That Makes Others Rich

No other district can produce so many rich mines in so small an area as this portion of the Baxter Springs Camp. Look at the map and you will see how the Sunburst holdings are the very heart of this section. To the north are the Dark Horse, Isley, Tipton, Magazka, all well-known properties. To the west are the Sunnyside (the oldest mill in camp), White Eagle, Indiana, Ayers and Sloan. To the south, the famous Hobo (the richest mine ever opened in the district, which has drifted to the south line of the Sunburst in extremely high-grade ore). The ore milled last week by the Hobo ran 10 per cent. In three months 500,000 pounds of rich ore was taken out by the Hobo. This mine is 1% feet from our property and is in the same ore bed. Shaft No. 3 is only 70 feet from the Hobo north drift, with the same bed of ore. The drilling shows this bed to run across the entire Sunburst property. Shaft No. 2 is 400 feet from the northeast drift of the Hobo and is into the same ore bed.

To the south are also the Omaha Mines and Mill and the Good Luck Mine, where the lead has proven to be so heavy. On these properties mills are erected and extremely rich ore extracted, making great returns for the owners.

MAP OF DISTRICT SHOWING SUNBURST MINE.

Property of Fabulous Wealth

HEMMED IN BY PRODUCING MINES

Thousands of dollars expended on shafts and development work show ore runs from 8 to 12 per cent—while a yield of 4 per cent. in Center Creek Mine has produced nearly $7,000,000

The increasing demand for lead and zinc is too obvious to need detailed statement. Both metals are in steady demand and at steadily advancing prices. The prices have gone up since 1899 from $31.72 per ton for lead and $36.51 for zinc to $82.00 for lead and $45.00 for zinc. The lead and zinc industry is now right at the front in the great commercial enterprises of the country. This southwestern district produces 30 per cent. of the zinc produced in the United States.

The earning capacity of the Sunburst's property, handling ore that averages from 8 to 10 per cent. can be estimated from the production of other companies. The Center Creek Mining Company, of Webb City, Mo., from an 80-acre tract, has taken out nearly $7,000,000 and is still producing.

The report for the year 1901 shows the following production during that year from the several properties mentioned:

	Acres.	Value.
American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co.	4000	$ 767,169.00
A. W. Taylor	180	159,758.00
J. W. Aylor	40	676,671.00
The Burgner Mining Co.	80	178,570.00
Center Creek Mining Co. (production to date)	200	6,962,194.00
Mrs. E. J. Chinn	120	234,799.00
Majestic Consolidated Zinc & Lead Co.	82	234,190.00
Continental Zinc Co. (production to date)	200	1,675,583.00
Consolidated Troup Mining Co.	40	194,613.00
Daughtery-Davy-McMillan Estate	60	465,000.00
The Empire Zinc Co.	451	120,319.00
Fox Heirs	20	120,124.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1905		1,281,551.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1906		1,025,650.00
John G. Quinn	640	82,857.00
Pittsburg-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co.	10	98,000.00
Pittsburg-Missouri Zinc & Lead Co.	170	413,261.00
United Zinc Co.	136	390,376.00

From these figures it can be seen readily how such large dividends are paid. The Dinger Co. pays 120 per cent., the Chapman 120 per cent., the Omega 117 per cent., and many others yield enormous returns.

SHAFT NO. THREE.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF PROPERTY.

ADVANCE IN PRICE

On account of the additional holdings, which are of great intrinsic value, as well as the remarkable proof of richness afforded by the development work already begun, the price of Sunburst stock will not remain long at the present figure.

Every step forward in the workings of the company is attracting wide attention, and is justifying the most liberal expectations.

As this work goes on Sunburst stock is bound to increase in value, as it is bound to be a mighty source of profit. The public demand because of the public confidence in this great property has already absorbed thousands of shares and has steadily advanced the price, but this advance will be small in comparison to what is coming.

The shrewd investor will realize this opportunity now, and will buy before the next big advance.

Buy now and share pro rata in the demonstrated profits of this enterprise. Make your reservation for as many shares as you may desire at the present price, remit 10 per cent. of the full price for the block and send us the balance in nine monthly payments. Upon the completion of your payments your certificate will be sent you for the desired number of shares, fully paid and non-assessable, no matter how much the price of stock may have advanced during that time.

You will thus become a stockholder in this company on equal terms with all the other stockholders, and by payments so small as to be hardly noticed.

The tremendous advantage to the small investor through this plan of payment must be apparent at a glance. By subscribing, for instance, $800 now and remitting only $8.00, you will obtain the whole block subscribed for at the present low price, and receive the full advantage of every advance on the whole $80.00 worth, although your first payment is but $8.00.

You really invest $8.00 and get all the benefit of an investment of $80.00. Could anything be fairer?

In order to secure the benefit of this offer it will be necessary for you to make your reservation at once, with the understanding that you will be entirely free to withdraw it if further investigation fails to convince you of the merits of the stock.

The officers of this company, who have the handling of your money, the conduct of the mine, and paying of dividends, are stockholders like any other.

What is more, they are well-known and successful business men. Look them up. Investigate their standing, their acumen, their integrity.

This is a business proposition. Here are business men conducting it. They invite your investigation.

Why Stock is Now Offered at 8c a Share

This issue of fully paid and non-assessable stock is for the purpose of procuring immediate funds to build a concentrating mill, equip the plant with hoisting machinery, and continue development work and put day and night shifts to work—in a word, to apply to this immensely rich property the same development that is resulting everywhere around us in paying great dividends and enormously enhancing the value of the property. Have you ever heard of a failure in a true lead and zinc mine? Have you not heard on the contrary of the fortunes taken out right in this district, not by one, but practically by all mining plants in the last few years? Have you ever had the opportunity to get in on the ground floor of such an investment? At this price the immense profits simply depend on this: Are the facts such as we have stated? Now, this we prove in detail—we will even arrange to take you to the mine—we refer you to any of the reports on this property—to banks—to engineers—to the evidence of surrounding properties; we lay the proposition before your business judgment, with the full appreciation that you owe it to yourself to investigate this simply as an investment in a commercial enterprise.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

In compliance with the request of the officers and stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., a detailed examination of the property was made October 1, 1906, by M. S. Parker, the well-known mining engineer and member American Society C. E. Excerpts from Mr. Parker's report follow:

The Sunburst Mine is located in the southeast corner of Section 29, Township 29, Range 24, east of the Indian Meridian, in the Quapaw Reserve, Indian Territory. It is joined on the south by half its width by the famous Hobo Mine, which produces the richest lead and zinc ore of any mine in the district thus far developed, and prospect drill holes and shafts north of the Hobo, on the Sunburst, show the same grade of ore, and at the same depth and of the same thickness.

The Omaha Mine, which is now successfully operating a new 150-ton mill, also adjoins the Sunburst on the south, and have drilled along their north boundary, striking the same body of ore as developed by prospecting over the line on the Sunburst.

The Hobo and Omaha Mines on the south, have been prospected along the line of the Sunburst by drill holes and the present working shafts and drifts, which verifies the results of the prospecting done on the Sunburst Mine, north of the south boundary of the Sunburst.

FORMATION.

This mine comes under the blanket formation class. Out of the last eleven holes drilled, only two holes were barren of lead or zinc ore, most of them showing lead and zinc ore in paying quantities, while some of the holes drilled showed very rich deposits of lead and zinc.

One of the drill holes on the Hobo Mine showed very rich cuttings; within a foot of this hole was a blank spot 50 feet in diameter. The shaft of the Hobo Mine was sunk within 8 feet of a drill hole showing a very rich zinc ore, and went down through such a spot—no zinc ore being encountered—within a foot of the shaft walls very rich zinc and lead ore was found.

The thickness of the ore body, as shown by the drill holes, is from 15 to 30 feet. Ore is struck in shaft No. 3 at 57 feet depth, and the shaft is still in the ore at 74 feet. The drill cuttings at this shaft showed ore down to 91 feet depth. From all the drill holes this depth, viz., 91 feet appears to be the floor or bottom of the ore body, and is very uniform. The roof, however, varies in depth from the surface, 57 feet being the nearest it comes to the surface, while at places it is shown to drop down to 80 feet in depth, but the average depth to roof is very close to 66 feet. This would indicate an average thickness of the ore body of about 25 feet.

Three shafts have been sunk. No. 1 shaft, 5 1-2 by 8 feet, is down 88 feet, well timbered, and has good shafthouse and derrick. From this shaft prospect drifts have been driven, in all about 200 linear feet, mostly in lead-bearing ground. A small office building is near this shaft.

Shaft No. 2, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 90 feet, well timbered, with shafthouse, derrick and boilerhouse in good repair. From this shaft a drift is driven north 70 feet, then west 50 feet. Head of west drift is in good ore. The face of this drift is in zinc ore, while the bottom is in rich lead ore. This shaft should go down to 90 feet depth. This will give a 20-foot face of ore.

Shaft No. 3, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 75 feet, well timbered—a first-class shaft. No buildings on it. A short drift is running south in good zinc ore. The bottom of this shaft is in good lead ore. These three shafts, with 18 drill holes, constitute the present development of the mine.

The Sunburst is located within four miles of the Frisco Railway, Baxter and Quapaw stations being about equally distant from the mine. A road is projected from Baxter to Miami that will run within a quarter of a mile of the mine. This road is to be a freight and passenger electric road for the accommodation of the mines.

Baxter Springs business men have subscribed $25,000 toward the building of this line, and every assurance is given that the road will soon be constructed. This will make transportation of fuel and mine products materially cheaper than at present, although the cost under present conditions is not heavy.

It is needless to say that work at the Sunburst can be carried on the year round, the climate in this section being so mild in winter that very little trouble is experienced in mining operations in the Quapaw Reserve.

Summing up the points in this report, I will say that you have a first-class lead and zinc property. Rarely will one find a tract of ground so universally mineralized as the Sunburst Mine. If you follow the recommendations I have made regarding development, I feel assured you will reap your reward in good dividends. Trusting that this report will meet with the approval of the President and Stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., I subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours,
M. S. PARKER.

As an investment proposition we believe that the Sunburst Mine will certainly pay no less than 25 per cent. We quote from other reliable sources the following figures showing the enormous annual dividends earned by lead and zinc mines in the Southwest field:

Oscoela Mining Co.	54 per cent.	Kaiydid Mining Co.	50 per cent.
Cottonwood Mining Co.	75 per cent.	Mocking Bird Mining Co.	54 per cent.
Waddell Zinc Co.	47 per cent.	John Jackson Mining Co.	60 per cent.
Conqueror Lead and Zinc Co.	70 per cent.	Omega Mining Co.	117 per cent.
Hudson Mining Co.	38 per cent.	Dinger Mining Co.	120 per cent.
B. & H Mining Co.	40 per cent.	Chapman Mining Co.	120 per cent.
		Underwriters' Land Co.	60 per cent.

Buy Stock on Easy Payment Plan

A rise in the price of these shares to par means over 1200 per cent. for every $1 invested—besides the dividends.

Subscriptions will be accepted for 100 shares and upward, either by cash in full, with reservation, or by 10 per cent. down and 10 per cent. monthly for 9 months.

The cost is the same either way, but by the installment plan you can reserve a much larger block of stock, and when the price advances, as it will immediately on disposal of this block of stock, you can reap the immediate profit.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive, upon request, certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 8 cents per share, par value, $1.00.

A few dollars will start you. Read the following table, then act promptly:

$16.00 buys 200 shares of stock; $1.60 down, $1.60 a month for 9 months.

Press Reports Rich Strike by Sunburst Mining Company

From the Baxter Springs News, of November 8, 1906.

One of the richest strikes made in the Baxter Springs mining camp, south of this city, for some time past, was that made by the Sunburst Mining Co., operating on one of their properties just east of the Sunnyside and north of the Hobo. The Sunburst Co. have three shafts in ore, with a limited amount of drifting done, and this strike was made in No. 1 shaft, and apparently in the Hobo run of ore, which has always been considered one of the very best in the Quapaw reservation. The farther this run of ore is developed the richer it is showing.

The Sunburst Mining Co. also has made a very important deal the past week by purchasing from the Great Northern Mining Company 80 acres of leases one mile east of the Johanna, less than one mile southeast of the new rich strike made by the Irish Maid, and about two miles west of Monkey Hill, where the most famous lead strike was made ever encountered anywhere in the southwest. The Monkey Hill strike showed as much as 25 inches of solid lead of the very highest grade. The Great Northern, which is one of the largest holders of the best leases in this camp, made this sale the past week.

The purchase of this large tract of land by the Sunburst crowd means important developments in that section in addition to those already made, and, following on the heels of the rich lead strike made on the Charley Blackjacket land to the north of the tract and the purchase by a syndicate of Minnesota iron men, will cause an unusual amount of activity in that part of the camp.

The Sunburst Mining Co. will also start drifting their No. 1 shaft on the tract east of the Sunnyside to encounter the rich strike made to the north of it in the Isley mine. The Isley has encountered ore which will undoubtedly yield all the way from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. The strike was made near the north line of the Sunburst tract.

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Pericles' and 'Independent,' and personally took 50 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President.

Murder to Order.

Several years ago an affray in a western mining town resulted in murder, but Senator Thurston of Nebraska, believing the man who was accused to have had an innocent intention, took up his case and had the punishment lightened. Six months afterward a man, armed to the teeth, appeared in the senator's office.

"Are you Squire Thurston?" he roared.

"Yes," said the senator.

"And are you the fellow that helped Jack Hurley at court?"

The senator, thinking his time had come, again answered, "Yes."

"Well," said the man with the guns and bowie knives, "I'm Hurley's pardner, an' I've come to pay you. I haven't any money, but I'm a man of honor. Anybody in town you don't like?"

The senator assured him there was not, but the man looked incredulous and said: "Put on your hat, squire, an' take a walk down the street with me. See anybody you don't like just throw up your thumb, an' I'll pop him."—New York Tribune.

When It Failed to Work.

There is at present serving a term in the penitentiary at Moundsville a former official of the postoffice department convicted of "graft" on many counts. The delinquent in question had always been most friendly with the Washington newspaper correspondents, and when he was arrested and lodged in jail at the national capital there was a rush of the newspaper men to the jail, they being confident of securing an interview.

The accused, however, refused to be seen, and his message to them was most characteristic:

"Tell them," said he to the warden "that I am not in."—Ridgway's.

The Terrors of Indigestion.

A squire of Andover decided to take into his employ a brother of Patrick, one of his hired men. The terms were made with Pat before his brother's arrival, and the following conversation is a specimen of what they agreed upon:

Squire—I'll pay your brother $1.50 a day, Patrick.

Patrick—Yis, sor; yis, sor. And will he ate himself or will ye ate him?

The squire thought Mike had better eat himself.—Harper's Weekly.

Just Like a Woman.

What sex is a motor car? Should it be spoken of as he, she or it? For instance, a man was overheard in a hotel dining room saying to his companion, a woman, "Yes, she's a forty horse-power Walter car." The woman at once protested against his speaking of the Walter as "she." Then he told her that it had a bonnet worth $50, and she quit arguing.—Jervis Auto Letter.

"Hiram Jefferson and John Moreton, to the pumps!" cried the captain. "Mr. Toulinson, clear away the longboat and let us see if we may get her right!"

"The longboat has stove two planks!" cried a seaman.

"The jolly boat, then!"

"She is in three pieces."

"Where is Amos Green?"

"Here, Captain Ephraim. What can I do?"

"And I?" asked De Catinat eagerly.

Adele and her father had been wrapped in mantles and placed for shelter in the lee of the roundhouse.

"Tell him that he can take his spell at the pumps," said the captain to Amos. "And you, Amos, you are a handy man with a tool. Get into yonder longboat with a lantern."

For half an hour Amos Green hammered and trimmed and caulked.

"You've not much time, Amos lad," said the captain quietly.

"She'll float now, though she's not quite water-tight."

"Very good. Lower away. Keep up the pumping there. Mr. Tomlinson, see that provisions and water are ready, as much as she will hold. Come with me, Hiram Jefferson."

The seaman and the captain swung themselves down into the tossing boat, the latter with a lantern strapped to his waist. Together they made their way until they were under her mangled bows. The captain shook his head when he saw the extent of the damage. "Cut away the foresail and pass it over," said he.

Tomlinson and Amos Green cut away the lashings with their knives and lowered the corner of the sail. Captain Ephraim and the seaman seized it and dragged it across the mouth of the huge gaping leak. "How much in the well?" he asked.

"Five and a half feet."

"Then the ship is lost. I could put my finger between her planks as far as I can see back. Keep the pumps going there! Have you the food and water, Mr. Tomlinson?"

"Here, sir."

"Lower them over the bows. This boat cannot live more than an hour or two. Can you see anything of the berg?"

The mist had thinned away suddenly, and the moon glimmered through once more upon the great lonely sea and the stricken ship. There, like a huge sail, was the monster piece of ice upon which they had shattered themselves.

"You must make for her," said Captain Ephraim. "There is no other chance. Lower the gal over the bows. Well, then, her father first, if she likes it better. Tell them to sit still, Amos, and that the Lord will bear us up if we keep clear of foolishness. So! You're a brave lass for all your nimmy pimmy lingo. Now the keg and the barrel and all the wraps and cloaks you can find; now the other man, the Frenchman. Aye, aye, passengers first, and you have got to come! Now Amos, now the seamen, and you last, friend Tomlinson."

It was well that they had not very far to go, for the boat was weighted down almost to the edge, and it took the bailing of two men to keep in check the water which leaked in between the shattered planks. When all were safely in their places Captain Ephraim Savage swung himself aboard again, which was but too easy now that every minute brought the bows nearer to the water. He came back with a bundle of clothing, which he threw into the boat. "Push off!" he cried.

"Jump in, then."

"Ephraim Savage goes down with his ship," said he quietly. "Friend Tomlinson, it is not my way to give my orders more than once. Push off, I say!"

The mate thrust her out with a boat hook. Amos Green and De Catinat gave a cry of dismay, but the stolid New Englanders settled down to their oars and pulled off.

"The boat leaks like a sieve," said the mate. "I will take her to the berg, leave you all there if we can find footing and go back for the captain."

But they had not taken fifty strokes before Adele gave a sudden scream. "My God!" she cried. "The ship is going down!"

She had settled lower and lower in the water, and suddenly, with a sound of rending planks, she thrust down her bows like a diving waterfowl, her stern flew up into the air, and with a long sucking noise she shot down swifter and swifter, until the leaping waves closed over her high poop lantern. With one impulse the boat swept round again and made backward as fast as willing arms could pull it. But all was quiet at the scene of the disaster. Not even a fragment of wreckage was left upon the surface to show where the Golden Rod had found her last harbor. For a long quarter of an hour they pulled round and round in the moonlight, but no glimpse could they see of the Puritan seaman, and at last, when in spite of the bailers the water was washing round their ankles, they put her head about once more and made their way in silence and with heavy hearts to their dreary island of refuge.

Desolate as it was, it was their only hope now, for the lead was increasing, and it was evident that the boat could not be kept afloat long.

The cliff which faced them was precipitous, and it glimmered and sparkled all over where the silver light fell upon the thousand facets of ice. Right in the center, however, on a level with the water's edge, there was what appeared to be a huge hollowed out cave, which marked the spot where the Golden Rod had, in shattering herself, dislodged a huge bowlder, and so, amid her own ruin, prepared a refuge for those who had trusted themselves to her. This cavern was of the richest emerald green, light and clear at the edges, but fading away into the deepest purples and blues at the back. But it was not the beauty of this grotto, nor was it the assurance of rescue, which brought a cry of joy and of wonder from every lip, but it was that, seated upon an ice bowlder and placidly smoking a long cornecob pipe, there was perched in front of them no less a person than Captain Ephraim Savage of Boston.

"Friend Tomlinson," said he, "when I tell you to row for an iceberg I mean you to row right away there, d'ye see, and not to go philandering about over the ocean. It's not your fault that I'm not froze, and so I would have been if I hadn't some dry tobacco and my tinder box to keep myself warm."

Without stopping to answer his commander's reproaches the mate headed for the ledge, which had been cut for a slope by the bow of the brigantine, so that the boat was run up easily on to the ice. Captain Ephraim seized his dry clothes and vanished into the back of the cave, to return presently warmer in body and more contented in mind. The longboat had been turned upside down for a seat, the gratings and thwarts taken out and covered with wraps to make a couch for the lady, and the head knocked out of the keg of biscuits.

"We were much frightened for you, Ephraim," said Amos Green. "I had a heavy heart this night when I thought that I should never see you more."

"Tut, Amos; you should have known me better."

"But how came you here, captain?" asked Tomlinson. "I thought that maybe you had been taken down by the suck of the ship."

"And so I was. It is the third ship in which I have gone down, but they have never kept me down yet. I went deeper tonight than when the Speedwell sank, but not so deep as in the Governor Winthrop. When I came up I swam to the berg, found this nook and crawled in. Glad I was to see you, for I feared that you had foundered."

Seated upon an ice bowlder and placidly smoking a long cornecob pipe.

"We put back to pick you up, and we passed you in the darkness. And what should we do now?"

"Rig up that boat sail and make quarters for the gal, then get our supper and such rest as we can, for there is nothing to be done tonight."

In the morning Amos Green was aroused by a hand upon his shoulder and, springing to his feet, found De Catinat standing beside him. The latter's face was grave, and his friend read danger in his eyes.

"What is it, then?"

"The berg. It is coming to pieces. I have been watching it. You see that crack which extends backward from the end of our grotto? Two hours ago I could scarce put my hand into it. Now I can slip through it with ease."

Amos Green walked to the end of the funnel shaped recess and found, as his friend had said, that a green sinuous crack extended away backward into the iceberg, caused either by the tossing of the waves or by the terrific impact of their vessel. He roused Captain Ephraim and pointed out the danger to him.

"Well, if she springs a leak we are gone," said he. "She's been thawing pretty fast as it is."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

PIMPLES

Facial Blemishes, Blackheads, Eruptions.

They Have One Common Cause An Impure Condition of the Blood.

Make the blood normal and you cure the pimples.

But unless elimination is perfect the blood can't be normal, can't be anything but foul.

In elimination nothing plays a more important part than the skin, and if it gets too much work it becomes diseased, and illiples, blotches and eruptions are the result.

Not a bit of use to try external applications. The fountain of life, the blood, must be purified.

More than that, the blood must be supplied with the elements necessary to furnish the organs with increased power to do their work.

Ferrozone supplies exactly these constituents, and it does more.

It stimulates through the nervous system all the eliminative functions of the body.

By stimulating the kidneys and liver the skin is relieved of an excessive work, and it soon resumes its normal mode of action.

Ferrozone destroys the poisons in the blood, gives it new and rich material through the thorough digestion of food.

The skin resumes its normal, rich color.

Every vestige of blotch, pimple or eruption then disappears.

You see then that Ferrozone is not only a blood purifier, but a blood fortifier, and when your blood is pure and strong, not only will the skin be freed from blemishes and pimples, but the whole body will be rejuvenated and fortified, and given the power of endurance, vim, the natural outcome of health. Ferrozone is sold by all dealers in 50c. boxes.

Little Girl's Narrow Escape

What might have proven to be a serious warning to children who "hang on" to passing sleighs, was in evidence yesterday at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets. It seems a little girl who was taking ride on a passing sleigh, at the spot named, jumped off, and was before the driver could prevent it, run over by a swiftly following coal-sleigh. The team and coal sleigh passed over the child, who providentially was not hurt in the least.

S.O.E. Banquet Was Appreciated

Yesterday, Mr. James Head, proprietor of the Peterborough House, where as noted in a former issue, the recent Sons of England banquet was held, received the following letter which sufficiently explains itself. The letter ran as follows:

Dear Brother,—At the last regular meeting of Lansdowne Lodge, S. O.E., held Feb. 4th, a vote of thanks to yourself and wife for the efficient way in which you treated us at our banquet was moved, seconded, and carried unanimously and with enthusiasm. I have much pleasure in conveying the vote of thanks to you,

Swindler at Indian River

It seems that our country cousins bite at a con game as quickly as do those living in the cities.

Some nine months ago a Mr. Richard Graham came to Richard Carveth of Indian River as an apprentice, and became very popular with young people in the neighborhood. Graham, it is said, purchased a horse from a Mr. Smith, of Indian River for $140, giving in payment a cheque for $180. Mr. Smith handed Graham the $40 balance in cash. Graham on Feb. 14th., made himself scarce, and has not yet been located.

"WHISKY" COLD CURE

Danger of Using Alcoholic Mixtures or Coal Tar Tablets.

The most dangerous thing that one can do when affected with a cough or cold is to use a medicine that contains whisky or a tablet that is made of some coal tar product. Putting aside all moral objections to filling up with whisky or drugs because one has a cold, the injurious physical effect should be sufficient to keep one from using these strong medicines.

The most sensible as well as the only scientific way to treat a cough or cold is by inhaling medication that will kill the germs and give relief to the irritated mucous membrane in the nose, throat and lungs.

Among the few remedies that are used in this way, Hyomei stands pre-eminent. It is breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, and the first breath of its healing air relieves the irritation, and its continued use soon effects a thorough cure.

The best people in Peterborough always keep Hyomei at hand in the winter months, and at the first symptoms of a cold or bronchial trouble, use the remedy and prevent serious and lasting illness.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents. We do not want anyone's money unless Hyomei gives relief and cure, and we absolutely agree that money will be refunded unless the remedy gives satisfaction.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei, or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with a treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. Secretary Graham Asks for Fair Play

Secretary Graham of the Peterborough Hockey Club, yesterday sent to the secretary of the O.H.A. a statement of Peterborough's demand regarding the district championship going to Kingston without giving the locals a chance. Peterborough wants a game with the soldiers on neutral ice or home and home games.

A meeting of the O.H.A. Executive will be called and probably accede in Peterborough's very fair request.

Indian River Personals

Miss Lily Duff is spending a few days at home, after spending a course as trained nurse in Guelph hospital.

Miss Loreta Clancy, of Hastings, is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Devlin.

Miss May and Louisa Smith are visiting friends in Norwood.

Street Railroad Keeps Schedule

The heavy snowstorm of Wednesday night kept the Street Railway Company and their sweeper-car on the jump. However, yesterday, probably to forethought on the part of the manager, and deligent work done by the employes, little delay was caused to passengers. The cars runs almost on schedule time in the morning, and during the afternoon absolute time was made.

Something for the Shareholders

A Montreal despatch says that; "It is understood that there will be a considerable percentage left for the shareholders of the Ontario Bank when the affairs of that institution are finally liquidated. So far no estimate can be reached of what will be really saved, but it can be stated pretty authoritatively that there will be something left after the depositors and other claims are paid in full.

North-West Missions

George Huskin, agent and missionary of the International Evangelical and Colportage Mission, is making his 24th annual visit to Peterborough in behalf of the work of disseminating the Holy Scriptures and Scriptural literature. For more than 30 years he has been engaged in such work in the northern and western portions of the Ontario districts. Scriptures and books have been extensively supplied in 91 languages and 80 editions of booklets and tracts, in five languages have been supplied for the work, and the second part of the Ojibway and English dictionary, is now in course of publication, which will incur a cost of $600. The donations of Peterborough last year in behalf of the work was $36.50, which the missionary gratefully acknowledges. The depot is still at 262 King street east, Toronto, Ont.

The American Magazine for March

The American Magazine for March includes a new little play, "The Goal," by Henry Arthur Jones. Throughout the play, made joyful by his presence, there walks a great man of the world, seventy-five years old, who, on the day he died, preserved love of life, high respect for himself, and enthusiasm for larger achievement. When he died he died standing.

Miss Tarbell, whose history, of the tariff is one of the features of this notable periodical, relates in the present number the story of the tariff under Grant. Blaine, "Sunset" Cox, Horace Greeley, "Pig-iron" Kelley and Garfield are among the men introduced. Josephine Daskam Bacon's article on the servant problem is entitled, "We and Our Neighbors." Stanley Johnson describes "Athletics Among the Blind." Joseph Jacobs records the biography of the Mean or Middle American. The Interpreter presents what is really a graphic character study of President Roosevelt. David Grayson reports "An Argument With a Millionaire." The author of "Emmy Lou" writes another "Letitia" story, and F. Marion Crawford proceeds with his serial.

What Ray Stannard Baker is going to do with "The Riddle of the Negro" is fully announced.

Other contributors are George Randolph Chester, Sarah N. Cleghorn, Michael Williams, Witter Bynner and Jules Verne Des Volgnes.

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, both selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. A much better agent is used both for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz.—pure triple refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own being a most valuable anti-septic and anti-ferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heart-burn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Mr. Geo. Edmison's Sister Dead

County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday received the sad intelligence that his sister, Mrs. Theodore Hutton, had passed away in St. Mary's, Ont., where she had resided for about half a century. She was 77 years of age, and leaves a son, Mr. Fred Hutton, of St. Mary's, and a daughter, Mrs. Rumsey, relict of the late C. S. Rumsey, manager of the Traders' Bank, St. Mary's. The deceased, whose maiden name was Sarah Edmison, was born in Smith township, and was predeceased by her husband.

"THREE-FIFTHS CLAUSE CONTRARY TO JUSTICE"

Alliance Asks That This Clause of the Present Liquor Act be at Once Repealed---No Hasty Action, Says Premier Whitney.

Toronto, Feb. 23.—"Has in the equal the votes of three Christian men." Why the discinction? Was that the true spirit.

"I have been brought up to believe," declared the Prime Minister, "that the immortal souls of two barroom bums are valuable in the eyes of the Almighty."

Hon. Mr. Whitney frankly declared the Government did not purpose making any hasty change in the measure in question.

The above resolution was presented by a deputation of several hundred members of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, to Hon. J. P. Whitney, Premier, and Hon. W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary. The visitors were introduced by Mr. G. F. Marter.

Mr. Jos. Gibson, of Ingersoll, was the first speaker. He presented the resolution and closed with an earnest personal appeal.

"I am a simple, unlettered Englishman, with a family of boys," he declared, "and I appeal to you as such. For God's sake, for the home's sake, for the country's sake, give fair protection for the boys from the evils of the liquor traffic."

Rev. Mr. McAlpine, Presbyterian minister of Owen Sound, praised the Government for its enforcement of the liquor laws, but pleaded for an amendment to the clause in question.

Mrs. McKee, of Barrie, president of the W.C.T.U., represented 5,000 mothers, and asked for "all we can get." Even if the abolition of the clause could not be secured, Mrs. McKee hoped for its modification. Mrs. McKee also added her tribute to the enforcement of the law under the present Government, for which she thanked them.

Rev. Mr. Hughson, Baptist minister, of Windsor, and Mr. Geo. A. Montgomery, of Collingwood, also spoke, the latter dealing with his own local conditions where the bylaw had a large majority, but not the necessary three-fifths. He asked Mr. Hanna if a municipality could raise a prohibitory license fee.

Rev. Dr. Chown briefly endorsed the points already outlined. He alluded to the endoration of local option in Toronto Junction after a trial of three years. Dr. Chown said if the Government was not ready to abolish the three-fifths clause at this session, it should in any event separate the bar from the hotel.

MR. WHITNEY'S REPLY.

The Prime Minister, Hon. Mr. Whitney, was given a very enthusiastic reception. He, and the Government he represented, were glad to meet the people whose trustees they were. The Government was in accord with the principles of the temperance movement and when it went out of office it hoped to have done something to lessen the evils of the drink traffic.

"We do not say," said Mr. Whitney, "that the three-fifths is necessary to the proper enforcement of the Act, but to the permanency of the public sentiment."

The Prime Minister told the deputation frankly that he thought the temperance cause had been kept back for years by uncharitableness and lack of united effort and the broader outlook. Yesterday he received a letter accusing him of making the "votes of two barroom bums

To Break Up a Cold In 24 Hours and Cure any Cough That is Curable.

Mix one-half ounce of the Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) with two ounces of Glycerine and half a pint of Good Whisky. Shake well and dose in tea-spoonfull doses every four hours.

A famous throat and lung specialist, who established a camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine, and whose wonderful cures there have attracted the attention of the civilized world, declares that the above formula will strengthen weak lungs, relieve the cough, heal the bronchial tubes and cure any case of lung trouble that is not too far advanced, providing the patient will assist by taking plenty of out door exercise, inhaling long deep breaths every few minutes.

It is said the mixture will break up an ordinary cold in twenty-four hours, and, being free from opiates and drugs, is far preferable for use among children to the ordinary cough mixtures.

The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost and easily prepared in your own home.

Inquiry at the prescription department of one of our leading druggists elicited the information that Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in 2-ounce vials, securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, bearing the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Lamb Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are being put up under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), as they will invariably produce nausea, and never effect the desired results.

A local physician who is familiar with this treatment says it is undoubtedly the most effective known to medical science at the present time, and, save for the open air life in the forest, would prove just as effective if used in the home. He says the formula given above is the one used in the pine woods, and that it has the unqualified endorsement of the leading physicians of the country.

The physician added, if this formula were known and used generally by the people, throat, lung and bronchial affections would rarely reach a acute stage.

The Pure Virgin Oil of Pine is also a perfect neutralizing agent for uric acid. A few drops taken on sugar night and morning will heal and regulate the kidneys and relieve the most obstinate case of rheumatism, if caused by uric acid in the system.

The Best Financial Year on Record

Splendid Results Attained by the Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

Messrs. Dr. Hoskin, and J. W. Langmuir, respectively president and managing director of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation, together with the directorate of that vast company, have every reason for congratulation over the splendid showing for the past year, as presented at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the shareholders held in their board room on Feb. 20th.

During the past year the company did the largest volume of business they ever transacted during a similar period since their inception, with the exception of 1905 when their business was abnormally increased by taking over one estate involving a transaction of $5,000,000. The new business assumed last year involved some $3,883,704, which speaks well for the progressive management and Conservative character of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

During the year the company made $156,088 in net profits out of which a seven per cent. per annum dividend was paid and a large sum devoted to reserve and other similar precautionary measures.

Americans Lose Their First Game in Canada

Last night in Brock street rink the Crescent Hockey Club of New York City, met defeat at the hands of our senior team in an exhibition match, by a score of 7—4. The Americans arrived here at seven o'clock last night, accompanied by 40 enthusiastic rooters, among whom were a party of ladies. They are making a tour of Peterborough, Toronto, and Niagara Falls, playing in Toronto tomorrow night with Varsity. Many of the boys on the team are Canadians, one O'Flynn, a graduate of Toronto University. The game began at 8.15, and was a fast hockey all the way through, both teams playing likthy professionals, and the general opinion was that this game was the best played in Peterborough this season.

The first half was played American style, and the second according to O.H.A. rules. Combination was out of the question, the puck being followed all the time and it was a game of every man for himself. Liffleton was the first man off, and he was followed by Jakie Moore for one minute penalties. Kennedy scored first for New York. Dobie was hit a serious blow in the face with the puck, but soon resumed playing. Miller scored three goals for Peterborough after hard work and clever stick handling. Liffiton scored two after a desperate struggle, which brought the half time score to a tie 3—3.

New York took the lead again in the second half by Liffiton scoring one more which brought the score to 4—3, and playing began in earnest. Crowley gave the New Yorkers all the board they wanted, and helped them to slide on the ice. Miller proved himself well fit for his position by scoring in rapid succession the next three goals for Peterborough. There was two minutes more to play the excitement was at its highest point, both sides cheering and hooting to the top of their voices. Moore got a chance and scored, which brought the final score to 7—4.

The puck was faced off again, and it looked as if the Crescents would score, but the fatal gong in the time-keepers bench, sounded, and the game ended with Peterborough a whoop over the team which has held the championship of New York State for seven years.

The New York team were by no means old Americans, Liffiton famous in Montreal, was the star, while O'Flynn is a graduate of Toronto University, and learned the game here. Bob Wild of the old Shamrocks, also figures in their line up with Sheriff the Buckwild star, but the last two named were unable to come.

As for the Peterborough team nothing but praise can be offered. Moore is getting better every game, and in the course of another season may line up with Whiteroft. Miller has at last found his position and is filling the novership to the satisfaction of all, he scored six of the seven goals last night.

Chris Graham jumped in at the last moment to take Morgan's position. Parnell and Crowley were there with the goods. Crowley and Bennet met often in the first half, but later on Bennet did not care to meet "Bill." One incident of the game was that to both sides there was a total of 12 sticks broken.

Ernie Wasson refereed the game very well, the Crescent manager said so, and that is a fact.

Goals were scored by the following:

First Half—
Kennedy 1.
Miller 3.
Liffiton 2.
Second Half;
Liffiton 1.
Moore 1.
Miller 3.

The teams lined up as follows;

Crescents.		Peterborough
Mackenzie	Goal.	Lang
O'Flynn	Point.	Glover
Nicholls	Coverpoint.	Crowley
Dobie	Rover.	Miller
Liffiton	Center	Parnell
Schneider	Right Wing.	Graham
Kennedy	Left Wing.	Moore

Referee—Mr. E. Wasson.

Local Vets May Go to Chicago for Lessons

The local veterinary surgeons have received a circular letter from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, informing them that on the 4th of March, and during the next five weeks following that date a course of lectures and instruction on meat inspection will be held in the Chicago Veterinary College, under supervision of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry Inspectors. Canadian Vets are asked by the Government of Canada to attend this course which costs $15. A bonus of $100 will be paid by the Government to each of those taking the course. The object of this course is to train veterinary surgeons to be able to inspect carcasses specially and otherwise meats offered for sale.

There are only 35 vacancies to be filled by the Government and positions will be worth from $1600 to $1200 per annum. One or Two of the local Vets have signified their intention of taking the course.

Rev. Father Lynch Will Resign in March

One of the best known and most highly respected parish priests known in Peterborough through the past half century, Rev. Father Lynch now pastor of Port Hope, who has been over fifty years on the service of his church, is retiring, and in future will reside in Peterborough. It is expected he will resign from active duties early in March, and will be succeeded as parish priest of Port Hope, by Rev. Father O'Sullivan, who is now curate of St. Mary's church, Lindsay.

Rev. Michael Lynch is the oldest priest in the Peterborough diocese and one of the oldest in Ontario, and is eighty-four years of age.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boot on," and no doubt hundreds of thousand of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1906) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $ 50,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business, furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever, and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of Dr. Pierce's Prescription "from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs."

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however brought before a Jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Saskatchewan Weather by Former Local Man

A letter of local interest was recently received by Mr. J. A. Tully, of this city from his brother R. E. Tully, now living at Saskatchewan Landing, Sask. The letter which clearly indicates the state of the weather out there reads, in part as follows;

"You think by the papers we are having a bad winter out here. I can tell you, the papers are not making it any worse than it is. I have never seen anything like it before. I never thought it could get so cold and stormy as it has been this winter, especially since the 15th of November. Every day it seems to get worse and no sign of a let up yet. There are thousands of cattle dying said through the country. I am feeding about two hundred head. I think I will have plenty of hay if I can only get them to it. If a thousand dollars covers my loss I will be satisfied. The snow is about two feet deep and crusted so that it is impossible for the stock to get any feed. There are lots of ranches which are cleaned right out. Some which were worth between ten and fifteen thousand dollars will not be worth one dollar by the first of April, so that is pretty hard lines. We have had lots of good, dry wood to keep up warm and plenty to eat and drink. I think I can hang out until the first of May. It would be almost impossible for me to get up Swift Current now, with the awful depth of snow and cold weather. We get our mail about every three weeks. You may thank your stars that you are not here this winter."

Local Merchant in Large Estate Deal

Mr. P. G. Demetrie Pays $28,000 for a Montreal Property.

Mr. P. G. Demetrie, senior member of Messrs. Demetrie Bros., the George street confectionery and restaurant last week completed an important real estate deal in Montreal, the head quarters of his various branch stores. The deal in question involved the purchase of a piece of real estate, corner of Mount Royal and St. Lawrence main street, some 192 by 190 feet. The price paid was $28,000. Within an hour after Mr. Demetrie completed this transaction he was offered, and delivered a cash advance of $500 on his bargain. It is possible, as rumored that Mr. Demetrie's present visit to Peterborough may result in his acquiring a valuable property in this city.

Mr. W. Collins After Exhibition's Interests

Mr. Wm. Collins, one of the most enthusiastic local fair advocates, who was in Toronto representing the Peterborough Agricultural Society, at the annual meeting of the Fair and Exhibition Association, has been appointed one of the auditors. A despatch from Toronto says;

The Fairs and Exhibition Association at its closing session yesterday, decided to have a deputation waiten on the Hon. Mr. Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, to ask for such an amendment to the act relating to fairs as will permit the local fair directors to hold races or speeding contests if they so decide, but subject to such regulations as will effectively prevent gambling or professionally run races.

Following is a list of officers elected for the ensuing year;—William Laidlaw, Guelph, president; A. McDonald, Dufferin, 1st vice-president; H. A. Gould, Ontario, 2nd vice-president; Alex. McFarlane, Otterville, secretary, Jos. Hudspeth, Caledonia, and William Collins, Peterborough, auditors; and Geo. Downey, Peel, D. Evans, Middlesex, Ed. Gough, Parry Sound, George E. Lee, Kent T. J. Murphy, Norfolk, J. W. Sheppard, Hastings, and S. J. Wilson, Essex, members of the executive committee. Mr. J. Lockie Wilson was appointed corresponding secretary and editor.

Mrs. J. E. Hodgson Stops a Conflagration

Mrs. J. E. Hodgson, wife of the post (illegible) Mr. J. E. Hodgson was called to the assistance staff, yesterday morning, by prompt action, at her residence 548 Aylmer street, prevented what would undoubtedly otherwise have resulted in a serious conflagration.

Notwithstanding her courageous action, a chair and rug were destroyed, a sofa partially burned and other damage done to the dining room, where the fire broke out. It seems that Mrs. Hodgson was sitting before the grate in the dining room when a piece of live coal, fell over the top of the grate, and set fire to her skirt. The blaze quickly spread to the upholstered chair upon which she had been sitting. Mrs. Hodgson seized a sofa cover and succeeded in smouldering the flames in her garments. She then turned her attention to the other articles ablaze, and securing some water was successful in putting the fire out.

SELF GOVERNMENT IN THE TRANSVAAL

Victory for Party Control When Kruger Was the President---Sir Richard Solomon Was Defeated.

London, Feb. 23.—As indicated in previous despatches, the first elections for the newly-granted legislature for the Transvaal have resulted in a majority for Het Volk-Nationalist-Labor combination. Though the returns are not all in, the united parties will probably have a majority of 25.

The House will probably be constituted as follows; Het Volk; 36; Nationalists, 7; Labor, 3; Independents, 2; Progressives, 21.

Sir Richard Solomon, leader of the Nationalists, who was popularly mentioned for the premiership, has been defeated in Pretoria, by Sir. Percy Fitzpatrick (Progressive). This is the only surprise in the elections. Smuts and Botha are now mentioned for the Premiership. Of 15 members in the Upper House there are 4 the Progressives and two Het Volk.

THE PARTIES AND ISSUES.

There were four parties with candidates in the field, which may be thus described; The Progressives are supposed to be the party of the mine owners, and was the party which opposed the granting of representative Government; Het Volk, or Dutch party, representing those who were in control of the Transvaal in the days of Kruger's rule, the Boers, and who favored self-government; the Nationalists, supposed to represent the English-speaking residents who favored self-government, and whose main plank is the federation of the colonies of South Africa on the lines of the Canadian and Australian federation. Lastly, there is the Labor party, who represent the cause of white labor in the Transvaal. Besides this, there are a number of Independents, mostly Britons of long residence in the country, who are not quite ready to ally themselves with any party, but who will probably support any reasonable Government not antagonistic to Great Britain.

No party advocates secession from the Empire. The great question is that of labor for the Rand gold mines. By the action of the British Parliament in 1901 the mine owners were allowed to import 50,000 Chinese coolie laborers under three-year contracts. By the terms of the new Transvaal constitution the arrangement under which these were hired expires one year after the first meeting of the Legislature. As the Legislature will meet next June this means that unless this law is modified or repealed the Chinese must leave the Transvaal by June, 1908. The Progressives represent that this will ruin the mining industry, the great industry of the colony. They say that while labor is out of the question, and that black labor it is impossible to get in sufficient quantities.

SEND BACK THE CHINESE.

On the other hand, Het Volk started into the campaign with a policy of sending back every Chinaman as soon as his term expired, and the Nationalists and Labor parties largely supported them. Later, however, the lines of cleavage considerably modified. Het Volk leaders, in their recent speeches, said that they would not send away a Chinaman without having a laborer to put in his place. It appears, therefore, that Het Volk's later contention was that it was more to be trusted to find a proper substitute for Chinese labor than the Progressives. This change was one of the reasons which leads observers to believe that Het Volk and its allies, the National and Labor parties, would win.

Neill's Rink Wins the Consolation

Yesterday evening the last game of the great Peterborough Bonspiel was watched by a large audience, who displayed great interest in the game. This was the last match in the Consolation series, and was won by Neill's rink, skipped by Mr. Rollie Waddell, which won out by a score of 22—7 against Mr. Geo. Fitzgerald's well-known rink.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Claims all the Indian Reserves

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 23.—The Provincial Government gives notice in the Gazette that it lays claim to all the Indian reserves alienated from their original use by sale or otherwise. This notice claims all such lands on behalf of the province, and reserves them from pre-emption, purchase or lease.

Coming just after the announcement of the sale by the Dominion Government, on behalf of the Simpsean Indians, of part of their reserve to the G.T.P. Railway, it is evident that the Provincial authorities consider the reversionary interest comes back to Provincial control by such sale.

Rosy Cheeks

Made by a good food.

A lady living in Acton, Wales, writes:

"It is with both pleasure and gratitude I write to tell you of the splendid results we have derived from Grape-Nuts. For years, almost since childhood, have I suffered from nerve troubles, neuralgia, etc. Some months ago my husband pursuaded me to give Grape-Nuts food a trial. The first package I had I felt the benefit of, and since, needless to say, I have never been without it, using it in many of the delightful little receipts given with each package. These wonderful little receipts prevent the monotony felt so often with other foods.

I sleep better, feeling refreshed in the morning, have gained both flesh and rosy cheeks, lost my neuralgia, and generally speaking, feel in the best of health. I feed my little girl with it also; she, like myself, suffered from anaemia, and was a constant worry and trouble to me, but now I am delighted to say she is the picture of health.

I strongly recommend all mothers to use Grape-Nuts; and they cannot fail in getting the happiest results, for it is certainly the most palatable food I have ever tried for children, and they thrive wonderfully on it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts food is a certain rebuilder, for it contains the elements necessary to renew the nerve and brain tissues. The starch in the grains, from which it is made, is changed, in the manufacture, to a form of sugar, and this renders it easy of digestion to invalids and children, as well as those in the prime of health.

"There's a Reason" for

GRAPE-NUTS

What Does It Mean?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deathly sickness; this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it.

To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty. Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion, it's small wonder that such marvelous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hagarty, of Amherst, N. S., writes: "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health. I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for my condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the camp that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price."

Every dealer in the land sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

THE AMEER'S VISIT TO INDIA

The Ameer of Afghanistan, now visiting India for the first time in his life is being hailed everywhere by the British authorities as "King of Afghanistan," and addressed as "Your Majesty," these attributes being likewise accorded to him by Edward VII. in the cablegram sent to welcome him on his arrival in India. Among the native titles of the Ameer are those of "Lamp of the Congregation," "Light of the Faith," and "Seeker After God's Help." The visit of the Ameer to India upon which the British Government is spending a vast am of money, is likely to be of considerable advantage to Great Britain. For the Ameer's range of vision has until now been limited to his own dominions, while his intercourse has been restricted to his own subjects, who probably are the most boastful people in the world. The distorted and highly colored stories which have been brought to him of British reverses in South Africa in the Boer war and of Russia's defeat by Japan in Manchuria, together with the anxiety manifested by the English to cultivate his friendship, have imbued him with the impression that the day of the European was passing, and that Cabul was becoming the center of the universe. The spectacle is now presented to him of an immense Asiatic nation of 300,000,000 prospering under the rule of Great Britain, and of vassal rulers of far mightier native kingdoms than his own yielding ready allegiance to the British crown.

Greenwich village, in New York city, was first brought into prominence when Sir Peter Warren, descended from an ancient Irish family and vice admiral of the British fleet, settled there in 1744. He married Susannah De Lancey and settled on a fine estate of more than 300 acres, running from Christopher street to West Twenty-first. It was laid out like an English park, with splendid hedges and avenues of trees and a fine old mansion, which was the resort of all the quality of old New York. His three daughters all made brilliant marriages in England. One became the Countess of Abingdon, and her name is preserved in Abingdon square. On the division of the estate at Sir Peter's death the homestead fell to her. She sold it to Abijah Hammond, who sold it to Abraham Van Nest, and it is still remembered by many as the old Van Nest house, demolished in 1865. Among other distinguished persons who have lived in Greenwich were Oliver De Lancey, William Bayard, Washington, Vice President and Mrs. John Adams, Aaron Burr and Tom Paine. Barrow street was originally named Reason street in compliment to the great infidel's best known book, "Age of Reason."

Political Situation Most Interesting Since Home Rule Bill.

New York, February 26.—The London correspondent of the Sun cables as follows: Curiosity has not yet been satisfied regarding what measures the Government proposes to adopt for getting rid of the obstructive powers of the House of Lords. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's speech on the subject at the opening of Parliament was vague, asserting merely that the opposition to the will of the people interposed by the House of Lords must be overcome by necessary constitutional changes.

The Premier meant by the will of the people the will of the Liberal majority in the House of Commons. The supporters of the House of Lords are quite ready to join issue with him on this point. They reply that the Lords are always quite willing to give way in any matter on which the will of the people has been clearly demonstrated. They argue that it is the prerogative of the House of Lords as well as that of the House of Commons to interpret the popular will. They instance the passage of the trades disputes bill by the Lords entirely against their judgment, because they believed the country favored it. Moreover, they are willing to test the question at any time.

It is suggested in behalf of the present system that in case of a deadlock of the two houses the House of Lords should be required to pass a disputed bill with an amendment reading: "This act will not take effect until approved by a majority in a popular referendum." This is the Swiss system, where all disputed bills in the Legislature are referred to a popular vote. The Liberal party, however, is utterly opposed to this solution.

Burned to Death

Quebec, Feb. 21.—Burned to death in their beds in a fire which consumed the residence and store of their father, two young children of Mr. Sayuck, general storekeeper at Valcartier, a few miles north of this city, met a horrible and sad fate yesterday morning, their little bodies being burned to a crisp. The little victims were about two years and seven years old. Mr. Sayuck, who is a Hebrew, conducted a general store in the place known as "The Settlement." The building and all its contents, the stock alone being valued at about $5,000, were reduced to a heap of smouldering ruins.

Useful Teeth.

Many different reasons are assigned by people for their unwillingness to submit to the extraction of teeth. But it was no fear of pain which was uppermost in the mind of Miss Mehitable Lamson of Willowby when told by the dentist that she would be much benefited by the loss of two of her prominent teeth.

"You say they can't be filled," she said, in evident distress, "and you couldn't get any others in for me for more'n a fortnight?"

The dentist admitted reluctantly that it was so.

"Well, then, I suppose I'll have to get on as best I can." And Miss Mehitable seated herself in the torture chair. "But I don't see how I shall make out. Here I am, chambermaid to the Willowby inn during the summer, and it's chock full of folks, with lots o' transients coming and going, and those are my pillowcase teeth!"

Weight of the Brain.

There is just five ounces less amount of brain matter needed to keep a woman from idiocy than there is needed for a man. The average weight of a man's brain is forty-nine and one-half ounces and that of a woman forty-four ounces. When a brain falls below thirty-seven and a half ounces in a man idiocy usually occurs. A woman's brain has to fall to thirty-two and one-half ounces before she reaches the same condition. Man has a larger brain in proportion to his stature than woman, while, on the other hand, woman has a larger brain in proportion to her weight. The female brain begins to lose weight after the age of thirty; that of the man not till ten or fifteen years later. The loss in a woman is slight, however, and she keeps up a high brain weight much later than a man.

The Deadly Dull Bachelor.

"It is always easy to see how long a couple have been married by noting whether the house is full of his friends or hers," according to a writer in the London Ladies' Field. "A man invariably begins by inviting all his bachelor friends to his house. He is anxious to show off his wife, and he fondly imagines that they will like her and that she will like them, which rarely happens." The writer then goes on to dissect the bachelor and concludes, "I don't know why one's husband's bachelor chums should, as a rule, be so deadly dull, but they usually are, and, as a matter of fact, it was probably their dullness which originally drove him into matrimony, only he has not the sense to see it." There would be fewer married if it weren't for the bachelors.

To stop a Cold with "Preventics" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. FRIENDS TELL FRIENDS— "NOTHING LIKE PE-RU-NA."

PE-RU-NA'S POPULARITY IS IN NO SMALL MEASURE DUE TO THE GENEROUS PRAISE GIVEN IT BY GRATEFUL PEOPLE.

Tells Every One About Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. R. T. Fennessey, Bound Brook, N. J., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and find it a very good medicine. After I took one bottle of Peruna, I was cured of my cold. I cannot help telling every one I know about Peruna and asking them to try it. I would like every one to know of the good Peruna does."

Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Henry Ganther, R. R. No. 1, Necedah, Wis., writes:

"I recommend your medicine to every one who is in need of it. I have been using Peruna and have gained in health. I thank you for what you have done."

A Neighbor Advised Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. John Haynes, 107 E. Main St., Columbus, Ohio, writes:

"For over two years I suffered with headaches and severe pains in my head, and all these two years my friends would say, 'Why don't you take Peruna?'

"Finally one of my neighbors just insisted on my taking it. I tried it and before I had taken one-fourth of a bottle my headaches were gone. I am never without Peruna. I advise every one to take Peruna."

Friend Advised Use of Pe-ru-na.

Mr. E. W. Staley, 812 Fillmore St., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"I was down for three months with pneumonia and had gotten very weak. A friend advised me to try Peruna, which I did, and soon found it was the thing I needed. When I finished the third bottle, I found I weighed more than I ever did in my life."

Spreading the Good News.

Prof. J. Ivison, dealer in musical merchandise, box 812, Cumberland, Md., writes:

"It is now five months since my wife began taking Peruna and from the first day improvement has been going on noticeably. She is now in good health. We never tire of making this fact known to our many friends."

A Friend Had Used Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Henry I. Goodwin, portrait artist, 38 Gove street, E. Boston, Mass., writes:

"For three years I have been suffering from a general rundown condition of the system. I tried many remedies.

"A friend of mine advised me to use Peruna, as it had benefited him.

"After taking two bottles I felt better. Now I am in the best of health."

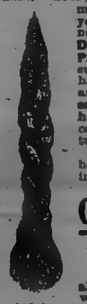
ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

COMING

Monday, Feb. 25th

ORIENTAL HOTEL, PETERBORO

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE



Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.

CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND

DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a

and instead of carrying the handicap, that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a featherweight facsimile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent one one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions—connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

The Greatest Mining Boom

of the world will commence early this spring in the country NORTH OF COBALT. No mineral taken from the earth excites the attention of the general public like that of Gold. It is the money metal of the world and millions are struggling for it in all climes.

The King of the North Gold Mines Company,

(Incorporated) owns

The Greatest Gold Mine in the World

Since its discovery the entire country surrounding the mine has been located by prospectors, and active operations will commence early in the spring.

50,000 Tons of Ore

are certified by the engineer, Mr. T. Simard, to be in sight, and he further certifies that it will Average $30.00 per ton. The ore is free milling and the gold is plainly visible in the quartz, and only requires the completion of the mill now under construction by the Jenckes Machinery Company of Sherbrooke, Que., to be made into gold bullion. Don't wait until the boom has reached its climax, but buy now when the price of the shares is within the reach of of everyone. 15% per month undoubtedly can be paid in dividends, if the reports of those who have examined the property can be relied upon, and from our personal investigations through independent sources, we believe they Should be Paid. We earnestly advise you to buy now, at once and without further delay, as we have only 50,000 shares to sell at and we reserve the right to advance the price without notice. Remit by Registered Letter, Draft on Montreal, or Certified Cheque to

$1.00 per Share

The Purser's Confidence

By HUNTLEY WEYMAN

Copyrighted by E. C. Parcells.

It was spoken of as the slickest robbery ever perpetrated on a London jewelry house. Lady Stanton was looking at a diamond tiara and being waited on by one of the partners when a gentleman lounged forward, familiarly addressed her and, picking up the tiara, walked out of the store with it. The act was so audacious that he was given time to mix with the throng in the street and get safely away.

It was a jewelry house that had never been robbed before, and the decision was immediate to spare no expense to run the robber down. The case was given to the police, with a grand reward attached, and Scotland Yard put its best detectives at work. Two or three private agencies took up the trail for the reward there was in it, and when a clew seemed to lead to Paris a French detective prepared to follow it. From some line of reasoning not made public all the officers came to an agreement that the robber was an American and that he would seek to get away on the Blue Star liner Monarch. The press didn't say anything about trails, but four of the detectives followed their noses at least and secured passage on the Monarch. Had one of the male passengers come to them half an hour before sailing and admitted that he was the robber and held out his hands for the bracelets none of the four would have sailed. As it was, no one came forward, and they felt it a duty to make the voyage to New York and keep an eye on every fellow passenger. They knew nothing of each other's presence in an official way. If any one of them was to give his confidence to any one, the purser was the man to unbosom to, and it was not long before he had a call. It was a Scotland Yard man. He was wearing false side whiskers and passing himself off as a retired English retail grocer who was making the trip to see his sister in New York.

"I think I have a clew already," he said as the purser promised to respect his confidence and assist him in any way he could. "There is a Frenchman aboard calling himself Dubois. He speaks English passably well and claims to be going over in the interests of the wine business, but he isn't fooling Inspector Saunders a little bit. He's my man or I don't know a crook when I see one."

The next burst of confidence came from Dubois. He identified himself as belonging to the Paris bureau and added:

"Pist! It was easy enough. I picked him out from the 300 passengers almost at a glance. He is an Englishman and claims to be a retired grocer, and I shall give him rope until we reach quarantine on the other side. Should he suspect me and try to jump overboard I hope I may have your assistance."

Mr. Dubois was assured that the purser and all the other officers of the boat stood ready to lend justice all possible assistance, and he then made way for a detective from a private London agency. The man wore a false stomach and a wig and used the Lancashire dialect. He introduced himself as John Stone and asked for the purser's confidence at once.

"I've got him right between my thumb and finger, this way," he said, with a grin. "The trail led me as straight as a turnpike. I can't ask the Monarch to turn back, of course, but I'll have the darbies on the fellow as soon as we sight Sandy Hook. Lord, but it was dead easy! He calls himself a French name and tries to disguise his English, but any child could spot him off. Help me to keep an eye on Dubois and there will be something in it for you."

The purser smiled inwardly and gave his promise. He thought there were others to come, and he was not mistaken. Mr. Hiram Wilkinson next introduced himself as being from a private Liverpool agency. He had a wig and goggles and was trying to talk through his nose and be taken for a New Englander. He felt that he had come to the right party in coming to the purser, and he didn't shut his mouth until his secret was out.

"It's the feller as calls hisself Stone," he whispered. "I spotted him the instant he came up the gangplank, but I dasn't tackle him on sight. I am making the voyage to play my fish. I'll bet pounds to shillings I make him trap hisself in less than three days. He claims to have a brother in the butcher business at Albany, but of course that's all in your eye."

"You think he's the man?" queried the purser in an absent way as he began to see the humorous side of the situation.

"Say, now, take a good long look at him yourself. He looks the thief from head to heel. Haven't you noticed his nervousness? He's afraid he's been followed. He'll make a fight of it when we sight the American coast, but I'll have the irons on him before he can say Jack Robinson. Mum is the word, and you will get your whack of the reward."

There was no fifth detective aboard to ask the purser for his confidence and assistance, but after a day or two Mr. Abijah Absalom Barnes, as he gave his name, asked the official to take charge of a package for him.

"It's only some gimcracks I've been buying abroad," he explained, "but Martha and the children will be looking for presents when I get home. That Yurup is a great country, but I hain't seen no spot like old New Hampshire since I went away. Ever get up that far?"

"I never have," replied the purser as he wondered how Uncle Abijah had escaped the pitfalls that must have been set for his feet.

"If you ever have a chance, come up and stay with me for a week, and it shan't cost you a red cent. If you've got a wife and children, bring 'em along. If you could come in the winter, I'd take you to half a dozen spelling schools, and we'd slide down hills on hand sleds. I own a hill over a mile long, and my old woman can make buckwheat cakes to beat the band. Say, now, is there any danger of any one stealing my package from you?"

"Not the slightest."

"Because there are some suspicious characters aboard. I've run across four different men that I wouldn't trust to go to my barn and get a peck measure of oats. They call themselves Stone, Dubois, Saunders and Wilkinson. We've got tin peddlers up in my state that look more honest than these men do. I'm right on to 'em, however, and they can't fool me."

At least once a day during the rest of the voyage each of the four detectives sought out the purser and reported progress and planned what should be done when quarantine was reached. While each one had only suspected one another on the start, only three days had passed when each man's suspicions included the three others in the quartet. Uncle Abijah bothered them from the start. He insisted on butting in at all times and under all circumstances. If one detective had another aside to pump him, the old man from New Hampshire presently appeared and carelessly said:

"Gentlemen, I hope I don't intrude, but were either of you ever up in Sock county, N. H.?"

"Never," was the reply.

"Then you've missed a great thing. We hain't got no Niagara falls up there, but sliding down hill in the winter beats anything you can find outdoors. You load up a big shed with gals and boys and head her down hill and let her go, and the first thing you know you are two miles away. I hain't got but one spare bed in the house, but Martha and me will sleep on the floor if you'll come up."

Sometimes the four sleuths would play cards together and pretend to be very jovial and friendly. Before the game was fairly under way Uncle Abijah would stroll into the smoking room and say:

"I duuno whether any of you fellers heard about that big robbery in London or not, but it was a corker. Feller walked into a jewelry store and picked up a bushel of diamonds and walked out ag'in as cool as a hired man going to work. I happened to be right nigh the store at the time, and I didn't know but what they would arrest me. The feller got away, but I'm purty sure I saw him and would know him ag'in."

He would then lounge out on deck, and the game would soon break up, and one of the officers would hunt up Uncle Abijah to get further particulars. He would intimate that he had seen the robber among the passengers aboard and that he might give him away on landing, and thus the four officers would be further puzzled and mystified. Each one was invited up to New Hampshire over and over again, and before Sandy Hook was sighted each one knew the old man's history from the day he was born. No arrests were made at quarantine. It had been left to the purser, and he had telephoned up. Four interviews had been held with him, and as a result four different men were arrested when the steamer made her dock. The victims were Messrs. Saunders, Dubois, Wilkinson and Stone. Uncle Abijah saw them taken into custody and smiled and winked. He had also worked out a little plan.

Three hours later the four men, accompanied by two detectives from headquarters, boarded the Monarch to ask of the purser:

"What do you know of the old fellow who called himself Barnes?"

"Nice old man and innocent as a child," replied the official. "Say, now, he's gone off and forgotten his package."

"If he returns for it, tie a string around his wrist and hold him fast," laughed one of the headquarters men. "He's the chap that took the diamonds!"

The Value of Lifeboats.

Considerably more shipwrecked sailors are saved by their own boats than by any other means, says London Answers. Thus of 2,150 persons saved on the coasts of the United Kingdom in 1903-04, 165 were saved by the rocket apparatus and assistance from the shore, 423 by lifeboats, 143 by coast guard boats and other craft, 641 by passing ships and 735 by their own boats.

The total number of seamen and passengers saved from wrecks of British vessels everywhere and of foreign vessels on or near the coasts of British territory during the year 1903-04 was 6,086, of whom 2,150 were saved on the coasts of the United Kingdom, 1,782 on the coasts of British possessions abroad, 1,343 on the coasts of foreign countries—all from British wrecks, be it remembered—and 802 on the high seas. Of the 3,927 persons saved from British wrecks abroad 2,502 were saved by their own boats and 950 by passing ships, while only 28 were saved by lifeboats and 149 by rocket apparatus.

An Impression.

"Did that lawyer get a clear view of the case?" inquired the litigant's friend.

"No. I'm afraid he didn't. I told him that my trouble was about money, and he seemed to be proceeding on the theory that by relieving me of my money he would cause the trouble to disappear."

Working Hard.

The little boy's father had come home from his office early and was lying down for a nap before dinner. The little lad's mother sent him upstairs to see if his father was asleep. He returned with this answer: "Yes, mamma, papa is all asleep but his nose."

This Company owns FIVE MINING CLAIMS containing 160 ACRES, all of which are under active development and heavily mineralized, as follows:

1 claim, 40 acres, Bucke Township, showing 4 veins, shaft 20 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Coleman Township, showing 2 veins, shaft 50 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Portage Bay District, showing 6 veins, shaft and 500 feet of vein uncovered.
2 claims, 80 acres, Anima-Nipissing district, showing 5 veins, shaft and vein uncovered across entire eighty acres.

A recent assay on Anima-Nipissing claims, taken from 3-foot level, show 133 oz. of silver to a ton.

The company own TOWNSITE OF NORTH COBALT, containing 600 ACRES, divided into 4,000 lots beautifully situated on shore of Lake Temiskaming. Building operations are active. SILVER DEPOSITS LOCATED and being developed.

A syndicate has been formed to build a $100,000 HOTEL ON THIS TOWNSITE.

We anticipate that within 3 years a city of 25,000 people will be located on this property and neighboring shores.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 20 acre one and about 40 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 20 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch niccolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 472-1231-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

THE PETERBOROUGH MORNING TIMES

Developments in the last few days are reported by the press and verified by the Company's officers, again attract public attention to the famous Sunburst Mines—having added 220 acres of rich lead and zinc land in the heart of the world's richest producing district to original holdings, the Sunburst Company has ordered the permanent equipment of shaft No. 3.

WORK BEGINS ON THE SUNBURST MINES

Machinery being installed and work on No. 3 shaft immediately resumed. Drifting being pushed to connect the No. 2 and No. 3 shafts, which, according to the drilling, will open up immense bodies of ore for the full distance, which is about 500 feet. The Eastman Development Co.'s White Eagle Mill, which was started within the last 60 days, is now producing some eight to ten tons of zinc ore per shift—being the record breaker of the district so far. This property is immediately to the northwest of the Sunburst property. The Clarkson, to the southwest, has made a phenomenal strike in the last week. The opportunity to share in this wonderful fortune making is now presented by the development of the Sunburst property. Millions will be taken out of this district in 1907, and shrewd investors are now seizing their opportunity to reap a golden harvest from the vast mineral wealth the Baxter Springs Camp. Many properties are now returning from 21 to 120 per cent. dividends on the investment.

IMMENSE ORE BODIES PROVEN UP

The Sunburst Mining Company now owns a vast property in Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory, generally known as the Baxter Springs District. The history of the company is well known to the public. The great richness has long been admitted. Now development work proves the most sanguine expectations. The Baxter Springs News of December 6, 1906, says:

"The Sunburst is showing up some mighty big ore the past week. J. C. Bryner, who is doing the development work, brought in samples of his latest ore taken out of shaft No. 2, and it certainly shows up fine. This shaft now has 30 feet of drifting to the south, showing rich ore all the way, and the deposit encountered the past week is the same as the Hobo mine is cutting in its north drifts, which are only eighty feet to the south, and which are being driven north to connect with this south drift of the Sunburst. The Indiana, just to the west, is showing up remarkably rich lead and jack in its east drift. Gatlin is encountering the same to the east and north, thus demonstrating that immense ore deposit covers the Ayers-Sloan, White Eagle, Western Mining, C. J. Omaha, Winner, Good Luck, Hobo, Gatlin, Indiana and Sunburst leases, all of which are within a radius of a few hundred feet of each other. This is the richest deposit yet opened up, and while this is a fact it is owing to the intense development in this particular section of the camp, which is proving up the drillings which have been made since the camp started."

This immense rich property lies four miles from Baxter Springs, Kansas, and is just across the state line in the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory. All around and immediately adjoining this property are good producing mines with fine mills, which are making their owners rich. Just southwest is the mill owned by the Whitneys of New York. On every side we are surrounded by prodigious mines, operating in ore bodies that run into and through our section, and from the reports of experts and engineers are actually richer and nearer the surface here than in any other place in the district. The formation consists of a blanket deposit of minerals of the richest quality, from 15 to 50 feet in thickness, lying at a depth of from 57 feet to 74 feet, thus making it very easy and inexpensive to mine.

Thousands of dollars were expended in drilling holes and sinking shafts to prove not only the existence in paying quantities of lead and zinc, but also the unusual richness of the ore. The drilling and shaft sinking have demonstrated a uniform bed of ore over the entire acreage of 15 to 50 feet in thickness, and found only 57 feet under the surface. The water is only sufficient to wash the ore while milling. This is an important point, as in many lead and zinc mines the superabundance of water is a very dangerous factor. The ore is found between well-defined flat beds of limestone, which allows of the ore being taken out without the use of any timbers whatever, pillars of ore being allowed to support the roof, which is thus permanently safe.

The Same Ore Body That Makes Others Rich

No other district can produce so many rich mines in so small an area as this portion of the Baxter Springs Camp. Look at the map and you will see how the Sunburst holdings are the very heart of this section. To the north are the Dark Horse, Isley, Tiplon, Magaska, all well-known properties. To the west are the Sunnyside (the oldest mill in camp), White Eagle, Indiana, Ayers and Sloan. To the south, the famous Hobo (the richest mine ever opened in the district, which has drifted to the south line of the Sunburst in extremely high-grade ore). The ore milled last week by the Hobo ran 10 per cent. In three months 600,000 pounds of rich ore was taken out by the Hobo. This mine is 1½ feet from our property and is in the same ore bed. Shaft No. 3 is only 70 feet from the Hobo north drift, with the same bed of ore. The drilling shows this bed to run across the entire Sunburst property. Shaft No. 2 is 400 feet from the northeast drift of the Hobo and is into the same ore bed.

To the south are also the Omaha Mines and Mill and the Good Luck Mine, where the lead has proven to be so heavy. On these properties mills are erected and extremely rich ore extracted, making great returns for the owners.

SHAFT NO. THREE.

ADVANCE IN PRICE

On account of the additional holdings, which are of great intrinsic value, as well as the remarkable proof of richness afforded by the development work already begun, the price of Sunburst stock will not remain long at the present figure.

Every step forward in the workings of the company is attracting wide attention, and is justifying the most liberal expectations.

As this work goes on Sunburst stock is bound to increase in value, as it is bound to be a mighty source of profit. The public demand because of the public confidence in this great property has already absorbed thousands of shares and has steadily advanced the price, but this advance will be small in comparison to what is coming.

The shrewd investor will realize this opportunity now, and will buy before the next big advance.

Buy now and share pro rata in the demonstrated profits of this enterprise. Make your reservation for as many shares as you may desire at the present price, remit 10 per cent. of the full price for the block and send us the balance in nine monthly payments. Upon the completion of your payments your certificate will be sent you for the desired number of shares, fully paid and non-assessable, no matter how much the price of stock may have advanced during that time.

You will thus become a stockholder in this company on equal terms with all the other stockholders, and by payments so small as to be hardly noticed.

The tremendous advantage to the small investor through this plan of payment must be apparent at a glance. By subscribing, for instance, $1000 now and remitting only $8.00, you will obtain the whole block subscribed for at the present low price, and receive the full advantage of every advance on the whole $80.00 worth, although your first payment is but $8.00.

You really invest $8.00 and get all the benefit of an investment of $80.00. Could anything be fairer?

In order to secure the benefit of this offer it will be necessary for you to make your reservation at once, with the understanding that you will be entirely free to withdraw it if further investigation fails to convince you of the merits of the stock.

The officers of this company, who have the handling of your money, the conduct of the mine, and paying of dividends, are stockholders like any other.

What is more, they are well-known and successful business men. Look them up. Investigate their standing, their acumen, their integrity.

This is a business proposition. Here are business men conducting it. They invite your investigation.

MAP OF DISTRICT SHOWING SUNBURST MINE.

Why Stock is Now Offered at 8c a Share

This issue of fully paid and non-assessable stock is for the purpose of procuring immediate funds to build a concentrating mill, equip the plant with hoisting machinery, and continue development work and put day and night shifts to work—in a word, to apply to this immensely rich property the same development that is resulting everywhere around us in paying great dividends and enormously enhancing the value of the property. Have you ever heard of a failure in a true lead and zinc mine? Have you not heard on the contrary of the fortunes taken out right in this district, not by one, but practically by all mining plants in the last few years? Have you ever had the opportunity to get in on the ground floor of such an investment? At this price the immense profits simply depend on this: Are the facts such as we have stated? Now, this we prove in detail—we will even arrange to take you to the mine—we refer you to any of the reports on this property—to banks—to engineers—to the evidence of surrounding properties; we lay the proposition before your business judgment, with the full appreciation that you owe it to yourself to investigate this simply as an investment in a commercial enterprise.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

In compliance with the request of the officers and stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., a detailed examination of the property was made October 1, 1906, by M. S. Parker, the well-known mining engineer and member American Society C. E. Excerpts from Mr. Parker's report follow:

The Sunburst Mine is located in the southeast corner of Section 29, Township 29, Range 24, east of the Indian Meridian, in the Quapaw Reserve, Indian Territory. It is joined on the south by half its width by the famous Hobo Mine, which producer the richest lead and zinc ore of any mine in the district thus far developed, and prospect drill holes and shafts north of the Hobo, on the Sunburst, show the same grade of ore, and at the same depth and of the same thickness.

The Omaha Mine, which is now successfully operating a new 150-ton mill, also adjoins the Sunburst on the south, and have drilled along their north boundary, striking the same body of ore as developed by prospecting over the line on the Sunburst.

The Hobo and Omaha Mines on he south have been prospected along the line of the Sunburst by drill holes and the present working shafts and drifts, which verifies the results of the prospecting done on the Sunburst Mine, north of the south boundary of the Sunburst.

FORMATION.

This mine comes under the blanket formation class. Out of the last eleven holes drilled, only two holes were barren of lead or zinc ore, most of them showing lead and zinc ore in paying quantities, while some of the holes drilled showed very rich deposits of lead and zinc.

One of the drill holes on the Hobo Mine showed very rich cuttings; within a foot of this hole was a blank spot 50 feet in diameter. The shaft of the Hobo Mine was sunk within 8 feet of a drill hole showing a very rich zinc ore, and went down through such a spot—no zinc ore being encountered—within a foot of the shaft walls very rich zinc and lead ore was found.

The thickness of the ore body, as shown by the drill holes, is from 15 to 90 feet. Ore is struck in shaft No. 3 at 57 feet depth, and the shaft is still in the ore at 75 feet. The drill cuttings at this shaft showed ore down to 91 feet depth. From all the drill holes this depth, viz., 91 feet appears to be the floor or bottom of the ore body, and is very uniform. The roof, however, varies in depth from the surface, 57 feet being the nearest it comes to the surface, while at places it is shown to drop down to 80 feet in depth, but the average depth to roof is very close to 65 feet. This would indicate an average thickness of the ore body of about 25 feet.

Three shafts have been sunk. No. 1 shaft, 6 1-2 by 8 feet, is down 88 feet, well timbered, and has good shaft-house and derrick. From this shaft prospect drifts have been driven, in all about 200 linear feet, mostly in lead-bearing ground. A small office building is near this shaft.

Shaft No. 2, 6 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 80 feet, well timbered, with shafthouse, derrick and boilerhouse in good repair. From this shaft a drift is driven north 20 feet, then west 50 feet. Head of west drift is in good ore. The face of this drift is in zinc ore, while the bottom is in rich lead ore. This shaft should go down to 90 feet depth. This will give a 20-foot face of ore.

Shaft No. 3, 6 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 75 feet, well timbered—a first-class shaft. No buildings on it. A short drift is running south in good zinc ore. The bottom of this shaft is in good lead ore. These three shafts, with 18 drill holes, constitute the present development of the mine.

The Sunburst is located within four miles of the Frisco Railway, Baxter and Quapaw stations being about equally distant from the mine. A road is projected from Baxter to Miami that will run within a quarter of a mile of the mine. This road is to be a freight and passenger electric road for the accommodation of the mines. Baxter Springs business men have subscribed $25,000 toward the building of this line, and every assurance is given that the road will soon be constructed. This will make transportation of fuel and mine products materially cheaper than at present, although the cost under present conditions is not heavy.

It is needless to say that work at the Sunburst can be carried on DAY year round, the climate in this section being so mild in winter that very little trouble is experienced in mining operations in the Quapaw Reserve.

Summing up the points in this report, I will say that you have a first-class lead and zinc property. Rarely will one find a tract of ground so universally mineralized as the Sunburst Mine. If you follow the recommendations I have made regarding development, I feel assured you will reap your reward in good dividends. Trusting that this report will meet with the approval of the President and Stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., I subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours,
M. S. PARKER.

As an investment proposition we believe that the Sunburst Mine will certainly pay no less than 25 per cent. We quote from other reliable sources the following figures showing the enormous annual dividends earned by lead and zinc mines in the Southwest field:

Osceola Mining Co.	24 per cent.	Katydid Mining Co.	50 per cent.
Cottonwood Mining Co.	25 per cent.	Mocking Bird Mining Co.	54 per cent.
Waddell Zinc Co.	27 per cent.	John Jackson Mining Co.	60 per cent.
Conqueror Lead and Zinc Co.	30 per cent.	Omega Mining Co.	117 per cent.
Hudson Mining Co.	33 per cent.	Dinger Mining Co.	120 per cent.
B. & H. Mining Co.	40 per cent.	Chapman Mining Co.	120 per cent.
		Underwriters' Land Co.	60 per cent.

Buy Stock on Easy Payment Plan

A rise in the price of these shares to par means over 1200 per cent. for every $1 invested—besides the dividends.

Subscriptions will be accepted for 200 shares and upward, either by cash in full, with reservation, or by 10 per cent. down and 10 per cent. monthly for 9 months.

The cost is the same either way, but by the installment plan you can reserve a much larger block of stock, and when the price advances, as it will immediately on disposal of this block of stock, you can reap the immediate profit.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive, upon request, certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 8 cents per share, par value, $1.00.

A few dollars will start you. Read the following table, then act promptly:

$16.00 buys 200 shares of stock; $1.60 down, $1.60 a month for 9 months.
$72.00 buys 400 shares of stock; $7.20 down, $7.20 a month for 9 months.
$80.00 buys 1000 shares of stock; $8.00 down, $8.00 a month for 9 months.
$160.00 buys 2000 shares of stock; $16.00 down, $16.00 a month for 9 months.

Property of Fabulous Wealth

HEMMED IN BY PRODUCING MINES

Thousands of dollars expended on shafts and development work show ore runs from 8 to 12 per cent—while a yield of 4 per cent. in Center Creek Mine has produced nearly $7,000,000

The increasing demand for lead and zinc is too obvious to need detailed statement. Both metals are in steady demand and at steadily advancing prices. The prices have gone up since 1899 from $41.42 per ton for lead and $26.61 for zinc to $87.00 for lead and $45.00 for zinc. The lead and zinc industry is now right at the front in the great commercial enterprises of the country. This southwestern district produces 80 per cent. of the zinc produced in the United States.

The earning capacity of the Sunburst's property, handling ore that averages from 8 to 15 per cent. can be estimated from the production of other companies. The Center Creek Mining Company, of Webb City, Mo., from an 80-acre tract, has taken out nearly $7,000,000 and is still producing.

The report for the year 1901 shows the following production during that year from the several properties mentioned:

	Acres.	Value.
American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co.	4000	$ 267,169.00
A. W. Taylor	180	169,758.00
J. W. Aylor	40	576,571.00
The Burgner Mining Co.	80	198,579.00
Center Creek Mining Co. (production to date)	200	6,662,194.00
Mrs. E. J. Chinn	120	234,799.00
Majestic Consolidated Zinc & Lead Co.	52	240,300.00
Continental Zinc Co. (production to date)	200	1,579,393.00
Consolidated Troup Mining Co.	40	194,643.00
Daughtery-Davy-McMillan Estate	80	455,006.00
The Empire Zinc Co.	491	120,319.00
Fox Heirs	20	120,724.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1905		1,261,541.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1904		1,025,650.00
John G. Guinn	640	82,847.00
Pittsburg-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co.	10	98,000.00
Pittsburg-Missouri Zinc & Lead Co.	170	413,204.00
United Zinc Co.	130	390,576.00

From these figures it can be seen readily how such large dividends are paid. The Dinger Co. pays 120 per cent., the Chapman 120 per cent., the Omega 117 per cent., and many others yield enormous returns.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF PROPERTY.

These profits are possible because of the concentrated richness of the ore, the fact that it is near the surface, that it requires no expensive machinery, that the buyers come to the mine and take the product right from the bins, that the climate is favorable, that the market is advancing, and the owners of the mine get steadily improving values for their ore produced. This is why lead and zinc mining is the safest and most profitable investment in the world today. Do you want 100 per cent. or more on your money?

Press Reports Rich Strike by Sunburst Mining Company

From the Baxter Springs News, of November 8, 1906.

One of the richest strikes made in the Baxter Springs mining camp, south of this city, for some time past, was that made by the Sunburst Mining Co., operating on one of their properties just east of the Sunnyside and north of the Hobo. The Sunburst Co. have three shafts in ore, with a large amount of drifting done, and this strike was made in No. 3 shaft, and apparently in the Hobo run of ore, which has always been considered one of the very best in the Quapaw reservation. The farther this run of ore is developed the richer it is showing.

The Sunburst Mining Co. also has made a very important deal the past week by purchasing from the Great Northern Mining Company 20 acres of leases one mile east of the Johanna, less than one mile southeast of the new rich strike made by the Irish Maid, and about two miles west of Monkey Hill, where the most famous lead strike was made ever encountered anywhere in the southwest. The Monkey Hill strike showed as much as 28 inches of solid lead of the very highest grade. The Great Northern, which is one of the largest holders of the best leases in this camp, made this sale the past week.

The purchase of this large tract of land by the Sunburst crowd means important developments in that section in addition to those already made, and, following on the heels of the rich lead strike made on the Charley Blackjacket land to the north of the tract and the purchase by a syndicate of Minnesota iron men, will cause an unusual amount of activity in that part of the camp.

The Sunburst Mining Co. will also start drifting their No. 1 shaft on the tract east of the Sunnyside to encounter the rich strike made to the north of it in the Isley mine. The Isley has encountered ore which will undoubtedly yield all the way from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent. The strike was made near the north line of the Sunburst tract.

Manhattan Gold Field

It you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5206 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

They could see now that the whole huge mass was brittle and honeycombed and rotten.

"Hello!" cried Amos Green. "What's that? I could have sworn that I heard a voice."

"Impossible. We are all here."

"It must have been my fancy, then."

Captain Ephraim walked to the seaward face of the cave and swept the ocean with his eyes. "We should lie in the track of some ships," said he. "There's the codders and the herring busses. We're overfar south for them, I reckon. But we can't be more'n 200 mile from Port Royal, in Acadia, and we're in the line of the St. Lawrence trade. What is it, Amos?"

The young hunter was standing with his ear slanting, his head bent forward, and his eyes glancing sidewise, like a man who listens intently. He was about to answer when De Catinat gave a cry and pointed to the back of the cave.

"Look at the crack now!"

It had widened by a foot since they had noticed it last until it was now no longer a crack. It was a pass.

"Let us go through," said the captain. He led the way, and the other two followed him. It was very dark as they advanced, with high dripping ice walls on either side and one little zigzag bar slit of blue sky above their heads. Tripping and groping their way, they stumbled along until suddenly the passage grew wider and opened out into a large square of flat ice. The floor was level in the center and sloped upward from that point to the high sides which bounded it on each side. With one impulse they began all three to clamber up until, a minute later, they were standing not far from the edge of the summit, seventy feet above the sea.

Amos Green looked about him with startled eyes. "I cannot understand it," said he. "I could have sworn—by the eternal, listen to that!"

The clear call of a military bugle rang out in the morning air. With a cry of amazement they all three craned forward and peered over the edge.

A large ship was lying under the very shadow of the iceberg. They looked straight down upon her snow white decks, fringed with shining brass cannon and dotted with seamen. A little clump of soldiers stood upon the poop, going through the manual exercise, and it was from them that the call had come which had sounded so unexpectedly in the ears of the castaways. Standing back from the edge, they had not only looked over the topmasts of this welcome neighbor, but they had themselves been invisible from her decks. Now the discovery was mutual, as was shown by a chorus of shouts and cries from beneath them.

But the three did not wait an instant. Sliding and scrambling down the slippery incline, they rushed, shouting, through the crack and into the cave, where their comrades had just been startled by the bugle call while in the middle of their cheerless breakfast. A few hurried words and the leaky longboat had been launched, their few possessions had been bundled in and they were afloat once more. Pulling round a promontory of the berg, they found themselves under the stern of a fine corvet, the sides of which were lined with friendly faces, while from the peak there drooped a huge white banner mottled over with the golden lilies of France. In a very few minutes their boat had been hauled up, and they found themselves on board of the St. Christophe, man-of-war, conveying Marquis de Denonville, the governor general of Canada, to take over his new duties.

CHAPTER XIX.

A SINGULAR colony it was of which the shipwrecked party found themselves now to be members. The St. Christophe had left Rochelle three weeks before with four small consorts conveying 500 soldiers to help the struggling colony on the St. Lawrence. The squadron had become separated, however, and the governor was pursuing his way alone in the hope of picking up the others in the river. Aboard he had a company of the regiment of Quercy, the staff of his own household, St. Vallier, the new bishop of Canada, with several of his attendants; three Recollet friars, five Jesuits bound for the fatal Iroquois mission, half a dozen ladies on the way to join their husbands, two Ursuline nuns and ten or twelve gallants whom love of adventure and the hope of bettering their fortunes had drawn across the seas.

There was peace between England and France at present, though feeling ran high between Canada and New York, the French believing, and with some justice, that the English colonists were whooping on the demons who attacked them. Ephraim and his men were therefore received hospitably on board, though the ship was so crowded that they had to sleep wherever they could find cover and space for their bodies. The Catinats, too, had been treated in an even more kindly fashion, the weak old man and the beauty of his daughter arousing the interest of the governor himself. De Catinat had during the voyage exchanged his uniform for a plain somber suit, so that, except for his military bearing, there was nothing to show that he was a fugitive from the army. Old Catinat was now so weak that he was past the answering of questions, his daughter was forever at his side, and the soldier was diplomatist enough, after a training at Versailles, to say much without saying anything and so their secret was still preserved.

On the day after the rescue they sighted Cape Breton in the south, and soon, running swiftly before an easterly wind, saw the loom of the east end of Anticosti. Then they sailed up the mighty river, though from mid-channel the banks on either side were hardly to be seen. As the shores narrowed in they saw the wild gorge of the Saguenay river upon the right, with the smoke from the little fishing and trading station of Tadousac streaming up above the pine trees. Thence the ship tacked on up the river past Mal-Baie. Amos Green, leaning on the bulwarks, stared with longing eyes at the vast expanses of virgin woodland, hardly traversed save by an occasional wandering savage or hardy coureur de bois. Then the bold outline of Cape Tourmente loomed up in front of them, they passed the rich, placid meadows of Laval's seigneury of Beaupre, and, skirting the settlements of the island of Orleans, they saw the broad pool stretched out in front of them—the falls of Montmorenci, the high palisades of Point Levi, the cluster of vessels, and upon the right that wonderful rock, with its diadem of towers, and its township huddled round its base, the center and stronghold of French power in America.

The old merchant had pined away since he had left French soil, like a plant which has been plucked from its roots. The shock of the shipwreck and the night spent in their bleak refuge upon the iceberg had been too much for his years and strength.

Since they had been picked up he had lain amid the scurvy stricken soldiers, with hardly a sign of life save for his thin breathing and the twitching of his scraggy throat. Now, however, he opened his eyes and raised himself slowly and painfully upon his elbow.

"What is it, father? What can we do for you?" cried Adele. "We are in America, and here is Amory and here am I, your children."

But the old man shook his head. "The Lord has brought me to the promised land, but he has not willed that I should enter into it," said he. "But at least I should wish, like Moses, to gaze upon it if I cannot set foot upon it."

A minute later the old merchant was on deck, and the two young men had seated him upon a coil of rope with his back against the mast, where he should be away from the crush. The soldiers were already crowding down into the boats, and all were so busy over their own affairs that they paid no heed to the little group of refugees who had gathered round the stricken man. He turned his head painfully from side to side, and his lids fell slowly over his eyes, which had been looking away out past Point Levi at the rolling woods and the faroff mountains. Adele gave a quick cry of despair and threw her arms round the old man's neck.

"He is dying, Amory; he is dying!" she cried.

A stern Franciscan friar who had been telling his beads within a few paces of them heard the cry.

"He is indeed dying," he said as he gazed down at the ashen face. "Has the old man had the sacraments of the church?"

But the old Huguenot had opened his eyes, and with a last flicker of strength he pushed away the gray hooded figure which bent over him.

"I left all that I love rather than yield to you," he cried, "and think you that you can overcome me now?"

The Franciscan started back at the words, and his hard, suspicious eyes shot from De Catinat to the weeping girl.

"So!" said he. "You are Huguenots, then!"

"Hush! Do not wrangle before a man who is dying!" cried De Catinat in a voice as fierce as his own.

"Before a man who is dead," said Amos Green solemnly.

As he spoke the old man's face had relaxed, his thousand wrinkles had been smoothed suddenly out as though an invisible hand had passed over them, and his head fell back against the mast. Adele remained motionless, with her arms still clasped round his neck and her cheek pressed against his shoulder. She had fainted.

De Catinat raised his wife and bore her down to the cabin of one of the ladies who had already shown them some kindness. A brief order was given that the old merchant should be buried in the river that night, and then, save for a sailmaker who fastened the canvas round him, mankind running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

B. Hodgins, J. H. Moss, H. C. Hewetson, and H. T. Kelly.

The President, Dr. Hoskin, took the Chair, and Mr. A. D. Langmuir, the Assistant Manager of the Corporation, was appointed to act as Secretary.

Very voluminous financial statements showing the operations of the Corporation for the year were laid on the table and fully explained to the Shareholders by the Managing Director, Mr. J. W. Langmuir.

The Twenty-fifth Annual Report of the Directors for the year was then read as follows:

The Directors of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation have pleasure in submitting their Twenty-fifth Annual Report, to which is appended the usual financial statements giving the result of the Corporation's transactions for the year ended 31st December, 1906.

The new business assumed during the past year is the largest in amont of any one year in the history of the Corporation, with the exception of 1905, which was abnormally increased by the taking over of one estate exceeding five million dollars. The character and extent of the new business thus assumed is shown in the following summary.:

In addition to the foregoing work the Corporation was appointed Trustee under Deeds of Trust for the issue of Bonds aggregating $9,785,000.00.

The revenues of the Corporation and the sources from which they were derived, together with the charges against the same, are plainly set out in the Profit and Loss Statement herewith submitted. The net profits for the year, after making provision for every ascertained or estimated loss, are $156,883.83, which includes a balance brought forward of $5,660.76, as compared with $119,791.31 (including a balance brought forward of $11,271.20) in the preceding year. Out of these net profits your Directors have declared two semi-annual dividends at the rate of seven and one-half per cent. per annum, amounting to $75,000.00; have written off $10,000.00 from the Ottawa Trust Company's assets purchased by the Corporation; from the safe deposit vaults and office furnishings at Head Office and Ottawa, and alterations to the building at Head Office, $7,247.24; have carried to Reserve $50,000 (thus increasing that fund to $575,000.00), and brought forward $19,841.61 to the credit of Profit and Loss.

As the Corporation has just closed the twenty-fifth year of its existence, it has been thought desirable to prepare a statement showing the business assumed by the Corporation each quinquennial period since its establishment in 1882. This statemet (which will be found appended to the report), not only shows the steady growth of the Corporation from year to year, but also affords strong evidence of the general appreciation by the public of its objects during the past quarter of a century.

Your Directors announce with much regret the death of two of their colleagues during the past year, viz.: Dr. J. W. Digby of Brantford and Mr. William Hendrie of Hamilton. Your Board appointed to take the place of these Directors during the unexpired portion of the year the Hon. Senator W. C. Edwards of Rockland, Ontario, and Mr. Arthur C. Hardy, Barrister, Brockville, Ontario.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. LANGMUIR, Managing Director.

JOHN HOSKIN, President.

We, the undersigned, beg to report that we have made a full examination of the books, accounts, and vouchers of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation to the 31st December, 1906, and find same to be correct and properly set forth in the above statement of Profit and Loss. We have examined and find in order all the mortgages, debentures, bonds, and scrip of the Corporation, as well as those negotiated for the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, and Trusts Estates and Agencies in the Corporation's hands, and have checked same with the Mortgage and Debenture Ledgers and Registers. The Bankers' balances, after deducting outstanding checks, agree with the books of the Corporation.

We have also examined the Reports of the Auditors of the Winnipeg and Ottawa Branches, and find that they agree with the Head Office books.

(Signed) GEORGE MACBETH,
Auditors.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The President, Dr. Hoskin, in moving the adoption of the Report, said:

It gives me a great deal of pleasure to move the adoption of the Report which had just been read (first) because it is a most satisfactory one in every respect, and (secondly) because this meeting marks the close of a quarter of a century in the history of the Corporation. The Company was established on the 3rd February, 1882, and of the nineteen charter Directors then appointed ten have died, four have resigned, and only five of the nineteen now remain on the Board, viz.: Attorney-General Foy, Sir Aemilius Irving, Senator Jaffray, Messrs. J. G. Scott, and J. W. Langmuir, the Managing Director. You are all aware that when we commenced business in 1882 we were the first and only Trust Company in Canada, and so well have we led the way as the pioneer company, and so well have we educated the public to use the services of a corporate executor, trustee, etc., that we have now no less than twelve competitors in the field, and had we not absorbed three companies we would have fifteen to face. Notwithstanding the keen rivalry we have had to meet, I think, after an examination of the statements submitted to you today, that you will all conclude that we have even more than held our own.

I am sure also that our shareholders have no reason to be dissatisfied as they have received not only good dividends during the whole period of their shareholding, but the highest paid by any of the other trust companies.

A change in the constitution of the Corporation was effected during the year by the abolishment of the Executive Committee in order that all the Directors on the Board might have a full knowledge of every undertaking and transaction before being entered upon, still, of course, retaining the Inspection Committee, which has done such excellent work.

With the immense mass of business in our hands, it would not have been at all surprising if the Corporation had to meet a great deal of litigation, including actions against the Corporation itself. You will, perhaps, therefore, be surprised to learn that only in three cases in twenty-five years has the Corporation ever been charged with mismanagement or breaches of trust, in all which we have been entirely absolved by the Courts, although one case is under appeal. I am sure you will agree with me that this is a record any Company might well be proud of, more particularly a Corporation having charge of estates and trusts, many of them placed under our care because of their involved and intricate condition.

Need I again say to the shareholders, and through them to the public, that the Corporation still strictly adheres to the decision arrived at on its establishment, to transact only business coming within the duties of an executor, administrator, trustee, investor, and work of a kindred character, as well as agents of persons holding these fiduciary positions. I fully believe that the great success of the Corporation is due to the appreciation of the public of our system of transacting a trust buinsess entirely free from speculative transactions, and it will be gratifying to the shareholders to learn from the statements which at the end of twenty-five years are presented that the Corporation is perhaps only now beginning to reap the benefit of our carrying on, in the strictest sense, a purely trust and agency business. Owing to the large and increasing volume of trust and agency business, and even with the Corporation's compensation reduced to a minimum, you will see that the net profits for the past year have increased.

I have therefore pleasure in moving the adoption of the Report, seconded by the Honorable Mr. Wood, leaving it for the Managing Director to address you on general matters connected with the Corporation.

MANAGING DIRECTOR'S ADDRESS

Mr. J. W. Langmuir, the Managing Director, being called on, said:

As the Annual Meeting of the Shareholders on this occasion marks the twenty-fifth anniversary in the history of The Toronto General Trusts Corporation, I may be permitted as one of its founders, as well as Managing Director, to very briefly review its career for the past quarter of a century.

The Corporation was called into existence in 1882 to provide a much-needed and important link in the chain of our monetary institutions in Canada, viz.:—An organization clothed with the requisite powers and equipment to perform the duties of a corporate executor, trustee, administrator and other kindred positions of a fiduciary character. Prior to that time these positions in Canada, and the duties pertaining to them, had to be undertaken by individuals with all the disadvantages that, in many instances, necessarily attended individual administration. These disadvantages, which frequently become serious evils, whether arising out of illness, death, incompetency, insolvency, or dishonesty, are so clearly set out in the literature of trust companies that I need not take up your time in recapitulating them on this occasion.

In its initial efforts to educate the public to adopt the corporate instead of the individual system of estate and trust management, the Corporation had to contend against not a few old established methods, both of a legal and fiduciary nature, which had prevailed in estate management from time immemorial. Apart from this it must also be admitted and the change was more or less radical in its nature and for that reason it required practical illustrations of the superiority of the corporate system before its genral acceptance by the public could be expected to prevail.

It has been truly said that confidence is a plant of slow growth, and the trite saying is peculiarly applicable to the growth and progress of a trust company. If in addition to the management of estates, the Corporation had entered the wide field of banking, promotion, underwriting and general financial work, as is done by nearly every trust company in the United States and not a few in Canada it will be obvious that the Corporation would have more speedily acquired perhaps a larger and possibly a more profitable business than in the conduct of strictly trust and agency work. In the former case the volume of business is restricted only by the amount of capital and credit that can be obtained and profitably employed; while in the latter the increase in business depends entirely on the appreciation by the public of the objects of the Corporation. The Board has always considered the work of promotion, guaranteeing industrial issues and other duties of a similar character to be more or less inconsistent with the functions of this Corporation at any rate, which has an enormous volume of estates business in its hands. Even at the present time with the mining operations now going on in the northern part of Ontario we have refused transactions which would have netted us many thousands of dollars.

That the difficulties which the Corporation had to contend with in its earlier years have been almost completely overcome, and that the Corporation has acquired, and now holds, the confidence and appreciation of the public is conclusively shown from the statement of executorships, trusts, and general work assumed and administered during the past twenty-five years. This statement, which is attached to the Report submitted to you today, is arranged in five-year periods, in order that the growth and progress of the Corporation may be more clearly shown at the end of each quinquennial year. A concise summary of these figures is as follows:

Executorships, Trusts, etc., taken over for the
First five years ended 31st March, 1887	$ 2,653,132.89
Second five years ended 31st March, 1892	5,458,445.45
Third five years ended 31st March, 1897	9,661,618.37
Fourth five years ended 31st March, 1901	15,427,672.81
Fifth five years ended 31st December, 1906	19,080,861.13
Making a total of	$56,291,452.47

It should be stated that the abnormally large increase in the quinquennial period ending in 1901 was due to the taking over of about $4,000,000 assets by the absorption of the Trust Corporation of Ontario.

The foregoing only includes the actual assets dealt with. If to this the interest and revenue derived from these assets be added, which properly may be done, the aggregate dealt with for the twenty-five years would amount to $89,787,762.85. These figures entirely exclude trusts assumed by the Corporation for bond issues, amounting to $64,057,000.00, and if these are added to the assets and revenue it is shown that the aggregate volume of trust and agency business transacted by the Corporation during the quarter of a century just ended amounted to no less than $153,864,762.85.

Another evidence of the growth and progress of the Corporation is exhibited by the large increase in the interest and rents derived from all assets, and also in the net profits of the Corporation in both cases shown in the quinquennial periods as follows:

	Interest and Rents.	Net Profits.
For first five years	$ 707,085.27	$ 79,598 02
For second five years	1,409,562.67	197,817 18
For the third five years	3,215,340.91	210,347 30
For the fourth five years	3,754,440.81	269,677 18
For the fifth five years	5,909,090.75	346,579 90

When these figures and statements are carefully examined I think you will agree with me that I am fully warranted in making the statement that the Corporation has acquired, and now holds, the confidence and appreciation of the public in fulfilling the duties for which it was brought into existence.

It is sometimes stated that the Corporation has already more business than it can properly attend to. There is not the slightest foundation for such a statement. Never in our history has the Corporation been better equipped for the prompt and effective management of every interest, whether large or small, that may be committed to its care. Moreover, it is only through the administration of a large volume and a great variety of trust and estate work that the requisite skill and experience can be acquired for effective management. And here I may also say that with the complete equipment and the systematic management which now obtains in the expert and clerical departments, the Corporation could, with the necessary additions to the staff, effectively handle double the business that it has now in hand.

With respect to the operations of the Corporation for the past year, they are set out with so much detail in the annual report and statements which have just been read that I need not take up your time with any extended comments. The profit and loss sheet clearly shows the receipts and the sources from which they were derived, and the expenditures under each heading. The net earnings, after payment of all charges and expenses of every nature, both at the Head Office and the Ottawa and Winnipeg Branches, and after making provision for every ascertained or estimated loss, amount to $150,438.09, as compared with $108,461.11 in the preceding year.

Having regard to the large volume of business the Corporation has to take care of, amounting to over thirty millions, I am sure you will agree with me that the net profits are not only very moderate, but, taking into consideration the great responsibilities that have to be assumed by the Corporation, they will be considered by most people to be insufficient.

Before closing I desire to express my thanks to the staff of the Corporation, both at the Head Office and the Bbranches, for the zealous and efficient manner in which they have performed their respective duties.

The Report of the Directors was adopted, as well as the report of the Inspection Committee, as presented by Mr. W. H. Beatty, Chairman. Certain bylaws and amendments were confirmed.

ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

The following Shareholders were elected Directors: John Hoskin, K.C., LL.D., Hon. S. C. Wood, W. H. Beatty, John L. Blaikie, W. R. Brock, Hon. J. J. Foy, K.C., M.P.P., Sir D. H. McMillan, J. W. Mr. Mitchell to Sell Grocery

Mr. F. J. R. Mitchell, who has decided to confine his attention to the liquor trade exclusively, is now offering his old established and successful grocery business for sale. This is a splendid opportunity for any wanting to obtain a good business at a reasonable price. e.o.d.t.f.

The Opera House Last Night

There was a good house at the theater last night, when "Thorns and Orange Blossoms" was presented. The play was a comedy-drama in four acts, and was particularly good throughout. The next attraction is Marks Bros., commencing Monday next.

Brinton C. Co. Rug Now Shown

Messrs. Richard Hall & Son, have a handsome rug 14x10in. 8 in size, on exhibition in their display windows. The rug is of especial local interest having been made by the Brinton Carpet Co., one of Peterborough's most recently acquired industries.

T. V. C. Outlet Discussed

Referring to the selection of Trenton as the southern outlet of the Trent canal, the Orillia News-Letter says:—The next move on the part of the Government should be to decide at once upon the northern outlet, and the Severn river has claims in this respect not possessed by any other route.

Gentlemen, Are You Bald?

Investigate and see for yourself the Art Coverings, Wigs and Toupees. Prof. Doremwend's manufactures are worn on over 55,000 heads by all classes, and in all stations of life. They are the essence of perfection, light in weight, durable and great benefit to health, and a protection to the head against Cold, Draught, Catarrh, etc. Trying on and demonstrating the completness of these goods free of charge. He will be at the Oriental Hotel on Monday, February 25th.

Work at Drummond Station

The gang of men sent recently to Drummond Station by the Lakefield Cement Co., to arrange for getting out clay, are now working overtime. The seven men there are now setting up the digger, a kind of dredge, which will be ready for active work by next week. As soon as the frostin out of the ground the present going will be greatly augmented and the clay gotten out. It is expected that from 24 to 30 cars a day will be shipped to Lakefield.

An Illegible Letter Received Here

Yesterday Mr. Pappas, proprietor of the two leading cigar stores on George street, got a letter that caused his hair to stand on end. Whilst Mr. Pappas can read and write Greek, English and French, his letter of yesterday was a sticker. It was from Tarpoli, Syria, and written in Turkish. As he could not read the Mohammedan language, there is a chance now for some one who wants to earn $10 by reading the letter in question.

Marks Bros Here Next Week

Mr. Alex. Marks, advance agent for Company No. A—1, of Marks Bros. four companies now on the road yesterday called at the city editor's sanctum of The Times and noted, as before remarked in these columns that his company will play to the Grand Opera House here all next week. The initial play presented Monday night is "The Rigged Princess," concerning which the Kingston, Ont., press contained both extended and complimentary notices.

Emhirst, Cobourg, Manitou, Mrs. Spence, Cobourg, N. Dakota.

Gained Both In Strength and Weight

Another Case That Proves the Merit of

FERROZONE

"I was in poor health nearly all last winter," writes Mrs. Grace of Wakefield, Ont. "My appetite was variable, I was weak and unfit for work. I suffered a good deal from nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. My digestion was generally out of order. By spring-time I had lost flesh, color, and had a bad cough. The doctor didn't help me very much, so I decided to try Ferrozone. It did me ever so much good in one week. I gained strength, looked and felt a lot better. When I had used six boxes of Ferrozone I weighed myself and found a gain of fifteen pounds. Ferrozone rebuilt my constitution, and made me a new woman. I consider Ferrozone worth it weight in gold to every weak woman. It cures quickly and saves big doctors' bills. (MRS.) R. CROSS."

Quaker Oats Co. Want Cars

The Quaker Oats Company which has been running its extensive works 24 hours a day has been forced to cease running at night on account of the great shortage of cars. The company are unable to get in a sufficient number of car loads of oats or oats to ship their output to keep the industry going the full 24 hours daily.

The present shortage felt elsewhere is a serious matter and will likely be enquired into by the Railway Commission at Ottawa to see if relief cannot be afforded.

NO DOCTORS GOING TO EXAMINE THAW

If Counsel For Defence Can Help It---Will Fight Any Proposal For a Lunacy Commission.

New York, Feb. 24.—Any attempt which may be made by District Attorney Jerome to have a commission in lunacy appointed to examine Harry K. Thaw will be vigorously opposed by Thaw's attorneys, according to A. Russell Peabody, who has issued a statement regarding rumors that it is Mr. Jerome's intention to apply for such a commission when he completes the cross-examination of Drs. Biageman and Deemar.

"If Mr. Jerome makes any such move as that, either at the reconvening of court Monday or later," said Mr. Peabody, who had just left Thaw in the Tombs, "Mr. Delmas, supported by other counsel, will fight against it to the last litch."

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw visited her husband early today and remained with him the full three hours allowed visitors. She appeared to be in much better condition physically than at the time of her visit yesterday.

She gladly needed the three days' grace brought by the holiday, from District Attorney Jerome's searching cross-examination. This was indicated by her appearance when she visited her husband yesterday.

Mrs. Thaw looked but a shadow of her former self and old those who have seen her almost daily since the trial began, and who saw her yesterday, said the change was almost ghastly.

That she is suffering severely under the ordeal is plainly apparent, and some fears were expressed yestrday when her appearance was noted, that she might not be able to withstand the trying situation still before her. Judging from the progress of Mr. Jerome's cross-examination, as so far developed, the session possibly finish with the witness under two days.

THAW A LUNATIC.

Yesterday reports were revived that Mr. Jerome is ready to bring on his application for a lunacy commission to examine the defendant. The district attorney, it is said, has questioned Drs. J. T. Deemar and C. F. Biageman, the Thaw family physicians, who were summoned as witnesses for Thaw, and from what he heard from them regarding insanity in the family of Mrs. William Thaw, he has become convinced that the strain has descended to Thaw, and that he is now insane.

It is pointed out that Mr. Jerome tried to have these doctors called before he began the examination of Mrs. Thaw, and again, on Thursday, he tried to interrupt her cro-ss-examination to bring them to the to the stand. The defence, however, it is stated, scented his plan, and blocked it for the time by refusing to have Mrs. Thaw's testimony stopped.

Jerome is now willing to let things go along as the defence may force them, but ultimately, if it suits, he will bring out his theory that Thaw is not a sane man, and then will come the application for a commission.

MRS. THAW'S REWARD.

Both Thaw and his wife were concerned about a statement printed yesterday, that no matter what was the outcome of the trial, young Mrs. Thaw would receive $300,000 as a reward for her testifying for her husband. It was maintained that soon after her husband's arrest she talked of going abroad, but gave this idea up after it had been arranged that she was to get $300,000. She refused to say anything about the story, but Lawyer Gleason characterized it as "malicious, cruel, false and inhuman."

STRAIGHT DENIAL.

This statement was given out yesterday by Mrs. William Thaw through her attorneys;

"Mrs. Wm. Thaw desires it understood that the statement that she or any of her family gave any money or any other inducements to Mrs. Evelyn Thaw for the position she has taken is untrue, unwarranted and unjust."

Mr. Hartridge yesterday denied a report that the Countess of Yarmouth had deserted her brother's cause. This report apparently grew out of the fact that the countess has not been at the trial for several days.

"That is all nonsense," said Mr. Hartridge, "the only reason that she has not been at the trial is because there is no place for her to stay, the witness room being crowded as it is. She has not visited him in the Tombs trial days because he is in court all the time that visitors are admitted there. She has come thousands of miles to help her brother and left everything to be with him."

ROLL DOWN HILL AND INTO RIVER

Three Pullman Cars Derailed While Going an Great Speed.

OVER 60-FOOT EMBANKMENT

Fifty-Four Passengers and a Dozen Trainmen Have a Narrow Escape.

Pittsburg, Feb. 24.—A statement issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad is to the effect that 54 passengers and a train crew of about a dozen persons were injured in the wreck on the Pennsylvania special, the fast 18-hour train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, between New York and Chicago, which occurred at a sharp curve at Black Diamond, Pa., seven miles east of Johnstown, shortly after midnight.

No one was killed and all the passengers have been accounted for.

The engine and combination smoking car remained on the rails, but the three Pullmans plunged over a 60-foot embankment into the Conemaugh River.

Fortunately, the cars were not submerged.

A scene of wild confusion resulted.

All of the passengers were in their berths and were thrown promiscuously around the cars.

All the persons on the train were injured more or less, but with the exception of John F. Kline of Joliet, it is said, none of the injuries are dangerous.

The train was running 50 minutes late and was trying to make up lost time.

CAUSE OF THE WRECK.

The wreck was caused by what is termed by railroaders as unaverted accident. The brake rigging on the first Pullman following the combination coach on the train dropped down and tore up the right rail for a distance of 300 yards, but the four Pullmans following plowed over the embankment to the river bank, 160 feet below overturning when they reached the bottom.

The "18-hour train" travels at a high rate of speed coming down the mountain. When the brake rigging fell it either stripped the heads off the bolts holding the rails to the ties or tore up the rails themselves.

A FINE TRAIN.

The injured were taken to hospitals at Altoona, Greensburg and this city, the majority of them, however, proceeded west in a special train.

The train was the finest on the Pennsylvania Railroad and many prominent passengers were aboard when the wreck occurred.

BRITISH INVASION BEAT ALL RECORDS

Steamship Accommodation is Booked Right Into Next May.

EMMIGRANT OFFICES FILLED

Scheme of Employment Agencies is a Great Inducement in Bringing Men Out.

London, February 23.—Special inquiries among emigration and shipping agents indicate a remarkable character, and the volume of the present year's emigration to Canada bids fair to outdistance even the records of 1906. Intending emigrants visit the Canadian Government offices in London at an average of 500 per day, nearly all of whom are of excellent character and physique. Similar interest prevails at provincial centres.

Steamship accommodation is already being taken out at an unprecedented pace right into May. The movement is also being greatly helped by the arrangements for the reception and placing of emigrants especially in Ontario farming districts. Working under Bruce Walker's directions, booking agents in all parts of the United Kingdom now send emigrants to one of the 197 Government employment agents in Canada, who receive two dollars for every emigrant placed. Half the terrors of emigration are thus removed.

The new Canadian Government motor car exhibiting produce of the Dominion in its most attractive forms starts on March 16, on its tour of the agricultural districts from Penzance to Wick and the Orkneys. Moreover, twenty-five returned Canadian farmers, who are now touring their old British districts lecturing and visiting, are meeting great success.

In view of this concentration upon Canada it is hoped the steamship companies will not carry out the threatened increase in steerage rates. Already New South Wales, by the aid of the Government grant of half the passage money, makes it practically as easy to get to Australia as to Canada.

WANDERED DAYS WITHOUT FOOD

Young Englishman Went Insane Owing to Sickness.

WORE OUT HIS FEET

Doctors Hope to Cure His Insanity--Was Without Shelter

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 24.—While in a demented condition, Victor Emanuel Appleyard, a young Englishman, wandered away from a hand-logging camp on Broughton Island, and for three days walked about in the woods without shelter or food before he was discovered by searching parties. This exposure so aggravated the affliction of the man that he became at times violently insane, and his companions had great difficulty in caring for him for over a week before they could place him on the steamer Cassiar to be brought to Vancouver.

Accompanied by two friends, Appleyard arrived here, and was later taken to the Asylum for the Insane at New Westminster. His case is by no means a hopeless one, and it is thought by the physicians who examined him that he may recover his reason.

According to the accounts of the men who brought Appleyard here, he suffered greatly from lack of sleep due to a distressing case of catarrh. Gradually dementia developed, and it was while subject to a severe attack that he wandered away and lost himself in the woods. When found he was worn out with exposure, and his feet were very sore. On being taken back to the camp he became very violent at times, and, being a strong man, it was, with difficulty that he could be controlled.

The logging camp, located on Greenway Sound, was icebound, and it was over a week after Appleyard had been rescued before it was possible to take him to Port Harvey, where he could be placed on the Cassiar. On arrival here the man was taken in charge by the Provincial police and placed in a straight jacket.

ALL-NIGHT WATCH TO MAKE RESCUE

Contrived Raft Which Was Allowed to Drift Close to the Wrecked Steamer---Braved Death to Save Women.

Hook of Holland, Holland, Feb. 24.—In the early hours of morning the three remaining survivors were taken off the wreck of the British steamer Berlin by the same lifeboat crew which has done such splendid work during the past 48 hours. The rescued persons are all women—Frau Weintberger, her 16-year-old nurse girl, Mina Repler, and Fraulein Theile. This brings the total number of saved up to fifteen out of the 143 who were on board the vessel.

Twenty-two bodies were recovered this afternoon from below the deck of the Berlin.

The lifesavers watched the wreck all night for a chance to get alongside, but they had to wait until low water, at about one a.m., when they put off on board the tug Wodan, which had a raft in tow for the use of the rescuers.

On getting as near the wreck as possible, Capt. Sperling of the lifeboat crew boarded the raft, which was allowed to drift alongside the Berlin, and the captain managed to clamber on board by means of a line. He then lowered the helpless, half dead women, one by one, to the raft, whence they were conveyed to the Wodan.

The last survivors of the wrecked steamer arrived here at three o'clock and were taken to the Amerika Hotel, where they received every attention.

HERO TELLS OF RESCUE.

Capt. Sperling, who rescued the last three survivors, is the master of a ship now in this harbor from Dordrecht. The captain, with two of his nephews, volunteered to assist the lifeboat men. Sperling modestly spoke modestly of his exploit.

"The women were lying there alive," he said. "We could not abandon them without a further attempt to get them ashore. As we neared the wreck the seas were still high, washing three or four feet over the breakwater. Myself, my nephews and another man jumped on the raft and took her alongside the Beacon Light. I succeeded in reaching the breakwater, to which I moored the raft with a rope.

"From the breakwater we climbed on board the remnant of the Berlin and found the three women huddled under the hurricane deck, surrounded by ten or twelve corpses. The women were in a pitiable plight, screaming and crying hysterically as they came to us, becoming us not to leave them. They were famishing and stiff with cold, their clothing was soaked with icy water and they were unable to walk.

BRAVE WOMAN.

"The nurse Fraulein Repler, insisted that her companions should first be saved before she was removed from the wreck, so I carried Fraulein Theile to the side, lowered her into a rope cradle and lowered her upon the raft. Frau Weinberger was next taken off. She was in painful distress, weeping for her husband and child, who were drowned. Finally Fraulein Riepler, who was able to walk with assistance, was placed on the raft, which was hauled alongside the Wodan.

"The whole rescue took only half an hour."

SPORTING TOPICS

HOCKEY.

Jealousy the Cause of a Chicago Murder

Chicago, Feb. 24.—While raving in her cell at the police station, Mrs. Mechie McDonald, who on Thursday shot and killed Webster S. Guerin, an artist, yesterday told the police enough to lead them to the conclusion that it was jealousy, and not blackmail, which led her to take the life of her alleged clandestine lover.

Made desperate by a false report that Guerin was betrothed to a west side society girl, the police are of the opinion that she took Guerin's life in revenge.

Mrs. McDonald is still in such a condition mentally that nothing of a definite character regarding the tragedy can be learned from her. Physicians said last night that she showed signs of improvement and that in a few days she would have fully recovered.

Rescued the Family

Montreal, Feb. 24.—Early yesterday morning fire broke out in a wooden house in Verdun, occupied by Alex. Squire, his wife and three children and his brother. The brother woke up, and unable to get to the part of the house where the others were, dashed outside almost naked and climbed up the back kitchen.

He found his brother and his wife and children unconscious, and carried them out, but they were so severely burned that they had to be sent to the hospital, where they lie unconscious. The rescuer was also burned in the hands and face, and his feet, having no shoes on, were frozen.

After Preston's Evidence re-London Case

Toronto, Feb. 24.—W. T. R. Preston, acting commercial agent at Cape Town, South Africa, for the Dominion Government, will tell to a commission appointed Saturday by His Honor Judge Winchester, of his connection with the London election scandal.

The application was made by George Wilkie of the firm of Reid, Rowell, Wilkie & Wards, on behalf of John O'Gorman and the others indicted with him in irregularities in connection with the Hyman-Gray election.

Judge Winchester granted the application on the grounds that the trial of these men should not be delayed.

His honor issued the commissions to both Sydney, Australia, and Hongkong, China, so that in case Mr. Preston was not at the place he might be caught at the other.

All of Central America in Formidal Upheaval

Indications Are That Costa Rica Only Will Escape.

City of Mexico, Feb. 24.—"War is an actual condition in Central America," said Under Secretary of State Algera last night. "We have received a message from the Mexican consul-general at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, which says;

"Minister of Foreign Affairs Cullen declares that active war has been declared against Nicaragua. President Bonilla is now at the head of the Honduran troops and marching to the frontier to meet the forces of President Zelaya."

In response to questions as to the attitude of Salvador in the struggle, Secretary Algera was reticent, but when assured that the Associated Press has received information that this republic would become involved as an ally of Honduras he admitted that the department had received telegrams corroborating this.

A high state official who asked that his name be not used at this time, said:

"This upheaval will perhaps be the most formidable that has ever occurred in Central America. At first it will be Honduras and Salvador against Nicaragua, but from information which we have obtained we know that Guatemala will be the ally of Nicaragua. Whether the aid of President Cabrera's country will be open or secret we don't yet know, but we do know that the country will be drawn into the controversy.

"This will mean that all Central America will be in a state of war with the exception of the republic of Costa Rica. As to her attitude we are uncertain.

Little Girl Lost In New York

New York, Feb. 24.—The police of this city and a corps of private detectives are searching for 14-year-old Mary Clay, daughter of the president of the United States Machinery Co., of Philadelphia.

The girl has been missing since Feb. 13, when she left a boarding school in Auburn, N.Y., and came to this city, but it was not until yesterday that an official announcement was made.

It appears that men from police headquarters here have been engaged on the case for several days, and that private detectives employed by the girl's father also have been at work. Up to today no trace of the child had been found.

The girl is said to have left Auburn on the afternoon of Feb. 13, and reached New York the following morning. That day she applied to the Y.W.C.A. for employment, and was sent to a home for working girls in the Bronx. She remained in the latter place until a week ago yesterday, when she went down town with another girl to do some shopping.

The two girls became separated in the crowded shopping district, and no trace of Mary has been found since.

Negotiations Are Off

Rome, Feb. 24.—The Vatican authorities consider that the negotiations for the lease of the church have been broken by the French government, not having resumed the negotiations on the same lines where Education Minister Briand interrupted them, but having added, evidently at the instigation of Premier Clemenceau "new conditions offensive to the church, which are not acceptable, especially the clause prohibiting the appointment of foreign priests as heads of parishes."

Opeska, Ala., Feb. 24.—A man arrested last night and believed to be William F. Walkerm, the missing New Britain, Conn., banker, today was identified as another man.

The O. H. A. Dispute to be Settled Tonight

On Saturday morning Secretary Chris Graham received notification from Acting Secretary Fitzgerald of the O.H.A., that a meeting of the executive will be held tonight to consider the protest Peterborough has sent in. This meeting was to have been held Saturday but was postponed until Monday owing to absence of President Darroch.

The Toronto Globe, of Saturday, which sits near the O.H.A. throne, had the following, which does not augur well for the local contention, viz.:

"Peterborough's desire for a chance to play again with Kingston for the championship of the eastern senior district is natural, but the claim has no very substantial foundation. As the Kingston Whig says, when the clubs in the group drew up their schedule, they agreed, Peterborough excluded, that Kingston and Midland should play a sudden death game, the winner to be considered winner of the home-and-home series."

BEWARE OF "DIGESTIVES"

The Only Way to Cure Stomach Disorders is by Strengthening the Digestive Organs.

The ordinary pepsin tablet has ruined more stomachs than all other causes combined. While it gives temporary relief, it leaves the digestive system weaker than ever, and the tablets must be continued with increased frequency.

The only way to permanently cure stomach troubles is by strengthening the digestive organs with a Mi-o-na stomach tablet taken before meals. In this way the remedy prepares the stomach for the food and excites the secretion of gastric juices so that, when the food is eaten, the stomach is prepared to digest it.

If Mi-o-na was a mere digestive, it would be taken after eating, so as to mix with the food, but then permanent relief would not be gained.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are sold only in a neat metal box, convenient for the purse or vest pocket, and cost but 50c.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50c box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c.

Write today for a free sample package and also give us your symptoms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give your case his careful and personal attention without charge. Booth's Mi-o-na Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

COBALT'S GREAT FUTURE

Fifteen Thousand Workmen Will be Employed There.

Cobalt, Ont., Feb. 25.—Several circumstances and developments have transpired recently in the Cobalt district which have brought the idea of moving the town of Cobalt prominently before the people in the town, and as people get more strongly impressed with the great future of the camp, the idea gains in favor.

The fact that the Contagas Company have begun the sinking of a shaft on one of the most valuable lots in the town, indicates that this company is soon to assert its rights, which in summer will probably take the shape of trenching and digging all over their part of the town site.

The owners of the town lots which now constitutes the property of the City of Cobalt Mining Company, were at first very wrathy at the idea of moving the town, but now they see their property is worth more as a mining proposition than as real estate and many of these are now in favor of moving the town. From the fact that a sewerage system would cost more than the town was worth the people of Cobalt realize that some thing has to be done. The only solution to the difficulty is North Cobalt.

It was the recognition of all these facts that led the Cobalt Development Company Limited to purchase 4,000 lots from the Western and Northern Lands Corporation Limited. Since the purchase strong information has been gained that the C.P.R. are going to locate in North Cobalt their terminals.

It is estimated 15,000 workmen will be employed in the mines of Cobalt within three years. North Cobalt is the nearest place at which absolute title can be had to land. At present three different companies either hold charters, or are trying to secure charters for an electric road between Cobalt, Haileybury and New Liskeard, or already have them. North Cobalt is the nearest level land to Cobalt mines and any railway, running from Cobalt to New Liskeard and Haileybury, must, owing to topographical conditions pass through North Cobalt townsite.

General Booth Sails for Canada

Leader of the Salvation Army Starts on a Long Tour.

London, Feb. 24.—Wrinkled with age, but with enthusiasm undiminished, General Booth of the Salvation Army left London yesterday morning to board the Atlantic Transport Liner SS. Minneapolis at Southampton, bound for New York, when the general will proceed to Canada and the far east.

He will spend two weeks in New York before proceeding to Canada to take the steamer Minnesota April 1st for Japan. While in Ottawa Gen. Booth will be the guest of the governor-general, Earl Grey. After traveling through Japan the general will go to Pekin and expects to be back in London by July and commence another "salvation army campaign" through the British Isles.

He will celebrate his 78th birthday, April 10, in the middle of the Pacific, while on his way to Japanland hopes to be received in audience by the Japanese audience.

MORE BOXES OF GOLD

And Many Greenbacks.

25 boxes of Gold and Greenbacks will be sent to persons who write the most interesting and truthful letters of experience on the following topics:

1. How have you been affected by coffee drinking and by changing from coffee to Postum.

2. Give name and account of one of more coffee drinkers who have been hurt by it and have been induced to quit and use Postum.

3. Do you know any one who has been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless at the first trial?

4. Did you set such a person right regarding the easy way to make it clear, black, and with a snappy, rich taste?

5. Have you ever found a better way to make it than to use four heaping teaspoonfuls to the pint of water, let stand on the stove until real boiling begins, and beginning at that time when actual boiling starts, boil full 15 minutes more to extract the flavor and food value. (A piece of butter the size of a pea will prevent boiling over). This contest is confined to those who have used Postum prior to the date of this advertisement.

Be honest and truthful, don't write poetry or fanciful letters, just plain, truthful statements.

Contest will close June 1st, 1907, and no letters received after that date will be admitted. Examinations of letters will be made by three judges, not members of the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd. Their decisions will be fair and final, and a neat little box containing a $10 gold piece sent to each of the five writers of the most interesting letters, a box containing a $5 gold piece to each of the 20 next best, a $2 greenback to each of the 100 next best, and a $1 greenback to each of the 200 next best, making cash prizes distributed to 325 persons.

Every friend of Postum is urged to write and each letter will be held in high esteem by the company, as evidence of such friendship, while the little boxes of gold and envelopes of money will reach many modest writers whose plain and sensible letters contain the facts desired, although the sender may have but small faith in winning at the time of writing.

Talk this subject over with your friends and see how many among you can win the prizes. It is a good, honest competition and in the best kind of a cause, and costs the competitors absolutely nothing.

Address your letter to the Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich., writing your own name and address clearly.

Arrested for Bigamy Night After Marriage

Montreal, February 24. — Jacob K. Swartsward, alias John C. Gordon, alias J. W. Miller, of Norwich, Conn., is detained at police headquarters on a charge of bigamy.

Swartsward was married Thursday night by Rev. Canon Lixon to Miss Catherine Davis, of 170 Versailles street, ra hier in the dining-room of the Queen's Hotel. His young bride has preferred the charge against him.

Not only does Swartsward have a wife and five children in Norwich, Conn., declares Chief Carpenter, but the probability is that very soon he may be charged with another offence.

Swartsward has been putting up at the Queen's Hotel off and on since last December, and has figured as a member of the United States secret service. Plausible yarns he told his acquaintances. One was that he was looking for a minister who had skipped from New York with $165,000. Another was that he was keeping a wide open eye for counterfeiters.

He has been quite busy making proposals of marriage since he arrived in the city, and this was the cause of his arrest. He offered his hand and heart to a young lady of a well-to-do Jewish family, whose relatives knowing him under his "Gordon" sobriquet, wanted to find out more about him. One of the male members of the family had business in New York and decided to drop in at Norwich to ask about "Gordon." He found that "Gordon" was Swartsward, and that Swartsward had a wife and five children.

The visitor to Norwich told this story to Chief Carpenter and Detective McLaughlin hied him to the Queen's Hotel yesterday morning. Here he found that the man of many aliases had been married to the young dining-room cashier the night before.

Swartsward admitted to Chief Carpenter that he had a wife and five children and did not seem at all worried.

"It is not a case of murder," said he, "and I can't be hanged for it."

Arraigned on the bigamy charge before Judge Piche, the prisoner did not wish to plead until he had seen counsel.

Pale Faced Girls

Thousands Using Successful Cure For Paleness and Anaemia.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be applied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton had invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up the young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness was hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young women to use them."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1, by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE

The Colonial Conference is to assemble in April. The British press is already talking about it, and the usual number of suggestions are made by people, who are hopelessly out of touch with public sentiment in the outlying parts of the Empire. One writer thinks that the name of the gathering ought to be changed, because he thinks that the word "colonial" is not approved of by the British people beyond the seas. He is quite wrong in this. What we object to is being called "colonists" and our countries being called "colonies." We do not object to the use of the word "colonial" as distinguishing anything from what may be properly called British or Imperial. As for the expression "conference," it seems to describe correctly the nature of the gathering of Colonial Premiers, and it will be time enough to change it when the nature of the business to be transacted at such gatherings is changed. Speaking specially for Canada, we do not think that the people are quite ready for anything more formal than a conference, at which questions can be debated and yet left largely open. In the course of not a very long time, we hope, the people of the United Kingdom, as well as those of the outlying parts of the Empire, will understand themselves and each other sufficiently to make something more than a conference desirable, but just at present it would be as well to leave things as they are. The Times very earnestly desires the consolidation of the Empire, but believes the process will be slow, and that haste will defeat any progress in that direction. It is quite true that the Empire is an anomaly. No one knows just what keeps it together; but the greater the freedom enjoyed by each component part of it, the stronger is the tie between all the parts. We may not be able to explain how this comes about, but it is just as hard to explain how it happens that there is at all British Empire at all. Why is there not a French Empire or a Spanish Empire? At one time the prospects of such things were far better than those of a British dominion encircling the globe. So let us not be in a hurry to "improve" things. A good many matters, both within and without the United Kingdom, require to be worked out before we can hope to have a parliament representing all parts of His Majesty's dominions sitting at Westminster. For the present conferences will do very well. In empire-building, as in most things that are worth while, the more haste the less speed.

Jumped from a Window.

London, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Bessie Dodge wife of George Dodge, a street railway motorman, was instantly killed last evening by jumping from a third storey window of the maternity ward of Victoria Hospital, while the victim of temporary insanity induced by her illness. Her husband entered the room immediately after, and called the nurse, who discovered the body outside.

2,000 Persons a Day Ask About Canada

London, Feb. 23.—General Booth stated that the Salvation Army is receiving inquiries about emigration to Canada at the rate of 2,000 a day. Ten per cent. are from persons of unsuitable ages, boys ranging from 7 to 18.

General Booth, who sails for New York today, says the Army is still misunderstood in parts of the Dominion.

"We are opposed, not because our methods of work are irrational, nor because they are unlikely to succeed, but simply because they are novel. What we preach even the drunkard and semi-idiot can understand."

General Booth added that the thought the Army now stood very high in the estimation of the Canadian people generally. He hoped to make arrangements between the Home and Colonial Governments for the transfer of pauper and deserted children before they had time to contract bad habits.

Lieutenant W. L. Demeurey has been re-selected for employment with the Canadian forces.

Proposal to Erect a Million Dollar Smelter

Montreal, Feb. 23.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy yesterday received a visit from Mr. H. Moggly, manager of the big smelter at Rapid City, Dakota, who is considering the establishment of a million-dollar smelter in Canada, to deal with cobalt and nickel ores. Several sites for this smelter are proposed, but the one which he seems to favor most is at Parry Sound, to which the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern railways now have entry, and which early in the coming summer will be served by a short straight line which the C.P.R. is now building through that district. According to Mr. Moggley the smelter to be established by the syndicate he represents will be an entirely independent one, and will treat ores cheaper than any of the present smelters here or in the United States.

Seaport for the C. P. R.

Augusta, Maine, Feb. 23.—A bill was introduced in the Legislature yesterday to authorize the Sebastcook and Moosehead Railroad to extend its lines to connect with the Canadian Pacific and Wiscasset and Quebec Railroads. If the proposed extensions are constructed it is said that the Canadian Pacific road will have a tidal outlet at Wiscasset. The road runs across the northern part of the State but had no seaport in Maine.

Terrorist Outbreak

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Feb. 23.—The post-office on Wapolna street, was attacked at noon yesterday by a band of terrorists, who shot and killed the postmaster, two postal clerks and two soldiers guarding the office, and wounded a score of bystanders. The terrorists robbed the safe of the cash and stamps, and escaped in cabs. The post office authorities admit that the robbers got away with several thousand roubles.

A FRIEND'S TIP

90-Year-Old Man Not Too Old to Accept a Food Pointer.

"For the last 20 years," writes a Maine man, "I've been troubled with Dyspepsia and liver compaint, and have tried about every known remedy without much in the way of results until I took up the food question.

"A friend recommended Grape-Nuts food, after I had taken all sorts of medicines with only occasional, temporary relief.

"This was about nine months ago, and I began the Grape-Nuts for breakfast with cream and a little sugar. Since then I have had the food for at least one meal a day, usually for breakfast.

"Words fail to express the benefit I received from the use of Grape-Nuts. My stomach is almost entirely free from pain and my liver complaint is about cured. I have gained flesh, sleep well, can eat nearly any kind of food except greasy, starchy things and am strong and healthy at the age of 70 years.

"If I can be the means of helping any poor mortal who has been troubled with dyspepsia as I have been, I am willing to answer any letters enclosing stamp." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Parisians' Bread.

There is no city in the world where so much bread is consumed as in Paris. It is estimated that every inhabitant eats one pound a day on the average. Even in past centuries the Frenchmen—especially Parisians—had a horror of stale bread. And, as in those days people manufactured their own bread, they had a curious way of making it palatable. Strange as it may seem, the bread they prepared—huge round or square slabs—was used as a dish on which the meat was carved and bore the name of "tranchoirs," or "tailloirs." The juice of the meat having penetrated into the bread imparted a pleasant taste and prevented it from becoming dry.

High Priced Copy.

During the siege of Kimberley the editor of the only daily paper there was often hard put to find enough news. One day in a clubroom he found Cecil Rhodes reading a fairly new paper from Cape Town. He borrowed it and rushed to his own office, where it soon reappeared as a special edition, selling like hot cakes. That same evening he met Rhodes, who inquired, "Where's my Cape Town paper?" "Oh, I cut it up for the printers," was the reply. "Please don't do that again," said Rhodes mildly. "That paper came through my native runners and cost me $1,000."

SELECTIONS

BALLOONING.

The Cost and the Fascination of This Aerial Sport.

I have often been asked how ballooning compared with other sports both in cost and in enjoyment. The first cost to those who wish to soar above the clouds is smaller than in automobiling, but each ascension costs some $300. A flight may last less than an hour or it may continue the better part of a day.

The tendency is toward flights of longer duration, as invention helps the aeronaut, and with the multiplication of its devotees, particularly among the amateurs, the records will become longer both in hours and miles.

When one leaves the earth the impressions come so fast that one can hardly differentiate them. They produce a kaleidoscopic effect. A man must stop and concentrate his mind on certain special sensations, or else on returning to earth he will find that he has no sensation in particular to tell about.

There is the impression of the crowd of people shouting and waving their hands. Before you realize it they have vanished as individuals. The earth sinks from you, the houses become tiny boxes, and large rivers appear brooks that you could easily jump across.

The lakes are pools, and marsh land seems solid. This latter was the cause of my friend Nocquet's landing where he did and sacrificing his life. Forests become smooth like pasture land. Railroad trains are like crawling worms, and all the earth sounds eventually cease.

At 1,000 or 2,000 feet you pass the dust line, which is as clearly marked as the line between water and air. As high as 2,000 feet there are still frequently seen butterflies, mosquitoes and other insects. Remarkably beautiful effects of clouds are seen from the balloon, especially when the sun shines on them. They often seem like snow banks, and their edges are always bluish, like water, and ever give the aeronaut the sensation of approaching the ocean.

When in the clouds you can see only the basket and its occupants, and you may suddenly pass out of them to find that you are driving straight into a mountain peak, as we did once. If you stay in the fog there is nothing to warn you of such a danger except the roaring of the wind in the treetops, and a quick casting out of ballast may be necessary to save you from balloon wreck on the crags.—Dr. Julian P. Thomas in Appleton's.

Australian Gold.

Although most of the Australian gold is now obtained from depths of hundreds and thousands of feet, it is still possible to acquire a respectable nugget by pick and shovel close to the surface. The other day some workmen were making a drain near the city hall of Bendigo when the pick of one of them rebounded after having struck something hard. "That must be a nugget," remarked a jocular bystander. "I'll look," said the workman, and the next moment he had a lump of quartz thickly studded with gold in his hands. Then the earth that had been thrown out in the making of the drain was "cleaned up," as the miners say, and smaller gold specimens were secured. And now, if the law permits, a shaft is to be sunk in the back yard of a hotel close by.

Denatured Alcohol.

It is very misleading to base elaborate arguments on German experience with denatured alcohol. The conditions are by no means similar. Germany has no natural supply of gasoline and kerosene as have we. Germany depends upon alcohol; we do not. There are many problems to be met in this matter. In this work the farmer, distiller and machinists must co-operate. The advantages from the increased use of alcohol for industrial purposes will be manifold, and if the farmer keeps awake he will get his share of them.—Farming.

Individuality In Gifts.

Individuality should be the one thing looked for in Christmas gifts. They should be the particular thing the recipient desires, if possible, and if there is anything that can be marked it should be. One handkerchief marked with all the initials is worth half a dozen bought with a single initial, which any one might have. Everything is marked this year, the lingerie and even fine shirt waists in tiny handkerchief letters. It only costs a few cents a letter to have this done.—Harper's Bazar.

Maple Insect.

A scale insect known as the cottony maple scale has been doing a good deal of damage in some parts of the United States, especially in fine sugar maples grown for shade. This scale is much larger than the San Jose, larger even than the oyster shell bark louse. It has been found that the insect could be controlled by a winter treatment of kerosene emulsion, which should be made up rather strong.—Country Gentleman.

An Electric Overcoat.

The Electrical World announces the invention by a resident in Paris of an appliance known as the "electric thermophile." It consists of a light battery to be carried in the pocket and an arrangement of wires attached to an ordinary suit of clothes which will keep the wearer warm and do away with the necessity for an overcoat out of doors or a fire at home.

—Just in: A very fine lot of souvenir postal cards of all public places of interest. See them at Times Bookstore.

Be a Man.

According to the order of nature, men being equal, their common vocation is the profession of humanity, and whoever is well educated to discharge the duty of a man cannot be badly prepared to fill any of those offices that have relation to him. It matters little to me whether my pupil be designed for the army, the pulpit or the bar. Nature has destined us to the offices of human life, antecedent to our destination concerning society. To live is the profession I would teach him. When I have done with him it is true he will be neither a soldier, a lawyer nor a divine. Let him first be a man. Fortune may remove him from one rank to another as she pleases. He will always be found in his place.—Rousseau.

Hats In Parliament.

A member of parliament must never stand up with his hat on even if he has only risen to speak to the man behind him. Coming in, going out or speechifying he is always hatless, and he is sometimes hatless when sitting down. Thus if the speaker mentions a bill the member is responsible for he lifts his hat. If his name is mentioned in a speech he lifts his hat. Even if he happens at those times to be bare headed he must seize a hat, put it on, then lift it.

Tobacco Smoke and Flowers.

A remarkable effect of tobacco smoke on the color of flowers may be seen in the case of the field scabi, named botanically Knautia arvensis, so frequently on the hills and commons from August till October. If its purplish blue blossoms, which form nearly globose heads, are held in the smoke of tobacco, their color will soon turn to a bright green, about the same color as the leaves.—Exchange.

The Dangerous Part.

"See here," feebly complained the victim after the accident, "I thought you said it was perfectly safe to go up in that old elevator?"

"Well," replied the elevator man, "so it was safe to go up. You see, the dangerous part of it was comin' down."

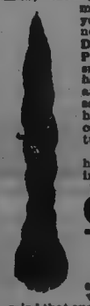
COMING

Monday, Feb. 25th
ORIENTAL HOTEL, PETERBORO

TO IMPROVE YOUR APPEARANCE

Retain your youthful freshness so that no one can remark, "she is past her prime." To appear younger and more attractive than the average woman, you must be particular that your Hair shows no sign of being thin, short or scrawny. A DORENWEND TRANSFORMATION, POMPADOUR, WAVE, CURL or SWITCH will substitute nature's defects. Even if you have plenty of your own hair, these light and airy artifices may be worn over it, saving you the worry of arranging your hair in the prevailing style. Your hair can be perfectly matched in color and texture, so that detection is out of the question.

Now, if you have in your mind any prejudice regarding artificial hair, it will forever be dispelled after seeing how natural and becoming our productions will prove in your case.



CONSULT PROFESSOR DORENWEND

DURING THIS VISIT

Advice regarding your hair and how you can make the most of it, also a personal demonstration of the newest styles in transformations, will be given the same as at our establishment in Toronto. Bear in mind that our styles are originated and designed by Professor Dorenwend, and they cannot be procured from any other makers. Their equal have yet to be produced.

MAN TO MAN—ABOUT BALDNESS

If you are bald, or partially so, you must realize that it makes you look old. Notwithstanding the desire to have back your one time bushy head of hair, you hesitate before wearing a natural hair covering simply because you imagine it is going to be noticed by others. Now you never made a greater mistake. Thousands of men, who thought the same as you do, are to-day wearing a

and instead of carrying the handicap that baldness proved to them, they are now enjoying the advantage of "looking young"—and that is what counts to-day in business and social life. Our Patent Toupee is a featherweight fac-simile of your own natural hair and may be worn without fear of detection—impossible to remove from the head unless at will—not the least clumsy or uncomfortable. They act as a protection, preventing colds and catarrh, so common to bald men.

Now do not neglect this opportunity—come and see for yourself. A few minutes' demonstration will convince you that a Dorenwend Patent Toupee is not like the clumsy, wiggy affairs that are claimed to be "just as natural."

Burned to Death

Quebec, Feb 21.—Burned to death in their beds in a fire which consumed the residence and store of their father, two young children of Mr. Bayack, general storekeeper at Valcartier, a few miles north of this city, met a horrible and sad fate yesterday morning. Their little bodies being burned to a crisp. The little victims were about two years and seven years old. Mr. Bayack, who is a Hebrew, conducted a general store in the place known as "The Settlement." The building and all its contents, the stock alone being valued at about $5,000, were reduced to a heap of smouldering ruins.

Collector Cupid

By ESTHER HARNDIN

Copyright, 1908, by P. C. Eastment

Peggy Hall sat among her shattered household idols and wept.

The particular idol which she had elected to moisten with bitter tears was a small desk of mission wood, around which had centered her happy household interests. How she had kept her accounts, calculating with infinite pains her steadily reduced living expenses! And she had written to the little town in New England letters which fairly brimmed with the contentment she had found in her life in the bustling city which would have terrified most girls from her native village.

For she had been content—nay, more, she had been happy. She had done her best, too, to make things move smoothly, but now—

No, she would not say that she hated Kit and Lucy, but she did think they were playing a very small part. Then she dried her eyes, pulled out her bank book and a sheet of blank paper and began to figure. At the end of five minutes down went her head again, and this time a sheet of paper sprinkled all over with relentless figures received the flood of tears.

Perhaps at this time Kit and Lucy, who worked in the suit department of Keith & Blank's store, felt a bit unhappy too. It was a rainy, depressing day, and customers were few. The floorwalker went downstairs to consult with the head of the advertising department, so Kit and Lucy stood shoulder to shoulder in the big square window overlooking the rain swept street.

"I never dreamed she'd take it so hard," remarked Kit, with slight asperity in her voice.

"Why, she just acted as if we were cheating or doing something dishonest," assented Lucy in aggrieved accents. "I'm sure we haven't hurt the furniture, and the company has had more than rent on it. They'll polish it up and sell it for new."

"I don't think it was the furniture exactly," said Kit. "Peggy is just crazy about keeping house, but for my part I don't think girls in business have any right to do housework. I got so I just hated to think of going home and waiting on myself."

"Mrs. Hopkins says we can have our old room back at the same figure. She knew we'd get sick of light housekeeping. She says the head bookkeeper at Ainsley's has the second story back, and he plays the piano splendidly. Maybe we can get up some Friday night dances."

"Well, anyhow, I'm glad we're giving up the apartment. Peggy makes lovely salad dressing and fudge, but I can't make a bed decently, so housekeeping was a mistake so far as I am concerned."

Talking in this strain, each imagined that she was convincing herself, if not her companion, that they had treated Peggy in a perfectly fair way and were altogether justified in their position. Down in their hearts they did not feel quite comfortable, and neither could forget the pathetic figure they had left in their small living room.

Peggy, Kit and Lucy had met at a noonday lunch room in the days when Peggy was working in a fashion syndicate office for $10 a week. A kindred spirit of homesickness had brought them together, and when Peggy had pushed her way to the point where she could afford a tiny studio of her own and command regular orders she had fled the offices of the fashion syndicate and had asked the girls to start up a small establishment with her. They had selected an apartment with a northern exposure for Peggy's work, furnished it on the installment plan, and for a time all went well.

Peggy, being most domestic in her instincts, picked up the burden of household management, and in time the other two girls not only depended upon her for managing the little establishment, but failed to do their share of the work. In her first enthusiasm Peggy bore this meekly, but very soon she found that the housework interfered with her work at the easel. She ran behind on her orders, and then, diplomatically and kindly, she took up the question with her housemates. Kit and Lucy promptly announced that they were disappointed in the housekeeping scheme, and they would be only too glad to return to boarding, where working girls belonged. If she wanted to pay the rest on the furniture and keep the flat open for herself, they would not begrudge what they had spent.

And that was just what Peggy found she could not do—meet the rent and furniture payments. She sat up, wiped her eyes and figured some more. The girls were leaving Saturday, the rent was paid for two weeks longer, and the collection day for the furniture company was ten days distant. She would enjoy it while she might. Perhaps within the fortnight— She shook her head. It was no use to depend upon girl chums.

She felt somehow that the furniture company would get the best of the bargain, and yet she would be breaking her word for the first time in her brief business history, and this hurt.

* * * * * * *

Henry Brightwell, with a clipping from the want ad. columns of a morning paper, stepped into the collection office of the Jones & Grab Furniture company.

"I don't know what your job is," he said easily as the chief collector motioned him to a chair and looked him over shrewdly, "but I'm sober, industrious and strong, and I want work—any kind to get a start."

"You look as if you might do," replied the collector dryly. "But looks don't count much in this business. It's your ability to get the money or the goods. We sell furniture on the installment plan. A lot of people forget the last few installments. That's where our profits come in. You get the last payments or the furniture. We don't care which. Want to try it?"

"Yes," replied Brightwell promptly. "When do you want me to begin?"

"Right now."

And after a brief discussion of terms, hours, etc., Brightwell sallied forth, armed with the book of his predecessor.

He ran down the list. "Moore, Greenwich, Hall," all within a block of each other. Moore and Greenwich were marked as "slow." The name of Hall had this memo. written after it: "Hear that two of the family have skipped out. Expect trouble."

It was characteristic of Brightwell that he started at the hard end of the game and rang the bell marked "Hall."

He climbed the narrow stairs and flung back his shoulders as he rang the private bell on the second floor.

"Is Mrs. Hall in? Peggy—why, Peggy Hall!" he exclaimed. Then he stepped quietly inside and closed the door behind him.

"I—I thought it was the furn—Henry Brightwell, what are you doing here? However is your mother getting along without you?"

She had led the way into the tiny living room and now stood regarding him with a severe look not at all in keeping with the song her heart was singing.

"I decided that Alf was big enough to look after mother and that if I ever won you I'd have to follow you to New York and make good, as you have done, or you'd grow away from me."

Peggy's gaze fell. Henry had never told her he loved her or wanted to win her, but of course she had thought—

He drew her very close. Perhaps he had recognized this as the psychological moment.

"I struck a job the first place I went, Peggy, dear. I think I can make my way here. Will you help me?"

Fifteen minutes later he remembered the firm of Jones & Grab.

"I guess I'd better be moving on. I was looking for a family by the name of Hall that owes my firm some money"—

Peggy turned scarlet.

"I'm the Hall, and I can't pay you. The girls," her eyes snapped—"the girls went back on me."

Henry Brightwell sat down very suddenly on the sofa on which $7.50 was yet due.

"Well, what do you think of that?"

Then his face cleared. Yankee shrewdness asserted itself. He began to figure, and Peggy helped him.

That afternoon he walked into the office of the collection department and laid down his book and a roll of bills. "Moore and Greenwich paid up to date. Miss Hall is up against it. Her two partners skipped and left her with all the furniture on her hands. She wants to keep it if she can. There's $97.50 still due. Will you let me compromise with her for $75 cash?"

"Sure," said the collector.

"I kind of thought you would, so I took the $75 while she was in the frame of mind. You never can tell how women will jump, you know."

"You're all right, young man. You can have a berth here as long as you keep up this pace."

The head bookkeeper from Ainsley's did not find Mrs. Hopkins' select boarding house to his liking, and the Friday evening dances never materialized, but sometimes when Kit and Lucy want a real pleasant evening they go to the Brightwell apartment, where there are always guests worth meeting. Then they go back to the third story front, with its cheap brass beds and moth eaten hangings, and one says to the other:

"Well, of course we get no credit for it, but we helped to pay for Peggy's pretty things."

The Turk and His Toilet.

Though the dress of the Turk is elaborate, he is most fastidious when it comes to questions of dress. He gives one hour or more to the adorning of his mustache. It is no mean task to change it from flaxen to jet black, perfume it with rose and amber and soothe the straggling ends. Another hour is given to the dyeing of his lips and the caring for his eyelids and another in practicing his most fascinating smile. He gives the same attention to his wearing apparel. It is of finest broadcloth or velvet and covered with embroidery of heavy gold. His arms and chest are left bare to show the splendid polish of his ebony skin. Grace is added by his capote, draped with great chic. But this splendor would be nothing without a sword with gilt handle, a watch with concealed miniature, a tobacco pouch of knitted gold and a pistol often studded with precious stones.—Chicago Tribune.

Do Ostriches Ever Die?

Nothing is positively known as to how long an ostrich will live. Some writers claim that it will live 100 years. Ostriches which are known to have been in captivity for forty years are still breeding and producing feathers. It is the experience of Arizona farmers that among the birds having good nutritious green feed deaths seldom occur except as the result of accident. A dog or other small animal will sometimes frighten ostriches and cause them to run into the fence, which may result in a broken leg. When this happens the bird may as well be killed, as few ever recover from such an injury.—National Geographic Magazine.

This Company owns FIVE MINING CLAIMS containing 160 ACRES, all of which are under active development and heavily mineralized, as follows:

1 claim, 40 acres, Bucke Township, showing 4 veins, shaft 20 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Coleman Township, showing 2 veins, shaft 50 feet.
4 claim, 20 acres; Portage Bay District, showing 6 veins, shaft and 500 feet of vein uncovered.
2 claims, 80 acres, Anima-Nipissing district, showing 5 veins, shaft and vein uncovered across entire eighty acres.

A recent assay on Anima-Nipissing claims, taken from 8-foot level, show 133 oz. of silver to a ton.

The company own TOWNSITE OF NORTH COBALT, containing 600 ACRES, divided into 4,000 lots beautifully situated on shore of Lake Temiskaming. Building operations are active. SILVER DEPOSITS LOCATED and being developed.

A syndicate has been formed to build a $100,000 HOTEL ON THIS TOWNSITE.

We anticipate that within 2 years a city of 25,000 people will be located on this property and neighboring shores.

"Cobalt has the richest and most easily mined ore in the world. The average value of all the millions of ore mined in Coleman Township is over $700 per ton. The Government system of inspection throws a safeguard around the companies operating in the camp. It gives the investor greater protection than he ever had in any other mining camp.

"Cobalt is a long way past the experimental stage. It is recognized everywhere as the camp without a loss. It has positively made good and is today making greater profits for the investor than any other mining camp in existence."

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

"J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre ore and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 30 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 5 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicollite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1231-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

Developments in the last few days are reported by the press and verified by the company's officers, again attract public attention to the famous Sunburst Mines--having added 280 acres of rich lead and zinc land in the heart of the world's richest producing district to original holdings, the Sunburst Company has ordered the permanent equipment of shaft No. 3.

WORK BEGINS ON THE SUNBURST MINES

Machinery being installed and work on No. 3 shaft immediately resumed. Drifting being pushed to connect the No. 2 and No. 3 shafts, which, according to the drilling, will open up immense bodies of ore for the full distance, which is about 600 feet. The Eastman Development Co.'s White Eagle Mill, which was started within the last 60 days, is now producing some eight to ten tons of zinc ore per shift—being the record breaker of the district so far. This property is immediately to the northwest of the Sunburst property. The Clarissa, to the southwest, has made a phenomenal strike in the last week. The opportunity to share in this wonderful fortune making is now presented by the development of the Sunburst property. Millions will be taken out of this district in 1907, and shrewd investors are now seizing their opportunity to reap a golden harvest from the vast mineral wealth the Baxter Springs Camp. Many properties are now returning from 24 to 120 per cent. dividends on the investment.

IMMENSE ORE BODIES PROVEN UP

The Sunburst Mining Company now owns a vast property in Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory, generally known as the Baxter Springs District. The history of the company is well known to the public. The great richness has long been admitted. New development work proves the most sanguine expectations. The Baxter Springs News of December 6, 1906, says:

"The Sunburst is showing up some mighty big ore the past week. J. C. Reyner, who is doing the development work, brought in samples of his latest ore taken out of shaft No. 3, and it certainly shows up fine. This shaft now has 30 feet of drifting to the south, showing rich ore all the way, and the deposit encountered the past week is the same as the Hobo mine is cutting in its north drifts, which are only eighty feet to the south, and which are being driven north to connect with this south drift of the Sunburst. The Indiana, just to the west, is showing up remarkably rich lead and jack in its east drift. Gatlin is encountering the same to the east and north, thus demonstrating that immense ore deposit covers the Ayers-Sloan, White Eagle, Western Mining Co.'s Omaha, Winner, Good Luck, Hobo, Gatlin, Indiana and Sunburst leases, all of which are within a radius of a few hundred feet of each other. This is the richest deposit yet opened up, and while this is a fact it is owing to the intense development in this particular section of the camp, which is proving up the drillings which have been made since the camp started."

This immense rich property lies four miles from Baxter Springs, Kansas, and is just across the state line in the Quapaw Reservation, Indian Territory. All around and immediately adjoining this property are good producing mines with fine mills, which are making their owners rich. Just southwest is the mill owned by the Williteys of New York. On every side we are surrounded by producing mines, operating in ore bodies that run into and through our section, and from the reports of experts and engineers are actually richer and nearer the surface here than in any other place in the district. The formation consists of a blanket deposit of mineral of the richest quality, from 15 to 30 feet in thickness, lying at a depth of from 57 feet to 74 feet, thus making it very easy and inexpensive to mine.

Thousands of dollars were expended in drilling holes and sinking shafts to prove not only the existence in paying quantities of lead and zinc, but also the unusual richness of the ore. The drilling and shaft sinking have demonstrated a uniform bed of ore over the entire acreage of 15 to 30 feet in thickness, and found only 57 feet under the surface. The water is only sufficient to wash the ore while milling. This is an important point, as in many lead and zinc mines the superabundance of water is a very dangerous factor. The ore is found between well-defined flat beds of limestone, which allows of the ore being taken out without the use of any timbers whatever, pillars of ore being allowed to support the roof, which is thus permanently safe.

The Same Ore Body That Makes Others Rich

No other district can produce so many rich mines in so small an area as this portion of the Baxter Springs Camp. Look at the map and you will see how the Sunburst holdings are the very heart of this section. To the north are the Dark Horse, Isley, Tipton, Magazine, all well-known properties. To the west are the Sunnyside (the oldest mill in camp), White Eagle, Indiana, Ayers and Sloan. To the south, the famous Hobo (the richest mine ever opened in the district, which has drifted to the south line of the Sunburst in extremely high-grade ore). The ore milled last week by the Hobo ran 10 per cent. In three months 600,000 pounds of rich ore was taken out by the Hobo. This mine is 125 feet from our property and is in the same ore bed. Shaft No. 3 is only 50 feet from the Hobo north drift, with the same bed of ore. The drilling shows this bed to run across the entire Sunburst property. Shaft No. 2 is 400 feet from the northeast drift of the Hobo and is into the same ore bed.

To the south are also the Omaha Mines and Mill and the Good Luck Mine, where the lead has proven to be so heavy. On these properties mills are erected and extremely rich ore extracted, making great returns for the owners.

MAP OF DISTRICT SHOWING SUNBURST MINE.

Property of Fabulous Wealth

HEMMED IN BY PRODUCING MINES

Thousands of dollars expended on shafts and development work show ore runs from 8 to 12 per cent—while a yield of 4 per cent. in Center Creek Mine has produced nearly $7,000,000

The increasing demand for lead and zinc is too obvious to need detailed statement. Both metals are in steady demand and at steadily advancing prices. The prices have gone up since 1899 from $51.52 per ton for lead and $36.61 for zinc to $82.00 for lead and $45.00 for zinc. The lead and zinc industry is now right at the front in the great commercial enterprises of the country. This southwestern district produces 80 per cent. of the zinc produced in the United States.

The earning capacity of the Sunburst's property, handling ore that averages from 8 to 15 per cent, can be estimated from the production of other companies. The Center Creek Mining Company, of Webb City, Mo., from an 80-acre tract, has taken out nearly $7,000,000 and is still producing.

The report for the year 1904 shows the following production during that year from the several properties mentioned:

	Acres.	Value.
American Zinc, Lead & Smelting Co.	4900	$ 967,169.00
A. W. Taylor	180	159,786.00
J. W. Aylor	40	676,571.00
The Burgner Mining Co.	80	198,879.00
Center Creek Mining Co. (production to date)	200	6,952,194.00
Mrs. E. J. Calan	120	227,709.00
Majestic Consolidated Zinc & Lead Co.	53	234,160.00
Continental Zinc Co. (production to date)	200	1,577,508.00
Consolidated Troup Mining Co.	40	195,618.00
Daughtery-Davy-McMillan Estate	60	456,606.00
The Empire Zinc Co.	491	130,319.00
Fox Heirs	30	130,734.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1905		1,261,851.00
Granby Mining & Smelting Co., 1904		1,025,650.00
John G. Gwinn	640	52,807.00
Pittsburg-Joplin Lead & Zinc Co.	10	98,000.00
Pittsburg-Missouri Zinc & Lead Co.	120	413,304.00
United Zinc Co.	136	359,270.00

From these figures it can be seen readily how such large dividends are paid. The Dinger Co. pays 120 per cent., the Chapman 120 per cent., the Omega 117 per cent., and many others yield enormous returns.

SHAFT NO. THREE.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEW OF PROPERTY.

ADVANCE IN PRICE

On account of the additional holdings, which are of great intrinsic value, as well as the remarkable proof of richness afforded by the development work already begun, the price of Sunburst stock will not remain long at the present figure.

Every step forward in the workings of the company is attracting wide attention, and is justifying the most liberal expectations.

As this work goes on Sunburst stock is bound to increase in value, as it is bound to be a mighty source of profit. The public demand because of the public confidence in this great property has already absorbed thousands of shares and has steadily advanced the price, but this advance will be small in comparison to what is coming.

The shrewd investor will realize this opportunity now, and will buy before the next big advance.

Buy now and share pro rata in the demonstrated profits of this enterprise. Make your reservation for as many shares as you may desire at the present price, remit 10 per cent. of the full price for the block and send us the balance in nine monthly payments. Upon the completion of your payments your certificate will be sent you for the desired number of shares, fully paid and non-assessable, no matter how much the price of stock may have advanced during that time.

You will thus become a stockholder in this company on equal terms with all the other stockholders, and by payments so small as to be hardly noticed.

The tremendous advantage to the small investor through this plan of payment must be apparent at a glance. By subscribing, for instance, $80.00 now and remitting only $8.00, you will obtain the whole block subscribed for at the present low price, and receive the full advantage of every advance on the whole $80.00 worth, although your first payment is but $8.00.

You really invest $8.00 and get all the benefit of an investment of $80.00. Could anything be fairer?

In order to secure the benefit of this offer it will be necessary for you to make your reservation at once, with the understanding that you will be entirely free to withdraw it if further investigation fails to convince you of the merits of the stock.

The officers of this company, who have the handling of your money, the conduct of the mine, and paying of dividends, are stockholders like any other.

What is more, they are well-known and successful business men. Look them up. Investigate their standing, their acumen, their integrity.

This is a business proposition. Here are business men conducting it. They invite your investigation.

Why Stock is Now Offered at 8c a Share

This issue of fully paid and non-assessable stock is for the purpose of procuring immediate funds to build a concentrating mill, equip the plant with hoisting machinery, and continue development work and put day and night shifts to work—in a word, to apply to this immensely rich property the same development that is resulting everywhere around us in paying great dividends and enormously enhancing the value of the property. Have you ever heard of a failure in a true lead and zinc mine? Have you not heard on the contrary of the fortunes taken out right in this district, not by one, but practically by all mining plants in the last few years? Have you ever had the opportunity to get in on the ground floor of such an investment? At this price the immense profits simply depend on this: Are the facts such as we have stated? Now, this we prove in detail—we will even arrange to take you to the mine—we refer you to any of the reports on this property—to banks—to engineers—to the evidence of surrounding properties; we lay the proposition before your business judgment, with the full appreciation that you owe it to yourself to investigate this simply as an investment in a commercial enterprise.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

In compliance with the request of the officers and stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., a detailed examination of the property was made October 1, 1906, by M. S. Parker, the well-known mining engineer and member American Society C. E. Excerpts from Mr. Parker's report follow:

The Sunburst Mine is located in the southeast corner of Section 29, Township 29, Range 24, east of the Indian Meridian, in the Quapaw Reserve, Indian Territory. It is joined on the south by half its width by the famous Hobo Mine, which produces the richest lead and zinc ore of any mine in the district thus far developed, and prospect drill holes and shafts north of the Hobo, on the Sunburst, show the same grade of ore, and at the same depth and of the same thickness.

The Omaha Mine, which is now successfully operating a new 150-ton mill, also adjoins the Sunburst on the south, and have drilled along their north boundary, striking the same body of ore as developed by prospecting over the line on the Sunburst.

The Hobo and Omaha Mines on the south have been prospected along the line of the Sunburst by drill holes and the present working shafts and drifts, which verifies the results of the prospecting done on the Sunburst Mine, north of the south boundary of the Sunburst.

FORMATION.

This mine comes under the blanket formation class. Out of the last eleven holes drilled, only two holes were barren of lead or zinc ore, most of them showing lead and zinc ore in paying quantities, while some of the holes drilled showed very rich deposits of lead and zinc.

One of the drill holes on the Hobo Mine showed very rich cuttings; within a foot of this hole was a blank spot 50 feet in diameter. The shaft of the Hobo Mine was sunk within 3 feet of a drill hole showing a very rich zinc ore, and went down through such a spot—no zinc ore being encountered—within a foot of the shaft walls very rich zinc and lead ore was found.

The thickness of the ore body, as shown by the drill holes, is from 15 to 30 feet. Ore is struck in shaft No. 2 at 61 feet depth, and the shaft is still in the ore at 75 feet. The drill cuttings at this shaft showed ore down to 91 feet depth. From all the drill holes this depth, viz., 91 feet appears to be the floor or bottom of the ore body, and is very uniform. The roof, however, varies in depth from the surface, 57 feet being the nearest it comes to the surface, while at places it is shown to drop down to 80 feet in depth, but the average depth to roof is very close to 65 feet. This would indicate an average thickness of the ore body of about 25 feet.

Three shafts have been sunk. No. 1 shaft, 5 1-2 by 8 feet, is down 88 feet, well timbered, and has good shafthouse and derrick. From this shaft prospect drifts have been driven, in all about 200 linear feet, mostly in lead-bearing ground. A small office building is near this shaft.

Shaft No. 2, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 90 feet, well timbered, with shafthouse, derrick and boilerhouse in good repair. From this shaft a drift is driven north 20 feet, then west 50 feet. Head of west drift is 10 good ore. The face of this drift is in zinc ore, while the bottom is in rich lead ore. This shaft should go down to 90 feet depth. This will give a 20-foot face of ore.

Shaft No. 3, 5 1-2 by 5 1-2 by 75 feet, well timbered—a first-class shaft. No buildings on it. A short drift is running south in good zinc ore. The bottom of this shaft is in good lead ore. These three shafts, with 18 drill holes, constitute the present development of the mine.

The Sunburst is located within four miles of the Frisco Railway, Baxter and Quapaw stations being about equally distant from the mine. A road is projected from Baxter to Miami that will run within a quarter of a mile of the mine. This road is to be a freight and passenger electric road for the accommodation of the mines. Baxter Springs business men have subscribed $25,000 toward the building of this line, and every assurance is given that the road will soon be constructed. This will make transportation of fuel and mine products materially cheaper than at present, although the cost under present conditions is not heavy.

It is needless to say that work at the Sunburst can be carried on the year round, the climate in this section being so mild in winter that very little trouble is experienced in mining operations in the Quapaw Reserve.

Summing up the points in this report, I will say that you have a first-class lead and zinc property. Rarely will one find a tract of ground so universally mineralized as the Sunburst Mine. If you follow the recommendations I have made regarding development, I feel assured you will reap your reward in good dividends. Trusting that this report will meet with the approval of the President and Stockholders of the Sunburst Mining Co., I subscribe myself,

Very respectfully yours,
M. S. PARKER.

As an investment proposition we believe that the Sunburst Mine will certainly pay no less than 25 per cent. We quote from other reliable sources the following figures showing the enormous annual dividends earned by lead and zinc mines in the Southwest field:

Oseola Mining Co.	24 per cent.	Katydid Mining Co.	60 per cent.
Cottonwood Mining Co.	25 per cent.	Mocking Bird Mining Co.	64 per cent.
Waddell Zinc Co.	27 per cent.	John Jackson Mining Co.	66 per cent.
Conqueror Lead and Zinc Co.	30 per cent.	Ottawa Mining Co.	117 per cent.
Hudson Mining Co.	38 per cent.	Dinger Mining Co.	120 per cent.
B. & H. Mining Co.	40 per cent.	Chapman Mining Co.	120 per cent.
		Underwriters Land Co.	60 per cent.

Buy Stock on Easy Payment Plan

A rise in the price of these shares to par means over 1200 per cent. for every $1 invested—besides the dividends.

Subscriptions will be accepted for 200 shares and upward, either by cash in full, with reservation, or by 10 per cent. down and 10 per cent. monthly for 9 months.

The cost is the same either way, but by the installment plan you can reserve a much larger block of stock, and when the price advances, as it will immediately on disposal of this block of stock, you can reap the immediate profit.

Your whole reservation will receive the benefit of every advance in price, even while you are paying for it.

Upon completion of your payments, certificate will be issued for stock purchased. If unable to finish payments, you will receive, upon request, certificate for the amount paid for. Stock now 8 cents per share, par value, $1.00.

A few dollars will start you. Read the following table, then act promptly:

$16.00 buys 200 shares of stock; $1.60 down, $1.60 a month for 9 months.
$32.00 buys 400 shares of stock; $3.20 down, $3.20 a month for 9 months.
$80.00 buys 1000 shares of stock; $8.00 down, $8.00 a month for 9 months.

Press Reports Rich Strike by Sunburst Mining Company

From the Baxter Springs News, of November 8, 1906.

One of the richest strikes made in the Baxter Springs mining camp, south of this city, for some time past, was that made by the Sunburst Mining Co., operating on one of their properties just east of the Sunnyside and north of the Hobo. The Sunburst Co. have three shafts in ore, with a large amount of drifting done, and this strike was made in No. 3 shaft, and apparently in the Hobo run of ore, which has always been considered one of the very best in the Quapaw reservation. The farther this run of ore is developed the richer it is showing.

The Sunburst Mining Co. also has made a very important deal the past week by purchasing from the Great Northern Mining Company 160 acres of leases one mile east of the Johanna, less than one mile southeast of the new rich strike made by the Irish Maid, and about two miles west of Monkey Hill, where the most famous lead strike was made ever encountered anywhere in the southwest. The Monkey Hill strike showed as much as 28 inches of solid lead of the very highest grade. The Great Northern, which is one of the largest holders of the best leases in this camp, made this sale the past week.

The purchase of this large tract of land by the Sunburst crowd means important developments in that section in addition to those already made, and, following on the heels of the rich lead strike made on the Charley Bluejacket land to the north of the tract and its purchase by a syndicate of Minnesota iron men, will cause an unusual amount of activity in that part of the camp.

The Sunburst Mining Co. will also start drifting their No. 1 shaft on the tract east of the Sunnyside to encounter the rich strike made to the north of it in the Isley mine. The Isley has encountered ore which will undoubtedly yield all the way from 25 per cent. to 30 per cent. The strike was made near the north line of the Sunburst tract.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered:—the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges; and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President.
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

Dog Did the Wrong Trick.

The Irishman wanted to sell the dog, but the prospective buyer was suspicious and finally decided not to buy. The man then told him why he was so anxious to sell. "You see," he said, "I bought the dog and trained him myself. I got him so he'd bark all the time if a person stepped inside the gate, and I thought I was safe from burglars. Then my wife wanted me to train him to carry bundles, and I did. If I put a packet in his mouth the dog would keep it there till some one took it away. Well, one night I woke up and heard some one in the next room. I got up and grabbed my gun. They were there—three of the scoundrels and the dog."

"Didn't he bark?" interrupted the man.

"Sorry a bark; he was too busy."

"Busy? What doing?"

"Carrying a lantern for the burglars."—Dublin Freeman.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

had done its last for Theophile Catinat. With the survivors, however, it was different, and when the troops were all disembarked they were mustered in a little group upon the deck, and an officer of the governor's suit decided upon what should be done with them. He was a portly, good humored, ruddy cheeked man, but De Catinat saw with apprehension that the Franciscan friar walked by his side as he advanced along the deck and exchanged a few whispered remarks with him.

"It shall be seen to, good father; it shall be seen to," said the officer impatiently. "I am a zealous servant of the holy Church."

"I trust that you are, M. de Bonneville. With so devout a governor as M. de Denonville it might be an ill thing even in this world for the officers of his household to be lax."

The soldier glanced angrily at his companion.

"I would have you remember, father," said he, "that if faith is a virtue charity is no less so." Then, speaking in English, "Which is Captain Savage?"

"Ephraim Savage of Boston."

"And Master Amos Green?"

"Amos Green of New York."

"And Master Tomlinson?"

"John Tomlinson of Salem."

"And Master Mariners Hiram Jefferson, Joseph Cooper, Seek-Grace Spaulding and Paul Cushing, all of Massachusetts Bay?"

"We are here."

"It is the governor's orders that all whom I have named shall be conveyed at once to the trading brig Hope, which is yonder ship with the white paint line. She sails within the hour for the English provinces."

A burst of joy broke from the castaway mariners at the prospect of being so speedily restored to their homes, and they hurried away to gather together the few possessions which they had saved from the wreck. The officer put his list in his pocket and stepped across to where De Catinat leaned moodily against the bulwarks.

"What is to be done with us?" asked De Catinat.

"You are to be confined to the ship until she sails, which will be in a week at the furthest."

"And then?"

"You are to be carried home in her and handed over to the governor of Rochelle, to be sent back to Paris. Those are M. de Denonville's orders."

De Bonneville left De Catinat with a few blunt words of sympathy, but the friar still paced the deck, with a furtive glance at him from time to time, and two soldiers who were stationed upon the poop passed and repassed within a few yards of him. They had orders evidently to watch his movements. As he stood gazing his attention was drawn away by the swish of oars, and a large boat full of men passed immediately underneath where he stood.

It held the New Englanders, who were being conveyed to the ship which was to take them home. There were the four seamen huddled together, and there in the sheets were Captain Ephraim Savage and Amos Green conversing together and pointing to the shipping. The grizzled face of the old Puritan and the bold features of the woodsman were turned more than once in his direction, but no word of farewell and no kindly wave of the hand came back to the lonely exile. He stooped his face to his arms and burst in an instant into a passion of sobs. Before he raised his eyes again the brig had hoisted her anchor and was tacking under full canvas out of the Quebec basin. De Catinat's bunk was next to a porthole, and it was his custom to keep this open, as the caboose in which the cooking was done for the crew was close to him and the air was hot and heavy. That night he found it impossible to sleep, and he lay tossing under his blanket, thinking over every possible means by which they might be able to get away from this cursed ship. But even if they got away where could they go to then? All Canada was sealed to them. The woods to the south were full of ferocious Indians. The English settlements would, it was true, grant them freedom to use their own religion, but what could his wife and he do without a friend, strangers among folk who spoke another tongue? Had Amos Green remained true to them, then indeed all would have been well. But he had deserted them.

But what was that? Above the gentle lapping of the river he had suddenly heard a sharp, clear "Hist!" Perhaps it was some passing boatman or Indian. Then it came again—that eager, urgent summons. He sat up and stared about him. It certainly must have come from the open porthole. Something fell upon his chest with a little tap and, rolling off, rattled along the boards. He sprang up, caught a lantern from a book and flashed it upon the floor. There was the missile which had struck him—a little golden brooch. As he lifted it up and looked closer at it a thrill passed through him. It had been his own, and he had given it to Amos Green upon the second day that he had met him.

This was a signal, then, and Amos Green had not deserted them, after all. He dressed himself, all in a tremble with excitement, and went upon deck. It was pitch dark, and he could see no one, but the sound of regular footfalls somewhere in the fore part of the ship showed that the sentinels were still there.

The guardsman walked over to the side and peered down into the darkness. He could see the loom of a boat. "Who is there?" he whispered.

"Is that you, De Catinat?"

"Yes."

"We have come for you."

"God bless you, Amos!"

"Is your wife there?"

"She has been taken from her."

"Good! But first catch this cord. Now pull up the ladder."

De Catinat gripped the line which was thrown to him and on drawing it up found that it was attached to a rope ladder furnished at the top with two steel hooks to catch on to the bulwarks. He placed them in position and then made his way very softly to the cabin amidships in the ladies' quarter, which had been allotted to his wife. In ten minutes Adele had dressed and, with her valuables in a little bundle, had slipped out from her cabin. Together they made their way upon deck once more and crept aft under the shadow of the bulwarks. They were almost there when De Catinat stopped suddenly and ground out an oath through his clinched teeth. Between them and the rope ladder there was standing in a dim patch of murky light the grim figure of a Franciscan friar.

There was standing the grim figure of a Franciscan friar.

But De Catinat was not a man with whom it was safe to trifle. His life had been one of quick resolve and prompt action. Was this vindictive friar at the last moment to stand between him and freedom? It was a dangerous position to take. The guardsman pulled Adele into the shadow of the mast, and then, as the monk advanced, he sprang out upon him and seized him by the gown. As he did so the other's cowl was pushed back, and instead of the harsh features of the ecclesiastic De Catinat saw with amazement the shrewd gray eyes and strong, stern face of Ephraim Savage. At the same instant another figure appeared over the side, and the warm hearted Frenchman threw himself into the arms of Amos Green.

"It's all right," said the young hunter, disengaging himself with some embarrassment from the other's embrace. "We've got him in the boat, with a buckskin glove jammed into his gullet."

"Who, then?"

"The man whose cloak Captain Ephraim there has put round him. He came on us when you were away rousing your lady. Is the lady there?"

"Here she is."

"As quick as you can, then, for some one may come."

Adele was helped over the side and seated in the stern of a birch bark canoe. The three men unhooked the ladder and swung themselves down by a rope, while two Indians who held the paddles pushed silently off from the ship's side and shot swiftly up the stream. A minute later a dim loom behind them and the glimmer of two yellow lights were all that they could see of the St. Christophe.

"Take a paddle, Amos, and I'll take one," said Captain Savage, stripping off his monk's gown. "I felt safer in this on the deck of yon ship, but it don't help in a boat."

"I hope, madame, that all is well with you?" said Amos.

"Nay, I can hardly understand what has happened or where we are."

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenious and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland-Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

THE HEADLESS BANDIT.

Queer Story From the Archives of the Vienna Courts.

Dr. Loye, a French physician, who greatly interested himself in the question, "What passes in the head of a decapitated human being?" related the following remarkable story, which he stated was taken from the archives of the Vienna courts: It was in the year —— that Schoenenburg, a well known bandit, and four of his associates were caught and condemned to death. They were already on their knees ready to pay the penalty of their bloody deeds by submitting to the awful fate of decapitation when Schoenenburg addressed the judge, asking that his four companions might be pardoned on certain conditions. "If," asked the bandit, "after I am beheaded I get up and walk to the first of my comrades, will you pardon him?" The judge thought that he was pretty safe in complying with the request. "Then," continued Schoenenburg, "if I walk to the second, the third and the fourth, will you pardon them also?" The judge replied that if such a miraculous feat could be performed he would obtain pardons for the other three also. The bandit was now satisfied, and, bending his head, he received the fatal blow. Instantly the head rolled down in the sand, but to the surprise and horror of all present the headless trunk arose and walked alone. Aimlessly, it appeared, the body walked around until it passed the first, the second, the third and the fourth condemned bandit, when it fell down and became motionless. Query, "How could a headless body think?"

GRUB STREET IN NEW YORK.

A Gastronomic Assignment and the Fate of an Epic.

A story is told of a poet who came to the metropolis with a completed epic. This found no acceptance, so after cursing the stupidity of the public and the publishers he took to writing "Sunday stuff." Soon the matter of fact attitude of the workers around him, with the practical view of the market he acquired, led him to doubt the literary value of the work he had done in the sentimental atmosphere of his native place.

Frequently a commission to write a column of humor a week came to him, and he cut his epic into short lengths, tacked a squib on each fragment and eventually succeeded in printing it all as humor at a price many times larger than the historic one brought by "Paradise Lost."

Another newcomer brought unsalable plays and high notions of the austerity of the artistic vocation. Three months after his arrival he was delighted to get a commission to write the handbook a utilitarian publisher proposed to sell to visitors seeing the metropolis. This commission brought not only a fair payment for the manuscript on delivery, but involved a vital secondary consideration. The title of the work was "Where to Eat In New York," and the preparation made it necessary for the author to dine each evening for a month in a different cafe at the proprietor's expense.—James H. Collins in Atlantic.

WEDDING STATIONERY

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS are always in order. The season for the final result of being a disciple of Cupid finds expression in the Hymeneal ceremony at the altar—that occasion when "two hearts that beat as one" are joined together—pronounced one.

For this auspicious occasion the printing must be chastely dignified—must be appropriate in appearance to this one time of life when everything "best" is donned—when happiness reigns supremely.

Marriage Announcements
Marriage Invitations
Marriage Reception Cards
Post Nuptial Reception Cards

All of these we are able to supply in a proper form and printed artistically. Our work is conducted under the supervision of skilled typographical mechanics and may be unhesitatingly presented to the most fastidious critic.

Our charges for such work are moderate—yet good printing is ever valuable. However, we give quality for our figures, and an order entrusted to our care will be speedily, carefully and satisfactorily executed.

No work can be well done which has to be done hurriedly. Time is necessary for the accomplishment of faultless printing. We will fulfil all expectations if given ample time for completion.

The Engineering Magazine

The Engineering Magazine for March opens with a paper on "Personnel—a Vital Factor in Naval Efficiency," by W. M. McFarland, late first assistant to the Engineer-in-Chief of the United States Navy. It is an introduction to the following article on The United States Naval Academy as an Engineering School, by Commander Walter F. Worthington, U. S. N., and the discussion is of peculiar present importance on account of the great activity in battleship construction apparent among all the Great Powers, and the bearing which the officering and manning of these vessels has upon their actual fighting strength. The illustrations give a splendid idea of the scope and practicality of the Annapolis training.

Other illustrated articles are by A. E. Dixon, on the building of the great central stations for modern power plants; by J. H. Cuntz, on the iron industry of Germany, now the world's second largest producer; and by C. E. Knoeppel, on the reduction of manufacturing costs. C. U. Carpenter presents the third installment of a series on Profit Making in Shop and Factory Management; Gerard B. Werner shows working results in the saving effected by electrifying a steam railway; R. E. Mathot furnishes a number of examples of the choice of power for a workshop, as between steam and gas engines; and R. P. Bolton begins a valuable review of Present Practice in the Use of Superheated Steam. There is the usual full Review of the Engineering Press of the World, and the Engineering Index.

NO MISTAKE HERE

Discovery of a Proof-Reader.

Even a proof-reader may make mistakes unless careful reading is maintained all the time.

It makes a lot of difference sometimes, just how a thing is read.

This is the tale:

"No tea and not one drop of coffee," ordered the doctor—and I rebelled. But alas, with nerves that saw, felt and heard things that were not, rebellion was useless.

"With the greatest reluctance I gave up these lifelong companions, and drank milk, milk—until the very sight of the milkman grew hateful.

"My nerves were some better, but breakfast without some warm beverage grew wearisome, and bid fair to be entirely slighted. And with a brain that for nine hours daily must work hard, ever demanding nourishment, the failing appetite was a serious proposition.

"Then in despair, Postum was tried. I had tasted it once and heartily disliked the pale, watery compound, but now, literally starving for a hot drink, I read and re-read the directions on the package with the critical eye of a proof-reader, following them out to the letter, and lo! the rich brown liquid of the advertisements.

"Not one but three cups disappeared and since then Postum has been my sole warm beverage, unfailingly refreshing and helpful, both body and nerves testifying to its helpfulness by new strength and vigor." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Changes of Officers of 57 Regiment

Major Hayes to be Paymaster and Capt. Clegg to be Major.

Two important changes in the officers of Peterborough's local crack corps, the 57th Regiment, are noted in Saturday's militia orders from Ottawa. As is well known Major Denistoun is shortly to move to Winnipeg to reside, the position of regimental paymaster, that he has acceptably filled for some years, has been conferred upon Major Hayes, said appointment to take effect at once. This appointment will undoubtedly be favorably regarded by every member of the regiment.

Capt. Clegg is gazetted to the office of major, vice Major Hayes, in view of the latter's promotion.

Interesting Course of Cooking Lessons

Many a Peterborough husband, or husband to be, will in coming years rejoice that the series of cooking lessons, conducted by Miss Bawden last week in the Y.W.C.A. kitchen, were instituted in this city. These lessons will put an end to a good percentage of the queries as to "Why men don't marry?"

These classes are not confined to adults as there are children's classes, the latter including ten lessons. A pleasing function at the termination of the course will be a breakfast entirely prepared by the juveniles worshippers at the altar of common sense.

The lessons are attracting much attention and are being well attended.

Mr. Rapsey on Municipal Ownership.

Mr. Rapsey, of Port Arthur, is here visiting his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Pringle, for a few days. He was a member of last year's council in that town, and is very much in favor of municipal ownership. Port Arthur owns its street railway and electric light plants, which are bringing in substantial profits and being extended gradually. Last year alone the profits of these public utilities over and above all depreciation were between $50,000 and $60,000.

Hurt Whilst Chopping Wood

Mr. James Cullen, a son of Mr. W. T. Cullen of Bridgenorth, who received a painful injury last Friday, was yesterday reported as progressing favorably. It seems that young Cullen whilst cutting wood for Mr. J. H. Munn, tried to chop through a knot. Part of the knot flew up, striking one of his eyes a severe blow. The accident caused him much pain and might easily have destroyed the eye.

Mr. W. Belleghem in Toronto

Mr. Walter Belleghem of this city, who recently accepted a position with the well-known Toronto undertaking firm, J. H. Ellis, left Saturday morning to assume his new duties. Walter's many friends in Peterborough, while congratulating him on his new position will regret to learn of his leaving town. It is expected that after a time, when he has gained some practical points in the Toronto establishment, he will return and enter into business with Mr. D. Belleghem, his father in this city.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE

Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boot on," and no doubt hundreds of thousand of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $300,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statements were wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained analyses of "Favorite Prescription," from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs.

These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Local Doctors Attend Church

Last night by special invitation of Canon Davidson, rector of St. John's church, the physicians of Peterborough, in large numbers attended the evening service in that church. The rector delivered a special sermons on "Christ the Physician." After service by invitation the doctors present together with some leading members of the congregation gathered in the Guild Room.

Chinese Hotels.

The hotels are usually grouped within a square or two of one another. Each one seeks to attract guests by high sounding titles. For example, in Canton are hotels which flaunt the signs of the Fortunate Star, the Golden Profits (an unusually frank confession for a landlord to make), the Rank Conferring and the Happiness. The food is not so bad, but the traveler who goes to one of these houses to sleep will wish that he had gone to another. The bedrooms are small, thin walled boxes, in which you may hear the breathing of your next neighbor or be kept awake half the night by the conversation of people at the other end of the hall or, worse still, be almost stifled by the smoke from an opium pipe which is being indulged in by the man across the passageway.

Naturally Puzzled.

Among the interested visitors of the marine barracks at Washington on one occasion there was a party of young girls from a Maryland town, friends of one of the officers of the barracks. They proved much interested in everything pertaining to the life and discipline of the post.

"What do you mean by 'taps?'" asked one young woman.

"Taps are played every night on the bugle," answered the officer. "It means 'lights out.' They play it over the bodies of dead soldiers."

A puzzled look came to the face of the questioner. Then she asked:

"What do you do if you haven't a dead soldier?"

Hell Gate.

Hell Gate, at the entrance of Long Island sound, in the East river, was not so named because of its dangers and turbulance, as is generally supposed, but quite the contrary. The early Dutch settlers called it "Hell Gate" because it was a pleasant, beautiful passageway, in allusion to its picturesque scenery, "hell" conveying the idea of pleasantness.

In His Own Coin.

To mark his gratitude a man who was acquitted on a charge of counterfeiting coins in India added $10 to his lawyer's fee of $50, but the lawyer afterward found that the whole sum consisted of counterfeit rupees.—Allahabad Pioneer.

GILCHRIST STREET WILL NOT BE CLOSED

Weary of Delay and Opposition Mr. G. Walter Green Now Refuses to Purchase the Portion of Street He Was Negotiating For---Agreement With Otonabee Power Co. re Purchase of No. 4 Dam.

The city fathers met in special session last night, when there were present, Mayor R. F. McWilliams, Aldermen Johnston, Tovey, Elliott, Leary, Wilson, Bradburn, Morgan, Duncan, Wilson, McIntyre and Phelan.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Ald. Johnston submitted the following,

Gentlemen.—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

1. That this committee be authorized to dispose of any furnishings in the old fire hall that it does not think advisable to take to the new fire hall.

2. That this committee be authorized to purchase the following supplies for the fire department;—One set of swinging harness, 6 smoke masks, 12 common hose keys, new hose for the Babcock extinguishers, 2 pairs of rubber boots, 6 rubber coats and 300 feet of fire hose.

This report was adopted as read.

CLOSING OF GILCHRIST STREET.

The Board of Works report included the following;

That steps be taken to close Gilchrist street from the south side of McDonnell street to the north line of the Grand Trunk Railway property, and that notices be given that the council will on the evening of April 1st, 1907, at eight o'clock, consider a bylaw for that purpose and to convey the part of the street so closed to G. Walter Green.

Ald. Stevenson objected to the passing of the above measure without careful and deliberate consideration; the council should move slowly. He for one desired some enlightenment on the subject. He understood that several protests against the closing of Gilchrist street, are already on file, and ample time should be given for others to come in before the council takes definite action.

His worship explained that one month's notice of closing the street would have to be given, during which time citizens would have an opportunity of appearing before the Council or Board of Works in opposition to the project.

Messrs. Quinlan, Thos. Scott and J. J. Lynch addressed the council, and protested against the closing of the street, which action they claimed would injure their respective properties.

Mr. A. E. Dixon, assured the council that neither Mr. O'Connell or he owned the property immediately adjoining that portion of the street, Mr. Green is anxious to purchase from the city; such property belonged to Mr. Quinlan, who holds the deed of it. Should this street be closed the city will have to face more than one action for damages.

Mr. O'Connell opposed the closing of this street, and offered that should the council so act he had properties here and there which warrant him coming to the council on a similar errand to that of Mr. G. Walter Green.

Mr. Green remarked that he wanted the property in question badly, but if he could not acquire it without embarrassing the council, he would prefer dropping the proposition.

His Worship wanted to be set clear as to the price paid by Mr. Quinlan for the property in question. Mr. Quinlan claims he paid $2,000 for it, while Mr. Green states that it had been offered for sale at $300. Should Mr. Green's statement be correct, Mr. Quinlan's purchase savored of a land-jumping scheme.

Mr. Quinlan replied that he would stand by his statement; his deed would show that he paid $2,000 for it.

Ald. Morgan here remarked that property in that section of the city must have taken a tremendous jump of late.

Mr. O'Connell asserted that a couple of years ago Mr. Dixon and he purchased Mr. Quinlan's present property, and they did not secure it for a song, assuredly not for $300. Property there will be very valuable before long.

Ald. Wilson could not see that closing the street would injure any person seriously. He would like Mr. Green's wishes met; he is an enterprising manufacturer who is a credit to the city, and has never before asked any favor of the city, either in the way of bonus or other wise.

The mayor advised that the closing of Gilchrist street could be of no substantial injury, to any person. The piece of land Mr. Green desires could be of no use to anyone unless a substantial bridge were constructed within a 150 feet from Park street, and the maintenance of a level over the railway tracks. Mr. Green deserves encouragement. Of course should any valid reasons against closing the street be to hand by April first he would withdraw the matter.

Mr. Green assured the council that this valuable property, for which Mr. Quinlan paid $2,000, was only paying the city three big dollars in taxes.

Ald. Bradburn offered that if this is correct the matter should be looked into. He thought the assessors should be instructed to assess the property at something near what Mr. Quinlan paid for it.

Ald. Stevenson said he would like to see Mr. Green accommodated; but the city has no right to close a street to the injury of any individual.

Ald. Stevenson moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That this matter be referred back to the Board of Works for further consideration.—Carried.

Mr. Green here informed the council that they might as well throw the above resolution into the waste paper basket, as he did not want it now at any price. Therefore there will be no further negotiations between the council and Mr. Green for the sale and purchase of the portion of Gilchrist street sought by the latter.

LEASE OF NO. 4 DAM.

Ald. Stevenson submitted a copy of the terms and conditions agreed upon by the council's committee in consideration of which the city will endorse the Otonabee Power Company's application for the lease of No. 4 dam from the Government. council's interest in this is to secure cheap power for new industries. Under agreement the Otonabee Power Company will hold for the city 500 electrical horse power at $15 per horse power for a term of two years; this will be for the accommodation of new industries. Whatever number of horse power the city arranges for within two years, will stand good 21 years at $15. It is expected that at the end of two years the Corliss people will be using 500 horse power. At the end of two years however, should the city not have placed 500 horse power in new industries, they will have no claim upon the company for any unused portion of this 500 electrical horse power not under contract, at $15 per horse power. It will then be optional with the company whether they sell power for new industries at $15 or at a higher rate.

BYLAW RE SIGNS.

A bylaw governing overhead illuminated signs, passed its several readings. There is nothing in this bylaw's premises other than previously published except that no sign shall project from a building more than four feet overall.

Untimely Wedding Customs Objected to Warkworth Charivari Does Not Meet With Approbation.

Warkworth Times: — Mr. U. E. Wartman, of Warkworth, and Miss Holmes, of Madoc, were united in marriage on Wednesday of last week. They arrived home with his bride on Friday, and as usual the "charges" started that night to make the night hideous with their unpleasant howls and tin horns, as well as smashing picket fences, etc. It is nearly time this barbarous charivari custom was "cut out." It is said that on Saturday night between $75 and $100 damage was done to Mr. Wartman's property, besides the use of obscene language, until the occupant, to relieve the "hold-up," and save his property, give the tormentors the money they were after. Surely the law will be administered to those who deserve it so richly.

Ambulance Nearly In a Collision

Yesterday morning one of D. P. Kennedy's delivery horses, with the rig following, "lit out" without order or limit of destination. It seems that the driver, when near Auburn, was at a door, when the horse, taking advantage of his absence, ran down Concession street for a considerable distance before stopped. The Dan Spence ambulance going north on McDonnel street to Nichols Hospital, had a narrow escape. Fortunately the ambulance driver avoided a collision by good judgment. No damage was done to Mr. Kennedy's outfit.

A Stupid Local Hotel Joke

Yesterday the friends of a local hotelman played a so-called joke (?) upon the hotelman and his friends as well as the friends of the wine clerk employed by the former. It seems that two or three patrons of the hotel in question, during the morning, when calling at the place, asked where is ——, the bartender. At last the proprietor, having met several acquaintances of his who put up the alleged joke, was told by him that the wine clerk, who had not shown up yesterday morning, had died suddenly Sunday night of heart disease. The proprietor believing, (as to give him credit, that his former clerk was dead, conveyed the sad intelligence to several of the latter's friends. One of them, shocked to hear of his sudden departure from this mundane sphere, at once repaired to the wine clerk's residence. On arrival the blinds on the first floor front rooms being drawn down, assured him that the sad news was only too true. The caller thought the least he could do was to say/way call and express his sympathy. He rang the bell softly, after knocking several times with no answer. Then the door was opened by the alleged deceased's wife. After spurting to express his sympathy over her sad bereavement, the lady said, "Why what ever you talking about! ——— is lying on the sofa in the dining room" To this room the caller went and discovered the supposed corpse on a sofa, somewhat sick but as full of life as a fertile egg under a watchful hen. Explanations were given in order. It seems to us however that the claim of wit that would give a man's friends to believe that he is dead, simply because the man was home for a day, a little under the weather," is about the lowest order of hilarity known in jocularity or common sense. Death is too serious and solemn a subject for jest.

CATARRH GROWING LESS

Due to the Use of Hyomei Cures Without Stomach Dosing.

Inquiry at the local drug stores shows that the sale of remedies for catarrh has decreased very much in the last year. Some medicines which were formerly bought a gross at a time are now purchased in half dozen lots, and are rarely called for.

There is one notable exception to this decrease in sale, and that is Hyomei. This remedy is, in fact, responsible for the decrease in sale of catarrh medicines, as it has made so many cures of catarrhal troubles that naturally there is much less demand for remedies for that disease.

People who have been trying different medicines for catarrh during many years were induced to begin the use of Hyomei by the guarantee that the remedy would cost nothing unless cured. Much to their surprise, they found that Hyomei did what it claimed (if it did not it could not be sold under this guarantee) and they soon become ardent advocates of the use of Hyomei.

There is no disagreeable stomach dosing with Hyomei; it is used by being breathed through a neat pocket inhaler. The complete outfit costs but one dollar, extra bottles if needed, fifty cents.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei, or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with a treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. JAPANESE IN GREAT PERIL

MENACING MOB IN CALIFORN'A THREATEN ORIENTALS.

American Flag Flying With Stars Downward Nearly Leads to a Riot.

San Francisco, February 25.—An American flag flying with the field of stars turned downward in front of a Japanese newspaper office nearly provoked a serious riot on Geary street this morning. The prompt action of a patriotic policeman and the earnest protestations of the offending Oriental prevented an incident that might have had far-reaching consequences in the present inflamed state of public opinion in Japan and America.

The affront seems to have been given in ignorance rather than by intention. The Japanese janitor of the Daily New World had instructions to fly the American and Japanese flags in front of the office. Not understanding the design of the flag, he saw no impropriety in placing the stars downward.

The two ensigns had been fluttering in the breeze for only a few moments when a crowd began to gather in front of the building. Attempts were made to drag the Japanese flag from the staff, but before that could be done a broad-shouldered policeman, indignant, had the demure little janitor by the shoulder.

"Put that flag up right or I'll crack your skull," he demanded in tones that brooked no delay.

The frightened Japanese tried to explain that he had intended no wrong. The scowling crowd in front of the building added to the unfortunate man's alarm. The flag was taken down, turned with the stars upward and replaced on the staff. The crowd cheered, the policeman doffed his helmet as the stripes unfurled and the frightened janitor beat a hasty retreat.

Machine Phones in Brantford

The Canadian Machine Telephone Company, whose headquarters are in Peterborough, has for many months been trying to gain access to and support in Brantford. According to the Expositor of that city, "within six weeks from the 1st of April," this company will have installed their plant there. The news comes from "a prominent official of the company, who evidently hopes to have their phones working somewhere in the future. Judging by Peterborough's experience of the Machine Company's operations here, we can only express a hope that the Brantford telephone users are of sanguine temperament and long suffering. If the receipts in that city are on a par with those of this company in Peterborough, there is an opening for philanthropists desiring the nuisance of dural phones at any price.

Mr. C. Galvin of Douro Passes Away

Mr. Garret J. Galvin, a respected farmer of lot 15, concession 7, Douro, passed away Sunday night from pneumonia. The deceased was 73 years of age, and was born in the Township of Smith. In 1858 he moved to Douro. He was for many years secretary of the Lakefield Dairy Company and was its salesman on the Peterborough Cheese Board until two years ago, when he resigned. In 1860 the late Mr. Galvin was married to Miss Hannah Garbutt, who predeceased him sixteen years ago. A family of five children out of eight, are left. They are J. Edward Galvin, on the homestead; Mrs. Frank Adams, Peterborough; Miss Ada Galvin, at home; Isaac Galvin of Antler, Sask., and Gordon Galvin, of Carstairs, Alberta.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

Yesterday morning the Sons of Rest, owing to the bright sunshine, gathered before the stairs leading to that haven of bliss (sic) the police court. These degrees, however had to seek the seclusion that their respective preferred bar rooms grant, and listen to the pop of corks and gurgle of the amber fluid, instead of the too often, but always delectable, spicy evidence of the court, as there was "Nothing Doing."

The Minnoo'n case in connection with abusive language alleged to have been used was discharged yesterday by County Magistrate Edmison, the complainant failing to appear. It seems that he has left Lakefield and gone to Montreal to work. Under the circumstance s the magistrate dismissed the case.

Marks Bros. are Well Received

Yesterday afternoon by four o'clock exactly two seats were left on the ground floor of the Grand Opera House, and within ten minutes afterwards these were gone with very few seats left in the lower gallery.

This old time favorite company last night presented a well-staged play entitled "The Rugged Princess," with Grace Marks most admirably portraying the leading character Emma Silverthorn.

To criticize the individual members of the cast would be to simply say that each member of the company in his or her respective cast was excellent.

The specialties were far superior to the average of such performances and were well received by the immense audience. Messrs. Marks Bros., during their many visits to Peterborough have never had a stronger company, and under Messrs. Slight G. T. Ry. Accident Yesterday

Yesterday morning the engine attached to the G.T.R. train from Port Hope to Toronto, via Lindsay, broke down at McDonnel street, just after pulling out the station here. A shunting engine pulled the train back to the station. The engine that had brought in the Belleville train was attached to the Port Hope-Toronto train, and took it on its journey after about a half hour's delay. The broken engine was sent to Lindsay. It was not seriously damaged.

THE RATE WILL BE 17 1-2 MILLS ON THE $

The Same as Last Year---The City Engineer's Salary Increased to $1,400 a Year---He Will Also Have an Assistant When Necessary.

The council met in Committee of the Whole, when Ald. Tovey, the city's finance minister, submitted a draft of the proposed estimates for this year.

The rate will be 17 1-2 mills on the dollar, the same as last year. The assessment values, however, has been raised somewhat.

The increased demand on the city this year for public school debentures will be half a mill, while the increased demand on the city's debt will be 33,100 of a mill.

The water works debenture debt is $292,000, while the city's public improvement debenture debt exclusive of that charged against property owners for sidewalks, is $435,000.

The demand for the new Collegiate Institute will not be made on the council this year. The debentures for this work will not be issued until 1908. The city, however, will advance $5,000 or $6,000 a month as needed for construction demands.

MORE SALARY FOR ENGINEER.

Ald. Johnston thought the city engineer should have an increase of salary, which is now $1200 a year. He should also have some assistance to keep up with his work. Ald. Johnston also thought the council would be endorsed by the public were the assessment rolls published. This work would cost probably $500.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Leary,—That the engineer's salary be increased to $1400 a year.

Ald. Leary in seconding the above said Mr. Hay is a very much overworked and abused man.

Ald. Morgan fancied that this city is being loaded up with more salaries and officials than the people would stand for. He thought the engineer was very well paid now.

Ald. Wilson thought that possibly Ald. Johnston's movement was in the right direction. But he would not support increasing the rate or robbing the Board of Works to raise Mr. Hay's salary, which is included in the appropriation for the Board of Works.

Ald. Duncan opposed increasing Mr. Hay's salary to the decrease in the appropriation for his board.

It should be understood that the only way to provide for an increase for Mr. Hay would be either to rob the Board of Works or raise the rate.

The motion to increase Mr. Hay's salary by $200 carried.

ASSISTANCE FOR ENGINEER.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That Mr. Hay be furnished office assistance when necessary.—Carried.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. Leary, —That the appropriation of the Fire, Water and Light Committee be reduced $200 and that added to the appropriation for the Board of Works, to pay for an assistant for the city engineer.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston acquiesced in this; if his committee needs more money, it will have to come from somewhere.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Elliott,—That Mr. T. Q. Quarterman be Mr. Hay's assistant at a salary of $200 a year.—Carried.

Mr. Quartermaine will only be employed when absolutely necessary.

Ald. Johnston moved, that the assessment rolls be published, but he got no seconder.

The committee adjourned at 1.15 o'clock.

Truant Officer Cochrane Busy

Truant Officer Geo. Cochrane yesterday morning notified some ten parents regarding the non-attendance of their children at school. Last week about twenty parents were warned. Each Monday morning Mr. Cochrane is given a list of the parents of children who are not attending school, by School Inspector Walker, and they are then warned by the officer. It seems that the appointment of a regular officer to look after such delinquents was quite in order, and that the right man was chosen for the job.

Want Chinese but Afraid to Say So

Many British Columbians are in Favor of Removing Celestial Head Tax.

Vancouver, B. C., February 26.—The remarkable spectacle is being enacted in Vancouver, of all the public bodies, before which the subject has come, being afraid to endorse the action of the Montreal Board of Trade, recommending to the Government the temporary removal of the Chinese head tax. It would be most difficult to find a business man or a professional man, or a housewife, who would not say confidentially that they would welcome the "yellow peril" with outstretched hands, but the union wields a great power in British Columbia. The public man fears the Labor vote, for Labor is well organized and bitterly opposed to the Chinese. The business man fears a boycott, although the few who have been boycotted have increased their business as a result.

Outside the unions practically everyone, man and woman, in British Columbia, is with the Montreal Board of Trade in their recommendation to the Government to remove the Chinese head tax, but they dare not speak through their public bodies and if they did it is thought by many the Government would not dare to remove the tax.

Captain a Coward

Providence, R.I., Feb. 24. — That Capt. McVey was among the first to leave the sinking Larchmont and that he was not giving orders to his crew, was asserted by Matthias Libert and John Toven, firemen of the Larchmont, at the examination by the local board of United States steamboat inspectors yesterday.

McVey was already in the lifeboat when they reached it, they asserted, and was trying to push the boat away from the ship.

They heard people crying for help for a while and then everything was quiet.

Italy May Follow Lead of France

Trouble Over Religious Instruction May Also Cause State to Break Away From the Church.

Rome, February 25.—The Republican and Socialist deputies in Parliament made a motion today to suppress religious instructions in the schools instead of declining to discuss the proposition on the ground that the constitution explicitly declares Catholicism to be the religion in Italy the Government took the matter under consideration. It is therefore deemed likely that secular education will be extended to all the schools as the first step in the separation of Church and State following the example set by France.

"The state schools," said Cardinal Satolli, with reference to this motion, "are insufficient, and hence the prevailing illiteracy, which parochial religious instructions contributes to diminish. The suppression of religious instruction means the closing of the parochial schools and the increase of illiteracy, which the Government cannot afford to allow. Therefore the motion is likely to fail."

To Deepen Canal

Kingston, Feb. 24.—Up to date, 27 boards of trade in the district extending from Montreal to Vancouver, B. C., have endorsed the resolution which the local board will prefer before the Dominion Government, asking for the widening and deepening of the Welland Canal.

The deputation have been granted an interview with the government on the 27th inst., and on that date a large and influential body will visit Ottawa. The Dominion Marine Association is heartily supporting the move.

Government Engineer Fuller, who has been taking soundings of the local harbor, in an informal talk with marine men of the city, states that the proposed removal of the Gunn shoal will be very costly, owing to its rock construction.

The project to enlarge the city's harbor by dredging Cataraqui Bay below the bridge is reported as feasible by him.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Do You Seek Health?

Consult Dr. Hamilton And You Will Be Shown the Way.

Thousands are in the same boat—all sickly, bilious and feeling far from well.

Trouble is, the system is clogged with impurities which need to be cleared away.

Before downright sickness arrives you should cleanse and purify the system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

At once you feel their mighty influence building up weak spots, clearing out disease, and putting you again on your feet.

These purely vegetable pills change your tired, worn-out condition to one of health and vigor, because they supply the body with nourishing blood that builds up and enlivens the entire system.

Mr. John Whitley, of Stanwood, P. O., Ont., knows the merit of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and says: "I wouldn't be alive today had it not been for Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Last winter I was sick with grippe, and when spring came I was weak, bilious and rheumatic. I used enough medicine to cure twenty times, but I didn't get any help till I tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They purified my blood, took the yellow color out of my face, put new tone in my my stomach, and increased my appetite. The bilious attacks and rheumatic pains gradually departed, and Dr. Hamilton's Pills made a new man of me. I proved their merit, and proclaim them a medicine for all men."

If better health and prompt recovery are important, get Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut today. At all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

THE "YELLOW PERIL"

A despatch printed in The Times recently stated that Chinese competition was already beginning to be felt in the coal mines of England, and in former despatches the presence of an increasing number of Chinese dock laborers in Liverpool was noted. This appears to indicate that the Chinese people have begun to move. The awakening, about which we have talked so much, has taken place. If there is "a yellow peril," it is at hand, not perhaps in very formidable dimensions just now, but, like the cloud that was no bigger than a man's hand, it may darken the whole industrial sky. The Chinese have begun to move, and naturally they will move along the line of least resistance. At present that appears to be towards the United Kingdom, and the people of that country can make up their minds that, if something cannot be devised to stop the movement, there will be a Chinese quarter in every large city in Great Britain, and the army of the unemployed will be reinforced by thousands, driven from employment by the men of the Orient.

It is one thing, however, to foresee such a state of things, and quite another to point out how it can be avoided. There is not very much that can be done with 400,000,000 people, when once they "get a move on." It would be about as easy to devise some plan by which the glaciers of Greenland can be prevented from slipping slowly into sea and breaking off into icebergs. Great movements of population have taken place at other times in the history of the world. The migration of the peoples, whom the Romans called "Northern Barbarians," completely altered the social and economic conditions existing in Europe, and it is far from improbable that we may be on the eve of another change. If this is the case, the process will doubtless be a slow one, and so gradual that its effects may not be very noticeable at any one time; but in the final result they will be serious enough. In view of this, it is about time for the people of the Occident to set their house in order. There are causes steadily at work, which are producing incalculable mischief, socially and industrially, and if these are not removed, there will be nothing that can stop the ultimate domination of the Yellow races. The fittest will always survive, and the people of Europe and America, have for generations been rendering themselves unfit for competition with races, whose requirements are small, and whose industry is boundless.

RANKS FAR AHEAD OF OTHER COMPANIES EMPLOYING FEMALE LABOR

A Comment on The Bell Telephone Trouble in Toronto — Telephone Company Treats its Employees Better Than Factories Do.

Kingston, February 26.—(To the Editor): The investigation now being conducted into the conditions, hours, salaries and alleged strain under which the Bell Telephone Company's operators labor, will, no doubt, be conducive to much good. It will certainly clarify the air on this particular subject, but there will be real danger in the minds of employees who largely employ young girls, lest their employers get wise and insist that their ten to twelve hours a day be shortened, that their $2.50 to $3 a week wage be lengthened, or that their manifestly unsanitary surroundings be improved. The management of knitting mills, cigar and manufactories and sweat shops have indeed just cause for alarm.

The concensus of opinion may be that the eight-hour day and increased salary which the Bell Telephone Company have adopted, is not on an equitable basis from the point of view of the operators or from the company's standpoint.

Apart from the merits or demerits of the case, it is merely human that the twentieth century idea so popular with our legislators, and nearly everyone else, should permeate into the ranks of the telephone operators and be pushed, as every good idea should be pushed, to the front. The idea is simply this—to get the maximum salary for the minimum effort. We rub shoulders with this idea in all walks of life.

If a grievance exists then by all means remedy it, but it seems incredible that this question of alleged grievance of Bell Telephone employees should have been singled out to form the subject for government enquiry. When one thinks of the numberless factories, sweat shops and kindred institutions employing frail girls, from twelve years of age and upwards in most unwholesome and germ-laden atmospheres from ten to twelve and fourteen hours a day, at starvation wages, it is indeed strange that some kindly-disposed officials of our boards of health did not put on their spectacles long since and endeavor to save the health of our young girls from almost certain ruin.

From personal investigations of the conditions, atmospheric and otherwise, in Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Hamilton, I can most emphatically say that for sanitary surroundings, remuneration and lack of fatiguing work, the Bell Telephone Company will easily rank far ahead of any other institution—manufacturing or any other kind. In fact, the Bell Telephone Company have always had the reputation (and this from their own employees) of being solicitous for the interests of all their employees, whether inside workers or those whose duties compel them to be outside most of the time. This is best attested by the fact that the employees remain longer in the company's employ than in any other sphere, and the fact that young women strive for this class of employment in preference to others, is the best argument to support the theory that they are well satisfied and contented. But it is hard to escape the walking delegate, the silver-tongued orator, whose very existence in this world is threatened if he does not succeed in making others discontented, where before his advent everyone was satisfied.

From any one doubting the above, I would say visit any one of the company's large exchanges and then form your own conclusions.

It seems to me that where a person is not satisfied with a position and finds eight hours a day and increased salary unbearable, he or she should look about to some other institution where better terms are available and where conditions in general are more in harmony with the individual's constitutional requirements. The Toronto operators, it would seem, prefer to remain, but in the doing of it, wish incidentally to hold-up the company.

It is only fair to suppose that the employer of labor should have the right to decide at what price he will purchase the necessary assistance required—it is the seller's prerogative to refuse to sell. Neither purchaser nor seller would care to be pestered by people who in their own spheres, drive the hardest bargain possible.

The Bell Telephone Company are giving the people their money's worth, and a service second to none on this continent. They are one of the most abused corporations I know of. They treat all employees in a first class manner, yet thousands of contemns who exact the last pound of flesh from their employees receive no attention whatever.

I feel that the present enquiry will completely vindicate the company's position, and at the same time call attention to the unquestionable bad conditions that prevail in cigar factories, sweat shops, etc. If it does, and that vigorous action is taken in behalf of our girls, then the investigation will not have been in vain.

—FAIR PLAY.

Negotiations Are Off

Rome, Feb. 24.—The Vatican authorities consider that the negotiations for the lease of the church have been broken by the French government, not having resumed the negotiations on the same lines where Education Minister Briand interrupted them, but having added, evidently at the instigation of Premier Clemenceau "new conditions offensive to the church, which are not acceptable, especially the clause prohibiting the appointment of foreign priests as heads of parishes."

A MILITARY DESPOT.

The Experience of One Private In the German Army.

The following is the experience of a German army private:

During the second maneuvers I was sent on ahead to select quarters for my company. The police supply the names of householders who are expected to shelter the soldiery, and I had to decide on the number of men who should be assigned to each place.

It seems that our major dispatched a courier with a message for our captain. For some reason or other the message was not delivered. The next day the captain called me out and in the presence of the whole company rebuked me for not delivering the message.

"I did not receive any message," I ventured.

"Shut up your mouth, you liar!" he thundered. And again he bellowed, "Why didn't you deliver that message, you"—

I told him a second time that I had not received any message. The captain's temper broke all bounds. With an oath he rode his horse at me full tilt, hurling filthy names at me the while.

When he had ridden right up to me—I fully expected he would run me over, but I dared not move—he suddenly reined in his horse and, drawing a long dagger from his belt, shouted, livid with passion, "I have half a mind to stick this through your vile body, you schweinhund!"

Once more he asked me about the message, and once more I answered him.

"Then five days' confinement and bread and water be your punishment, you liar!" he retorted.

He repeated the question several times and increased my term of imprisonment each time I answered in the negative until my term of imprisonment equaled fourteen days. I was placed under arrest. Next day I was released.

I afterward found that the captain had discovered his mistake, but he never referred to it.

BIRTH OF A "GASSER."

Noise of a Blowing Well Drowned All Other Sounds.

In the Broadway Magazine is a story by Rupert Hughes concerning the oil wells of Texas. He tells of the birth of a "gasser."

"It screamed like the death cry of a thousand panthers." He says: "The long steel cable has been sent flying like a twine string. A great length of pipe has been hurled against a tree and wrapped around it. The derrick was almost hidden in a white haze. A geyser of fine sand was streaming upward and eating away the lofty crown block.

"Seth knew what it was. He found Tom, and they gesticulated at each other. They made faces, but no audible sound. Their voices were vain as candles in the full sunlight. Each was trying to yell the same thing.

"'She's a gasser, blowing her head off.'

"Men gathered from everywhere and acted like crazy folk, working their jaws and delivering no message.

"They were soaked, drowned, obliterated in a sea of intolerable noise.

"A mile away at the railroad station the passengers were equally made dumb by the uproar. If a man wanted a ticket he had to write out the name of the station. An engine rolled in with a bell that rocked without sound and a whistle emitting puffs of white steam that no one heard.

"The animals of the region were greatly disturbed. There was much breaking of harness on the part of horses, and one or two galloped about under empty saddles. Their riders were doubtless stuck in the mud somewhere, head first.

"A few pigs wandering here and there had sniffed at the noise and returned to their luxurious wallows in the oily muck."

Pretty Crooked.

People who have seen cottonwood lumber warp when it came from the saw can appreciate a story about the first sawmill erected at Fort Scott. After the first day's sawing the owner of the mill came down from town, where he had been celebrating the "opening" with the boys. He looked over the crooked boards scattered about the yard for a moment and then inquired with drunken gravity:

"Boysh (hic), has that lumber been measured yet?"

"It has not," replied the foreman of the mill.

"Well, when it gets still, take a (hic) corkscrew and measure it."

Essential to Biography.

Some years ago Norman Hapgood was arranging the data for his "Life of Lincoln." When he sat down to write the opening chapter, he was confronted with a puzzle. Hurrying to an adjoining room of the paper, on the staff of which he was a shining light, he asked the editor, "By the way, what was Lincoln's first name, Abram or Abraham?"

Avoiding Trouble.

"Those candidates are telling some terrible lies about one another."

"Yes. But, you see, it would mean shooting on sight if they were to tell the truth about one another."

Always After Us.

"No matter what we do, there is one class of people who will always be after us."

"Who are they?"

"Posterity."

Although the world is full of suffering, it is full of the overcoming of it.—Keller.

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide" The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

WEDDING STATIONERY

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS are always in order. The season for the final result of being a disciple of Cupid finds expression in the Hymeneal ceremony at the altar—that occasion when "two hearts that beat as one" are joined together—pronounced one.

For this auspicious occasion the printing must be chastely dignified—must be appropriate in appearance to this one time of life when everything "best" is donned—when happiness reigns supremely.

Marriage Announcements
Marriage Invitations
Marriage Reception Cards
Post Nuptial Reception Cards

All of these we are able to supply in a proper form and printed artistically. Our work is conducted under the supervision of skilled typographical mechanics and may be unhesitatingly presented to the most fastidious critic.

Our charges for such work are moderate—yet good printing is ever valuable. However, we give quality for our figures, and an order entrusted to our care will be speedily, carefully and satisfactorily executed.

No work can be well done which has to be done hurriedly. Time is necessary for the accomplishment of faultless printing. We will fulfil all expectations if given ample time for completion.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $100.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo-Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took ten of more samples of ore from different places along the 6200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges; and had the same assayed, and the result of the assays was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President.
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Nor can I, Amos."

"Did you not expect us to come back for you, then?"

"I did not know what to expect."

"Well, now, surely you could not think that we would leave you without a word."

"I confess that it was cut to the heart by it."

"I feared that you were when I looked at you with the tail of my eye and saw you staring so blackly over the bulwarks at us. But if we had been seen talking or planning they would have been upon our trail at once."

"And what did you do?"

"We left the brig last night, got ashore on the Beaupre side, arranged for this canoe and lay dark all day. Then tonight we got alongside and I roused you easily, for I knew where you slept. The friar nearly spoiled all when you were below, but we gagged him and passed him over the side."

"Ah, it is glorious to be free once more! And where are we going?"

"Ah, there you have me. It is this way or none, for we can't get down to the sea. We must make our way overland as best we can, and we must leave a good stretch between Quebec and us before the day breaks, for, from what I hear, they would rather have a Huguenot prisoner than an Iroquois sagamore. By the eternal, I cannot see why they should make such a fuss over how a man chooses to save his own skoul."

All night they toiled up the great river, straining every nerve to place themselves beyond the reach of pursuit. By keeping well into the southern bank and so avoiding the force of the current they sped swiftly along, for both Amos and De Catinat were practiced hands with the paddle, and the two Indians worked as though they were wire and whipcord instead of flesh and blood. When at last morning broke and the black shaded imperceptibly into gray they were far out of sight of the citadel and of all trace of man's handiwork. Virgin woods in their wonderful many colored autumn dress flowed right down to the river's edge on either side, and in the center was a little island.

"I've passed here before," said De Catinat. "I remember marking that great maple with the blaze on its trunk when last I went with the governor to Montreal. That was in Frontenac's day, when the king was first and the bishop second."

The redskins, who had sat like terra cotta figures, without a trace of expression upon their set, hard faces, pricked up their ears at the sound of that name.

"My brother has spoken of the great Onontio," said one of them, glancing round. "We have listened to the whistling of evil birds who tell us that he will never come back."

"He is with the great white father," answered De Catinat. "I have myself seen him in his council, and he will assuredly come across the great water if his people have need of him."

The Indian shook his shaven head.

"The rutting month is past, my brother," said he, speaking in broken French, "but ere the month of the bird laying has come there will be no white man upon this river save only behind stone walls."

"What then? We have heard little. Have the Iroquois broken out so fiercely?"

The Indian waved his hand along the whole southern and western horizon. "Where are they not? The woods are rustling with them. They are like a fire among dry grass, so swift and so terrible."

"On my life," said De Catinat, "if these devils are indeed unchained they will need old Frontenac back if they are not to be swept into the river."

"He was an enemy of the church, and the right hand of the foul fiend in this country," said a voice from the bottom of the canoe.

It was the friar, who had succeeded in getting rid of the buckskin glove and belt with which the two Americans had gagged him.

"Why should we take him farther?" asked Amos. "He is but weight for us to carry, and I cannot see that we profit by his company. Let us put him out."

"And have him maybe in front of us, warning the blackjackets," said old Ephraim.

"On that island, then."

"Very good. He can hail the first of his folk who pass."

They shot over to the island and landed the friar, who said nothing, but cursed them with his eye. They left with him a small supply of biscuit and of flour to last him until he should be picked up. Then, having passed a bend in the river, they ran their canoe ashore in a little cove, where they laid out their small stock of provisions and ate a hearty breakfast while discussing what their plans should be for the future.

They were not badly provided for their journey. The captain of the Gloucester brig in which the Americans had started from Quebec knew Ephraim Savage well, as who did not upon the New England coast? He had accepted his bill, therefore, at three months' date, and he had let him have in return three excellent guns, a good supply of ammunition and enough money to provide for all his wants. In this way he had hired the canoe and the Indians and had fitted her with meat and biscuit to last them for ten days at the least.

"It's like the breath of life to me to feel the heft of a gun and to smell the trees round me," said Amos. "Why, it cannot be more than a hundred leagues from here to Albany or Schenectady right through the forest."

"Aye, lad, but how is the gal to walk a hundred leagues through a forest? No, no; let us keep water under our keel and lean on the Lord."

"Then there is only one way for it. We must make the Richelieu river and keep right along to Lake Champlain and Lake St. Sacrement. There we should be close by the headwaters of the Hudson."

"It is a dangerous road," said De Catinat, who understood the conversation of his companions even when he was unable to join in it. "We should need to skirt the country of the Mohawks."

"It is the only one, I guess. It is that or nothing."

"And I have a friend upon the Richelieu river who, I am sure, would help us on our way," said De Catinat, with a smile. "You have heard me talk of Charles de la Noue, Seigneur de Ste. Marie. His seigneury lies on the Richelieu, a little to the south of Fort St. Louis."

"Good!" cried Amos. "If we have a friend there we shall do well. That clinches it, then, and we shall hold fast by the river."

And so for a long week the little party toiled up the great waterway, keeping ever to the southern bank, where there were fewer clearings. The clearings radiated out from the villages, and every cottage was built with an eye to the military necessities of the whole, so that the defense might make a stand at all points and might finally center upon the stone manor house and the mill.

At every step in this country, whether the traveler were on the St. Lawrence or west upon the lakes or down upon the banks of the Mississippi or south in the country of the Cherokees and of the Creeks, he would still find the inhabitants in the same state of dreadful expectancy and from the same cause. The Iroquois, as they were named by the French, or the Five Nations, as they called themselves, hung like a cloud over the whole great continent.

For half a century these tribes had nursed a grudge toward the French since Champlain and some of his followers had taken part with their enemies against them. During all these years they had brooded in their forest villages, flashing out now and again in some border outrage, but waiting for the most part until their chance should come. And now it seemed to them that it had come. They had destroyed all the tribes who might have allied themselves with the white men. They had isolated them. They had supplied themselves with good guns and plenty of ammunition from the Dutch and English of New York. The long, thin line of French settlements lay naked before them.

Such was the situation as the little party of refugees paddled along the bank of the river, seeking the only path which could lead them to peace and to freedom. Yet it was, as they well knew, a dangerous road to follow. All down the Richelieu were the outposts and blockhouses of the French. The blockhouses themselves might hold their own, but to the little party who had to travel down from one to the other the situation was full of deadly peril. It was true that the Iroquois were not at war with the English, but they would discriminate little when on the warpath, and the Americans, even had they wished to do so, could not separate their fate from that of their two French companions.

As they ascended the St. Lawrence they met many canoes coming down. More than once these wayfarers wished to have speech with the fugitives, but they passed onward, disregarding their signs and hails. From below nothing overtook them, for they paddled from early morning until late at night.

Boils.

A person suffering with boils should eschew pastry, gravies and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton. The boils may be brought to a head by using a warm poultice of camomile flowers or boiled white lily root, by fermentation with hot water or by stimulating plasters.

Odd Books.

In the British museum are books written on oyster shells, bricks, tiles, bones, ivory, lead, iron, copper, sheepskin, wood and palm leaves.

Tenpins.

The regulation tenpin is fifteen inches high and fifteen inches in circumference at the largest part and two and one-fourth inches in diameter at the base. Pins are sometimes made shorter and sometimes longer and bigger for family alleys, so that they may be knocked down more easily, but fifteen inches is the regulation height.

"Chamois" Skin.

What is known in the market as chamois skin is really oil tanned sheepskin linings. The supply of real chamois skin is very limited, and all there is in the world would not supply the United States for a single day.

Australian Rabbits.

The feet of some Australian rabbits show a gradual adaptation to a new mode of locomotion. The rabbits are becoming climbers and often ascend trees in search of food. Their feet in consequence are said to be growing slighter, and the claws longer and sharper.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 16 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 50 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 6 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1233-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. Silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

The O. H. A. Decision Postponed

As noted in yesterday's issue of The Times there was to have been a meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association in Toronto last night to decide whether the Peterborough team has a right to play the present Kingston champions a sudden death or home and home games for the championship of the eastern district of the O.H.A. senior series. A despatch received late last night by The Times from Toronto, signified that the O. H.A. Executive have postponed their meeting and consequent decision until Wednesday night.

New Cereal by P. C. Co.

The Peterborough Cereal Company is now, in addition to their large and modern plant, installing special machinery for manufacturing Corn Flakes, the company's most recently decided upon, and already tested and proven success in cereals. To make this delicious food specially made rolls are required.

Norwood Presbyterians Celebrate

The annual tea in connection with Norwood Presbyterian church was held yesterday evening. Rev. G. A. MacLeonan, the pastor, occupied the chair and addresses were delivered by Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings; Rev. J. G. Potter, of Peterborough, and Rev. E. A. Camp, of Havelock, as well as by local clergymen.

Mr. Demetrie Goes to Montreal

Mr. Demetrie, proprietor of many confectionery stores in the leading cities of Canada, including Peterborough, who has been here for some days left last night per C.P.R., for his headquarters in Montreal. Mr. Demetrie was pleased with the splendid work done here by his local manager Mr. George Andronopoles.

Y.M.C.A. Strangers' Tea a Success

The Monthly Strangers' Tea at the Y.M.C.A. Sunday night was a great success, many being present from the United States. Mr. G. L. Galley, vice-president of the club presided. The tea was provided by the ladies of George street church, Mrs. Geo. E. Elliott being convenor of the committee.

Car Shortage Felt in Peterboro

It seems, as noted in these columns sometime ago, that the Peterborough Cereal Company's distress from shortage of cars, is still in evidence. The company have not received a car of wheat from Manitoba this winter. If they had not stored a large quantity last fall at the lake ports, the flour mill here would have been closed down.

Next Summer's Military Camps

The date for the annual militia camps of 1907 has been fixed as follows:—London, June 4th to 15th; Niagara, June 11th to 22nd; Kingston, June 17th to 28th; Petawawa, June 17th to 28th.

The establishment of a provisional school of instruction for infantry officers at Woodstock is authorized.

Mr. T. Rutherford Convalescent

We are pleased to note that Mr. Thos. Rutherford, of Rutherford Bros., contractors, who met with an accident on the new King Edward school, Saturday afternoon is doing as well as could be expected. It seems that Mr. Rutherford fell some eight feet from a scaffold and was wounded. Dr. Halliday was called in and looked after the injured man. No bones were broken.

Madoc Deputation in Montreal

A deputation from Madoc, composed of Messrs. Thomas Cross, President of Board of Trade; W. A. Hungerford, President of Hastings Mining Association; Dr. Harper, reeve of Madoc; Chris. Wright, reeve of Madoc township, and Mr. John A. McCoy, went to Montreal to interview the officials of the G.T.R. the extension of their line to Eldorado. Mr. W. B. Northrop, M.P., arranged for the meeting.

All Saints' Church Notes

The Girls' Guild met yesterday evening.

The Women's Auxiliary meets this afternoon at 2.30.

The Junior Auxiliary meets on Thursday at 4.15.

The Boys' Brigade meets on Friday at eight p.m.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday, services will be held at five o'clock.

A cottage prayer meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 81 Lock street. The choir will meet for rehearsal of the "Crucifixion," tonight at eight o'clock.

What Ails You?

Do you feel weak, tired, despondent, have frequent headaches, coated tongue, bitter or bad taste in morning, "heartburn," belching of gas, acid risings in throat after eating, stomach gnaw or burn, foul breath, dizzy spells, poor or variable appetite, nausea at times and kindred symptoms?

If you have any considerable number of the above symptoms you are suffering from biliousness, torpid liver with indigestion, or dyspepsia. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is made up of the most valuable medicinal principles known to medical science for the permanent cure of such abnormal conditions. It is a most efficient liver invigorator, stomach tonic, bowel regulator and nerve strengthener.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is not a patent medicine or secret nostrum, a full list of its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. A glance at its formula will show that it contains no alcohol, or harmful habit-forming drugs. It is a fluid extract made with pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength, from the roots of the following native American forest plants, viz., Golden Seal root, Stone root, Black Cherry bark, Queen's root, Bloodroot, and Mandrake root.

The following leading medical authorities, among a host of others, extol the foregoing roots for the cure of just such ailments as the above symptoms indicate: Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Med. College, Phila.; Prof. H. C. Wood, M. D., of Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., Author of American Dispensatory; Prof. Jno. M. Scudder, M. D., Author of Specific Medicines; Prof. Laurence Johnson, M. D., Med. Dept. Univ. of N. Y.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., Author of Materia Medica and Prof. in Bennett Medical College, Chicago. Send name and address on Postal Card to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and receive free booklet giving extracts from writings of all the above medical authors and many others endorsing. In the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient of which "Golden Medical Discovery" is composed.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They may be used in conjunction with "Golden Medical Discovery" if bowels are much constipated. They're tiny and sugar-coated.

HUMMELL WAS ASKED ABOUT THE AFFIDAVIT

Concerning Evelyn Thaw---Harry Thaw Alleged to Have Threshed Her in Paris During Their 1903 Trip

New York, Feb 27.—When the trial of Harry K. Thaw, charged with killing Stanford White was resumed yesterday morning District Attorney Jerome called the attention of Justice Fitzgerald to a letter he had received from J. D. Lyon, vice-president of the Union National Bank of Pittsburg, who was a witness two weeks ago.

HUMMELL CALLED.

Mr. Jerome directed that Abraham H. Hummell, who drew up the affidavit to which Evelyn Nesbitt is said to have sworn, and which charged Thaw with cruelties during their 1903 trip to Europe, take the stand.

Mr. Jerome's first question was;

"Do you know Evelyn Nesbit Thaw

"Yes," replied the witness.

"When did you first see her?"

"Some time in 1901 or 1902."

"Did Miss Nesbit have a conversation with you in your office?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"Yes."

"If I could prove Stanford White was in Europe the night she says she was drugged by him," decared Mr. Jerome, "that would be a collateral fact and I would not be allowed to put it in evidence. But if she told Thaw in Paris that there was no truth in her statement about Stanford White, then that would be a material fact and I should be allowed to put it in."

THE AFFIDAVIT.

The affidavit alleged that Thaw whipped Miss Nesbit when she told him there was no truth in the statement about White and refused to sign papers making the definite charge against the architect.

Mr. Hummel said he did dictate a statement in the presence of Miss Nesbit.

"On the next day did Jacobson or Soydecker give you a paper?"

"Yes."

Mr. Jerome asked Hummel several other questions, whether he gave the paper to Evelyn Nesbit, who became of it, and when the next were to his office, but objections to all of them were sustained.

MRS. THAW RECALLED.

Mr. Jerome asked that Mrs. Evelyn Thaw be recalled. When the oath was taken the second Mr. Jerome handed her a paper and asked if it was to her handwriting. Mrs. Thaw examined the paper carefully, smiling from time to time.

While Mrs. Thaw was reading Mr. Jerome announced that a packet of letters from Mr. Lyon had been received.

Mrs. Thaw said the paper was all in her handwriting.

"Is it not a diary which you kept in 1902?"

Before Mr. Demas allowed the witness to answer he read the diary.

IRRATIONALITY ABOUT THAW.

Mr. Demas did not object to the diary which Mrs. Thaw said she kept while at the Pompton school.

Replying to a question Mrs. Thaw said she had several times noticed signs of irrationality about Thaw. One night in a Broadway cab they passed White, and Thaw "had a fit," sobbing, crying, biting his nails and talking rapidly. She added that his body trembled violently, he clasped and unclasped his hands, and his eyes rolled. The next time they saw White in a theater Thaw again became affected similarly. He carried a pistol after Christmas, 1903, Mrs. Thaw said.

"He told me White had the Monk Eastman gang following him," she explained. She thought Thaw was of unsound mind on the subject of White. Thaw told her White and others persecuted him by circulating stories about "us," and having things put in the papers.

White, she told her, kept him from being elected to the Knickerbocker Club. After Mrs. Thaw had been asked to identify the sixteen letters received yesterday from Mr. Lyon, Mr. Jerome asked his last question; "Did Thaw recollect having seen White after these outbursts?"

"Yes."

Jerome announced he had completed the cross-examination of Mrs. Thaw.

Local Preacher Highly Appreciated

A correspondent of the Woodstock, Ont., Express, says,—Large congregations in St. Paul's church listened very attentively yesterday to earnest and impressive discourses by the Rev. Alfred Bright, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, Peterborough. Mr Bright is a young man with a pleasing and fluent delivery, while his interpretation of the gospel are presented in an argumentative and most convincing manner. He was listened to with profit and pleasure at both services. Mr. Bright will occupy the pulpit again next Sunday.

A Lundy Party for Bermuda

Today Mr. J. J. Lundy, Miss Lundy, Mrs. Thos. Hewson, Miss Pearl Lundy leave for several weeks' visit to Bermuda. The party will leave today for New York whence they will take steamer for Bermuda. It will be remembered that Mr. and Miss Lundy, some years ago were wrecked off the coast of Anticosti, and were saved after a long siege of suffering. We trust that in this trip the local people concerned will meet with favorable weather and return home the better of their trip.

AVOID LUNG TROUBLE.

Take one-half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine and eight ounces of Good Whisky. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. It is said to break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable.

An eminent authority on lung trouble says if this simple and effective formula was known and generally used, that lung and bronchial affections would seldom reach an acute stage. Care should be used to select pure ingredients, and to avoid substitution it is best that they should be purchased separately and mixed in your own home.

The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials put up expressly for druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario,—plainly printed thereon. Only the cheaper Oils are sold in bulk, but these produce nausea, and never effect the desired results.

Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P. to Speak Here

The Young Conservative Club of this city, has received a letter from Mr. F. D. Monk, M.P., Jacques Cartier, Quebec, who will give an address at a date to be arranged after the prorogation of parliament. Mr. Monk's well known eloquence will make him a favorite with any audience. His command of the English language is equal if not superior to that of the late Sir Adolphe Chapleau. His appearance here is a good card for the club. The electors of both East and West Peterborough, will doubtless take advantage of Mr. Monk's visit and hear this gentleman on the political issues of the day.

A euchre party will be held in the club rooms on Thursday night of this week. It is expected there will be a large attendance.

Local Butchers May Engage in a War

It now seems as though war, bloody yellow-veined and red visioned war, is to be waged between several of the local vendors of meats. While the local butchers in question are not losing any sleep over the matter, it seems that in consequence of Messrs. Porter Bros. starting a "down town" store on George street that other firms on the same business are bound to hang the scalps of the aforesaid firm on their keepers. It is rumored that a drop in the price of meat is imminent owing to the prophesied war. If so the public will be the gainer and a vote of thanks will be given to the firm whose action caused the drop.

Mr. T. Reg. McFadden Has Passed Away

The death occurred yesterday at Niagara Falls, New York, of Thomas Reginald MacFadden, second son of Mr. Thos. MacFadden, of this city, from typhoid fever. He leaves to mourn him a wife and little daughter, three years old.

Mr. MacFadden was 27 years old, and previous to removing to Niagara Falls, resided in Dundas, Ont. He is also survived by his father and mother, brother Percy, and sister, Miss Estella, all living in Peterborough.

The late Thomas Reginald MacFadden, was an open-hearted, good natured young man of an exceedingly happy disposition, and beloved by all who knew him. His early and untimely demise will be sincerely regretted by a host of friends and acquaintances in this city. He held a good position in Niagara Falls, New York, with splendid prospects for the future.

Deceased's father, was with his son at the hour of death, and will bring the remains home this morning for interment in the Little Lake cemetery. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, from the family residence, 203 Dublin street.

Trade and Labor Conditions in Peterboro'

The Report of Ald. W. J. Johnston, Correspondent for the Labor Gazette—Considerable Activity During the Month of January.

Labor conditions during January were exceptionally active in mills and factories. Outside work has been suspended owing to the cold weather. There were many houses under construction, which were being rapidly pushed to completion. A number of mechanics were overhauling stores. Work on the new King Edward Public School was being pushed along. January custom receipts up to the 18th were $22,000, an amount that has never been reached during the same time before. Repair and construction work at Young's Point and Burleigh is now under way; the Government is spending $5,000 on various improvements. A new steamer 100 feet long and 23 ft. beam is being constructed to ply between Peterborough and Idyl Wyld. A new tug and two new scows are being built for transportation purposes. The contract for the new Normal School has been let at $50,800. A by-law to provide for a new Collegiate Institute was carried at the recent municipal election. The building will be constructed this summer. Wholesale and retail trade has been good. The rates of wages remained unchanged. The labor market was free from all labor and industrial troubles.

At a recent meeting of the contractors of Peterborough it was unanimously decided to form a builders' exchange for the protection of local contractors. It was considered that with the great demand for building materials of all kinds the exchange would be of valuable assistance in hoping to keep lumber, etc., from being exported to outside places. By so doing the local men will have a better choice and get number of all kinds when wanted. It would also assist local contractors in securing local contracts. It would establish and maintain uniformity in wages, give valuable business information, avoid, if possible, and adjust trade difficulties and misunderstandings, and promote good feelings amongst all engaged in the building trade.

Fishing—Conditions were dull.

Lumbering—Very dull.

Manufacturing—Very busy.

Mining—Dull.

Manufacturing. — Mann's planing factory and cheese box mill were very busy. This firm has procured a large quant of land (wooded) and is busy getting timber into its mill and having it cut into lumber of all dimensions. It is also doing a large custom trade with farmers who have logs to cut. The Rapid Tool Co. has got its factory in order now. It has from twenty to thirty men employed, some of whom are local and the others experienced men brought from other places. The J. J. Turner Co. was very active for this season of the year; large orders for export trade are always on hand. This firm has bought out the Grand Opera House and will run it in conjunction with its business. All other industries in Peterborough were running full time. The Wm. Hamilton Co. was running over-time in part of its foundry. The Madison Williams Foundry of Lindsay, is now in running order. The Port Perry Canning Co. is increasing its capital stock to $40,000 shares to be $40 each. This firm employs during the canning season 90 female and 50 male employes, pays in wages, $10,000, pays to farmers for produce $16,000 and manufactures 40,000 cans during the season.

PARTICULAR TRADES.

Building. — Bricklayers and masons, gas and steam fitters, stone cutters and builders' laborers were dull. Carpenters and joiners, lathers and plasterers, painters and paper-hangers and plumbers were active.

Metal, engineering and shipbuilding. — Iron moulders' workers and helpers, machinists and engineers and steam engineers, electrical workers and tool sharpeners were active. Linemen, brassworkers, blacksmiths, boiler makers, ship workers, sheet metal workers, horseshoers and jewellers were busy, with bicycle workers dull.

Woodworking and furnishing — Woodworkers, upholsterers, furnishers and polishers, carriage workers, car builders, box makers and pattern workers were busy. Sawyers were dull.

Printing and allied.—These trades were busy.

Clothing — Journeymen tailors, garment workers, hosiery workers were busy. Hat workers were very dull.

Food and tobacco preparation — Bakers and confectioners, butchers and meat cutters, ice cutters and drivers were busy. Cigarmakers and tobacco workers were active.

Leather —Leather workers, harness workers and collar makers were busy.

Transport.—Railroad workers of all classes at this season of the year were busy. All classes of steamboat workers were very dull. Street railway employes were busy. Cab drivers and hackmen were very busy. Teamsters were dull, but expressmen were busy.

Unskilled labor.—This class of labor was dull.

TREASON, FEAR AND INCAPACITY

Gen. Stoessel Charged With Hastening Surrender of Port Arthur.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Report Shows That Officsrs of Port Arrhur Garrison Were Bitter Personal Enemies.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 27.—A copy of the secret report on the defence of Port Arthur, which is the basis of the indictment on which Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, Lieut.-Gen. Fock, who commanded the Fourth East Siberian Division of Port Arthur, and Major-Gen. Reiss, chief of staff of Gen. Stoessel, are standing trial for their lives before the Supreme Court Martial, has been obtained by the Associated Press. It is of the greatest interest as explaining the decision to try these three officers and nolle prosequi the other defendors of Port Arthur.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES.

The report, which was written by Lieut.-Gen. Smirnoff, the actual commandant of the fortress, Stoessel being commander of the Kwantung Peninsula, is sensational in the extreme and categorically accuses Stoessel of cowardice and incapacity, and finally of the deliberate, treasonable hastening of the surrender to save his own life and in defiance of the decisions of two successive councils of war. The report is biased in the extreme, breathes the most bitter personal enmity and shows that the high officers of the Port Arthur garrison in the darkest days of the siege were almost at each other's throats. Only the late Major-General Kondratenko, commander of the Seventh East Siberian Rifles, had the confidence of both sides.

UNPARDONABLE BLUNDERS.

The report explains the references made in Gen. Kuropatkin's report of Gen. Stoessel's demoralization of the garrison. The indictment is summed up in the conclusion of Gen. Smirnoff, as follows;

"A series of unpardonable blunders outside the fortress, due to the ignorance and lack of military capacity and martial prowess of Generals Stoessel and Fock, brought about the investment of the fortress several months earlier than necessary, and after the investment a desire for undeserved glory moved Stoessel to interfere in the defence with unfortunate results. Finally, at the last period of the siege, Stoessel usurped my authority with the assistance of Generals Fock and Reiss, and committed treason in surrendering suddenly and prematurely. I regard our defeat at Mukden as a direct result of this treason."

Local Deputation to Protect Our Game

A meeting of the local Branch of the Ontario Game and Protective Association was held in Mr. E. A. Peck's office Monday night. It was decided to organize a deputation to join with other representatives from the province to go to Toronto on March 5th, to impress upon the premier the great necessity of adopting stronger measures for the protection of the fish and game of this great province. All interested in this great work are requested to join the deputation. Full particulars will be furnished by Mr. Peck or Mr. Hatton, vice-president.

A Splendid Lecture

By Rev. Dr. Marsh in the Charlotte Street Methodist School House Last Night.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, gave a brilliantly instructive and interesting lecture on astronomy in Charlotte street Methodist church school house last night. The building was crowded to overflowing by a very appreciative audience. The lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views, and proved a masterly effort on the part of the reverend doctor, whose extensive knowledge of astronomical science is the result of deep research and indefatigable study. The subject was handled in a marvellously skilful manner by the lecturer, who held the undivided attention of his audience from start to finish. Too much credit cannot be tendered Dr. Marsh for the intellectual treat he gave his hearers on a subject but little understood by the vast majority of the sons and daughters of this planet. His explanation of the laws governing the innumerable starry systems by which we are surrounded, proved to be deeply interesting, and not dry in any sense.

Mayor R. F. McWilliams made a very acceptable chairman, and solos rendered by Miss Reesor and Mr. Duncan Campbell were much enjoyed by the large audience.

A silver collection was taken up to defray the expenses connected with the lecture.

After the lecture a large number stayed to form an astronomical society, which will be under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Marsh.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

The Mountain Maid

The old-time favorites, Marks Brothers, were greeted by another crowded and demonstrative house last night, when they offered a comedy drama entitled, "The Mountain Maid," with Gracie Marks, a charming versatile lead, supported by a good repertoire company. The piece was handled very creditably indeed by the company, who are putting up an entertainment worth considerably more than the price of admission, 10, 20, and 30 cents.

Marks Bros. are giving a complete change of program each evening. Their plays are agreeably interspersed with singing, dancing and trapeze specialties, which take well with the audience. They also offer a series of stereopticon views and moving pictures which call for unstinted approval. A special feature of their illustrated songs is throwing on the canvas the words of the chorus, which was highly approved of by last night's audience, who joined in the singing of the same with a hearty good will.

Tonight the offering will be "A Girl from the South," one of Marks Bros.' best presentations.

Over Twenty Pupils Burned to Death

Montreal, Feb. 27.—Hochelaga Protestant school was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon, owing to the fact that the fire brigade could not fight the fire as the water supply was cut off through half the city.

There were 200 children in the building, but all escaped.

LATER.—In the fire which destroyed Hochelaga school yesterday afternoon, it is feared as many as twenty children have lost their lives.

Up till late last night, seven dead bodies had been taken out of the ruins, and also upon twenty others are missing.

Mrs. Maxwell, one of the teachers, is among the dead.

Conference May Last a Month

Lord Elgin Issues a White Paper on the Coming Event in London.

London, Feb. 26.—A Parliamentary white paper was issued yesterday containing a despatch from Lord Elgin respecting the Agenda for the forthcoming "colonial" conference. Lord Elgin says the constitution, future of the conference, preferential trade, defence and emigration may be regarded as the primary subjects for consideration. Lord Elgin suggests that certain subjects should be separately discussed with the Ministers of State primarily concerned, and expresses the hope that the question of universal penny postage and the Imperial cable system will be discussed in this way. Lord Elgin suggests three sittings of the conferences, which will be held each week. The conference may be expected to last three weeks or a month.

Referring to reciprocal admission to certain professions, Lord Elgin, in the white paper, says: "The question of reciprocity in professions is complicated by technical considerations, and it is doubtful whether discussion could result in anything further than an academic resolution. It has been found impossible to overcome the difficulties in regard to a uniform system of patents, and public opinion in this country is not ripe for the adoption of the Metric system."

Don't Overdraw Your Bank Account

To overdraw your bank account, whether mentally or physically, is more suicidal even than to overdraw materially. Repair wasted tissues, strengthen shattered nerves and rejuvenate your rheumatic system by visiting the famous Mineral Salt Springs of the "St. Catharines Well" of St. Catharines, Ont. A postal card to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, Toronto, will bring illustrated descriptive matter.

Washington, Feb. 26.—The Senate in executive session last night confirmed the nomination of Hamilton Fish to be Assistant Treasurer of the United States at New York.

FORT WILLIAM HAS BEEN MADE A CITY

In Accordance With Wishes of Citizens It Has Been Decided Not to Amalgamate Said Place With Port Arthur.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—There will be no big amalgamated city comprising the municipalities of Fort William and Port Arthur. The Legislative Private Bills Committee yesterday morning bowed to the overwhelming sentiment of the residents of the rival towns.

"Well," was the regretful decision of Mr. I. B. Lucas, the chairman, "if they won't let us unite them I suppose we'll have to make two cities of them for the present."

And the Fort William deputation applauded vigorously.

Dr. Smellie said he was the bearer of seventy-five personal telegrams from residents of Fort William protesting against amalgamation. "In fact," he declared, "they would rather withdraw the bill for cityhood altogether if you insist on union.

The committee then bowed to the inevitable. They passed Dr. Smellie's resolution making Fort William a city, and turned its attention to the street railway embroglio.

STREET RAILWAY QUESTION.

Fort William desires to have the right to build and operate a street railway system. This is opposed by Port Arthur. The latter secured a special Act from the Legislature in 1892 which gave them the right of building a street railway through Fort William; Fort William will have the right to buy out that part of the railway which is in Fort William in six years' time. They complain that the service is miserable, and Fort William desires to own and operate its own street railway. Fort Williams declares in its statement to the committee that the present system "is being run so as to skin the public as much as they can for the benefit of Port Arthur, so as to bleed Fort William for the benefit of Port Arthur.

BUILDING OF BRIDGES.

Another clause of the proposed bill asks that the city be empowered to build one or more bridges over the Kaministiquia, Mission and McKellar Rivers, suitable for railway and other traffic, with the right to lease, collect tolls, etc. Mr. J. J. Drew, representing the Fort William Terminal Company, who seek the right to erect bridges of their own, made a strong protest. The committee held to the opinion that if this right were granted to Fort William ordinary street traffic should be free of charge, and that all railways should have equal rights over the bridge. Mr. H. L. Drayton, appearing for the town, covered all objections by saying Fort William was quite ready to have their operation of this bridge subject to the instructions of the Railway Board.

The clause will be retrimmed before being passed by the committee. The city will be asked to submit a by-law by July 1st to get the citizens' view on the question, and in justice to the railway company.

The committee would not ratify by-law No. 21, authorizing Fort William to construct a railway of its own. Several members of the committee suggested the appointing of a joint commission from the two towns of Fort William and Port Arthur to adjust defects in the system now operated by the last town, and which runs into Fort William.

To Buy a Divorce

Toronto, Feb. 26.—A young woman who said that she had been married five weeks, called on Chief Inspector Archibald yesterday morning, and enquired the price of a divorce.

"I want to buy one," she said naively.

On being told that they were not for sale, she was greatly surprised.

It was explained to her that, after sufficient cause had been shown, orders of separation were granted, and with that she had to be content.

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—Six hundred and thirty-one Japanese (cargo passengers arrived last night on the steamer Mongolia, and an equal number is expected on the arrival of a liner from the Hawaiian Islands that will take up the consignment of Japanese that the Nippon Maru will leave at Honolulu.

No orders were received from Washington by the local immigration officials relative to the debarring of Japanese on the Mongolia from the California shore, and after a perfunctory examination they were allowed to land.

Tommy Atkins For Canada

London, February 26.—The Allan liner Tunisian, which sailed yesterday, is chartered by the Canadian Pacific to take the place of the Empress boat in dock for temporary repairs. The Tunisian takes Colonel Gwatkin, Major Harris and 160 men from the disbanded Manchester and other regiments, who are enlisting in the Canadian regular forces. Mr. Bennett Rosamond, of Almonte, and Rev. F. G. and Miss Caffin also sailed on the Tunisian, which has 1,068 third class, 312 second class, and 48 first class passengers.

OPERATION AVOIDED

Change of Food Instead of Resort to the Knife.

Starch indigestion is a common trouble with many persons who eat food containing starch—white bread, potatoes, pies, cakes, etc.

This results frequently in accumulations of undigested material in the intestines that cause swellings and formations of gas attended by discomfort and even great suffering.

Unless the matter is corrected by changing the manner of eating and the composition of the food, a person may be forced to have an operation performed which might have been avoided.

"Ten years ago," writes an Iowa woman, "my stomach began to bother me. After suffering a few months I went to our family physician and he told me it was indigestion and I kept getting worse until about six months later the doctor told me I had a growth in my stomach and an operation would be necessary. I was unwilling as to that, however, and so was left almost a wreck, too miserable at times, to live.

"Shortly after that I happened to see a testimonial about Grape-Nuts food in our paper and decided to try it and I have kept at it. It may seem wonderful but today I can eat almost anything with a relish and no bad after effects." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts, as a regular food, builds up the body by reason of its easy digestion and absorption, and because it contains all there is in fine whole wheat and barley, so thoroughly prepared as to meet the demands of Nature for a tissue-repairing and energy-making food.

Many a case of appendicitis has its beginning in starch indigestion, and many a case of indigestion has been cured by the regular daily use of Grape-Nuts. There's a Reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

UNION LABEL

AN UNAPPRECIATED RIGHT

You can lead a horse to the trough, but you can't make him drink. You can give a man the right to vote, but often he is neither eager nor willing to exercise it. And the same way with women who think they want the right to vote and get it. They are going to make an interesting experiment in Australia in attempting to make men vot. A compulsory voting bill, a government measure, is now under discussion in Victoria. The measure is offered to arouse the electoral apathy which is said to have been increasing of late all over Australia. The failure to vote is to be punished by a fine of $5; but a curious concession is made to the lazy citizen in a provision which permits him to send his ballot by mail.

A compulsory voting law is not a novelty. Belgium has one, but little is said about its working. Of course men ought to appreciate the right to vote enough to make compulsory voting laws unnecessary. But there is, we suppose, a real need for them in all the voting countries. The voters here don't vote unless they take the notion to and it frequently requires as much pulling and pushing to make them take the notion as it does to load cattle into a car. They ought to value their right much more than they do, as much, for instance, as those who want the votes value them.

PRESENT STATUS OF HUMANITY'S WAR ON CANCER SCOURGE

The hope that is aroused from time to time over announcements of progress made in investigations as to the causes and in experiments for the cure of humanity's most frightful scourge, cancer, are declared to be absolutely groundless and unwarranted by Dr. Leonard J. Keene Hirshberg, who writes in the American Magazine on "Cancer the Unconquerable."

After years of research by the greatest scientists of the world in laboratories of the most approved equipment according to modern notions, he says we know scarcely more about cancer than did Hippocrates. While plausible theories as to the cause of the affliction have been formulated, it is a depressing fact that the authorities are divided into many conflicting schools, who find themselves unable to agree as to causation.

Consumption, typhoid fever and other diseases occasion more deaths than cancer, but enormous progress has been made in their treatment. The patient who discovers that he is suffering from these scourges may hope for relief. But for cancer no reliable method of treatment has ever been discovered. Its development is almost a sentence of death. A new remedy may seem to bring effects not before attainable, may even seem to effect cures, but in every instance so far the belief that a reliable agency has at last been discovered for combatting the disease has been shown to be based on generalization from insufficient data.

However, the one message that Dr. Hirshberg has for his readers is that those who find themselves afflicted with the malady should not abandon hope. Extirpation by the knife gives gratifying results when restorted to in time and then nature herself has mysterious processes by which unaided she sometimes brings about a cure. It is these natural cures which enable charlatans to work successfully on the credulity of the public. Perhaps a patient who has resorted in desperation to their services makes a recovery. His case is held up as a vindication of the charlatan regimen, which is thereupon applied hopefully to other cases of the sort, to the enormous profit of the charlatan, but without any other success whatever until another in the extremely small percentage of cases in which the recuperative powers of nature effect a cure is encountered.

In the year of the last census cancer caused 53,000 deaths in the United States and its ravages are increasing constantly and alarmingly. The X-rays, radium, orgall, Finsen light, soap, caustic, trypsin, all have proved ineffective.

"Don't abandon hope" and "Don't temporize" sum up the advice of the writer.

Unable to Speak When Rescued

Rome, Feb. 26.—The commander of the Italian warship Curtatone, sent to the rescue of the passengers and crew of the Austrian Lloyd steamer Imperatrix, Feb. 22, has sent a most distressing report regarding the condition of 33 passengers whom he succeeded in rescuing. They were in such a pitiable condition that they were unable even to speak.

The news of the wreck of the Imperatrix caused a great impression at the Italian court, as Princess Milena of Montonegro, the Queen's mother, was crossing the Adriatic at the time on her way to Rome.

The Imperatrix ran into a rock on Friday evening near Cape Elahonisi, on the Island of Crete, and sank soon afterward. All the passengers on board were saved, but forty members of the crew, of whom 32 were Austrians and eight Italians, perished. The captain, doctor and first engineer were rescued.

Russian, French and Italian cruisers and gunboats are assisting to release the stranded vessel.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Earl Grey's Aunt Dies in England

London, Feb. 26.—Austen Chamberlain, speaking at the Jewelers' Association banquet at Birmingham, said the Canadian introduction of an intermediate tariff was an invitation to negotiate to every country which desired to do trade with Canada.

Mrs. George Clive, aunt of Earl Grey, is dead at the age of 81.

Ex-Provost Fleming of Aberdeen, lecturing on his visit to Canada, said what impressed him most were the virility and enterprise of the people, and the magnificence of the public buildings made him think "we are not so extravagant here after all."

Mrs. Simpson Hayes gives publicity to the statement that Canada wants refined women and is tired of servants of the type who go to Canada with the idea that they are to be real "ladies."

JAPANESE ARMAMENTS.

England Is a Little Anxious About Her Enterprising Ally.

Great Britain's enterprising ally, Japan, intends not only practically to double her army, but to spend £7,000,000 on the increase of her navy as well. The ships will presumably be built in Japan, where possibly facilities for the production of armor plate will be installed. If this be so, with the cheap labor available, the sum named ought to give the Japanese at least five if not six ships of the type of the Dreadnought or something approaching thereto. She may, however, elect to build two or more cruisers, it not being by any means certain that the Japanese have followed our example in merging the two classes into the "capital ship." Perhaps four battleships and two armored cruisers may be the outcome of the proposals.

If this be so, how will Japan stand when her new programme is completed? The Mikasa has been raised, so she will have four ships of her old battle fleet, to which may be added the Orel, Peresviet, Retvizan, Poltava and Pobieda, taken from the Russians; the Hushima and Katori, the Aki and Satsuma and the (presumed) four new battleships, in all seventeen ships, the worst of which is a little better than our Royal Sovereign class. Backed by some sixteen good armored cruisers, the total is a formidable one, which any except the "mightiest power" may well think twice before tackling. It amounts practically to a fleet of six Dreadnoughts, two King Edwards, three Formidables, three Canopuses, one Majestic and two Royal Sovereigns. Where, it may fairly be asked, is to be found the enemy against whom it is expected that this formidable array of vessels will be employed?

I do not care to attempt to give an answer to the question. It is sufficient to know that in the belief of the Japanese the new vessels will see service. But no man knows where the conditions of the latest power are leading her nor what obstacles in her path she foresees. Any one can for himself imagine half a dozen possibilities, probable or improbable. It suffices to say that ten years is no long time in the construction of a fleet, and that at the expiration of that period it may be necessary again to keep a squadron of battleships in the seas of the far east. The possibility should be taken into account in considering the building programme of the next four years. Alliances are not eternal, and we need not be the less friends with Japan if we recognise that in her future relations she will consult her own imperial interests, with little regard for ours. The existing alliance gives her a breathing space, and in admiration of her deeds we are glad she should have it. But this does not absolve us from the duty of making preparations to "keep our own head" should the situation nine years hence be totally changed from what it is now.—St. James' Gazette.

Fever in Vegetables.

When plants are wounded their respiration increases and their temperature perceptibly rises. In recent experiments a thermo-electric apparatus capable of registering a change of one four-hundredth of a degree was employed. When a potato was wounded the fever manifested itself by an elevation of temperature which was greatest at the end of twenty-four hours, when it began slowly to decline. An onion similarly treated acquired an increase of temperature many times greater than that shown by the potato, and the fever instead of being confined to the neighborhood of the wound affected the entire onion. In fact, the onion proved to be more readily affected in this way than any other vegetable experimented with. The rise of temperature is caused by increased absorption of oxygen.—Portland Journal.

Good Money For Convicts.

It is not generally known, but it is nevertheless a fact, that convicts in the Ohio penitentiary earn as high as $50 or $60 a month for themselves working overtime. They have a certain task to perform in eight hours, and all work they get out above their tasks is credited to them. In the bolt shop alone more than 200 men divide every month $900 for work accomplished in overtime. The convicts are not allowed to work more than eight hours a day. One man in the bolt shop earns nearly $60 every month running what is called a perfect mill. A large number of convicts clear for themselves more than $30 a month.—Columbus Dispatch.

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide" The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Critic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 6200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

On the seventh day they rested at a point but a few miles from the mouth of the Richelieu river, where a large blockhouse, Fort Richelieu, had been built by M. de Sautel. Once past this, they had no great distance to go to reach the seigneury of De Catinat's friend of the noblesse, who would help them upon their way. They had spent the night upon a little island in mids stream, and at early dawn they were about to thrust the canoe out again from the sand-fined cove in which she lay when Ephraim Savage growled in his throat and pointed out across the water.

A large canoe was coming up the river [illegible] alongside as quick as a dozen arms could drive it. In the stern sat a dark figure, which bent forward with every stroke of the paddles as though consumed by eagerness to push onward. Even at that distance there was no mistaking it. It was the fanatical monk whom they had left behind them.

Concealed among the brushwood, they watched their pursuers fly past and vanish round a curve in a stream.

"We'd have done better either to put him overboard or to take him as ballast," said Ephraim.

"Well, we can't take the back track, anyhow," said Amos.

"But yet how can we go on?" said De Catinat despondently. "This vindictive Cure will give word at the fort and at every other point along the river."

"Let me cipher it out." Amos Green sat on a fallen staple with his head sunk upon his hands. "Well," said he presently, "if it's no good going on and no good going back, there's only one way, and that is to go to one side. We can't go to the north, so it follows that we steer to the south."

"Leave the canoe?"

"It's our only chance. We can cut through the woods and come out near this friendly house on the Richelieu. The friar will lose our trail then, and we'll have no more trouble with him if he stays on the St. Lawrence."

"There's nothing else for it," said Captain Ephraim ruefully. "It's not my way to go by land if I can get by water, so you must lay the course and keep her straight, Amos."

"It is not far, and it will not take us long. Let us get over to the southern bank, and we shall make a start. If madame tires, De Catinat, we shall take turns to carry her."

"Ah, monsieur, you cannot think what a good walker I am! In this splendid air one might go on forever."

"We will cross, then." In a very few minutes they were at the other side and had landed at the edge of the forest. There the guns and ammunition were allotted to each man, and his share of provisions and of the scanty baggage. Then, having paid the Indians and having instructed them to say nothing of their movements, they turned their backs upon the river and plunged into the silent woods.

CHAPTER XX.

LEAVING Fort St. Louis upon their right, the travelers pushed onward as swiftly as they could, for the sun was so low in the heavens that the bushes in the clearings threw shadows like trees.

Then suddenly as they peered in front of them between the trunks the green of the sward turned to the blue of the water, and they saw a broad river running swiftly before them. Amos and De Catinat had both been upon the bosom of the Richelieu before, and their hearts bounded as they looked upon it, for they knew that this was the straight path which led them, the one to home and the other to peace and freedom.

Across the river was the terrible Iroquois country, and at two points they could see the smoke of fires curling up into the evening air. They followed the track which led down the eastern bank. As they pushed onward a stern military challenge suddenly brought them to a stand, and they saw the gleam of two musket barrels which covered them from a thicket overlooking the path.

"We are friends," cried De Catinat. "Whence come you, then?" asked an invisible sentinel.

"From Quebec."

"And whither are you going?"

"To visit M. Charles de la None, seigneur of Ste Marie."

"Very good. It is quite safe, Du Lhut. They have a lady with them too. I greet you, madame, in the name of my father."

Two men had emerged from the bushes, one of whom might have passed as a full blooded Indian had it not been for these courteous words, which he uttered in excellent French. He was a tall, slight young man, very dark, with piercing black eyes and a grim, square, relentless mouth which could only have come with Indian descent.

The other was undoubtedly a pure Frenchman, elderly, dark and wiry, with a bristling black beard and a fierce, eager face. Leaning upon his long brown gun, he stood watching the party, while his companion advanced toward them.

"You will excuse our precautions," said he. "We never know what device these rascals may adopt to entrap us. I fear, madame, that you have had a long and very tiring journey. My mother will be very glad to welcome you and to see to every want. But you, sir, I have surely seen you before."

"And I you," cried the guardsman. "My name is Amory de Catinat, once of the regiment of Picardy. Surely you are Achille de la Noue de Ste. Marie."

"Yes, it is I," the young man answered, holding out his hand and smiling in a somewhat constrained fashion. "I do not wonder that you should hesitate, for when you saw me last I was in a very different dress from this. We have one life for the forest and one for the cities, though, indeed, my good father will not have it so and carries Versailles with him wherever he goes. But it is time for our relief, and so we may guide you home."

Two men in the rude dress of Canadian cousitaires, or farmers, but carrying their muskets in a fashion which told De Catinat's trained senses that they were disciplined soldiers, had suddenly appeared upon the scene. Young De la None gave them a few curt injunctions and then accompanied the refugees along the path.

"Yes, it is I," the young man answered.

"You may not know my friend here," said he, pointing to the other sentinel, "but I am quite sure that his name is not unfamiliar to you. This is Greysolon du Lhut."

Both Amos and De Catinat looked with the deepest curiosity and interest at the famous leader of coureurs de bois, a man whose whole life had been spent in pushing westward, ever westward, saying little, writing nothing, but always the first wherever there was danger to meet or difficulty to overcome.

"What do you think of those fires

Mr. Mitchell to Sell Grocery

Mr. F. J. B. Mitchell, who has decided to confine his attention to the liquor trade exclusively, is now offering his old established and successful grocery business for sale. This is a splendid opportunity for any wanting to obtain a good business at a reasonable price. e.o.d.t.f.

A Whale Headed Stork.

Among the many curious and unusual animals which have been found by Sir Harry Johnston, the African explorer, in the Uganda protectorate, is the whale headed stork. The bird resembles the common stork in everything but the head, which is anything but beautiful. The beak is enormous and gives the stork a peculiar, whale-like appearance. It is rather a puzzle to scientists to discover the reason for this enormous appendage. The whale's mouth is built to catch a multitude of small fish, and possibly the stork's beak may have been evolved by the same agency.

National Banks.

During 1900 there were 402 national banks organized in the United States, with aggregate capital of $23,403,500. At the end of the year there were in existence 6,283 national banks, with authorized capital of $962,016,775. As a result of the liquidation of seventy-three associations and the failure of four the net increase in number of banks during the year was 385, the increase in authorized capital being $13,534,700.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommend and sell

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 30 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1231-493-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

Losing Muscular Power?

The First Sign of Mental Decay—The Warning of General Break-Down.

Changes in the nervous system manifest themselves slowly.

They show first by muscular weakness—a feeling that threatens paralysis, or by a fullness in the head that indicates approaching apoplexy.

It seems like stiffness but you soon discover there's a lack of power—that the endurance of this or that muscle is not what it ought to be.

Your friends may notice a slight thickness of speech or that your memory is decidedly failing.

These symptoms may grow worse very quickly if they are not treated by Ferrozone. You must build up the nervous system. This can be accomplished in no other way as thoroughly and permanently as by the use of Ferrozone.

This remarkable remedy, which has cured tens of thousands of Canadian people, increases enormously the digestive power, stimulates the formation of blood, the rich, red kind that puts new life into the nerves.

The first result of these changes is increased strength.

Natural circulation quickly follows, and that fullness in the head, so disturbing and alarming, too, quickly passes away.

These changes are wrought in a natural way, for the reason that Ferrozone treats the causes that excite these troubles.

For the aged and weak who need strength—for those run-down and thin—for the sickly and nervous who lack staying power—nothing compares with Ferrozone.

No tonic gives such lasting good health; try it yourself. Sold by all dealers in 50c. boxes.

TO SLEEP WELL

There's a Way and There's a Reason

Sleep is "Tired Nature's Sweet Restorer," it builds up and repairs the wear and tear of the day's work. Without sleep the human machine soon wears out.

A N. Y. City lady writes: "My husband and I were inveterate coffee drinkers, both of us being so very fond of the beverage that we continued it long after we discovered that it was the cause of much suffering from sleepless nights and nervous exhaustion. We tried to give it up, first by reducing our allowance to one cup a day; then we managed to give it up altogether for a few days. But the craving returned and we went back to the coffee and the sleeplessness and nervous trouble.

"Then, reading the advertisement of Postum Food Coffee, I bought a package and began to use it. My husband was skeptical and refused to try it. However, he noticed that I was sleeping better, and one morning declared that he envied me my sound slumber. I told him I believed it was Postum that was helping me, and poured him out a cup to taste. He drank two cups and left his coffee untasted and from that time has used Postum exclusively, and he cannot praise the miraculous power of Postum Food Coffee too highly. It has not only brought us sound, refreshing sleep, and taken away our nervous exhaustion, but we have found that usually all the breakfast we need can be made on Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee. We have been following this simple morning diet for some time, and feel the best beneficial results from so doing. I shall be glad to verify these statements at any time, as we both feel that you are doing a lot of good in explaining to people the effects of coffee and how easily to be rid of them." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a Reason."

A. Rountree Going Out of Groceries

It now seems that like Mr. Mitchell the Hunter street grocer, Mr. A. Rountree, 394 George street, is offering his grocery business for sale and will as soon as a deal is made, confine his attention to the retail liquor business.

It will be remembered that Mr. A. Rountree, some two years ago, bought out Mr. Ed. Brown's business, and has since carried on a very successful grocery business. Mr. Rountree has decided to deal only in liquors. This is the last of the combined grocery and liquor stores in the city and henceforth such line of trade will be conducted as separate businesses.

Mr. Rountree will remain in his present premises until the middle of April, when he will move into his own building on Water street, now occupied by the Big Dipper Mining Company. Mr. McFarlane Wilson has taken Mr. Rountree's lease of the George street store and will move the China Hall from his temporary premises north of Brock street as soon as possible.

Banquet to Mr. C. Webber

Mr. Clarence Webber, who has been in the city for a few months, and who has made many friends, was tendered a banquet at Hooper's. Mr. Webber is leaving to accept a good position in Toronto. The banquet was a success in every way.

The Strenuous Life

Nature will have her compensations. Our over-worked bodies and nerves require recuperation and rest. The longer the delay the greater the price. Before too late try the tonic influence of the Mineral Salt Springs. The St. Catharines "Well" for nervous troubles, rheumatism and allied diseases, appeals to those desiring relief and absolute convalescence. Write J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Grand Trunk Railway System, Toronto, for illustrated descriptive matter.

China Hall Secures a Store

The China Hall, now in temporary premises on George street, just north of Brock street, owing to their former store being remodelled and occupied by the Dominion Bank, will within a few months occupy the premises now used by Mr. Arthur Rountree as a grocery and liquor store. As noted elsewhere, Mr. Rountree will confine the retail liquor business on Water street.

Lock Works Shut Down

Yesterday the Peterborough Lock Works was shut down all day owing to the lack of heat. It seems that a steam pipe leading from the boiler, which supplies heat to the whole building, blew out about 5 a.m. This made the place too cold for the employees to work. However, during the day the trouble was fixed. The delay of yesterday was particularly distressing to the Lock Company as this firm is now some three months behind in their orders. Whilst the local lock company turns out the best and highest grade locks manufactured in Canada they have competition to a certain extent in Belleville and other places.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, oftimes, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nervine and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

HOWARD NESBIT WILL OPPOSE MRS. THAW

Concerning the Revolver---Mr. Delmas Said Yesterday Morning Defence Would Conclude Its Case This Week.

New York, Feb. 28.—Before court opened for yesterday's session of the trial of Harry K. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford White, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw entered the court room, accompanied by Delphin M. Delmas, of counsel for the defence, and took a seat at the end of the table occupied by her husband. While waiting for the trial to go on she chatted with Dr. Hammond, one of the defence's alienists, and with Mrs. J. J. Clark, who sat near her.

MRS. THAW RECALLED.

Immediately after court convened, Lawyer Dan O'Reilly led Mrs. Thaw and Mrs. Clark from the room. Mrs. Thaw did not get a chance to speak to her husband. Mr. Jerome then stated that he had overlooked one point in his cross-examination of Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. Mrs. Thaw was therefore recalled.

By the first question Mr. Jerome indicated that he intends to call Howard Nesbit to the witness stand to contradict his sister. The district attorney is allowed to contradict traversible or material facts, but cannot controvert collateral facts.

"Did you see your brother at Marion, Mass., after your return from Europe in 1903?" asked the district attorney.

"I did not," replied Mrs. Thaw.

"Where did you see him?"

"In New York."

"Did you not tell him in substance that while you were abroad you had been brutally abused by Thaw, who had tried to induce you to tell lies against Mr. White to the effect that Mr. White had drugged you; which statements you then and there told your brother were false?"

"I did not."

"Didn't you tell your brother that Thaw, at a pistol's point, had compelled you to make false statements against White?"

"I did not."

"Did he not ask you if you feared violence, and you said you did, and he said you should arm yourself for protection?"

"I remember no such conversation."

DIDN'T BUY REVOLVER.

"Did he not say you should have a revolver?"

"He did not."

"Didn't he buy you a revolver?"

"He did not."

"Didn't you give him money to buy a revolver?"

"I did not."

"That is all," said Mr. Jerome, and Mrs. Thaw left the room.

DR. BINGAMAN CALLED.

Dr. Charles F. Bingaman, of Pittsburg, the Thaw family physician, then was sworn. He told Mr. Delmas of seeing Thaw on Nov. 16, 1903, at which time he was nervous and melancholy. He was sleeping and eating little, and seemed much changed from his former condition. He had known Thaw from childhood, and the latter was formerly of a buoyant nature.

On August 17, 1906, he called on Thaw in the Tombs, and again saw him on Sept. 11.

New York, Feb. 27.—Evidence that Stanford White was not in the 24th street studio on the night Evelyn Nesbit Thaw declares he drugged and mistreated her is in the possession of District Attorney Jerome, says the evening World today. This evidence, it is asserted, is based upon information given by White's friends who declare that he spent nearly the whole of the night in question entertaining a party of friends in the Madison Square tower. "This," says the World, "was undoubtedly the surprise which the prosecutor had in store for the defence. But although it might off-set the testimony given by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, it cannot be given to the jury, as it does not disprove that Evelyn told her husband the story she says she did.

A Real Estate Deal Contradicted

In an evening contemporary we see a very sensational article regarding some local butchers. In this article it is said that owing to Messrs. Porter Bros.' occupation of a store next to Mr. T. Hooper's confectionery store on George street, this will lead to a war between Messrs. Kennedy and others in meat prices. The article in question clearly prophesies that Mr. Gordon is to obtain possession of the store now occupied as a confectionery store by Demetrie Bros.

A Times representative yesterday called upon Mr. Geo. Andronopolis, local manager for Messrs. Demetrie Bros., and asked how much truth there was in our esteemed contemporary's statement. Mr. Andronopolis simply laughed at the idea, saying that their business was too large and assured to permit of thinking of such a change as suggested. Messrs. Demetrie Bros. have a lease extending over several years yet and will not consider such a matter as giving up their present premises.

Signalling Class for Peterborough

The following was yesterday issued by Lieut.-Col. Miller.

Headquarters, Peterborough.

Orders by

Lt.-Col. J. W. Miller,
Commanding 57th Regiment.
Peterborough Rangers.

By authority of the Militia Department, a class will be organized in Peterborough, during the month of March, 1907, for the purpose of receiving instruction in signalling. This class will be open to officers and non-commissioned officers of all branches of the service, and all who intend to take advantage of it will at once hand in their names to Lt.-Col. Miller, 438 George street, Peterborough.

By order,
D. WALKER,
Capt. & Adj't.

China Hall Has Secured New Store

Mr. McFarlane Wilson, the popular and efficient manager of "China Hall," has completed arrangements whereby his company has secured the entire stock of groceries formerly belonging to Mr. Arthur Rountree, 394 George street. This stock will at once be slaughtered at whatever prices it will bring to reduce the amount of goods and thereby enable China Hall to obtain possession of the premises as soon as possible. Mr. Wilson will make some very great changes in the store and have one of the most up-to-date and modern china and glassware stores in the Province. For full particulars, see adv. in tomorrow's paper.

Peterboro's Power Is Very Cheap

Judging by comparison with prices as ascertained by the Hydro-Electric Power Commissioners, Peterborough gets very cheap power. The commissioners have submitted figures relative to cost of power in Toronto. The rates there, according to meter vary from $45 per horse power per annum for a 10-hour day for one horse power to $18 per horse power if 200 horse power is used. The prices charged by the Toronto Electric Light Co. run from $51 to $180. The Peterborough Light & Power Company's rate is one horse power used 24 hours daily, annually $20, 10 hours a day $18.

Therefore the people of Peterborough, after examining the report referred to, and comparing it with the very low rate in Peterborough, must be convinced that this city has reason for congratulation over its cheap power.

City Board of Works Met Last Night

Peterborough Hardware Company Secure Contract for 5,000 Barrels of Cement at $1.91 Per Barrel.

The Board of Works met in business session last evening at five o'clock, when tenders for the supply of cement for permanent work were opened.

The Belleville Portland Cement Company, offered to supply 5,000 barrels of cement at $1.91 1-2 a barrel, inspection and storage included.

The Peterborough Hardware Company offered the same number of barrels of cement at $1.91 per barrel, inspection and storage included.

The tender of the Peterborough Hardware Company was accepted.

The petition of the Dickson Company, for sewerage accommodation on their property on Westerfort street, was referred to the Board of Health.

The Board acquiesced in a petition to street water Brook street, from Bethune to Stewart streets.

The Board will street water Bethune street from Dalhousie to Sherbrooke; Sherbrooke street from Rubidge to Park streets; and on Crescent street, from Lock to Haggard street.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre,—That the city solicitor be instructed to prepare a by-law to water the same areas as last year, with the addition of the above, and that half a mill be charged on the assessed values of the properties in question.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson,—That Mr. Drake's petition for a temporary crossing in Lansdowne street be granted, and that the city engineer be instructed to proceed with the work.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

Prepayment Meter Company to Build

On Tuesday evening, Mr. Milner, general manager of the Allis-Chalmers Bullock Co., of Montreal, was in the city representing his company. A meeting of the Pre-payment Meter Co. and Mr. Milner was held in the former's office, Hunter St., and as a result the Montreal firm has arranged to handle the entire output of the Pre-payment and Recording Electric Meter Co.

Arrangements have been made to take 30 meters per day, and in the spring the Peterborough Company will erect a large factory, but the positive location thereof is not yet yet decided.

A Successful Sale of Stock

Mr. J. H. Gardiner, the well-known silver tongued auctioneer, conducted a sale of farm stock and implements at the home of Mr. Jas. S. Stewart, Franklin, Ont., on Tuesday last. The sale terminated most successfully. One Clydesdale filly bought $365, while farm horses sold as high as $212 each. The entire proceeds of this sale realized in the neighborhood of $3500.

Mr. Gardiner is one of the most accomplished auctioneers, particularly of farm property, horses, cattle, etc., in the Province, and invariably charms the dollars out of the auditors' pockets.

TWO MILLION DOLLAR SUIT

Toronto, Feb. 28.—In a writ issued at Osgoode Hall yesterday two million dollars is claimed by Mr. T. Sprague, of New York, in a suit against R. Booth, of Ottawa, lumber dealer, and formerly owner of the Canada Atlantic Railway.

The writ is issued by McCarthy, Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt, plaintiff's solicitors, and reads as follows:

"The plaintiff's claim is in his own right and as assignee of the right of Arthur L. Meyer and W. Seward Webb, for the sum of $2,000,000 damages for breach of contract for the sale of a railway and for the return of $250,000 paid as a deposit."

Mr. H. S. Osler, who has the matter in hand, is at present in Ottawa, and no particulars regarding the suit can be obtained until his return.

"I will say," said Mr. Stewart, who is connected with the action, "that the matter is an action in connection with the sale of the Canada Atlantic Railway some two years ago to the Grand Trunk Railway. Further than that nothing can be said. We have merely served the writ and it will be some time before further proceedings get under way."

W. Seward Webb is president of the Rutland Railway Company and the St. Lawrence and Adirondack Railway Company. It is understood that the plaintiffs had negotiations with Mr. Booth for the purchase of the Canada Atlantic but that a higher price was paid by the G.T.R.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

Young Heffernan, who has been locked up for some days as insane, after due examination by physicians and adjudged insane, was yesterday taken to the Toronto Asylum by the Sheriff.

Edward Dormer, at yesterday's session of the Police Court, when asked "Were you drunk yesterday?" replied "I don't quite know." P. C. Meharry testified to Dormer being drunk. Dormer was fined $2 and given ten days to pay the same.

John Williams, of Lindsay, an old man with only one eye and an English accent, pleaded guilty to having been drunk. He explained that the preceding day was his birthday and in celebrating it with friends got an overdose of "tanglewit." The Magistrate remarked, "Well, the day before was my birthday, and I did not get drunk; however, as our jail is already full we don't want to keep Lindsay people there, so if you promise to get out of town at once I will let you go." Williams smiled blandly and left the court room.

SPORTING TOPICS

HOCKEY.

The annual hockey match between the Review and Examiner has been fixed for Thursday night, March 7th, between eight and nine o'clock. The Review team expect to trim the Grit combination to a standstill, and make them look like 50 plugged bogus cents. Still the proof of the pudding will be when the final whistle is blown. The admission to the game will be ten cents. Half of the proceeds will go towards the Children's Aid Society. It is now up to the public to help aid the Children's Shelter, and at the same time see the news gatherers slide round the ice.

• • • •

Much interest is being taken over the final hockey games in the city league contest at the Brock street rink tonight, as it will decide who will hold the cup for the coming year. Charlotte street and Strathcona will play in the first game. The teams are about equal, and it is hard to say who will be the winners.

The Orphans and Auburns play the second match and all those who attend will see some good hockey.

LACROSSE.

Yesterday's sunshine recalls thoughts of the summer when the yelling crowds will throng at Riverside Park to watch and applaude the lacrosse games.

What will our local lacrosse players do during the coming summer? Those who have lived in this city long enough will remember when some years ago, more perhaps than can be counted except by the grey hairs of those who were then rooters, went to Montreal, and dropped good big rolls of greenbacks when the home team went up against the Junior Shamrocks. Those were the days when Harry LeBrun used to chase over the field, yelling, "Run, Phelan, get there Fortye, put her home Rudkins," and other commands to his home team.

For this year it is now assured that the Peterborough Juniors will be again in the field, and after the junior honors. The boys made an excellent showing last year, and should nearly land at the top of the ladder. Nearly all last year's players will be on hand again in Riverside Park and will again don their lacrosse togs.

Will Not Pass Insurance Bill

Time Will Not Permit of the Passage of a Law Based on the Commissioner's Report.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—The draft insurance Act that accompanied the report of the Insurance Commission will be presented to the House by the finance minister at an early date, and will then be printed, so that its provisions may be made known as widely as possible.

Owing to the stage of the session, however, that has already been attained, there is no probability of the new bill being carried into law this session. No doubt, however, full opportunity will be afforded for the discussion of its various features this year, and for the matters incident to the investigation that arise out of the search into the affairs of the several companies.

The report and the evidence that accompanies it deals at considerable length with the Foster-Fowler transactions in the West, upon which public attention has been concentrated to such an extent ever since these matters came out last Summer.

The commissioners' comment, however, is confined to Hon. Mr. Foster's part therein, which is accounted for by the fact that he was theonly member of the syndicates whose interests were allied with the insurance question.

Welland Canal Will be Deepened

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—An influential deputation, made up of leading business men and vessel owners from Montreal, Toronto, Kingston, and Winnipeg, presented to the Government yesterday the request of the vessel owners of the Great Lakes, the grain associations of leading centers, and the Boards of Trade from Sydney to Vancouver, for the deepening of the Welland Canal to 20 feet; so as to accommodate the larger type of vessels now navigating the Soo canal.

In reply to their request, Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that the matter would have the Government's careful consideration, and that just as soon as the funds could be provided it would be done.

The request was backed by a striking array of figures, designed to show that the carrying out of this work would result in reducing the rate on the carriage of grain from Fort William to Montreal, to the extent of three cents a bushel.

Forcibly Took Away Valuables?

Woodstock, Feb. 28.—The investigation into the charges against Mr. and Mrs. D. Murray, the manager and matron of the house of refuge, brought by a number of East Zorra residents in a signed communication to the county council, was held yesterday before the special committee of the council. The evidence was all taken and judgment was reserved. James Daley, formerly of Beachville, and now an inmate of the house of refuge, declared that he had signed over $400 to Mr. and Mrs. Murray when he thought he was dying. He said he would not have complained had he been provided with good clothes from the amount signed over.

John Gusbert, a blind man at the refuge, declared that certain valuables given him by one Bennett before his death had been forcibly taken away from him by the authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray gave evidence, denying the serious charges.

Mrs. Perkins Remanded

Cayuga Ont., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Henry Perkins was brought before Thomas Clive, J.P., at 1.30 yesterday afternoon on the charge of murdering her husband. Crown Attorney Murphy was absent, not having returned from Toronto, and by pre-arrangement with Mrs. Perkin's solicitor, Mr. Grant, the prisoner was further remanded for one week. At the preliminary hearing on March 5th, Mr. Clive may have another justice sit with him on the case, probably Dr. Harrison, of Selkirk. Mr. Clive is a young magistrate, and, owing to the gravity of the case, thinks it advisable to have help.

CANADIAN PREFERENCE KEPT MEN IN WORK

Prevented Discharge of 1000 Men at the Time of the Shipping Strike---Canadian Topics in the Old Land.

London, Feb. 28.—Further fixtures for the Colonial Premiers are the Pilgrims' dinner at Claridge's, luncheon by the Canadian members, dinner of the Colonial Institute, dinners by members of the House of Commons, dinner of the Eighty Club, invitations from Bath and Edinburgh.

PRIMITIVE MEDICINE.

The Bishop of Selkirk, at the annual meeting of the Hostel St. Luke, said his experience in the Arctic regions made him appreciate such an institute. He cured himself of pleurisy with a mixture of snow and mustard. His predecessor amputated a man's leg with a common saw, and butcher's knife.

CANADIAN CHURCHES.

Rev. Hugh Pedley, at the meeting of the Congregational Mission Society, said Canada's great political problem to be solved was how to keep the ark of liberty clean from corruption. Also there was the great religious problem in the West. Faith would have to fight for its existence. Congregationalists would not enter church union if it meant a sort of new Uniformity Act. If this county could only realize what was going on in Canada every £100 given for pioneer Christian work would become £1,000.

THE DOMINION'S REPAIRS.

The Admiralty states that the battleship Dominion will be ready for service about the middle of May.

Canadian clergymen spoke at the presentation of the national testimonial of John Clifford.

The Standing Orders Committee of the Commons is considering a petition for leave to promote a bill for the construction of Irish railways in connection with the Black Sod Bay scheme.

CANADA HELPED.

The chairman of the Lanarkshire Steel Company stated that had it not been for the Canadian preference, 1,000 employes would have been dismissed during the shipping strike last year.

C. G. Chisholm, lecturing on inland waterways, said the result of a survey of Canada was that on heavy long hauls the railways would be able to enter into very effective competition, even with the Dominion's magnificent waterways.

THE SHIPPING RING.

At the Royal Commission on shipping rings, Arthur Sager of South Africa, said the system of fostered rebates was now operating on all steamlines trading from the United Kingdom, Germany, and Scandinavia, but also on lines from Canada, the United States, or Sydney. The Rugby Union will invite a South African team to play here in 1908.

Smoke Was the Cause of the Loss of Life

Testimony at Inquest Into Hochelaga School Disaster.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—The first steps in the direction of making a searching inquiry into the death of sixteen little pupils and the lady principal at the Hochelaga school fire horror were taken yesterday, when a jury was sworn in and the usual preliminary steps taken.

The inquest was adjourned until next Tuesday after taking the medical testimony as to the cause of death. This showed that the heavy smoke was responsible for the loss of the lives of the little ones.

Had the alarm been sounded as soon as the smoke was noticed the fire drill would probably have emptied the class rooms in at least five minutes.

Miss Maxwell, the brave principal, who sacrificed her life in her effort to save the little ones, appears to have over-looked that part of the program, and, instead, ran from room to room warning the teachers to get the children out. Then the halls were full of stifling smoke, and the children were driven back to the class rooms, and many to their death.

Was Worked on Bogus Telegram

St. Catharines, Feb. 28.—A new kind of swindle was worked on a local hotel man yesterday. A stranger walked into the St. Catharines House and produced a telegram, signed by Jas. Kent, and asked the clerk if he would cash a cheque for $25.

This the clerk did on the strength of the telegram, but on enquiry at the telegraph office, he found that the telegram was a fake. The stranger had walked into the C.P.R. sending office, taken a couple of sending blanks from the counter, and had written out the telegram himself. He also endeavored to secure a telegraph envelope, but was refused by the clerk. Mr. Kent's name appears on the top of the telegraph blank as manager of C.P.R. Telegraphs, Montreal, and it is thought the man took the name he signed from the printed form.

Opened by King

London, Feb. 28.—The new Central Criminal Court, erected on the site of the historic "Old Bailey," was opened yesterday by King Edward, who was accompanied by Queen Alexandra. The function was a ministerial affair. The King, in replying to the address, referred to the "barbarous penal code" administered within the walls of the old building, and said he rejoiced at the fact that this was being "gradually replaced in the progress towards higher civilization by laws breathing a more human spirit, and aiming at the nobler purpose of reforming criminals by showing mercy to first offenders, which often proves the means of reshaping their lives."

FOR STOMACH SUFFERERS

Don't Use Any Remedy That Keeps Its Formula a Secret.

People who are troubled with stomach weakness cannot afford to use any remedy unless they know what it contains.

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive giving only temporary relief, but a specific for all disorders of the digestive organs, and so effects a permanent cure for stomach troubles.

Your physician will tell you that nothing is better than a combination of chemically pure bismuth subgallate to allay any inflammation of the stomach and bowels; cerium oxalate, to strengthen the stomach nerves; sodium bi-carbonate, which neutralizes the poisonous acids that are present in stomach troubles; and nux vomica, which will restore vigor to the digestive organs and tone the whole nervous system.

This combination is found only in Mi-o-na stomach tablets, and it so rarely fails to strengthen the digestive system and cure all forms of stomach disorders that the remedy is sold under a guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

If you suffer from indigestion, distress after eating, specks before the eyes, headaches, pains in the back and side, emaciation, bloating, nervousness, sleeplessness, or any other symptoms of stomach trouble, begin the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets at once. Sold in 50c. boxes.

Write today for a free sample package, and also give us your symptoms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give your case his careful and personal attention without charge. Booth's Mi-o-na Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

IMPROVE YOUR COMPLEXION

Give Up Cosmetics And Seek The Cause of Your Bad Color.

When it's so easy to bring back the bloom of youth, to remove the blemishes and fill the hollows, isn't it foolish to plaster on cosmetics?

Sallowed skin and fallen in cheeks are produced by disorders of the alimentary canal.

Remove the cause—correct the condition that keeps you from looking as you ought. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills and very soon you'll have a complexion to be proud of.

Just imagine how much happier you will feel when those pimples and murky look have gone.

Dainty looks came to Miss Vrooman, a well known resident of Belfast, from using Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I used to look so yellow I thought it might be jaundice. There was simply no color in my cheeks at all. Today my skin is clear and never gets that murky, dull appearance, it had before. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have also given me a good appetite and improved my general health also."

Not only the complexion, but every organ of the body is strengthened, cleansed and made healthy by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Buoyancy, vim and a feeling of vigor invariably follow their use. Sold in yellow boxes by all dealers; 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

SHOULD BE TURNED DOWN

The proposal made in the Ontario Legislature to grant bonuses to temperance hotels in order to put them on a sound financial basis, that they may compete with licensed hotels, should be rejected by the Legislature. The permitting of the applying of public funds, whether they be provincial, county, or other funds, to such purposes would soon embroil the municipality in no end of trouble.

The carrying on of a temperance hotel, a restaurant, a grocery or any other line of business is purely a private enterprise, and to grant one a bonus and thus give it an advantage over others would be very unfair and unjust, and at the same time would give men engaged in other lines of business the right to demand the same consideration.

The plea that such assistance should be given temperance hotels because hotels in local option municipalities are frequently closed, and the travelling public thereby greatly inconvenienced, is untenable, for private enterprise may always be depended upon to supply any need, including that of hotel accommodation. If there is no such need the public funds should certainly not be squandered in bolstering up something whose lease of life must necessarily be short.

In discussing this proposal The Globe says: "It is to be hoped that some members of the Assembly will this session introduce an amendment to the license law, providing for the licensing of hotels as such, and for the licensing of bars as at present. To making such a change in the terminology of hotel-keeping there can be no reasonable objection. The present license is a permit to sell alcoholic beverages, not to keep a house of public entertainment. Every hotel should have a hotel license, in which nothing at all is said about the sale of liquor; it it has no additional license to sell liquor it is prohibited from doing so under the general license law, which is really a prohibitory measure with some permissive clauses. Under such a system there would grow up all over the country two classes of licensed hotels—those with bars and those without them. The closing of the bars in any locality would not then close the hotels; it would enable those without bars to compete more advantageously with those which had been equipped with bars before the passing of the prohibitory bylaw. Such an amendment of the law is urgently needed and cannot be long deferred."

The Bohemian for March

The Bohemian for March is made up of bright, keen stories, crisp, entertaining studies of American personality, and articles of satire and humor that will make their appeal to readers of every intelligent class. "Here and There" has thirteen witty stories of actors and literary men and women, illustrated with as many full-page portraits. The short stories are: "Private Warrington's Obedience," by W. A. Frost; "The Little God and Two Boys," by J. W. Kennard; "Lost Mountain," by Henry K. Schofield; "Cupid & Co.," by W. Carey Wonderly; "The Little Chump," by Zoe Anderson Norris; "The Soubrette and the Boy," by Miss F. H. Lea; and "The Coward," by J. E. Goodman.

C. F. Peters has a second series of "Little Glimpses of Some Well-known Artists" that is wonderfully interesting for its revelation of some unusual men and methods. "My Yesterdays," by Wilton Lackaye, is characteristically terse, witty and sarcastic. Its arraignment of the British for their snobbish treatment of the American actors is cutting in the extreme. "How Belasco Stages a Play" makes the reader realize the great amount of work and skill that goes to the making of America's chief form of entertainment. With the women, particularly the unmarried women, Miles Bradford's cooking article, "How to Catch a Husband with a Saucepan," will find an immediate response.

Bohemiana, with Edward Marshall's delightful glimpses of Unnatural History," another satire by Edith M. Blanchard, entitled "The Murderers," which is a display of gossipers in action, and Bric-a-Brac, is as funny and diverting as ever.

SEAGOING RAILROAD.

Line From Miami to Key West to Cost About $20,000,000.

Inside of three years, when work now under way is completed, it will be possible to travel in a railroad car all the way from New York or Chicago to Havana. This will be brought about by the construction of a seagoing railroad which will run from key to key over the 154 miles separating Miami and Key West. From the latter point it is only 100 miles to the Cuban capital, and across this stretch of water the trains will be ferried on monster floats capable of holding thirty cars.

This project is an extension of the Florida East Coast railroad, owned by Henry M. Flagler. It was started last year, and up to date the grading of the section of the road on the mainland and the construction of some of the viaducts have been completed.

Some idea of the boldness of the undertaking may be gained from the fact that from Long key to Conch key it is 10,400 feet, across Knight's key channel 7,800 feet, across Moser key channel 7,800 feet and across Bahia Honda channel 14,940 feet. However, along the major portion of the route lies a coral bed which will make a firm foundation for the viaducts. One of these viaducts will be the longest marine bridge in the world, double the length of Brooklyn bridge, in New York. The viaducts will consist of reenforced concrete arch spans and piers, and to insure safety and comfort the rails will be laid thirty feet above low water. Eventually it will be a double track road all the way from Miami to Key West.

Aside from its attractiveness to travelers, this line across the Florida keys is already being regarded in the commercial world as a factor in the future development of both Florida and Cuba. About 4,000 men are engaged in this latest Flagler enterprise. The traffic between Florida and Cuba will begin as soon as the line reaches Bahia Honda, some distance north of Key West and where there is a deep harbor. But the plan is to reach Key West as soon as possible and make that place one of the big southern seaports.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HUMOR

THE HOME.

From Adam Till Now as Told by a Funny Man.

The home is supposed to be a place where children can congregate, protected from the allurements of the world and the advice of the neighbors, and where parents can quarrel judiciously without too much interruption. In reality, however, the home is a place where decorators, painters, furniture men and plumbers meet at intervals in order that they may revel in luxury of their own.

Homes have been in vogue for some little time. Adam and Eve started the first one, and it would have been well with them had it not been necessary to send out the washing. Thus the servant question was started, and the ruin of man followed.

A home is what is left after you have paid the taxes, the interest on the mortgage and the installment man. To own more than one home is not to have any.

Homes were at one time popular in this country. When by going out in the back yard to milk the cow one was in danger of being scalped the home was at the height of its popularity. Owing, however, to the decreasing demand for babies and the increasing demand for alimony homes are being looked upon with disfavor.

In the suburbs the home still flickers on, kept alive by certain instincts handed down from a past age.

It is impossible at present to say just how long the home will continue to exist. It is hard to raise children and mortgages at the same time.

It is quite evident that cooks and children are gradually disappearing. This greatly simplifies the problem.

In all probability the race of the future will be divided into two classes—those who, having become worn out looking for servants, are now in sanitariums being taken care of by the government and those who still continue to work for the trusts, unincumbered by babies or bank accounts.—Tom Masson in Judge.

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share; par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5300 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

over yonder, Du Lhut?" asked young De la Noue.

The adventurer glanced over at the two little plumes of smoke which stood straight up against the red evening sky. "I don't like them," said he.

"They are Iroquois, then?"

"Yes."

"Well, at least it proves that they are on the other side of the river."

Du Lhut lit his pipe from a tinder paper. "The Iroquois are on this side," said he. "They crossed to the south."

"And you never told us! How do you know that they crossed, and why did you not tell us?"

"I did not know until I saw the fires over yonder."

"And how did they tell you?"

"Tut! An Indian papoose could have told," said Du Lhut impatiently. "Iroquois on the trail do nothing without an object. They have an object, then, in showing that smoke. If their war parties were over yonder there would be no object. Therefore their braves must have crossed the river. And they would not get over to the north without being seen from the fort."

"Then they may be in the woods round us. We may be in danger!" cried De la Noue.

De Catinat cast a glance round him at the grand tree trunks, the fading foliage, the smooth sward underneath, with the long evening shadows barred across it. How difficult it was to realize that behind all this beauty there lurked a danger so deadly and horrible that a man alone might well shrink from it, far more one who had the woman whom he loved walking within hand's touch of him! It was with a long heartfelt sigh of relief that he saw a wall of stockade in the midst of a large clearing in front of him, with the stone manor house rising above it. In a line from the stockade were a dozen cottages, with cedar shingled roofs turned up in the Norman fashion, in which dwelt the habitants under the protection of the seigneur's chateau. At either corner a small brass cannon peeped through an embrasure. As they passed the gate the guard inside closed it and placed the huge wooden bars into position. A little crowd of men, women and children were gathered round the door of the chateau, and a man appeared to be seated on a high backed chair upon the threshold.

"You know my father," said the young man, with a shrug of his shoulders. "He will have it that he has never left his Norman castle and that he is still the Seigneur de la Noue, the greatest man within a day's ride of Rouen and of the richest blood of Normandy. He is now taking his dues and his yearly oaths from his tenants. He would not think it becoming, if the governor himself were to visit him, to pause in the middle of so august a ceremony. But, if it would interest you, you may step this way and wait until he has finished. You, madame, I will take at once to my mother, if you will be so kind as to follow me."

The sight was, to the Americans at least, a novel one. A triple row of men, women and children were standing round in a semicircle, the men rough and sunburned, the women homely and clean, with white caps upon their heads, the children open mouthed and round eyed, awed into an unusual quiet by the reverent bearing of their elders. In the center, on his high backed carved chair, there sat an elderly man, very stiff and erect, with an exceedingly solemn face. He was a fine figure of a man, tall and broad, with large, strong features, clean shaven and deeply lined, a huge beak of a nose and strong, shaggy eyebrows, which arched right up to the great wig, which he wore full and long, as it had been worn in France in his youth. On his wig was placed a white hat, cocked jauntily at one side, with a red feather streaming round it, and he wore a coat of cinnamon colored cloth, with silver at the neck and pockets, which was still very handsome, though it bore signs of having been frayed and mended more than once.

As the seigneur rose, his son, who had returned, took De Catinat by the sleeve.

"Father," said he, "this is M. de Catinat, whom you may remember some years ago at Quebec."

The seigneur bowed with much condescension.

"You are extremely welcome to my estates, both you and your body servants"—

"They are my friends, monsieur. This is M. Amos Green, and Captain Ephraim Savage. My wife is traveling with me, but your courteous son has kindly taken her to your lady."

"I am honored—honored indeed!" cried the old man, with a bow and a flourish. "I remember you very well, sir, for it is not so common to meet men of quality in this country. Now that I think of it, the second son of your great-grandfather married the niece of one of the De la Noues of Anjelys, which is one of our cadet branches. Kinsman, you are welcome!" He threw his arms suddenly round De Catinat.

The young guardsman was only too delighted to find himself admitted to such an intimacy.

"I will not intrude long upon your hospitality," said he. "We are journeying down to Lake Champlain, and we hope in a day or two to be ready to go on."

"A suit of rooms shall be laid at your disposal as long as you do me the honor to remain here. Peste! It is not every day that I can open my gates to a man with good blood in his veins. Ah, sir, that is what I feel most in my exile, for who is there with whom I can talk as equal to equal? You are weary and hungry, you and your friends Come up with me to the tapestried saloon, and we shall see if my steward can find anything for your refreshment You play piquet, if I remember right Ah, my skill is leaving me, and I should be glad to try a hand or two with you."

The manor house was high and strong, built of graystone in a frame work of wood. The large iron clamped door through which they entered was pierced for musketry fire and led into a succession of cellars and storehouses in which the beets, carrots, potatoes, cabbages, cured meat, dried eels and other winter supplies were placed. A winding stone staircase led them through a huge kitchen, flagged and lofty, from which branched the rooms of the servants, or retainers, as the old nobleman preferred to call them. Above this again was the principal suit, centering in the dining hall, with its huge fireplace and rude homemade furniture. The seigneur explained that he had already supped; but, having allowed himself to be persuaded into joining them, he ended by eating more than Ephraim Savage and drinking more than Du Lhut.

CHAPTER XXI.

TWO days were spent by the travelers at the seigneury of Ste. Marie, and they would very willingly have spent longer, for the quarters were comfortable and the welcome warm, but already the reds of autumn were turning to brown, and they knew how suddenly the ice and snow came in those northern lands and how impossible it would be to finish their journey if winter were once fairly upon them. The old nobleman had sent his scouts by land and by water, but there were no signs of the Iroquois upon the eastern bank, so that it was clear that Du Lhut had been mistaken. Over on the other side, however, the gray plumes of smoke still streamed up above the trees as a sign that their enemies were not very far off.

The refugees were rested now and refreshed and of one mind about pushing on.

"I am not frightened, Amory, and I am quite rested now," said Adele. "We shall be so much more happy when we are in the English provinces, for even now how do we know that that dreadful friar may not come with orders to drag us back to Quebec and Paris?"

To stop a Cold with "Preventics" is safer than to let it run and cure it afterwards. Taken at the "sneeze stage" Preventics will head off all colds and Grippe, and perhaps save you from Pneumonia or Bronchitis. Preventics are little toothsome candy cold cure tablets selling in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes. If you are chilly, if you begin to sneeze, try Preventics. They will surely check the cold, and please you. Sold by J. D. Tully.

Money From Seaweed.

Japan, which wastes nothing in its domestic economy, realizes $2,000,000 annually from its seaweed products. According to the report of C. J. Davidson, an attache of the British embassy at Tokyo, more than fifty varieties of the seaweed found along the Japanese coast are utilized either for food or as manufactured products.

The traveler sees bundles of dried seaweed, white with the crystallized salt of the sea water, hung from the front of every food stall. The coarser varieties are stewed and served with fish. Some of the delicate sprigs of sea grass are boiled with fish soups and remain a vivid green, floating against the red lacquer of the soup bowls.

Other species of seaweed are used in the manufacture of glue, of plaster and of starch. Whole villages are given over to seaweed fishing and the drying and packing of the product for shipment to the manufacturing plants in the large cities. In the country along the seashore the farmers use the coarse and ropy kelp for fertilizing their vegetable fields.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

India's Fine Roads.

It is probably not generally known that India is remarkable for its possession of many most excellent roads, some of them of great length, like that which runs from Bombay to Delhi, a distance of 900 miles. It is described as "a perfect highway." Another fine road, 1,500 miles in length, extends from Calcutta to Peshawur, at the frontier of Afghanistan. These roads are kept in perfect repair and were built originally for military purposes before the advent of railroads. Many of the native princes give particular care to their roads. Of course the nature of the country plays a part in the existence of the roads, and now they serve as a stimulus to the use of automobiles, which are very popular in India.

Steamships' Quick Lunches.

One of the finest cargoes of iron ore ever mined in the Lake Superior region was trundled aboard a little schooner about fifty years ago. Four days were required to put 800 tons aboard her. A week was required to get the ore out of her. Two seasons ago the great steel steamer Augustus B. Wolvin loaded more than 10,000 tons of ore in eighty-nine minutes, or in less than an hour and a half. And this huge cargo was jerked out of her in a little more than four hours.—Outing.

This Company owns FIVE MINING CLAIMS containing 160 ACRES, all of which are under active development and heavily mineralized, as follows:

1 claim, 40 acres, Bucke Township, showing 4 veins, shaft 20 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Coleman Township, showing 2 veins, shaft 50 feet.
1 claim, 20 acres, Portage Bay District, showing 6 veins, shaft and 500 feet of vein uncovered.
2 claims, 80 acres, Anima-Nipissing district, showing 5 veins, shaft and vein uncovered across entire eighty acres.

A recent assay on Anima-Nipissing claims, taken from 3-foot level, show 133 oz. of silver to a ton.

The company own TOWNSITE OF NORTH COBALT, containing 600 ACRES, divided into 4,000 lots beautifully situated on shore of Lake Temiskaming. Building operations are active. SILVER DEPOSITS LOCATED and being developed.

A syndicate has been formed to build a $100,000 HOTEL ON THIS TOWNSITE.

We anticipate that within 2 years a city of 25,000 people will be located on this property and neighboring shores.

"Cobalt has the richest and most easily mined ore in the world. The average value of all the millions of ore mined in Coleman Township is over $700 per ton. The Government system of inspection throws a safeguard around the companies operating in the camp. It gives the investor greater protection than he ever had in any other mining camp.

"Cobalt is a long way past the experimental stage. It is recognized everywhere as the camp without a loss. It has positively made good and is today making greater profits for the investor than any other mining camp in existence."

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolilite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

NERVOUS?

Do You Brood?
Have Morbid Fears?
Toss in Your Sleep?

Your Physical Condition is Below Par and Must be Built up. Try Ferrozone.

All the vital activities of the body are quickened into new vigor by Ferrozone, which contains all the constituents necessary to make nerve strength.

Its first action is upon digestion.

It stimulates the secretion of gastric juice, ensures perfect digestion and prepares the food so as to be easily assimilated.

Thus everything you eat is converted into nourishment that enriches the blood and lends new strength to the nerves.

By Ferrozone the mind is relieved of those brooding tendencies, of morbid unnatural fears, of unwillingness to concentrate attention on things that should be done.

Won't you try Ferrozone?

Won't you give it a chance to win you back to health; it will do it, just as it did for Mrs. Creighton Zinck, of Palm St., Lunenburg, N. S., who says: "I want to give my experience with Ferrozone because I believe it will be of assistance to thousands of women who need it badly. I was very thin, run down in flesh and lacked color. My nerves were in a dreadful state. If anything fell I would jump and start. At night I would suddenly wake up, heart palpitating and all keyed up. Ferrozone went right to work. It restored my poise and balance, gave me self-control, cured my nervousness. Ferrozone increased my appetite and my weight came up so fast that I simply didn't need to use it any longer. Eight boxes cured me."

Why won't you use Ferrozone also, it certainly will do you good in many ways—sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

On Assessment Roll Publicity

A Times representative asked many merchants and other men of the city their opinion as to having the assessment roll published. Without exception the concensus of opinion was that every one's assessment should be made public. One George street merchant, replied "Well I've no kick coming over my assessment but there are lots of wealthier men than me who are beating the city out of their taxes."

Marks Bros. Still Drawing Large Houses

Yesterday evening the Grand Opera House was crowded to the doors with an enthusiastic audience who attended Marks Bros.' great presentation of "A Girl from the South." We have already given several complimentary notices of this old-time favorite combination, but last night's show was far and away above the average of shows displayed here. The specialities were not only refined but away above the average of shows that Peterborough audiences generally see. Tomorrow night a still better play, Irish Molly, will be presented. Messrs. Turner & Sons, proprietors of the Opera House have certainly won out in their new venture and demonstrated that they are in touch both with the public and the theatrical world.

Engineers to Meet in Hamilton

The Hamilton Times, one of our exchanges says:

Encouraging success is being met with by the local committee in charge of the arrangements for the Canadian annual meeting of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen to be held in this city on August 6, 7, 8 and 9 next. The committee has still some five months to work in, but has large plans for the entertainment of the 3,000 delegates who are expected to be here from all parts of Canada, the United States and Mexico. The visitors will have time for sight seeing and pleasure trips, and the local committee will see that no chance to give them a good time is neglected.

Mr. V. Eastwood Takes Hold of His Bank

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, one of Peterborough's most successful merchants, who from a clerk has worked his way up to practically controlling the Peterborough Hardware Co., and who recently was offered and accepted the position of manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, opened a few months ago here, has now entered upon his new duties. Mr. Eastwood succeeds Mr. J. W. Fulton, the acting manager of this bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood have just returned from Clifton Springs, N.Y., after a two weeks' visit there, and Mr. Eastwood reports that Mr. Robt. Munro of the Munro House, who has been a few weeks at the Springs, will return to Peterborough in a few days.

Peterboro Child Dead in Wreck

We regret to note that in the terrible Guelph railroad accident, a Peterborough child lost its life. This was the infant daughter of Mr. H. G. Walker, of 804 George street. The child's father escaped with his life but was injured and Mrs. Walker was badly shocked. This father of the child is a traveller for a Furniture house and has lived in the city for some three years.

The Farmer's Wife

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it, but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as shown by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world-famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

A Local Actor is a Father

Mr. Maurice Stanford of the Mirka Bros. Company, playing this week in the Grand Opera House yesterday, grew some two inches in height and going down George street, looked like he had swallowed a poker. The cause was a telegram received during the day notifying him that he was the father of a handsome baby boy, born at his home in Pennsylvania. This news was conveyed to The Times by one of the Messrs. Mirka Bros. Co.

Serious Charges Made by the Wiarton Echo---Says It is Time to Speak Out---Disease Epidemic in the Peninsula.

Wiarton, March 1.—Referring to the epidemic of smallpox on the Bruce Peninsula, the Wiarton Echo says:

The Echo has not said anything about smallpox on the peninsula, although for a few weeks we have known that this disease is rampant in St. Edmunds, Lindsay, and we are informed throughout parts of Eastnor. A newspaper, perhaps, often neglects its duty for the sake of being quiet. No one wants to publish a thing like this from the housetop. But we are convinced that the time for silence has ceased, and the time for plain speaking has begun. Information has been given us by a prominent resident of the upper townships which throws a light upon the way that the whole thing has been handled, and which calls, if true, for most severe censure upon the local Board of Health.

"There has practically been very little quarantine. Children from infected houses have attended the district school. Men stricken with this lothsome disease have kept on with their work, and others from houses where it has been, have gone into public places of every kind. "If these things are true the sooner the Provincial Health Officer is on the ground the better for the peninsula and for this town.

"Because the disease is of a mild type is no reason for indifference, for it may develop into a type of the most virulent character. During the cold weather, anyway, where people are pox-marked, it has been bad enough. As far back as last August we were told there was smallpox on the peninsula, and that on the last days of February it should be epidemic calls for censure upon the part of those whose duty it has been to look after this matter."

Called Away Whilst In Successful Career

Sad Death of the Late John A. McDonald Late of Smith.

The friends of Mr. John A. McDonald will regret most sincerely to learn that he passed away in Toronto General Hospital on Wednesday night from typhoid fever. It was known here that he was ill, but no serious results were anticipated. The deceased was always of a robust constitution and took a lift in athletics of all kinds. A telegram was received in the evening by his mother informing her that his condition was serious. She, with her son-in-law, Mr. Cottingham, prepared to leave for Toronto on the first train yesterday morning, but was notified by wire that Mr. McDonald had passed away during the night.

The deceased belonged to Smith township, and was a son of the late Neil McDonald. He lived in Smith during the early part of his life, and attended the Collegiate Institute in Peterborough, graduating here, and afterwards attended model school at Norwood. He later attended McMaster University, taking the degrees of B.A., and M.A. He was also an associate professor at McMaster for a time. Following this he went to Chicago, taking his Ph. D. degree in the University of Chicago, and, accepted a professorship in the University of Colorado at Denver, remaining there for a few years.

He returned to Canada and commenced his medical course at the University of Toronto, and was in his second year when so sadly called away.

The late Mr. McDonald was 29 years of age and is survived by his mother, who lives in Peterborough, and six sisters.

The funeral will take place Saturday, March 2nd, at 2.30 p.m., from 430 Donegal street, the residence of Mrs. Cottingham, to Little Lake Cemetery.

Strathoonas Won the Championship

Last night's game for the city championship between the Strathoonas and the Charlotte Street aggregation, was witnessed by a fully crowded assembly at the Brock street rink. At half-time the score stood 2—2. Shortly after the second half had begun, Roddy got a bad but accidental blow on the head, that necessitated withdrawal to consult a doctor, his head being cut open badly.

In the second half, amid close play and strenuous competition the Strathoonas got another goal, and although the Methodists kept the puck well in their opponents' territory, they could not score another point before the final bell rung out full time. George Lynch acted as referee and did his duty in impartial style.

Thus the Strathoonas are champions of Peterborough, for this year by a score last night of 3—2.

The teams lined up as follows:

Charlotte St.		Strathoonas.
	Goal.
Crowe		Wilson
	Point.
Roddy		Meagher
	Cover-point.
Moore		White
	Rover.
Dusty		Seymour
	Center.
Long		McMillan
	Right Wing.
Grose		McGrath
	Left Wing.
Campbell		Weatherston

Presentation to a Retiring Teacher

Yesterday afternoon a pleasing function was in evidence in the George street school, when Miss Minnie Walker, who has for some two years been on the staff of the Peterborough public schools, and who recently accepted a position as teacher in Toronto, was presented with a neatly worded address read by Master Donald Loucks, and a handsome gilt clock given on behalf of the pupils by Miss Maudie Pogue. Miss Walker, made an appropriate reply. She left for Toronto yesterday evening. She will be succeeded on the George St. school staff by Miss Stubbs of Lakefield.

Mrs. John Crowe of Cavan is Dead

Yesterday morning Mary Jane Johnston, widow of the late Mr. John Crowe, passed away, from pneumonia at her home, lot 22, con. 14, in the township of Cavan. The deceased was 68 years of age, and had always resided in Cavan. Her husband to whom she was married some 32 years ago, predeceased her during last September.

Mrs. Crowe was a member of the Presbyterian church and very highly esteemed by all who knew her.

Two sons Wm. and John, who reside at home, and one daughter, Mrs. David Lawson of Otonabee, are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence, lot 22, concession 14, to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

A small boy called yesterday at the police station to lay a complaint against a boy or young man in Peterborough's Brooklyn. The little fellow who had a most evident black eye complained that Eddie Armstrong of the east ward, has systematically been bullying him and wanted protection. The little fellow who has been manfully driving his father's horse of late during the latter's illness, said young Armstrong had "a pick" on him and seemed to try and injure him on every opportunity. The chief was naturally exasperated over the little fellow's story, and assured him that if a recurrence of such practice is repeated the bully will be in trouble.

Yesterday a suit against a local agent was settled by mutual agreement. This trouble arose over some misunderstanding about a note.

A local grocer yesterday swore out an information against a man engaged in carting. The grocer alleged that the defendant had stolen a quantity of groceries. It is likely, however that the case will be settled out of court.

The Cavanagh House Has Been Sold

It was generally rumored yesterday that that old-time Peterborough hotel, the Cavanagh House, formerly the Phelan House property, has been sold to Mr. Frank Montgomery, of Parry Harbor. The price was said to be $14,000. Mr. Montgomery came to the city Wednesday night, and yesterday his solicitors investigated the deeds, and completed the purchase. The Cavanagh House belongs to the Phelan estate and Mr. Montgomery's purchase only includes the house and property. Mr. Cavanagh has been given a five-year lease and will continue to conduct a hotel business.

Columbia Phonograph Agency Change.

Mr. J. M. Green of Green's Music store in the Opera House block, has acquired the local agency for the Columbia Phonographs. Mr. Chas. Munden who until yesterday was agent for these talking machines on Simcoe street, has resigned this agency, and will take a position in the Quaker Oats Company's works.

The Outing Magazine for March

The Outing Magazine for March is an automobile number, and, everything considered, it is one of the finest magazines from both the pictorial and literary viewpoints that The Outing Press has ever put out. Most notable is a series of five full-page colored plates by Charles Sarka, illustrating Ralph D. Paine's vivid article, "On the Road to the Cup Race." Mr. Sarka's paintings are produced in four colors, the scenes showing the picturesque features of the great Vanderbilt Cup Race in a remarkable manner. Throughout, the number is very freely illustrated, especially attractive being drawings by Frederick Dorr Steele, Hy. S. Watson and Lynn Bogue Hunt.

The special articles make up a magazine of wide general interest. "The American Riviera," by Robert Dunn, is an illuminating account of America's new playground in the South, and particularly in Florida. "Behind the Scenes," by Charles Belmont Davis, is an intimate presentation of some little known features of life in that mysterious region back of the wings. "The Long Labrador Trail," by Dillon Wallace, begins to approach the end, an end that was won by as gritty and unselfish men as any in the history of American exploration. "Old Times and New in Wisconsin," by Clifton Johnston, is an interesting study in the transformation of a great state.

The chief literary feature of the number is a thrilling narrative by Louis Wagner, entitled, "How I Won the Vanderbilt Cup." It describes in vivid words the feelings of the man in the machine who took the 'hair-pin' turns on two wheels, and who courted death at every mile. It sets forth the progress of the contest in a manner as effective as that classic account of Ben Hur's chariot race. The fiction features of the magazine are "John Kendry's Idea," by Chester Bailey Fernald, and "Little Outdoor Stories," by several well known authors. "The White Woodlands," by Edwyn Sandys, is a charming account of animal life in the barren winter landscape. Other articles are: "Camp Equipment," by Stewart Edward White; "Ice-Yacht Sailing and Racing," by Archibald Rogers; "Horse-Racing Innovations for 1906 and 1907," by W. P. Pond; "The Range of Automobile Touring," by Robert Bruce, and "Making the Country Home," by Eben E. Rexford. Mr. Caspar Whitney's "View-point" treats vigorously some important topics in current affairs.

WANING INTEREST IN THAW TRIAL

Only a Small Crowd Now Enter the Court Room.

VERDICT IN TWO WEEKS

More Evidence of the Experts to be Received.

New York, March 1.—When court opened yesterday morning for the trial of Harry K. Thaw, charged with the killing of Stanford White, the usual crowd was missing, only 49 spectators applying for admittance. Dr. Evans was recalled, and his cross-examination resumed by Mr. Jerome. Last evening Dr. Evans was given copies of Thaw's letters, will and codicil, that he might be prepared for cross-examination on his theory that these documents contain evidences of an unsound mind. He read them again in court.

"Do any of these letters show that the writer was insane?" asked the district attorney, finally.

"Some of them, in my opinion, show signs of mental instability."

A letter written with a lead pencil by Thaw to Evelyn Nesbit, he said showed lack of a sense of the proprieties, a loss of the esthetic sense, and showed the writer was of unsound mind, in view of his usual environment of wealth and luxury.

"Would the fact that the writer had been travelling through Europe with the young woman as man and wife, though not married, have any effect upon your opinion?

"No, for a man under those circumstances may love the woman just as much as though she were bound to him by holier ties."

New York, March 1.—The immediate future in the Thaw trial shows nothing but expert testimony. While the district attorney has stated that he will call Dr. Allan McLane, Hamilton to the witness stand, it is probable that the rule of physician and patient will be invoked by the defence. Dr. Hamilton was retained by the defence soon after the killing of White and saw Thaw in the Tombs at the request of Thaw's lawyers. When he examined Thaw it was as a physician in Thaw's employ. There is little chance that the court will now allow him to testify for the prosecution without a specific waiver on the part of the defence.

New York, March 1.—During the cross-examination of Dr. Evans yesterday, Thaw wrote rapidly this statement which he sent to the press table; "With chances a million to one against her, it is wonderful that Mrs. Thaw's testimony prevailed against the district attorney and his blackleg." His lawyers apparently tried to dissuade him from making a formal statement, but he insisted.

SPORTING TOPICS

HOCKEY.

It now seems that the Ampirior Hockey team of the Upper Ottawa League, is sufficiently ambitious to want to cross sticks with the locals. It is more than possible that they will be accommodated. It is also likely that the St. George's will be seen here at an early date. A game with the Saints would no doubt result in a good gate.

Demetrie Bros. Are Not Leaving

It seems that some of the busybodies who have recently been circulating rumors concerning supposedly recent real estate deals, should take a few days off and go fishing or insert their heads in a tub of ice-water to cool their inventive nerve centers. It was yesterday and for some days previously generally reported that the premises occupied by Messrs. Demetrie Bros., the confectionery and restaurant men at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, had been acquired by a local butcher. Yesterday a Times representative called on Mr. George Andrianopoulos, local manager of this firm, and was assured by him that no such deal had been made or contemplated. Messrs. Demetrie Bros. lease runs for some time yet.

Killed in a Fight

New York, March 1.—Michael Gallo is dead, and Louis Indorf and Louis Zimmerman were wounded, as a result of a free fight in Curley's saloon at Third avenue and 117th St. yesterday morning. All are Italians. When the police reached the place they found Gallo dead with four bullets in his body. Zimmerman and Indorf were arrested, when they went to a hospital to have their wounds dressed.

Laid at Rest

Funeral of the Late Thomas Reginald McFadden Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Thomas Reginald McFadden, took place yesterday afternoon from his father's residence on Dublin street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

The attendance of friends and acquaintances was large.

Many beautiful and costly floral tributes to the memory of the deceased young man; from the proprietor and employes of the establishment at Niagara Falls, N.Y. in which he worked and where he was highly esteemed, were in evidence.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

The Limerick Lass

Last night a full house again greeted Marks Bros., when they presented the Irish melodrama, "The Limerick Lass." The play was of the high standard which always characterizes Marks Bros.' productions and was well staged. Gracie Marks starring as the heroine of the play, Mollie Bawn.

While it would be unfair to discriminate between the several participants, without a doubt, H. Maxwell Wilgus, in the role of Terry Desmond, was the favorite of the evening, his appearance being greeted by rounds of applause. Taking all together Marks Bros., have a right to the title "Peterborough's favorites."

Plot to Slay the Czar of Russia's Cousin

Infernal Machine Placed on Track So That the Train Would Explode It.

St. Petersburg, March 1.—The Novoe Vremya publishes a sensational account of the foiling of another plot upon the life of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, president of the Council of National Defence, and second cousin of Emperor Nicholas.

This plot is said to have been discovered shortly before eight o'clock on Tuesday night, the time scheduled for the arrival here of the Imperial train bringing the Grand Duke from Tsars-koe-Selo. A guard patrolling the track near the station at the St. Petersburg 2nd of the line caught a man dressed as a workman in the act of placing a wooden box in the middle of the track, at a point 200 yards from the Imperial pavilion.

Aided by the darkness the plotter fled, vaulting the fences that barred his way. He thus escaped to the cab of an accomplice, who was lying in wait near by and drove away.

The box on the track was found to contain an infernal machine of of enormous power. The mechanism was designed to cause explosion from the vibration of the train as it passed. The guard who made the discovery at once communicated it to the railroad officials, who signaled the train and succeeded in stopping it before it reached the machine.

The entire neighborhood of the railway station was at once surrounded by police. A statement that the orders for the Grand Duke's journey into St. Petersburg, were countermanded is denied.

Proloff, the youth who killed Governor Block, of Samaria, Aug. 3rd last, by throwing a bomb at him, has been condemned to death by the court-martial which tried him, but the court recommended the commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment in the mines. Three male accessories to the crime were condemned to transportation to Siberia for life. A woman accessory was acquitted.

Mormons Were Unjustly Criticised

Edmonton, March 1.—In a discussion led by Mr. McKenzie, of McLeod, the Legislature vigorously condemned the criticism of the Mormons in Alberta by Rev. Dr. Kilpatrick, Rev. Mr. Somerville and Rev. Mr. Maclaren. "It is unfair and deplorable," said Mr. McKenzie, "for opponents two thousand miles away to shamefully traduce these people, whom they do not even know."

The Mormons, he said, were public-spirited, and take a live interest in public welfare and questions. No stress is brought to bear by the Church on the electorate.

Leaders of the opposition coincided with what Mr. McKenzie had said.

Insane From Pain

Battleford, March 1.—Investigations of the police have revealed a terrible state of affairs near Eagle Lake, in the German settlement. A settler named Kuscher, who had both feet frozen, went violently insane in the house of a neighbor named Ryder, who was taking care of him, and nearly murdered Ryder. Kuscher was overpowered and bound on the arrival of neighbors, and taken to another house, where he suffered so terribly that a man named Stubbert, who was nursing him, also became mentally unhinged and shot himself. Kuscher afterwards died.

CLOCK WAS STILL TICKING AFTER FIRE

Montreal School Was Probably Set on Fire by a Careless Child---Flames Swept Up the Chute.

Montreal, March 1.—It has been established beyond reasonable doubt that the fire which wrought such awful destruction of life in the Hochelaga Protestant school did not originate from the furnace, but from a pile of rubish in the basement.

Mr. Alcide Chausse, the city building inspector, and Mr. Louis Gingras, Provincial building inspector made a thorough search all through the school, with a view to determining as far as possible the cause of the fire. While they did not succeed in finding the exact origin of the flames, what they now convinced them that the furnaces had nothing to do with it, but that it had started from a rubbish heap in another part of the basement.

FIRE SWEPT UP CHUTE.

This basement, said Mr. Chausse, was divided into two chambers, in one were the furnaces, while the other was used as a lavatory for the boys. In the latter was the bottom of a chute used for sending down waste paper and rubbish from the upper storeys, and here it was that they found every evidence of the origin of the fire. The furnaces were not injured in the least. In fact, Mr. Chausse said they could be started again at once if necessary, while the joists in the furnace chamber were but slightly scorched.

But in the lavatory they found the end of the wooden chute completely burned away, while the joists and woodwork all around were deeply charred, and there was every indication that the fire had been carried up the chute, which led to the top flat of the building, and had spread thence in the upper flats, at the same time sending up the terrific volumes of smoke which had proved so deadly. It was in this way that the fire ate its way into the spaces between ceilings and floors and into the walls and roof, which gave the firemen so much difficulty.

CLOCK STILL GOING.

"I was surprised," said Mr. Chausse, "at the slight damage done to the upper class rooms. I noticed that in one, where several children perished, that the clock on the wall was still going all right, and told the correct time. There could not have been much heat there.

"I cannot understand, after looking over the building, how it was that such loss of life occurred. There were only four rooms in the school, two on each floor, while the corridors between were straight, and eight feet in width. The stairways, however, were only four feet wide, with a bend in the middle. There was surprisingly little evidence in the rooms and corridors of destruction by fire."

Mrs. Hand, the caretaker of the school, said yesterday that she was positive the fire did not start from the furnace, as when she went into the basement to investigate, after she had been told by one of the pupils that there was smoke in the class rooms, she saw the pile of kindling wood, outside the furnace room, on the Prefontaine street side of the building, on fire. Mrs. Hand said that she was just putting on her coat to go out to the grocery, when one of the boys came up to the third floor, and told her there was smoke in the class rooms.

COULD NOT STOP HEROINE.

"I just dropped my coat, and ran down stairs," said Mrs. Hand, "and when I got to the basement I saw the pile of kindling wood all ablaze. I ran upstairs and told Miss Maxwell that there was a fire in the basement, and helped her and Miss Curley to get the children out of the class rooms on the first floor. Just then Dr. Oppomer came in the main entrance, and Miss Maxwell told him the school was on fire. He ran out to give the alarm. When we got the children out of the class room on the first floor the smoke was almost suffocating. Miss Maxwell started to go upstairs, and I caught hold of her to pull her back, telling her if she went up stairs she would never come down alive.

"I MUST GO, DON'T FOLLOW."

"I tried to hold her back, but she was too strong, and broke away from me. She ran upstairs, exclaiming: 'I must go up, Mrs. Hand, don't you try to follow me.' I followed her up a few steps, but I felt my face swelling, and had difficulty in catching my breath. Just as I reached the bottom step, Dr. Oppomer came in and caught hold of me, and forced me into the street. When I reached the street the firemen and some men who had been working at the ice house across the street were taking the children out of the upstairs windows. I called to the firemen to pour water into the basement, telling them where the seat of the fire was."

Thousands Attend Heroine's Funeral

Montreal, March 1.—Montreal yesterday showed that it fest it had lost a heroine when thousands upon thousands turned out to attend the funeral of the late Miss Sarah Maxwell, the principal of the Hochelaga Protestant School, who gave her life in an endeavor to save all the little ones confided to her charge. For years past Miss Maxwell, with her widowed mother, had regularly attended the service at Christ Church Cathedral, and from it the remains were borne yesterday afternoon, surrounded by children from all the Protestant schools in this city, and people of all classes, anxious to pay tribute to the memory of the brave girl. In the procession from the family home, on St. Urbain St. to Christ church were crowds of people, young and old, all of whom showed by their sorrow that a very brave girl had been cut off all too prematurely. The service at the cathedral was conducted by Rev. Dr. Symond, and there was not in the vast congregation that filled the edifice a dry eye when he referred to the heroic deed accomplished by the deceased.

A DIFFERENCE

It Paid This Man to Change Food

"What is called 'good living' eventually brought me to a condition quite the reverse of good health," writes a N. Y. merchant.

"Improper eating told on me till my stomach became so weak that food nauseated me, even the lightest and simplest lunch and I was much depressed after a night of uneasy slumber, unfitting me for business.

"This condition was discouraging, as I could find no way to improve it. Then I saw the advertisement of Grape-Nuts food, and decided to try it, and became delighted with the result.

"For the past three years I have used Grape-Nuts and nothing else for my breakfast and for lunch before retiring. It speedily set my stomach right and I congratulate myself that I have regained my health. There is no greater comfort for a tired man than a lunch of Grape-Nuts. It insures restful sleep, and an awakening in the morning with a feeling of buoyant courage and hopefulness.

"Grape-Nuts has been a boon to my whole family. It has made of our 2-year-old boy, who used to be unable to digest much of anything, a robust, healthy little rascal weighing 32 pounds. Mankind certainly owes a debt of gratitude to the expert who invented this perfect food." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Look Here, Mister,

You are looking for an investment, and if you pass this by you are making a mistake of your life. I am not going to promise you 100 per cent. per year, or 50 per cent., or make any foolish proposition, by saying I can get 25 per cent., for you, and you keep your own money.

NEITHER DO I SAY, I am helping you because I LOVE TO HELP THE PUBLIC. I have a business that is based on good, sound common sense and can show 2½ per cent. Now, when you come in and make this on your money, what happens? You are satisfied beyond measure, and you tell your friends. I get more business, and therefore make more money. There you have it: The more you make, the more I do, and we are all happy, as you are under no obligations to me, because it is an investment, pure and simple, and not charity. I do not care if you have only One Dollar ($1.00) a month to invest, or if you have One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) cash. Each person will get the same consideration.

Send me $10 or more by certified check, Postal or Express Order, and if you are not satisfied with investment, I will positively return your money.

Are You Often Bilious?

Read This and Learn How to Preven Attacks.

Biliousness is merely a term applied to a condition that exists when the body is over-loaded with bile.

The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, itching and eczema break out, headaches are over present.

Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action.

When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its bile secretion.

Unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness, thus permanent cures are effected.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ills under all circumstances.

We prove this by the attestment of Mr. Fenwick Luddington, of New Harbor, N.S., who writes; "Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodical bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and dreadful headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills fixed up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood and made me a well man in a few months. Today I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion, and the best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 1, 1907

MR. BRYCE

Following is the New York Globe and Commercial Advertiser's welcome to the United States to Hon. James Bryce, the new Ambassador of Great Britain:

"We lack a Horace to address the ship that has borne James Bryce to our shores." But though the words of welcome may be in prose they are none the less sincere. Mr. Bryce, during the next few days, will be given additional reasons for believing, if he were not incorrigibly modest, that in America he is the most popular of Englishmen.

"The relations between Great Britain and the United States are happily so cordial that the duties of the British Ambassador at Washington and of our Ambassador at St. James are largely ornamental. The chief function is to devise new phrases with which to testify to the existing friendliness. The new Ambassador will be under the stress of the pleasant competition as to whether host or guest shall be more gracious. This rivalry is happily typical of the attitude of the two branches of the English speaking race toward each other.

"The compliment paid to our country by the selection of Mr. Bryce has already been sufficiently commented upon. Not only was he taken from a conspicuous cabinet place to be sent to us, but his personal affection and respect for America, as well as his intimate knowledge of American conditions, take from him all alien seeming."

Was Worked on Bogus Telegram

St. Catharines, Feb. 28.—A new kind of swindle was worked on a local hotel man yesterday. A stranger walked into the St. Catharines House and produced a telegram, signed by Jas. Kent, and asked the clerk if his would cash a cheque for $45.

This the clerk did on the strength of the telegram, but on enquiry at the telegraph office, he found that the telegram was a fake. The stranger had walked into the C.P.R. sending office, taken a couple of sending blanks from the counter, and had written out the telegram himself. He also endeavored to secure a telegraph envelope, but was refused by the clerk. Mr. Kent's name appears on the top of the telegraph blank as manager of C.P.R Telegraphs, Montreal, and it is thought the man took the name he signed from the printed form.

WHITLEY CASE IN COURT

Rayner's Parentage Was Discussed by the Counsel.

London, Feb. 28.—The case of Horace G. Rayner, who shot and killed William Whitely, the well known merchant of Westbourne Grove, Jan 24, was heard in a police court here yesterday. Counsel for the Treasury, which prosecuted, dealt at length with the prisoner's parentage, and admitted that there was some doubt on the subject. Counsel added, however, that if it should be seriously contended that Rayner was the late Mr. Whitely's son, he was prepared to produce overwhelming evidence that there was not the slightest ground for the suggestion. Counsel also asserted that there was no truth in the reports that the deceased merchant had been for years a victim of an extensive blackmailing scheme. The prisoner was remanded.

Physical Instructor Robbed Members

Moncton, N.B., Feb. 28.—William Moncton, physical instructor of the Y.M.C.A. here, has left the city after admitting his guilt of many thefts which have recently puzzled the local authorities.

March came here last fall highly recommended, and took a room in a well known private boarding house. Shortly after his arrival guests began to miss various articles. Recently sums of money began to disappear. One gentleman lost $36, another $30 and $10 mysteriously disappeared disappeared from the room of one of the lady boarders at the house. Last night the chief of police was summoned, and after some little effort traced home to March a number of the thefts.

In his room the physical instructor was confronted with the charge and confessed, restoring a portion of the missing goods. None of the guests felt like taking proceedings against March, and during the night he quietly departed in the direction of New York.

Forcibly Took Away Valuables?

Woodstock, Feb. 28.—The investigation into the charges against Mr. and Mrs. D. Murray, the manager and matron of the house of refuge, brought by a number of East Zorra residents in a signed communication to the county council, was held yesterday before the special committee of the council. The evidence was all taken and judgment was reserved. James Daley, formerly of Beachville, and now an inmate of the house of refuge, declared that he had signed over $400 to Mr. and Mrs. Murray when he thought he was tying. He said he would not have complained had he been provided with good clothes from the amount signed over.

John Gusbert, a blind man at the refuge, declared that certain valuables given him by the Bennett before his death had been forcibly taken away from him by the authorities.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray gave evidence, denying the serious charges.

Rust on Nickel.

Rust may be removed from nickel plating by covering the spots with mutton tallow and letting it stand for several days. An Old Copper Mine.

If not absolutely the oldest, the Stora Kopparberget in Sweden is the oldest copper mine of which we have any official figures. It has been worked continuously for nearly 800 years.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism: but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

IN SYMPATHY WITH NATURE

Dame Nature in the winter light—
Sits brooding over all.
She sighs, she stirs, and, lo, the white,
Soft snow begins to fall.
A heart attuned to Nature's moods
The poet hath, and so
He, too, wears down the night and broods,
And what he writes is "Snow."

Dame Nature rouses from her sleep.
Her mood has changed again.
She bids the leaden skies to weep,
Diluting snow with rain.
The poet takes the ode on "Snow"
He wrote the night before;
He reads it o'er again, and, lo,
It's slush and nothing more!

Growth of Western Cities.

Apropos of the mushroom growth of new towns on the western frontier a locomotive engineer relates the following:

"One day I was driving my engine across the prairie when suddenly a considerable town loomed up ahead where nothing had showed up the day before.

"'What town's this?' says I to my fireman.

"'Blamed if I know,' says Bill. 'It wasn't here when we went over the road yesterday.'

"Well, I slowed down, and directly we pulled into the station, where over 500 people were waiting on the platform to see the first train come in.

"The conductor came along up front and says to me:

"'Jim, first we know we'll be running by some important place. Get this town down on your list, and I'll put a brakeman on the rear platform to watch out for towns that spring up after the train gets by!'"—Minneapolis Journal.

PROPERTIES

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of Two full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide" The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhatton District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Critic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 10s or more samples of ore from different places along the 6200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

It was indeed very possible that the vindictive Franciscan, when satisfied that they had not ascended to Montreal or remained at Three Rivers, might seek them on the banks of the Richelieu. The seigneur was friendly, but the seigneur could not disobey the governor's order. A great hand stretching all the way from Versailles seemed to hang over them, even here in the heart of the virgin forest, ready to snatch them up and carry them back into degradation.

But the seigneur and his son, who knew nothing of their pressing reasons for haste, were strenuous in urging De Catinat the other way, and in this they were supported by the silent Du Lhut.

"You have seen my little place," said the old nobleman, with a wave of his bernified, ring covered hand, "It is not what I should wish it, but, such as it is, it is most heartily yours for the winter if you and your comrades would honor me by remaining. As to madame, I doubt not that my own dame and she will find plenty to amuse and occupy them, which reminds me, De Catinat, that you have not yet been presented. Theuriet, go to your mistress and inform her that I request her to be so good as to come to us in the hall of the dais."

De Catinat was too seasoned to be easily startled, but he was somewhat taken aback when the lady, to whom the old nobleman always referred in terms of exaggerated respect, proved to be as like a full blooded Indian squaw as the hall of the dais was to a French barn.

"Allow me to present you, M. de Catinat," said the Seigneur de Ste.

"Allow me to present you, M. de Catinat."

Marie solemnly, "to my wife, Onega de la Noue de Ste. Marie, chatelaine by right of marriage to this seigneury, while retaining in her own right the hereditary chieftainship on the distaff side of the nation of the Onondagas. My angel, I have been endeavoring to persuade our friends to remain with us at Ste. Marie."

"At least leave your white lily at Ste. Marie," said the dusky princess, speaking in excellent French and clasping with her ruddy fingers the ivory hand of Adele. "We will hold her safe for you until the ice softens and the leaves and the partridge berries come once more. I know my people, monsieur, and I tell you that the woods are full of murder."

De Catinat was more moved by the impressive manner of his hostess than by any of the other warnings which he had received. Surely she, if any one, must be able to read the signs of the times.

"I know not what to do!" he cried in despair. "I must go on, and yet how can I expose her to these perils? I would fain stay the winter, but you must take my word for it, sir, that it is not possible."

"Du Lhut, you know how things should be ordered," said the seigneur. "What should you advise my friend to do, since he is so set upon getting to the English provinces before the winter comes?"

"There is but one way," said Du Lhut, "though even in it there is danger. The woods are safer than the river, for the reeds are full of cached canoes. Five leagues from here is the blockhouse of Poitou, and fifteen miles beyond that of Auvergne. We will go tomorrow to Poitou through the woods and see if all be safe. I will go with you, and I give you my word that if the Iroquois are there Greysolon du Lhut will know it. The lady we shall leave here, and if we find that all is safe we shall come back for her. Then in the same fashion we shall advance to Auvergne, and there you must wait until you hear where their war parties are. It is my mind that it will not be very long before we know."

And so it was at last agreed, and Adele was consigned to the care of the lady of Ste. Marie, while De Catinat swore that without a pause he would return from Poitou to fetch her. The old nobleman and his son would fain have joined them in their adventure, but they had their own charge to watch and the lives of many in their keeping, while a small party was safer in the woods.

From La Noue to Poitou was but twelve miles down the river, but by the woodland route the distance was more than doubled. The four men walked in single file, Du Lhut leading, De Catinat walked behind, then Ephraim Savage, and then Amos, all with their weapons ready and with every sense upon the alert. By midday they were more than halfway and halted in a thicket for a scanty meal of bread and cheese. For an hour more they picked their way through the woods, following in the steps of the old French pioneer.

Suddenly Du Lhut dropped upon his knees and stooped his ear to the ground. He rose, shook his head and walked on with a grave face.

"Did you hear something?" whispered Amos.

Du Lhut put his finger to his lips and then in an instant was down upon his face with his ear fixed to the ground. He sprang up with the look of a man who has heard what he expected to hear.

"Walk on," said he quietly, "and behave exactly as you have done all day."

"What is it, then?"

"Indians."

"In front of us?"

"No; behind us. They are following us—two, I think. Do not look round. Walk on as before. They are Iroquois."

"And pursuing us?"

"No; we are pursuing them."

"How far off are they?"

"About 200 paces, I think."

"They cannot see us then?"

"I think not, but I cannot be sure. They are following our trail, I think."

"What shall we do then?"

"Let us make a circle and get behind them."

Turning sharp to the left, he led them in a long curve through the woods, hurrying swiftly and yet silently under the darkest shadow of the trees. Then he turned again and presently halted.

"This is our own track," said he.

"Aye, and two redskins have passed over it!" cried Amos, bending down and pointing to marks which were entirely invisible to Ephraim Savage and De Catinat.

"A full grown warrior and a lad on his first warpath," said Du Lhut. "They are moving fast, you see, for you can hardly see the heel marks of their moccasins. They walked one behind the other. Now let us follow them as they followed us and see if we have better luck."

The Aleutian Islands.

The Aleutian islands were so called from the river Olutora, in Kamchatka. The people living at the mouth of this stream were called Alutorsky, and a modification of the name was given to the islands.

Pig's Eye.

A chapel in honor of St. Paul gave a new name to the Minnesota city. It was originally called Pig's Eye, from a nickname given to a one eyed Frenchman who kept a drinking shanty at the place.

Louis Napoleon.

Louis Napoleon was taken prisoner by the Prussians Sept. 2, 1870, and imprisoned in a German castle until the close of the war. He was then allowed to depart, and, going to England, took up his residence in Chiselhurst, where he lived quietly until his death, Jan. 9, 1873.

St. Louis.

St. Louis was named from Louis IX. of France. The name was originally given to his depot and trading station by Pierre Laclede Liguest.

Wheat From Grass.

Fabre in 1855 ended a series of experiments by which he concluded that by careful cultivation for twelve years he had produced a species of perfect wheat from a common grass growing in southern Europe

The Serpent.

The serpent moves by elevating the scales on its abdomen and using them to push the body forward. The windings are always horizontal. The artists who represent the sinuosities as vertical have never observed the animal in motion. It is impossible for it to move in that way.

Typewriter Ink.

Stenographers should remember that the ink on their typewriter ribbons is poisonous and that getting in a cut or scratch it might do great harm.

New York's Stock Exchange.

New York's Stock Exchange in Broad and Wall streets is the outcome of a meeting of a group of traders who sat under the shade of a butternut tree opposite its Wall street entrance on May 17, 1792, and adopted rules to govern their trading transactions.

Manayunk.

The Indian name of the Schuylkill river was Manayunk; hence the name of a Pennsylvania town.

Black For Mourning.

Black was first used for mourning in 1498, when Charles VIII. of France died. His widow, it is said, objected to the white mourning customary at that time as not sufficiently suggestive of the depth of her grief. So she dressed herself all in black and draped her coat of arms in the same somber color, thus setting the fashion, which has been followed ever since.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 39 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 60 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 872-1253-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

Heaviness, Lassitude, Drowsy and Dull

Do You Feel That Way?

How provoking these symptoms are! You sleep well, but when you awaken there is none of the exhilaration that sleep and rest should confer.

Instead of being alert, having quickness of apprehension, there is languor, dullness, a disinclination to do things.

Three causes for this feeling:

Lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a mighty lazy stomach which does its work very poorly and compels the other organs to do things they are unequal to for any length of time.

Note the consequences—blood is filled with wastes—poisons weigh down the nervous system—rebuilding processes are absolutely stopped.

You'll note an instant change when you take Ferrozone.

Appetite improves, digestion becomes good as ever—skin grows ruddy and clear, all sense of langour, unsteadiness and depression fades away and finally disappears.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, supplies tone and vigor, imparts clearness and strength. You feel like a new person, full of life, full of ambition, ready to do things—and able to do them also.

Think it over. Ferrozone is a tonic that uplifts, upbuilds, that nourishes and restores the sick by supplying the elements their weakened system need.

It can't help but do you good. For men, women and children, in fact anyone seeking strength and health, Ferrozone is invaluable; try it, sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

New Clock for Bank of Commerce

Yesterday Mr. Chas. McClelland, the Water street jeweller, received and set up a new clock of modern construction, called an authomatic calendar clock; for the recently re-constructed Bank of Commerce building just opposite the Post Office. This clock, which is 49 inches in height, is framed in solid mahogany of a somewhat lighter color than the prevailing surroundings, so as not to detract from the general tone of the bank's fixtures. The clock in question not only shows the time of day but the days of the week and month.

Mrs. Walker May Recover

We are pleased to note that Mrs. Walker, of Peterborough, who was injured on the G.T.R. train wreck near Guelph, was slightly improved yesterday morning, and if blood-poisoning does not set in, she will pull through all right. Her little two-year-old daughter, who was killed, was buried yesterday afternoon. The four-year-old boy is doing well, his injuries being slight. Mr. Walker was not on the wrecked train.

Grady's Bakery Destroyed by Fire

Yesterday morning early, or to be exact at 5.30 a.m., the local fire laddies were called from their "downy beds of ease," to fight the foe they have enlisted to subdue.

The fire was at 54 Park street, where Mr. J. Grady's brick bakeshop, was situated.

Mr. J. Killingbeck was the first to send in the alarm. The fire started in the shop and Mr. Killingbeck, fortunately discovered the blaze. The firemen were promptly on the scene, but the fire had gained such headway that little could be done to save the contents of the shop. But for the excellent work of the fire men, Mr. Grady's house would also have been destroyed. The insurance on the shop and contents, was only some $200 which will not begin to cover the loss. Among the property destroyed was a new mixing machine, a new electric motor and some 30 or 40 bags of flour.

The Driving Park Was Not Sold

Yesterday morning a rumor was pervalent, particularly in horse racing circles that Hon. Senator Geo. A. Cox had purchased the present Driving Park; at present owned by Mr. Bertie Morrow. A Times representative hearing the rumor in several places, went to Mr. Geo. W. Morrow and asked as to the truth of the rumor which said that the senator had paid $30,000 for the property. Mr. Morrow denied the story in toto. This effectually silences the rumors of yesterday. Mr. Morrow, the owner of the Driving Park, when questioned by Mr. M. Connors of the Turf Club, also denied the rumor.

Trenton Will Get the Canal

Trenton has now been definitely chosen by the Dominion Government as the Trent Valley canal outlet. Mr. E. J. Walsh, C.E., who has surveyed the various proposed routes has reported that the most of the different routes, for six-foot navigation, would be as follows;

Rice Lake to Port Hope	$3,541,917
Rice Lake to Cobourg	7,906,401
Rice Lake to Trenton	3,118,811

Whilst with eight feet four inches the figures are as follows;

Rice Lake to Port Hope	$3,958,051
Rice Lake to Cobourg	8,236,040
Rice Lake to Trenton	3,997,482

The total fall from Rice Lake to Lake Ontario is 304 feet.

The Trent outlet, with eight feet four inches of navigation, is recommended by Mr. Walsh, as such depth of water would enormously reduce the cost of transportation.

House Cleaning at Police Station

Regular guests at the Hotel des Cops will be somewhat surprised at the housecleaning that has been effected there. Hard as it may be to realize it, yesterday the floor flooding the four cells was given a treatment of real soap and water. The floor was actually scrubbed clean as could be. Visitors from now on will be requested to use the cuspidors and not defile the immaculate floors, that are a credit to this branch of the city's premises, even the books in the station library were overhauled, and the dust of several decades removed. Speaking of this library, those having books or magazines to spare, might do worse than send them to the station. During the long cold winter nights, whilst not on active duty, the local police welcome good reading matter whilst awaiting their respective turns to go on the beat.

A Woman's Back

Has many aches and pains caused by weaknesses and falling, or other displacement, of the pelvic organs. Other symptoms of female weakness are frequent headache, dizziness, imaginary specks or dark spots floating before the eyes, gnawing sensation in stomach, dragging or bearing down in lower abdominal or pelvic region, disagreeable drains from pelvic organs, faint spells with general weakness.

If any considerable number of the above symptoms are present there is no remedy that will give quicker relief or a more permanent cure than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It has a record of over forty years of cures. It is the most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine known to medical science. It is made of the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots found in our forests and contains not a drop of alcohol or harmful, or habit-forming drugs. Its ingredients are all printed on the bottle-wrapper and attested under oath as correct.

Every ingredient entering into "Favorite Prescription" has the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice—more valuable than any amount of non-professional testimonials—though the latter are not lacking, having been contributed voluntarily by grateful patients in numbers to exceed the endorsements given to any other medicine extant for the cure of woman's ills.

You cannot afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for this well proven remedy OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, even though the dealer may make a little more profit thereby. Your interest in regaining health is paramount to any selfish interest of his and it is an insult to your intelligence for him to try to palm off upon you a substitute. You know what you want and it is his business to supply the article called for.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the original "Little Liver Pills" first put up by old Dr. Pierce over forty years ago, much imitated but never equaled. Little sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Further George Street Improvements

The Bradburn estate has decided to continue the stone work, which is being put in the corner by the Dominion Bank to include the doorway between the bank property and Matthews' store. This will make a handsome corner. A fine new door will also be put in.

Lindsay Midgets Entertained

Mr. H. A. Pearson, an old Lindsay boy, secretary of the Collingwood Y.M.C.A., gave the Midgets a right royal welcome and extended to them the accommodation of the Collingwood Y.M.C.A. The building is a fine structure, and the Midgets, appreciated the generosity of its secretary very much.—Lindsay Post.

JEROME MAY MAKE UNEXPECTED MOVE

Will He Ask for Thaw's Committal to an Insane Asylum?---How Far Will He Go is the Question.

New York, March 2.—District Attorney Jerome has informed members of his staff that Dr. Deemar and Dr. Bingaman, Thaw family physicians, can supply all the evidence that is required to prove that Harry K. Thaw suffers from hereditary insanity, and that his malady has progressed to such a stage that his recovery is impossible.

On the authority of one connected with the office of the District Attorney, the statement was made last night that the prosecution stands ready at a moment's notice to make a quick switch and ask that Thaw be committed to the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan.

It also became known that the real cause for much of the dissension in the ranks of the counsel for the defence arises from the fact that the relatives of Thaw hold Mr. Delmas responsible for laying the foundation on which Mr. Jerome may proceed to have the slayer of Stanford White declared insane.

It has been against the advice of some of his associates that Mr. Delmas has introduced much of the testimony tending to show that Thaw was insane when he shot Mr. White. The feeling is held by at least two of his associates and as well by the relatives of Thaw that Mr. Delmas went entirely too far along the line of insanity. Few will be suprised if Mr. Jerome early next week demands the examination of Dr. Deemar and Dr. Bingaman, announcing his intention of having an inquiry into the sanity of Thaw.

HOW FAR JEROME WILL GO.

The district attorney has not committed himself as to his own opinion regarding Thaw's sanity. He has at various times, however, in open court announced that he has no wish to proceed further with the trial of Thaw after he becomes convinced that the man is insane.

Dr. Deemar and Dr. Bingaman are the Thaw family physicians, and the district attorney knows that they are ready to testify that Thaw was deficient in his mental and moral balance from his earliest childhood. The two physicians were first summoned to court as witnesses for the defence, and the calling of them as witnesses for the prosecution, will, it is believed, have a strong effect, even should they not be used for the purpose of establishing the insanity of Thaw.

There are those who counsel the relatives and friends of the defendant to enter no objection if the district attorney moves to have a committee appointed to inquire into the mental condition of Thaw. They believe Mr. Jerome will succeed in so discrediting Evelyn Nesbit Thaw as a witness that after he introduces in rebuttal a reputable witness to testify that at the time the young woman says she was made the victim of Stanford White the latter was not in New York City the effect upon the jury will be dangerous to the success of the defence.

THAW'S HORROR OF ASYLUM.

Thaw has so great a horror of the insane asylum, however, that he will demand that every chance be taken in open court rather than submit himself to a committee of alienists. Mr. Jerome would not admit or deny yesterday whether he would move to have the trial adjourned while Thaw's sanity was being determined. It was only after his consultation with his assistants that it became known finally that he had determined when the right opportunity presented itself to take advantage of the testimony already introduced by the defence and endeavor to force Thaw into the seclusion of the asylum for the insane.

Peterboro Factory Is Kept Busy

A Toronto despatch says:—From the old-fashioned "carryall to the modern electric car is not such a far cry, judged from the standpoint of time, in this city the transition from the slow-going horse cars to the speedy, commodious electric cars, which go to make up the equipment of the Toronto street railway of today is sufficiently recent to furnish food for conversation. Electric street railway systems are of quite modern origin, and this fact makes their phenomenal growth all the more striking. It is not generally known that practically all the electric motors in use in the street railway systems of Canada are manufactured and supplied by the Canadian General Electric Company, of Peterborough. During the past year the company sold about 1,000 street car motors, the orders being received from every town and city having a street railway service between Halifax and Vancouver.

Preventics, as the name implies, prevent all Colds and Grippe when "taken at the Sneeze stage." Preventics are tooth some candy tablets. Preventics dissipate all colds quickly, and taken early, when you first feel that a cold is coming, they check and prevent them. Preventics are thoroughly safe for children, and as effectual for adults. Sold and recommended in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes by J. D. Tully.

Mrs. George Ash Has Passed Away

Yesterday the sad intelligence reached Peterborough announcing the death of Mary Ann, relict of the late George Ash, who passed away in Cobourg on Thursday, after a few days' illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Herchimer. The deceased lady's first husband was Mr. Greer, and her second was George Ash, who predeceased her by some twenty-one years. Messrs. J. H. Greer and J. Walter Ash, electricians of this city are sons and will attend the funeral of their mother which will be held this Saturday afternoon from Cobourg to Cold Springs, where the deceased lived for a number of years.

Names Suggested for New Steamer

As noted in an issue of The Times during some ten days ago, the Ottonabee Navigation Company have promised a year's free family transportation on their new twin screw steamer, now in process of construction for any or such name as maybe suggested and accepted by the company's directorate for the said steamer.

Already a formidable list has been presented, which, after eliminating all impossible names, reads as follows;

When the tip of a dog's nose is cold and moist, that dog is not sick. A feverish dry nose means sickness with a dog. And so with the human lips. Dry, cracked and colorless lips mean feverishness, and are as well ill appearing. To have beautiful, pink, velvet-like lips, apply at bedtime a coating of Dr. Shoop's Green Salve. It will soften and heal any skin ailment. Get a free, trial box, at our store—and be convinced. Large nickel capped glass jars, 25 cents. J. D. Tully.

Doukhobors May Lose Their Homes

Ottawa, March 2.—The refusal of the Doukhobors of Western Canada to take the oath of allegiance as British subjects, on the ground that Christ has forbidden them to swear at all, and to perform the homestead duties required by law in regard to cultivating their lands, lying some distance outside communal villages, has resulted in a somewhat complicated and difficult situation. A number of squatters, knowing that within the last four years the duties fixed by the Doukhobors have been legally forfeited by the failure above noted, have pre-empted some 78 homesteads. The Doukhobors have now petitioned the Government to revise the terms so as to legalize their holdings without fulfilling homestead duties in the way of cultivation on each homestead and taking the oath of allegiance. Hon. Mr. Oliver minister of the interior, does not see his way clear to give any such special privileges to one class of the community, and has decided that the only concession to be granted is giving to the Doukhobors an unconditional grant of land, equal to three times the amount cultivated around the communal villages.

Teddy on the Spree

Edward James, a well-known local gentleman and sport of mature years, got out with the boys last night. Teddy hired a hack and somehow suddenly turned into a Pierpont Morgan. The driver served his new master in a1 style for about an hour, and on asking for his fare, the magnate at once told his new coachman to shut the ——— door. He did not believe in freezing, nor would he pay. Suddenly a new style of coachman arrived on the scene, one who drives with a "baton," not a whip. The "Silver King" expostulated loudly at the change of drivers, and on going to press Teddy could be distinctly heard at this office, giving vent to his shattered feelings at spending the night peeping through the bars at Hotel des Copa.

The teacher training class met last night at the Y.M.C.A. at eight o'clock. The subject taken up was "Methods in teaching," which was taken by one of the members of the class.

Good Receipts at Local Customs House

The returns at the Peterborough Customs House for the month of February, averaged over $1,100 per day. This is an unusually large average and shows that the industrial growth of the city is progressing. Several large consignments of goods came through yesterday morning but they were too late in time to be credited on to last month's business.

If you like Coffee but dare not drink it, try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. It is true that real Coffee does disturb the Stomach, Heart and Kidneys. But Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee has not a grain of true coffee in it. Being made from parched grains, malt, etc., it forms a wholesome food-like drink, yet having the true flavor of Old Java and Mocha Coffee. "Made in a minute." Call at our store for a free sample. Sold by J. D. Tully.

"An Alabama Home"

Last night the opera house was filled from ground floor to the gods. The show was of a very high-class nature and was much appreciated by those who saw it. The play was a good one, "An Alabama Home," the different actors each playing their role to perfection. The villan, taken by Maurice Stanford, was very well acted, while Mr. S. Goldsine played the part of the hero to perfection. Gracie Marks and her partner Mr. Wilgus were very funny. The Marks Bros. will complete their engagement in Peterborough to-morrow night, with a brand new comedy, "The Devil's Lane," and the "Prodigal's Return" will be presented at the matinee.

Prompt Response to School Fire Alarm

School Inspector Walker was unexpectedly to him, asked yesterday by Messrs. Wm. Pringle, Dr. Morrison, and W. H. Hill, members of the Board of Education, to ring the fire alarm in the Central school in order that these members of the Board might see how efficient the pupils were in the fire drill.

Mr. Walker rang the gong and in one minute and a half the edifice was entirely cleared of scholars.

As the fire drill has not been practised in this school for some time and neither teachers nor pupils had any intimation that the alarm would be given, this prompt action deserves notice. Possibly the terrible Hochelaga school, Montreal, holocaust would have been averted or lessened had as prompt action been in existence as shown here yesterday.

A GREAT COMPANY'S SUCCESS

Mr. C. F. Sise, the capable President of one of Canada's greatest and best managed utilities, the Bell Telephone Company, at the annual meeting of that company held on February 28th, very effectually replied in non-contradictable words to the attacks made by certain Toronto papers on that organization. He intimated very plainly that, whilst the company courted the fullest investigation, they will adhere to the policy hitherto pursued of managing their own business and see that all employees are fairly treated.

Mr. Sise showed beyond peradventure that their girl operators frequently obtained employment at from $20 to $30 a month, after leaving situations in various stores where their wages had been from $3 to $3.50 per week for longer hours.

Referring to the suggested establishment of a Government system in Manitoba, Mr. Sise demonstrated that the Bell Company had increased their lines as rapidly as compatible with existing conditions in that province. Within the past year the company has added 5,500 subscribers and constructed 11,000 miles of ordinary wiring and some 1,000 miles of long distance connections.

As regards prices for telephone connection with central offices in the larger cities, Mr. Sise, by actual comparison with the rates charged in various cities in the United States, showed that Canada gets cheap as well as efficient telephone service.

That the general public in Canada is fully satisfied with the service and management of the Bell Telephone Company is clearly proven by the extraordinary demand for instruments: during the past year 16,950 new subscribers have been added and the company now has 95,145 instruments actually earning revenue. The company now owns and operates 571 exchanges and has 1160 agencies. It will be of interest to note that the company now owns and operates 43,400 miles of long distance lines. As demonstrating the faith placed in the company by Canadian investors, it is interesting to note that last year $1,058,000 of their 6 per cent. bonds were sold at a net profit of some $51,000, which latter was carried to the contingent account. On 10,000 shares of stock sold a premium of $344,015 was made, this also being carried to the contingent account.

Taking the general statements submitted at the annual meeting, the public of Canada are evidently not be be beguiled by carping and irresponsible Canadian cities who would find fault in this great Canadian utility, nor made to believe that, as a business proposition, so long as the present conditions exist, the Bell Telephone Company can or will permit the intrusion or adoption of unasked for interference.

Tornado Wipes Out an Arkansas Town

Little Rock, Ark., March 2. — A special to the Arkansas Democrat from Hope, Ark., says that a destructive tornado struck the town of Washington late last night, and almost literally wiped it out of existence. Two negroes are reported killed and several persons were injured. Among the buildings destroyed were the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, Judge W. Y. Etter's residence, T. H. Williams' store, and the residence of Sheriff Wilson. All wires are down.

Where Is the European Artist

Montreal, March 1.—There is not a little mystery about the disappearance of Mrs. Arthur Behenna, who arrived here last Friday from Ottawa in order to superintend the exhibition of her portrait studies and miniatures in galleries of the Art Association. The pictures were sent in advance from Ottawa. In Europe Mrs. Behenna was introduced to Lord and Lady Grey and their family. She was invited, if she came to Montreal, to visit Ottawa and paint the portrait of Lady Evelyn Grey. She accepted the invitation and the portrait was painted.

It, together with a miniature of the Governor-General's daughter were included in the catalogue, but they never arrived at the Art Gallery. Neither did the painter. The police have been notified for their is no trace of the woman, nor has there been in spite of all efforts since the moment she stepped off the train on Friday last.

Ottawa, March 2.—There is absolutely no warrant so far as can be ascertained for the Montreal story about a prospective Cabinet shuffle between this and Sir Wilfrid Laurier's departure for England. Indeed, the Prime Minister has far too much else to do to have any time to devote to the consideration of such matters.

Hon. C. S. Hyman is said to be assured of re-election in London, possibly by acclamation, and it is idle at this stage, therefore, to be speculating as to who his successor will be. Mr. Hyman will succeed himself.

GREAT BRITAIN SHOWS THAT SHE IS SINCERE

Building of Great Battleship Delayed Pending the Coming Peace Conference---Beresford to be in Command.

London, March 2.—A statement of the naval estimates for 1907-8, presented to parliament last night, introduces quite a novel feature, for it makes the construction of battleships during the coming year dependent in a measure upon the decisions reached at the next peace conference held at the Hague.

The new construction, estimated at £40,500,000 against £46,175,000 for 1906-7, Lord Tweedmouth, First Lord of the Admiralty, says, will include two, or, unless an understanding between the naval powers is reached at the Hague conference, three large armored vessels of the Dreadnaught type.

One fast unarmored cruiser, five torpedo boat destroyers, 12 torpedo boats, and 12 submarines also are provided for.

On April 1 there will be under construction five battleships, seven armored cruisers, eight torpedo boat destroyers, 17 torpedo boats, and 12 submarines.

BIG REDUCTION MADE.

The estimates for the year show a total reduction of 1,000 men and $5,675,000, as compared with 1906-7.

Lord Tweedmouth comments upon the striking improvement in the gunnery of the fleet compared with last year. The average of hits was practically doubled.

The First Lord of the Admiralty mentions also the highly satisfactory performances of the battleship Dreadnaught, and the greater efficiency that has resulted from the system of nucleus crews.

As an illustration of this system and the better state of repair emanating from it, he compares the conditions of January, 1904, when out of 60 battleships, 38 were not available, owing to the need of repairs, with that of January, 1907, when out of 51 battleships, only eight were not available.

REDISTRIBUTION OF FLEETS.

In dealing with the redistribution of the fleets, Lord Tweedmouth touched indirectly upon the position of Admiral Lord Beresford. He explained that the home fleet was still in process of development, and that some time would elapse before it could reach its full strength. He said the fleet at home will continue to be combined for war purposes under orders of Lord Beresford, while the Channel, Atlantic, and home fleets will carry out their periodic manoeuvers together under his command.

Lord Tweedmouth said further that the Channel and Atlantic fleets still occupy the principal fighting position, and will in no way be interferred with by the Home fleet, except in the event of a totally unforseen outbreak during the absence of the Channel and Atlantic fleets from home waters.

Dominion Artillery Association

Ottawa, March 2.—The principal subjects discussed at the annual meeting of the Dominion Artillery Association were the visit this year of a team of English artillery men to take part in the competitions and the question of the equipment of the Petawawa Camp grounds. Much satisfaction was expressed at the former announcement, and Sir Frederick Borden intimated that the government would be willing to help by providing for the adequate entertainment of the visitors.

Facts About Why Coffee Does Its Peculiar Work

Tanin (or Tanic Acid) is an astringent, used for gargles in sore throat and similar conditions; it is not poisonous although it is not a fit substance to take into the stomach as is done when you drink coffee or tea that has boiled too long.

It is a serious error to say that Tanin is the cause of the coffee habit with its long train of ills. It is the alkaloid, Caffeine, which causes the trouble, it being quickly dissolved out in making hot coffee, while it takes longer boiling to dissolve out the Tanin.

Caffeine, like cocaine, morphine, etc., is a drug and should never be used except as prescribed by a physician.

Like all such drugs, small amounts seem to delude one into the belief that they are beneficial, while their continued use, in gradually increased amounts, is destructive to mind and body.

A prominent physician and teacher in a medical university says:

"Coffee intoxication is a disease which, is probably more common than is generally supposed, the profession not being alive to its symptoms, as it has not as yet penetrated into the medical text books on different diseases."

The action of "Caffeine," however, is well described in a prominent work on drugs, as follows: "It causes poisonous symptoms, ringing in the ears, tremor of the hands, headache, flashes, vertigo, insomnia, mental confusion, weakness of vision and hearing, palpitation of the heart, rapid pulse, irregular heart action, a sense of oppression in the chest," and other symptoms.

Thy physician referred to above says further; "The most pronounced and tenacious symptom of coffee intoxication is tremor (one of the above symptoms of caffeine poisoning) of the hands and limbs. Continuous headaches, with intermittent attacks of great severity; hallucinations, mostly occurring at night, ringing in the ears, sometimes taking form of definite words, but usually as buzzing or bells; troubles of vision occur, pupils dilated, eyes easily fatigued; vertigo occurs, often of great severity, mostly due to digestive troubles; insomnia is present in acute cases. Digestive disturbances are a marked symptom of coffee poisoning; at times there is a definite pyrosis (heart burn). The loss of appetite and digestive disturbances produce emaciation, the complexion is pale, often yellow; the pallor of the face, the bright eye, the nervous look and dilated pupil give a picture of the disease—coffee habit."

By comparing these symptoms described by one physician, with the action of Caffeine as described by another, the reader can get at the facts as to what coffee does, and what it is in coffee that does it. It's principally Caffeine, rather than Tanin.

It is an easy matter to leave off coffee drinking and get rid of a lot of misery, mental depression, headaches, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervousness, and so on, by using well-made Postum.

But Postum requires boiling—15 to 20 minutes won't hurt, as it contains neither Tanin nor Caffeine, and by thorough boiling you get all the food value and a delicious flavor not obtainable by simply letting it "come to a boil" as in making ordinary coffee.

Don't try to like Postum unless it's made right, according to directions, and don't cheat yourself of the full value of its food elements, by insufficient boiling.

There's no secret about Postum—no drugs to apologize for or avoid—it is made of wholesome field grains, but the experience and skill in making it is partly what accounts for its enormous sales, and the consequent good it has accomplished in thousands of families, who have found by personal experience, that "There's a Reason" for

5000 LIVES SAVED YEARLY BY MODERN METHODS IN TREATING CONSUMPTION

In New York since 1881 there has been a reduction in the death rate from tuberculosis of 40 per cent; that means an annual saving of some 5,000 lives.

Before a German scientist discovered the germ of this disease, it was considered the visitation of an avenging Providence. Our fathers gave it up as hopeless. Modern methods of treatment, however, have done much toward eradicating the terrible disease.

A noted specialist, whose camp for consumptives in the Pine Woods of Maine has attracted great attention, because of the remarkable cures he has effected there, and whose methods have been indorsed by the highest authorities, says his treatment was very simple, consisting of open air exercise, deep breathing and nourishing food. Every four hours the patient was given one teaspoonful of a mixture of the Pure Virgin Oil from the White Pine Trees, combined with Whisky and Glycerine in the following proportions; One-half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine and eight ounces of good Whisky. Shake well and take as teaspoonful doses every four hours.

This treatment strengthened the lungs and healed the bronchial tubes. He claims this formula will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost, and can be easily mixed in your own home.

Inquiry at the prescription department of one of our leading druggists elicited the information that Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), put up only by Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario,—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put out under similar name and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

Look For Blood Humors

They Crop Out Constantly, Showing the System Needs Purifying.

You're not satisfied with your looks. How can you be with such disfiguring pimples, such rough unsightly skin?

Blood is full of humors, and it's no wonder you look and feel poorly.

You are languid,
Appetite is miserable,
Sleep is hard to get,
Snap and vim are lacking.

High time to improve matters—but what's the proper remedy?

Experience proves that Dr. Hamilton's Pills give instant effect. They tone the entire system, fortify the blood and impart a feeling of new life in a few days.

Unlike strong purgatives, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are exceedingly mild. They are made from concentrated vegetable extracts such as Mandrake and Butternut, and can be taken by young or old, with absolute safety.

"I learnt something very valuable after using Dr. Hamilton's Pills," writes Miss Effie Thomson of Meriden. "I used to have ugly pimples that much embarrassed me. The tonic and purifying effect of Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely restored me. My health is splendid and my complexion a great credit to this marvelous medicine."

Let your medicine be Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They do cure so thoroughly. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1, by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

SOCIETY'S DUTY

Under the above heading The Buffalo Evening Times comments editorially on what it is pleased to designate "society's supreme neglect"—the nature and protection of its character. The Times says:—

One of the greatest sins of omission that society is guilty of today is its failure to realize and provide for the needs of the coming generation. What would seem to be the supreme desire of humanity—the nurture and protection of its children—it its supreme neglect. Laws, for instance, that should provide for the restraint and protection of of the young are always lowest on the calendar of the Legislature. Why? Because of the failure or neglect of this generation to appreciate the value of the next. When attention is urged the reply is made that the percentage of children who need the help of the State is small. Even were this true—which it is not—it is the bounden duty of the State to look after this percentage.

Millions of children are being well trained for good citizenship in homes and schools. Other millions—literally millions—are forced to hard labor, before they reach their teens. Other millions are neglected by indifferent, immoral, intemperate or ignorant parents, and roam the streets and engage in every evil. The State does little for these save to punish them when they are caught. Take the fact of child labor alone. It is passing strange that public sympathy should so slowly waken to this monstrous sin. True, it has few apologists. And in this respect we are better off than during the days of chattel slavery when its apologists in many pulpits. Our sin is spelled in the word neglect.

Fifty years from now people will look back upon the child labor with no less horror than upon the negro slavery of fifty years ago. And so of our other sins of omission. There's education, for instance. We have only played at that problem as yet. Our education is only for the few and some of it is not education at all. We are so busy making money and keeping others from making too much that we cannot see over the rim of the dollar the hosts of the advancing generation.

ESTABLISHED CHURCH

London, March 1.—For the first time in recent history the House of Commons last night adopted a motion in favor of the disestablishment and disendowment of the Established Church in England and Wales. The motion was made by Mr. Everett, a private member, and the Government did not take any responsibility for it. Mr. Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, was the only member who spoke in support of the motion. He explained that his views were personal.

The motion was carried by a vote of 198 to 90. The only previous division on the question of disestablishment was in 1871, when it was rejected by a vote of 374 to 89.

Get an Interest in Cobalt's Wealth

The eyes of the world are now fixed upon the silver laden rocks of Cobalt. Within the past few months large fortunes have been extracted from some ten or twelve Cobalt mines, and these only partially developed. It is officially stated that some $16,000,000 worth of ores have been shipped to New York ore buyers, and that some $50,000,000 more has been blocked out or stored at the mines awaiting shipment. The ores shipped here realized a probable value of $2500 per ton. It is now becoming generally known that smelters are being established at Cobalt, North Bay and Sturgeon Falls, thus enabling the Cobalt mine owners to handle the product of their mines to greater advantage and more cheaply.

The organizers of the Cobalt-American Development Co., Limited, are now advising their clientele not so much to buy the now high priced stocks of Cobalt mining companies which have been proven successful, but those of mining companies which show reliable management and whose properties are good, so as to gain the assured raise in price. They also call attention to the comparative capitalization of the numerous Cobalt mining companies. Where over-capitalization exists, those purchasing stock do not get anything like the dividends that accrue to holders of stock in a fairly capitalized mine.

The S. E. Nesbitt Co., who are recognized and in leading financial circles acknowledged as specialists in Cobalt stocks, are now offering shares of the Cobalt Development Co., Limited, at 50 cents per share of a par value of $1 each. As this company's standing is too high to even suspect—anything wrong, and they would not dare risk their reputation by endorsing any stock that they had not thoroughly investigated and found right, their offer is well worth serious consideration. The Cobalt-American Development Co. controls several mineral claims in the very heart of Cobalt's original silver bearing zone and already six well defined veins have been trenched for over 1,000 feet. Two shafts have been sunk and most valuable ore disclosed. This company is undoubtedly one of the soundest in Cobalt. Those interested should at once communicate with The S. E. Nesbitt Company, Brokers, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, and secure some of the above noted shares before they soar possibly as high as did those of the Hudson Bay mine, which rose from 10 cents a share to their present price of $100 each.

Where Angels Fear to Tread.

A company of young American tourists visited the home of Beethoven in Bonn and were unrestrained in their expressions of wonder, admiration and approval of the room where the master had lived and worked. They asked many questions about Beethoven, and finally one young lady seated herself at his piano and proceeded, with true American confidence, to play the "Moonlight Sonata," Beethoven's own work, in his own room, on his own piano. Such an interesting combination!

The old caretaker stood there, stern and silent. When the performance was over the young lady turned to the old man and said:

"I suppose many musicians have been here and have played on this instrument?"

"Paderewski was here once, madame"—

"Ah!" she sighed.

"But," continued the faithful guardian, "when some one urged him to play on Beethoven's piano he said, 'No; I am not worthy.'"

When the Disease Let Go.

An old man was just recovering from an operation, and as he lay regaining consciousness he heard the doctor say to a nurse regarding some powders to be given him, "If one every hour is too much give him a half one every half hour." The old gentleman raised himself up on his elbow and said:

"Say, doc, that reminds me of a man that had a Newfoundland dog. His wife got so tired of having him (the dog, not the man) track up the floors and porches that finally she made her husband take the dog to town and sell him. That afternoon he returned radiant. 'Well,' he said, 'I've sold him for $25!' 'Good!' cried his wife. 'I can get that hat now.' 'But,' continued the man, 'I bought two puppies with the money.'"

The doctor looked at the nurse and said:

"I think he'll recover."

P. S.—He did.—Judge.

Sacred Monkeys of India.

In "Living Animals of the World" some curious stories are told about the habits and characteristics of the monkey tribes. It seems that the entellus monkey is the most sacred of all in India. It is gray above and nutty brown below, long legged and active, a thief and an impudent robber. In one of the Indian cities they became such a nuisance that the faithful determined to catch and send away some hundreds. This was done, and the holy monkeys were deported in covered carts and released many miles off. But the monkeys were too clever. Having thoroughly enjoyed their ride, they refused to part with the carts and, hopping and grimacing, came leaping all the way back beside them to the city, grateful for their outing. One city obtained leave to kill the monkeys, but the next city then sued them for "killing their deceased ancestors."

Ways of the Flying Fish.

Flying fish swim in shoals varying in number from a dozen to a hundred or more. They often leave the water at once, darting through the air in the same direction for 200 yards or more, and then descend to the water quickly, rising again and then renewing their flight. Sometimes the dolphin may be seen in rapid pursuit, taking great leaps out of the water and gaining upon his prey, which take shorter and shorter flights, vainly trying to escape, until they sink exhausted. Sometimes the larger sea birds catch flying fish in the air. The question whether the flying fish use their fins at all as wings is not fully decided. The power of flight is limited to the time the fins remain moist.

May Tunnel the Straits of Belle Isle

Halifax, N.S., March 1.—In the Newfoundland Legislative Assembly last night Premier Bond proposed the adoption of a contract between the Newfoundland Government and the Messrs. Ochs, capitalists, of London and Paris, providing for the establishment of a short line of trans-Atlantic steamers between Killery, on the west coast of Ireland, and Green Bay, on the east coast of Newfoundland.

The plan also provides for a two-hour railway trip across the peninsula to Port au Basque, whence a twenty-knot steamer would convey mails and passengers to Rimpe, Quebec, in summer, and Sydney, C.B., in winter.

The promoters of the project claim that there would be a saving of 32 hours over any other trans-Atlantic route.

The project must take shape within two years or else all liability on the part of the company will cease.

Should the capitalists carry out their announced plans the Newfoundland Government proposes to pay them $75,000 annually for twenty-five years. It is said that the British, American and Canadian Government will be asked to assist in establishing the proposed line.

The Messrs. Ochs are given the right to construct a tunnel under the Strait of Belle Isle within eight years, and establish railway connections therewith a proposed line through Labrador and the Newfoundland Railway.

The legislature will vote on the contract within a few days.

SEEMS TO LIVE IN HER TOMB

Rome, March 1.—The story of a wird night is told by a correspondent who writes from San Remo. In a vault of one of the churches there, he says, a watch is kept night and day over the body of a young Russian woman which is reposing in a coffin. The woman, who was married, was a consumptive. A fortnight ago her death was fully certified to, and her body was removed to the place where it now is.

Eleven days later the woman's relatives arrived from Russia, and the coffin was opened. The lady was found to show no signs of decay. The skin was soft and retained the tints of life, and the lips were crimson.

The eyes were wide open, and conveyed an uncanny impression that they saw. Doctors were hastily summoned, but were unable to account for the strange condition of the body. It is being watched in case animation should return.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Britain's Great Wealth.

Calculations of the total wealth of a nation are always estimates more or less accurate, but when well done they are both instructive and interesting. Mr. W. J. Harris and Rev. K. A. Lake have just made a calculation of the wealth of the United Kingdom based mainly on the Estate Duty Returns.

Allowing for the deduction of certain Government property which could not be reckoned if the national debt were included, the total wealth of the United Kingdom is given as £8,950,000,000, which sum, if distributed amongst the population, would allow £207 for each person, producing, if invested, £7 per head per annum, or say 2s 8d per week, or about fourpence per day.

Taking into account all the sources of wealth the total valuation works out as follows:

Estates liable to death duty	£7,847,992,684
Property undervalued or escaping valuation	120,000,000
Gifts made before death escaping duty	117,000,000
Property of the poor	827,000,000
Tithes and glebes	62,000,000
Coin in postoffice and other institutions	5,000,000
Insurance companies reserves against running policies	70,000,000
Suez Canal shares	31,000,000
Property on which corporation duty is levied	966,880
Property held by public bodies exempted from corporation duty	72,000,000
Imperial property:
Dockyards and navy	50,000,000
Army material	20,000,000
Parks, offices, etc.	100,000,000
Private property of the Crown	10,000,000
Duchies of Cornwall and Lancaster	3,000,000
Office of Woods and Forests property	12,000,000

Asking After His Parents.

Archbishop Temple has long been a fruitful source of stories. An old one is so good that it must be repeated. After the archbishop's eyesight had failed, he was greeting his guests at a garden party at Lambeth. He said to one who approached him: "How do you do? How is your father?" The guest looked somewhat surprised, and said, "My father is dead, your Grace." "And the widow, your mother, how is she?" said the archbishop. "Thank you, she is quite well," somewhat stiffly. Afterwards the archbishop asked some one, "By the way, who was that?" "That, your Grace," was the reply, with a spice of mischief, "was the Duke of Connaught."

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP-- RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

La Grippe Is Epidemic Catarrh.

LA GRIPPE spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are all subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

La grippe is well-named. The original term, 'la grippe, is French, but it has been shortened by the busy American to one word "grip."

Without any intention of doing so, a new word has been coined which describes the disease exactly.

The ailment clings to the patient as tenaciously as if some terrible giant had clutched him in a fatal clasp.

Men, women and children — whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of this terrible monster.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip caught you? If so, read the following letters.

These testimonials will show you the quickest and best means of ridding yourself of this tenacious disease and its after-effects.

Suffered Twelve Years From After-Effects of La Grippe.

Mr. Victor Patneaude, 838 Madison St., Topeka, Kas., a well-known carpenter and member of Knights and Ladies of Security, writes:

"Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of la grippe and I never really recovered my health and strength—but grew weaker every year, until I was unable to work.

"Two years ago I began using Peruna and it built up my strength so that in a couple of months I was able to go to work again.

"This winter I had another attack of la grippe, but Peruna soon drove it out of my system.

"My wife and I consider Peruna a household remedy."

Pneumonia Followed La Grippe—Pe-ru-na, the Remedy That Brought Relief.

Mr. T. Barnecott, West Aylmer, Ontario, Can., writes:

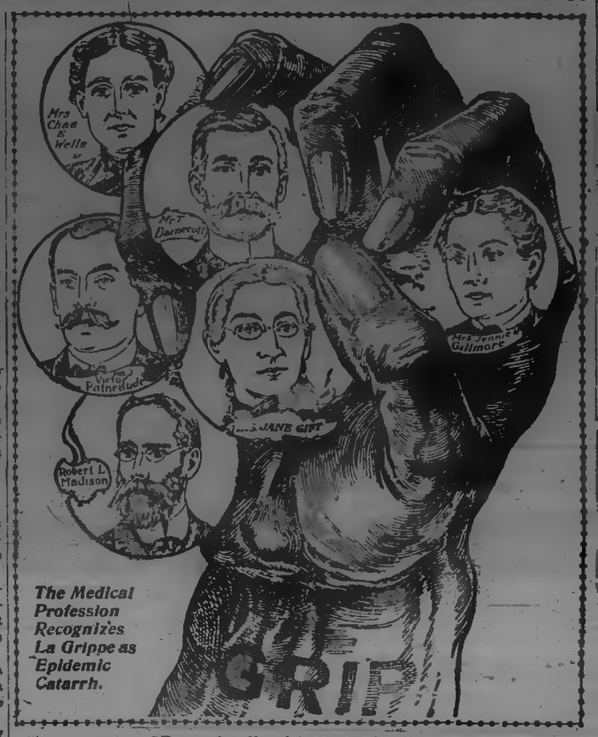
"Last winter I was ill with pneumonia after having la grippe. I took Peruna for two months, when I became quite well, and I can say that any one can be cured by it in a reasonable time and at little expense.

"Every time I take a cold, I take some Peruna, which makes me well again.

"I also advised it for my daughter who was so ill with prostration that she could not follow her trade of dress making.

"A bottle of Peruna made such a change in her that she has been able to follow her trade ever since.

"I also induced a young lady, who was all rundown and confined to the house, to take Peruna, and after taking Peruna for three months she is able to follow her trade of tailoring.



The Medical Profession Recognizes La Grippe as Epidemic Catarrh.

"I can recommend Peruna for all such who are ill and require a tonic."

Systemic Catarrh, the Result of La Grippe. Pe-ru-na Receives Credit for Present Good Health.

Mrs. Jennie W. Gilmore, Box 44, White Oak, Ind. Ter., formerly Housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes:

"Six years ago I had la grippe, which was followed by systemic catarrh.

"The only thing I used was Peruna and Manalin, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before.

"I give Peruna all the credit for my good health."

Pe-ru-na—A Tonic After La Grippe.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wells, Sr., Delaware, Ohio, writes:

"After a severe attack of la grippe, I took Peruna and found it a very good tonic."

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes: "I had a severe spell of la grippe which left me with systemic catarrh. A friend advised me to try Peruna. The third bottle completed the cure."

"Most Effective Medicine Ever Tried for La Grippe."

Robt. L. Madison, A. M., Principal of Cullowhee High School, Painter, N. C., is chairman of the Jackson County Board of Education. He has for nearly six years been teaching in Painter.

He is a writer of occasional verse and has contributed to a number of leading papers and magazines,—religious, educational and secular.

In speaking of Peruna, Mr. Madison says:

"I am hardly ever without Peruna in my home. It is the most effective medicine that I have ever tried for la grippe.

"It also cured my wife of nasal catarrh. Her condition at one time was such that she could not at night breathe through her nostrils.

"In consequence, an inflamed condition of the throat was brought about, getting worse and worse, and yielding to no remedy until Peruna was tried."

WEIRD AUCTION SALES.

Rummage Sales at Old London Docks Are Intensely Interesting.

Anyone desirous of beholding the closest association of the sublime and the ridiculous, the comic and the melancholy, the queer and the commonplace, should hie him to the London docks' rummage sales, which befall, roughly speaking, about every quarter.

Truly, there is nothing like these collections on earth. When the great London dock companies come to clean out their warehouse sheds, about every quarter of a year, they find a vast horde of unconsidered, forgotten unclaimed stuff that some might call trash, and with which nothing can be done but sell to the highest bidder at those funny rummage auctions. So bills are printed and sent throughout the likely quarters—Wapping, Ratcliff, Stepney, Limehouse, Poplar, and Bermondsey—they are eagerly scanned in every detail by the dealers, and on the date appointed the latter are to the fore in force, each with his eye on the particular piece of jetsam for which he has found a customer by much solicitation somewhere up in the junkshop quarter.

Once a coffined corpse, the remains of a man who died at sea or abroad, came to the docks. The consignee was notified to come for the gruesome parcel. He never responded; perhaps because he thought the burial would cost more than he cared to pay. The company anxiously waited, but in the end had to bury the unwelcome corpse at their own expense. As one of the dockmen grimly remarked: "It'd a puzzled the dealers to find a customer for yonder pretty package. 'Twouldn't a fetched much at the sale I guess."

One of the strangest "left-overs" on record at the docks consisted of 600 sacks of Canadian peas, which came over from Montreal some years ago, consigned to a well-known cornfactor in the city. They were dully warehoused in one of the sheds—and forgotten. A careless clerk in the merchant's office turned over two leaves of his book together, and the peas were lost sight of, the order scored off as non-arrived. One day the merchant was down at the docks looking after some goods when he noticed on the wall the name of a ship. That name started a train of ideas; he remembered the consignment of Canadian peas.

"Why, bless me," he said, "what's this?" and very soon the great pile of sacks was shown to contain none other than the long-lost peas. The merchant had not been notified all those years because the peas had not eaten up their value in dock dues, but the dock rats had eaten up an immense quantity of the peas in the interim. What the rats had left was removed to the merchant's premises.

Among the marvellous assortment of goods can be found gems in the rough from India, plants and vegetables from the fecund valley of the Amazon, with names known only to scientific men, and used for the queerest of purposes, rich dye stuffs from Java, hides and horns of animals that look like freaks of nature, sharks' jaws, elephant tusks from Mandalay, clothing from oilskins to baby linen, umbrellas, Zulu assegais, and stuffed monkeys.

Somebody is always found who wants the stuff, no matter how odd it may be.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment three things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 15 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

He sped swiftly along the trail, with his musket cocked in his hand, the others following hard upon his heels, but there was no sound and no sign of life from the shadowy woods in front of them. Suddenly Du Lhut stopped and grounded his weapon.

"They are still behind us," he said. "This is the point where we branched off. They have hesitated a moment, as you can see by their footmarks, and then they have followed on."

"If we go round again and quicken our pace we may overtake them."

"No; they are on their guard now. Lie here behind the fallen log, and we shall see if we can catch a glimpse of them."

A great rotten trunk, all green with mold and blotched with pink and purple fungi, lay to one side of where they stood. Behind this the Frenchman crouched, and his three companions followed his example, peering through the brushwood screen in front of them. Ten minutes passed, and there was no sign of any living thing behind them.

"They are over in yonder thicket," whispered Du Lhut.

"Have you seen them?"

"No."

"How do you know, then?"

"I saw a squirrel come from his hole in the great white birch tree yonder. He scuttled back again as if something had scared him. From his hole he can see down into that brushwood."

"Do you think that they know that we are here?"

"They cannot see us. But they are suspicious."

"Shall we rush for the brushwood?"

"They would pick two of us off and we gain like shadows through the woods. No; we had best go on our way."

"But they will follow us."

"I hardly think that they will. We are four and they are only two, and they know now that we are on our guard. We must push on fast now, for where there are two Iroquois there are likely to be 200 not very far off. Ah, here is the Ajidaumo creek, where the Indians set the sturgeon nets. It is still seven miles to Poitou."

"We shall be there before nightfall, then?"

"I think that we had best wait for nightfall before we make our way in. Since the Iroquois scouts are out as far as this it is likely that they lie thick round Poitou, and we may find the last step the worst unless we have a care." He paused a moment with slanting head and sidelong ear. "By Ste. Anne!" he muttered, "we have not shaken them off. They are still upon our trail."

"You hear them?"

"Yes; they are no great way from us. They will find that they have followed us once too often this time. Slip off your moccasins, monsieur."

De Catinat pulled off his shoes as directed and Du Lhut did the same.

"Put them on as if they were gloves," said the pioneer, and an instant later Ephraim Savage and Amos had their comrades' shoes upon their hands.

"You can swing your muskets over your back. So! Now down on all fours, bending yourselves double, with your hands pressing hard upon the earth. That is excellent. Two men can leave the trail of four. Now come with me, monsieur."

He flitted from tree to tree on a line which was parallel to but a few yards distant from that of their comrades. Then suddenly he crouched behind a bush and pulled De Catinat down beside him.

"They must pass us in a few minutes," he whispered. "Do not fire if you can help it." Something gleamed in Du Lhut's hand, and his comrade, glancing down, saw that he had drawn a keen little tomahawk from his belt. Suddenly he saw something move. It flitted like a shadow from one trunk to the other, so swiftly that De Catinat could not have told whether it were beast or human. And then again he saw it, and yet again, sometimes one shadow, sometimes two shadows. Then for a few moments all was still once more, and then in an instant there crept out from among the bushes the most terrible looking creature that ever walked the earth—an Iroquois chief upon the war trail.

He was a tall, powerful man, and his bristle of scalp locks and eagle feathers made him look like a giant in the dim light, for a good eight feet lay between his beaded moccasin and the topmost plume of his headgear. One side of his face was painted in soot, ocher and vermilion to resemble a dog and the other half as a fowl. His gun was thrown forward, and he crept along with bended knees, peering, listening, pausing, hurrying on, a breathing image of caution. Two paces behind him walked a lad of fourteen, clad and armed in the same fashion, but without the painted face.

They were just abreast of the bush when something caught the eye of the younger warrior, some displaced twig or fluttering leaf, and he paused, with suspicion in every feature. Another instant and he had warned his companion, but Du Lhut sprang out and buried his hatchet in the skull of the older warrior. De Catinat heard a dull crash, as when an ax splinters its way into a rotten tree, and the man fell like a log, kicking and striking with his powerful limbs. The younger warrior sprang like a deer over his fallen comrade and dashed on into the wood. But an instant later there was a gunshot among the trees in front, followed by a faint wailing cry.

"That is his death whoop," said Du Lhut composedly.

As he spoke the two others came back, Ephraim ramming a fresh charge into his musket.

"Ah, he's gone," said Du Lhut. As he spoke the Indian gave a last spasm with his hands and feet and lay rigid.

"He's a great chief," said Du Lhut. "It is Brown Moose of the Mohawks, and the other is his second son. We have drawn first blood, but I do not think that it will be the last; for the Iroquois do not allow their war chiefs to die unavenged. He was a mighty fighter."

They turned away, leaving the red figure stretched under the silent trees. As they passed on they caught a glimpse of the lad lying doubled up among the bushes where he had fallen. The pioneer walked very swiftly until he came to a little stream which prattled down to the big river. Here he slipped off his shoes and leggings and waded down it with his companions for half a mile or so.

"They will follow our tracks when they find him," said he, "but this will throw them off, for it is only on running water that an Iroquois can find no trace. And now we shall lie in this clump until nightfall, for we are little over a mile from Fort Poitou, and it is dangerous to go forward, for the ground becomes more open."

And so they remained concealed among the alders while the shadows turned from short to long, and the white drifting clouds above them were tinged with the pink of the setting sun. Du Lhut coiled himself into a ball, with his pipe between his teeth, and dropped into a light sleep, pricking up his ears and starting at the slightest sound. The two Americans whispered together for a long time, but at last the soothing hum of a gentle breeze through the branches lulled them off also. De Catinat alone remained awake, his nerves in a tingle from a strange, sudden shadow which had fallen upon his soul. So clear it was and so vivid that it was with a start that he came suddenly to himself and found that the night was creeping on in the forest and that Du Lhut had roused himself and was ready for a start.

"Have you been awake?" asked the pioneer. Have you heard anything?"

"Nothing but the hooting of the owl."

"It seemed to me in my sleep that I heard a gunshot in the distance."

"In your sleep?"

"Yes. I hear as well asleep as awake and remember what I hear. But now you must follow me close, and we shall be in the fort soon."

"Peste! You are a woodman indeed!"

"I believe that these woods are swarming with Iroquois, although we have had the good fortune to miss them. So great a chief as Brown Moose would not start on the path with a small following or for a small object. They must mean mischief upon the

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 50 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 30 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 6 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

CHICKEN A LA KING.

Recipe From One of New York's Big Popular Hotels.

A favorite dish served in one of the big popular hotels of New York is chicken a la king. The recipe, as given by the chef of the fashionable establishment, is as follows: Cut into small pieces the white meat of a cold roast chicken. Make a sauce with two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan over the fire. When the butter melts stir in two heaping tablespoonfuls of flour which has been well sifted. When the flour and butter are mixed to a cream pour in slowly a pint of hot milk, stirring constantly to keep from lumping. Allow the sauce to boil up once, then add a teaspoonful of grated onion, a saltspoonful of salt and the yolks of two eggs. Stir them briskly through the sauce, add two truffles and two mushrooms cut in small pieces and fried lightly in butter, one sweet green pepper cut in shreds after seeds have been removed and a generous tablespoonful of capers chopped and just a suggestion of grated nutmeg. Last of all, add the chicken, stir all together and allow it to cook a minute. Chicken a la king is usually served in a chafing dish.—New York Post.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

Milk taken before and after a bitter medicine will absorb the taste very quickly.

For a sore mouth try a wash of one teaspoonful of peroxide in a half glass of water.

After cutting a corn peroxide should always be applied to prevent any possibility of blood poisoning.

Gouty persons should avoid eating sweet food, but the practice of eating a dozen walnuts a day is recommended by physicians.

A cup of hot water will relieve a sick stomach, and for those who cannot take it plain try a little lemon juice, a lump of sugar or a pinch of salt.

When you suffer from heartburn take half a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda stirred in half a tumblerful of cold water. One doctor advises that a few bleached sweet almonds be eaten. They should be thoroughly masticated.

The Plain Girl.

The plain, quiet, apparently unattractive girl should be taught to make the most of herself, and who can teach her this so well as her mother? If your daughter is growing up too quiet and seems never to have anything to say, exert yourself to draw her out. Lead her into general conversation at every opportunity. Let her feel that her thought and opinion about different matters are of some weight and importance. Do not let her sink into that state of mind which is content to let other people take the burden of conversation while she sits by in apparently stupid silence, says Home Chat. It is a habit which will grow upon her and which will only become the more deeply fixed if referred to in any way. Some day her chances of a happy and useful life may be ruined by it.

Hydrogen Peroxide.

Hydrogen peroxide is usually associated with golden hair of a suspicious hue, but it really is a most useful household drug. As it is best known, it is an excellent and harmless bleach, but besides this it is an excellent disinfectant. One would hardly look for it in a mouth wash, but it is even so. A solution of one-fourth or one-fifth hydrogen peroxide makes an effective antiseptic. It is often used undiluted in open fresh wounds and, used with a styptic to stop the flow of blood, has proved very healing.

To Clean Glass.

Place pulverized pumice stone between the layers of a folded piece of soft muslin and stitch around the edge to prevent the powder from spilling. Wipe lamp globes or window panes with this dry cloth, and they will be clean and sparkle almost instantly. Enough powder will remain on the cloth to be used many times.

In the Bondage of Meadville.

By RITA KELLEY.

Copyright, 1906, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

"It's no use talking to me," Ellen exclaimed. "My mind is fully made up."

The man rose and, walking over to where the girl sat, stood looking down at her intently. She shifted uncomfortably under his gaze and finally slipped from her chair and fled ignominiously to the window, where, she felt sure, he was too proud to follow her.

"Oh, I know you are shocked!" she cried. "It's plainly a girl's mission in life to marry the first man who thinks he wants her and settle down to dishwashing and wiping the children's noses." She shivered in disgust, ignoring the look of pain that crossed his face. "That is what all the girls in town have done," she continued. "And because I am pailed by the very wholesale monotony of it you think me an anomaly, an unwomanly girl, a reprobate. Bah!"

The defiant little rebel against the conventions of Meadville struck terror to the heart of Elton Maxwell, lately chosen president of the Meadville Savings bank and owner of the fastest trotter on the Meadville county fair race track. He looked at her helplessly and cleared his throat.

SHE TOLD HIM THE WHOLE MISERABLE STORY.

"But we could keep a hired girl, Ellen," he said, and, brightening, "you could drive Fanny G. wherever you liked. You wouldn't be tied down. We'd run up to Chicago often to the theater. You would have a much easier time than any of the girls," he finished proudly.

Ellen looked at him a moment pityingly. How apparent were the limitations of his mind! Then she fired a death dealing bomb into the enemy's camp.

"I'm going to study art!" she said triumphantly.

"Ellen, no!" The horror in his voice was genuine.

Years ago another rebellious maiden of Meadville had expressed the same resolve, and it was like "Jane, Jane, she never was the same." There were dark hints of unseemly behavior, and the girl never became an artist and never returned home. To young Maxwell's mind his sweetheart was as good as lost already, though he broached the possibility of marrying him and then seeking the higher plane which the dullness of Meadville seemed to render imperative, but she quickly snatched the heart out of him.

"No," she said; "I shall be wedded to my art instead. It isn't that I want to do it exactly," she added, in a quick pity. "Maybe some time I'll find that you are the best, Elton, but not now. I must try. I'm so deathly sick of matrimony by the job lot!"

The amateurish daubs on the four sides of the little parlor appeared frightfully flat and unpromising as she turned from watching Elton walk down the street, the spring gone from his step, his face paler than she had ever seen it. But she must try! A year ago she would have given her two eyes for the love she had so lightly refused today, but that was before she had climbed the hill of knowledge and realized that her only habitation thenceforth must be in the realm of art, not stale old Meadville. She was packed, ready to go the moment the director of the big art school should say the word.

Her father stepped gingerly into the best room.

"A letter, Ellen. Must be from that art school. Have you got your things all packed ready to go? I reckon you'll come back 'bout the biggest picter painter in the country. Won't scarcely know us then, will you?"

The unwonted tenderness in her father's voice and the real misgiving in the last sentence, ill disguised by the short laugh, made her heart suddenly contract. How good every one was to her! Even her father and mother were ready to sacrific painfully, even to the point of placing her on a plane where she would be ashamed to recognize them as her humble Meadville parents if thereby she would be rendered happy.

She clung to her father in an unaccustomed, wholly demonstrative fashion that embarrassed him.

"There, there!" he said, patting her hair awkwardly. "Read your letter. Mebbe they don't want you to come so soon. I must go wash for supper."

It was true—they didn't want her to come so soon. In fact, they didn't want her to come at all. The director unkindly said satirical things about her cows—a study from nature—and suggested housework as a surer means of gaining renown.

It was a horrible shock. She did not cry; she was too stunned and humiliated for that; she had only enough reason left to wonder doubly how she could tell her parents that their puppet confidence had been misplaced—that their child always was and always would be a nobody.

The stuffy little parlor, the hateful daubs, had grown intolerable. Pulling a shawl from its hook in the narrow hall, she fled from the house and up the narrow street redolent of beefsteak, coffee and hot cakes—Meadville's favorite supper. Every one left the blinds up in Meadville, and there was a panorama of warm interiors, romping children, contented husbands and active, happy wives. Ellen, hurrying along in the chill gloom, felt like a pariah and passed quickly out of the din of dishwashing on to the country road.

She was brought at last to a realization of her whereabouts by a startled cry and jumped back barely in time to escape a horse's hoofs that just grazed her sleeve as the horse was pulled back on its haunches. The starlight was sufficient to indicate her close call. She uttered a belated but frightened shriek.

"By George!" exclaimed the man somewhere back of the horse. "What are you doing out here? Are you drunk?

"Say, are you hurt?" he continued in alarm, as there was no reply. He sprang to the ground, groped his way forward and plucked at her sleeve.

"Ellen!"

She began to sob. She couldn't help it. There had been too many shocks in Meadville that day.

It did not take Elton long to get her into the runabout and start up the erstwhile spurned Fanny G. Ellen continued to be so distressed that Elton, ignoring the fact that she had just refused him, slipped his arm around her and was not repulsed. Unfortunately, so it seemed, his extreme kindness and lack of curiosity about her plight served only to increase her discomfiture until, as he helped her to alight from the vehicle at her gate, she caught him close about the neck and told him the whole miserable story.

"How can I tell father and mother?" she cried.

"Leave that to me," he whispered jubilantly, "and cheer up."

The old people jumped to their feet as the door flew open, and a look of intense relief crossed their faces at the sight of Ellen and Elton.

"Oh, we didn't know what had become of you the last night you were here," said her mother a little reproachfully, but she smiled indulgently at Elton, and he smiled back.

"And whom should she be with?" he cried. "But I have good news for you. She isn't going away. She's promised to become a Meadville matron."

If Ellen had had fears, they were immediately dissipated by the warmth of her mother's embrace and the happy ejaculation of her father as he grasped Elton's hand. It dawned upon her at the instant that they were happier to know she was to marry the most promising young man in Meadville than they would be if she could surpass all the artists in history, and suddenly it appeared to her that she was the happiest of all and that Meadville—poor, cramped, despised Meadville—was a garden of Eden.

A Financial Genius.

"Sonny," said a company promoter to his youngest son the other day, "I'll give you 5 shillings if you dig that patch of ground all ready for your sister to start her flower garden."

"Right you are, guv'nor," said young hopeful thoughtfully, "but I shall have to ask you for 25 per cent of the contract price in advance, not as an evidence of good faith, but simply as working capital."

"Working capital? What do you mean?" said the father.

"Well, you see, I'll bury a sixpence somewhere and tell all the boys in the neighborhood that I have found out that an old miser buried his treasure in our field. When they strike that tanner they'll go on digging like Trojans, I can tell you. In that way I reckon I can clear about 90 per cent. in fact, I"—

"Well, what?" inquired the proud parent.

"In fact, I don't so much know but what I can also arrange to find that sixpence myself."

And father wept tears of joy as he thought of what a rough time financiers would have when his boy grew up.—Pearson's.

The Hearts of Birds.

Most people will be surprised to learn that the hearts of birds are far heavier proportionately than the hearts of animals, including man, but a little explanation will show that this is quite natural. The more the body works the greater the demand upon the heart, upon which falls the duty of driving the blood through the body; hence the heart develops and becomes heavier. Everybody knows that birds are among the most active and hard working of living creatures. The swallow can overtake an express train. The falcon will carry a load weighing three pounds in the air without hindrance to its power of flight or its speed. In short, they have a tremendous capacity for work, and their hearts are correspondingly developed.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east, on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

Cobalt is the camp without a failure because Cobalt does its mining with its hands, not with its voice. Cobalt gets its wealth out of the ground, not from its stock-holders' pockets. Cobalt will produce Fifty Million Dollars' worth of ore this year, and yet the development is no more than merely begun. Cobalt is a producing camp, not a prospect; and one of Cobalt's most solid and certain propositions is that made now by

"COBALT-AMERICAN"

Authorized Capital	$600,000
Subscribed Capital	350,000
Treasury Reserve	250,000

Par value of shares $1.00. Selling price 80 Cents a share, fully paid and non-assessable with no personal liability.

This is the Proposition - - in plain English

We have for sale a few shares—and we mean a FEW shares—of Stock of the Cobalt-American Development Company. The par value is One Dollar a Share. The Company's entire capital stock is only $600,000, of which $250,000 is in the Treasury, which is distinctly a novelty in these days of huge and inflated capitalizations. "Cobalt-American" deliberately kept its stock issue down to a low figure, because its management believes in paying large dividends on a small capital stock issue rather than in small dividends on a big one.

Eighty Cents a Share Now

We offer this small block of "Cobalt-American" at the cut-rate price of 80 cents a share, fully paid and non-assessable. As this allotment will undoubtedly be taken up very QUICKLY those who desire to secure an exceptional opportunity for profit-making will require to act QUICKLY.

The man who will read this plain tale of facts and then telegraph his order (at our expense) can buy "Cobalt-American" cheaper today than he will ever get it again. We predict $2 per share for this stock before first of May.

Payment may be made in instalments of 20 per cent. on subscription and 20 per cent. for four consecutive months. A discount of 5 per cent. will be allowed when stock is paid for in full. Orders for less than 100 shares not accepted.

As it is more than probable that the demand for this stock will exceed the supply, all orders by mail must be accompanied by remittance in full for the number of shares desired. When orders are sent by wire remittance should follow without delay. We will honor all orders received on terms herein stated until the stock is exhausted, but reserve the right to refuse any and all orders at any time.

We have repeatedly received selling orders for other stocks, with instructions to invest the proceeds in "Cobalt-American," and also orders for "Cobalt-American," contingent on the sale of other stocks. We regret that we cannot accept orders given under these conditions. All orders for "Cobalt-American" must be given independent of and without reference to any other transaction. We positively cannot reserve "Cobalt-American" contingent on the sale of any other stock.

We desire to make the terms of subscription absolutely clear, as we are confident that the block of stock which we are now offering at 80 cents will not be sufficient to supply the demand. Orders should be sent in promptly in order to make sure of allotment. In case of over-subscription, which is almost certain, money will be refunded in full. ACT TODAY. TO-MORROR MAY BE TOO LATE.

Speculators Are Not Wanted

We don't want to interest the purely speculative element in "Cobalt-American."

We are not figuring on stock market manipulation to make profits for our stockholders. We have got a working, producing mining proposition in "Cobalt-American," and we are going to get our dividends out of the ground, not out of gambling.

"Cobalt-American" is a proposition for the investor who can't afford to take long chances nor wait indefinitely for returns. "Cobalt-American" is the investment for people who want to share in a working mining concern's profits, and who want just as much certainty as an honest, square-deal, common sense mining enterprise can give them.

That is the "Cobalt-American" proposition.

That is why the "Cobalt-American" appeals so sensibly to the investor. He can know for sure that his money is in properties which will never be worth any less than they are today, and on which every effort is being used to make them very much more valuable—properties which are worth more today than they were yesterday, and which will be worth more tomorrow than they are today.

What "Cobalt-American" Actually Is

The Cobalt-American Development Company is incorporated under the laws of Ontario, Canada, with an authorized capital of Six Hundred Thousand Dollars, divided into shares of One Dollar par value each.

These shares are fully paid, are not subject to any assessment whatever, and the holder of them incurs absolutely no personal liability.

The "Cobalt-American" Company was organized by a number of Canadian business and professional men, with the purpose of acquiring mining properties of substantial value, and to engage in the safest and best paying branches of the mining business. The Company also promotes subsidiary mining companies and procures capital for them.

"Cobalt-American" is officered and directed by men who really do direct. Their own money is in this enterprise; and to make profits and earn dividends for themselves they must make money for the stockholders.

The Company's head offices are in the Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Canada.

What "Cobalt-American" Actually Has Done

The "Cobalt-American" Engineers were among the first comers in Cobalt, when the ten-million dollar La Rose Mine was thoroughly tested—and proved by the experts of the Ontario Government. "Cobalt-American," upon the strength of their reports and the well-known, proved facts as certified by Government experts, was organized upon the same plans followed by the development companies which have made such great successes in several mining regions of the United States.

"Cobalt-American" is the only company in the Cobalt District operating on this unique and successful plan. It is the first Company of its kind in the Cobalt field, with all the great advantages of a pioneer company backed up by intimate, actual, first-hand knowledge of Cobalt conditions.

"Cobalt-American" has a management which realizes fully how much depends upon the calibre of a mining company's engineering staff. Its directors, therefore, have been exceedingly careful to appoint no one to that staff but Engineers whose records are conspicuous for success and whose character and standing are unquestionable. The Chief Consulting Engineer is Mr. D. G. Kerr, for seven years Manager and Engineer of the richest silver mines in Spain.

"Cobalt-American" owns in fee simple the valuable ENRIGHT MINE, comprising forty acres in the Cobalt District of Nipissing. This ground was passed by the Mining Inspectors of the Canadian Government as a valuable mineral discovery. A Crown Patent having been issued for it, the Company holds a certificate of absolute ownership under the Land Titles Act. The Title to Enright is absolutely unassailable.

This Enright property is within four hundred rods of the famous La Rose Mine and of the great Trethewey Mine, a part interest in which sold the other day for $1,250,000, to a United States syndicate. The main lodes opened up in the Cobalt fields run northeast and southwest, and as the Trethewey mine is to the southwest of the Enright property, and heavy values in native silver and rich smaltite ore have been struck in adjacent holdings northeast of this there is every reason to believe that Enright is on the same lode with the Trethewey, less than 400 rods away.

The geological conditions of the Enright are ideal, the rock being composed of Conglomerate and Diabase, the contact being on the property, which consists of about thirty-five acres of Lower Huronian Conglomerate and five acres of Diabase. The contact is well defined and traverses the property throughout. It has been demonstrated beyond question that some of the richest ores of the Cobalt District have been found in contact veins, so that this feature of the Company's property is one that should not be underestimated. It is in itself of high intrinsic value. Contact veins were the means of making prominent such properties as the Timmins (La Rose), Trethewey, Foster, Jacobs, Lawson, Earl, Knight, Silver Leaf, Drummond, Hargraves, Glendinning, etc., and all the conditions prevailing on these mines exist most prominently on this property.

In addition to the contact mentioned, five well-defined calcite veins with numerous stringers heavily shot with silver, have been stripped to a considerable length, and test shafts have been sunk on two of these veins, from which specimens have been taken, and which assay from $7.61 to $1061.99 of silver to the ton. Mining Engineers and experts who have seen and examined this property unreservedly state that in their opinion the finding of abundance of rich ore is unquestionably assured.

The Enright property is well located for shipping purposes, being within a short distance from Cobalt Station to the south and Fernholm Siding to the east, at which later point all the great shipping mines of this district ship their ore.

The Enright property being well supplied with good pine, spruce and cedar for all purposes, conditions are most favorable for economical mining. A first-class modern power plant is being constructed, all necessary tools, supplies, etc., are on the ground, and development work is being vigorously pushed forward.

The Enright property is paid for in full, and the company is free from all encumbrances.

Besides this forty-acre Enright property, right in the centre of the great original silver bearing zone of Cobalt, barely one and a-half miles from the town itself—remember—"Cobalt-American" controls over 1000 acres more of valuable mineral lands which it proposes to develop and exploit by means of subsidiary companies, with perfect safety and secured profits to the holders of the parent company's stock.

"Cobalt-American" stockholders are also promoters—and get promoter's profits. Every shareholder in "Cobalt-American" participates in the profits of the company's promotions. Every shareholder is a promoter as well as an investor, with all that this means in profits without risk.

An Actual Shipper

On one of the properties recently acquired (400 acres) by the "Cobalt-American" there is located a large silver-lead and gold deposit of extraordinary richness. The vein averages 10 feet wide, and has been traced by test pits for over half a mile. A shaft has been sunk and the vein proven to a depth of 200 feet. Shipments were made from this mine some time ago, but operations were suspended owing to the plant having been burned down and the consequent financial difficulties of the then owners.

As soon as weather conditions permit a new modern plant will be installed and shipments resumed, in fact, there is a large amount of ore now on the dump, so that shipments can be made without delay, which means large and immediate dividends to the shareholders of "Cobalt-American."

In asking you, therefore, to invest your money in "Cobalt-American," we are not inviting you to purchase stock in a mere prospect, but in a real mine, which has been thoroughly tested and proved beyond doubt as to its intrinsic value.

This property has for a neighbor a mine from which several million dollars' worth of silver has been extracted, and another of its neighbors shipped a carload of silver ore a few days ago valued at $15,000.

The location of the property is all that could be desired, the shaft being within half a mile from the railway, to which a siding will be built, and within three miles there is a waterfall of about 90 feet, which can be easily and cheaply developed to provide ample power for working the mine.

One of the most eminent of Canadian Mining Engineers, in concluding his report on this property, states: "In conclusion it may be observed that, apart from the presence of gold, a better or richer show of ore has not been found within the province. The vein is also very favorably situated as regards drainage and working conditions. There is abundant water-power for treating the ore, in its immediate vicinity; and the location contains a large amount of good timber, suitable for mining purposes. The property may thus be confidently recommended to the notice of capitalists as a mineral location of more than ordinary promise."

Heaviness, Lassitude, Drowsy and Dull

Do You Feel That Way?

How provoking these symptoms are! You sleep well, but when you awaken there is none of the exhilaration that sleep and rest should confer.

Instead of being alert, having quickness of apprehension, there is languor, dullness, a disinclination to do things.

Three causes for this feeling.

Lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a mighty lazy stomach which does its work very poorly and compels the other organs to do things they are unequal to for any length of time.

Note the consequences—blood is filled with wastes—poisons weigh down the nervous system—rebuilding processes are absolutely stopped.

You'll note an instant change when you take Ferrozone.

Appetite improves, digestion becomes good as ever—skin grows ruddy and clear, all sense of langour, unsteadiness and depression fades away and finally disappears.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, supplies tone and vigor, imparts clearness and strength. You feel like a new person, full of life, full of ambition, ready to do things—and able to do them also.

Think it over. Ferrozone is a tonic that uplifts, upbuilds, that nourishes and restores the sick by supplying the elements their weakened system need.

It can't help but do you good. For men, women and children, in fact anyone seeking strength and health, Ferrozone is invaluable; try it, sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—For bargains in fancy china see south window of Times Bookstore.

—Quite a number of men from Jerry Ford's lumber camp, celebrated their return to city life yesterday.

—Yesterday there was nothing doing in the police court. It is rumored that each cop on the force is trying on weight.

—The German Conversation Class will meet at the residence of Miss Marion Rush, Brock street, on Saturday evening.

—Big sale of novels this week at Times Bookstore. See our line at 10 cents each and cloth bound at 15 cents each. Times Bookstore.

—At the Lenten service last night in St. Luke's church, Rev. W. J. Oreighton, M.A., of Lakefield, was the special preacher.

—The annual congregational tea and business meeting of Charlotte street Methodist church was held yesterday evening.

—Master Leo Oreedon, pupil of St. Peter's school, who slipped a few days ago broke his right arm is progressing favorably.

—The congregation of Knox church will hold a meeting on Wednesday night next to consider the call to a regular pastor.

—The annual banquet of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's church will be held on Tuesday evening of next week.

—The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A.S., was held yesterday evening, when Miss Tangney read a paper on "Famous English Poets."

—The George street Methodist church choir of thirty-five voices will give a concert in the Methodist church, Millbrook, next Tuesday evening, March 5th.

A Toronto Lady Visiting Here

The Port Hope Times of this week says: Miss Sadie Pethick, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. N. Pethick, Smith street. Miss Pethick will visit friends in Peterborough on Saturday and on returning to Port Hope will leave for Toronto on Monday.

Mrs. Robt. Graham's Children

Mrs. Robert Graham, 213 Dublin street, wishes it understood that it was not her children who were taken charge of by the Children's Aid, as noted in an evening contemporary, this paper not making it clear which family was meant, hence the explanation. The Society never had any occasion to look after any of Mrs. Robt. Graham's family.

Were Westwood Races Good?

Judging by the generous space given by the Hastings Star to the Westwood races, this event must have been of great importance. This bright little sheets says in part, referring to the races that they were not greeted with the most desirable weather.

On this occasion sharp northern gales and general blusteriness prevailed; however, so great was the crowd of spectators that it was only at the expense of considerable hustling, entailing much personal inconvenience that anybody could get within sighting distance of the competitors. Competitors together with other men versed in horse lore shoulder and elbow one another in the endeavor to obtain a glimpse of the cup candidates.

Unfortunately the Star forgot to note which horses won out, so we are here at a barrier not to be surmounted. We believe, however, that the races were good, that the judges were good, and that the time made was good.

If You Read This

It will be to learn that the leading medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice recommend, in the strongest terms possible, each and every ingredient entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of weak stomach, dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, "liver complaint," torpid liver, or biliousness, chronic bowel affections, and all catarrhal diseases of whatever region, name or nature. It is also a specific remedy for all such chronic or long standing cases of catarrhal affections and their resultants, as bronchial, throat and lung disease (except consumption) accompanied with severe coughs. It is not so good for acute colds and coughs, but for lingering, or chronic cases it is especially efficacious in producing perfect cures. It contains Black Cherry bark, Golden Seal root, Bloodroot, Stone root, Mandrake root and Queen's root—all of which are highly praised as remedies for all the above mentioned affections by such eminent medical writers and teachers as Prof. Bartholow, of Jefferson Med. College; Prof. Hare, of the Univ. of Pa.; Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., of Cincinnati; Prof. Edwin M. Hale, M. D., of Hahnemann Med. College, Chicago, and scores of others equally eminent in their several schools of practice.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for like purposes that has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. Open publicity of its formula is the best possible guaranty of its merits. A glance at this published formula will show that "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no poisonous, harmful or habit-forming drugs and no alcohol—chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Glycerine is entirely unobjectionable and besides is a most useful agent in the cure of all stomach as well as bronchial, throat and lung affections. There is the highest medical authority for its use in all such cases. The "Discovery" is a concentrated glyceric extract of native, medicinal roots and is safe and reliable. A booklet of extracts from eminent, medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Port Hope Brewery Loses Suit

The Osgoode Hall news in the Toronto papers of yesterday said the following decision of local interest:—Hogg vs. Port Hope Brewing & Malting Co.—R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., for plaintiff. D. O'Connell, Peterborough, for defendants. By consent of parties motion for injunction turned into motion for judgment, and judgments for plaintiffs for $4,887.50, and costs, and declaimer that plaintiffs have a lien on the barley and malt mentioned in writ for that amount, appointing George Hogg, of Port Hope receiver to extent of plaintiffs' judgment and to extent of claim of Bank of Montreal, if the bank so desires, without security and without remuneration.

BELL CLAIMS RATE ARE NOT EXCESSIVE

The President Tells Annual Meeting What Telephones Cost Other Cities.

The annual meeting of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada took place at 11 o'clock Thursday, March 1st. Mr. C. F. Sise, President of the Company, acted as chairman.

The President in discussing the investigation of his company in Manitoba and Ottawa, stated that in not one instance had any improper management been proven on the part of the company. In certain places individuals were still amusing themselves at the expense of the Bell Telephone Company, but the company on its side was continuing business. Mr. Sise said that the Railway Commission, under whose jurisdiction they now were, was at present investigating their affairs at headquarters, a lawyer and an accountant being in attendance. They had nothing to fear from them, however, as they courted the fullest investigation of their affairs.

Referring to the strike in Toronto, Mr. Sise stated that this was the first occasion in twenty-seven years, that they had had any trouble with their hands. The operators had struck without any complaint to the company, while operators from every other section of Canada had generously stuck to them, volunteering to take the places of the strikers. The Company had no reason to feel ashamed of the treatment accorded their employes. For seven hours work their operators were paid from twenty to thirty dollars per month. When ill they were taken care of, and were given a month's vacation every year. Their pay continued during any illness and during their vacation. In view of what department stores and other such corporations paid girls, and considering the difference in the hours, they certainly were not badly treated by the Bell Company.

Referring to the municipal ownership campaign, which has been carried on in Manitoba and, the other Western Provinces, Mr. Sise said that the Bell Company proposed continuous work as heretofore. In the old days when the West had a crop failure and the Bell Company was losing money hand over fist the citizens there had begged them not to withdraw from the territory, and they had remained at a large cost to themselves. Now that the settlers were getting prosperous they talked of municipal ownership, forgetting the days when the Bell took care of them. Mr. Sise stated that the Company would proceed, as in the past, building new lines as fast as the country required them.

Referring to the charge made in some quarters that rates were excessive in Canada, he would state that in comparison with a rate of $50 in Montreal, Pittsburg was paying a rate of $125; Cincinnati, $100; Buffalo, $92; Cleveland, $84; St. Louis, $150; Baltimore, $90 and upwards; Milwaukee, $96; Minneapolis, $90; Kansas City, $96, and Indianapolis, $54.

The directors submitted their twenty-seventh annual report as follows: 16,950 subscribers have been added during the year, the total number of sets of instruments now earning rental being 98,147.

The company now owns and operates 571 exchanges and 1,160 agencies.

6,718 miles of wire have been added to the Long Distance System in 1906. The long distance lines now owned and operated by the company comprise 43,400 miles of wire on 9,201 miles of poles. $1,028,000 of 5 per cent. bonds were sold during the year, the net premium on which $51,400 has been carried to the contingent account.

10,000 shares of New Stock were offered to the shareholders at 25 per cent. premium, and are included in this statement, bringing the paid up capital to $9,980,800. The premium on these shares and on the last two instalments of the previous issue, amounting to $344,016.00, has also been carried to the contingent account.

From the balance of revenue account, amounting to $311,496.71 have been carried to insurance reserve account; $7,384.40 to accident reserve account and $200,000 to the contingent account, leaving a balance of revenue account to be carried to 1907 of $61,937.16.

RECEIVER FOR MRS. EDDY ASKED FOR

Bill Filed to Obtain an Accounting of Her Affairs From Leaders of the Christian Science Movement.

Concord, N.H., March 3.—A bill in for a long time has been incompetent to do business or to understand transactions conducted in her name in connection with her property.

The next allegation is that the defendants have possessed themselves of her person and property, and have carried on her business.

It also is alleged that, having done this, and knowing of her infirmity, they have become trustees for her of all property that has come into her possession, and are bound to give account thereof, and of all their transactions in her name.

It is alleged further that there is reason to fear that the defendants wrongfully transferred some of her property to their own use, and that there are particular transactions of which an account should be given.

THEIR FEARS CONFIRMED.

He and his daughter, however, on the second of January, were permitted to see Mrs. Eddy for three-quarters of an hour, and the result of that interview was to confirm their apprehensions and to convince them that she was not capable of doing any business.

"She was weak bodily, and her mind was beclouded and enfeebled, and possessed by strange and irrational notions. It was clear to them that, if not insane, her mental faculties were so far impaired that she could not attend to financial affairs, nor give an intelligent direction to any business of hers, which might be of any importance.

"Various incidents connected with their stay, and facts which they learned from several sources, tended to strengthen these conclusions as to Mrs. Eddy's incapacity for business.

"Mr. Glover and his daughter further learned that Mrs. Eddy's secular business, instead of decreasing with old age, seemed to be larger than ever. She is still president of the Metaphysical College of Healing, and stays at the head of the body of 8400 practicing healers, although she does not give treatment personally.

"Mr. Glover's suit in equity is not conceived in any spirit of disrespect or unkindness to his mother, Mrs. Eddy; nor is it directed against the religion of Christian Science. It merely means only what it professes to mean."

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

At Saturday's session of the police court the Foes of Toil League, was well represented. An old man, with an alcoholic accent, and an enlarged jag, was charged with refusing to pay $1, his legal cab fare, to a local hackman. To the magistrate's question, "Are you prepared to settle with this driver," replied, "Yes, sir, I'll pay everything by the help of God!" Then his worship, after the prisoner had given the hackman the dollar, he was somewhat startled to learn that he had a $2 fine with $3.75 costs before he could get out, for additional dregs of booze. He dug down to his pocket and fished up $3.75, but the chief declined to take fines on the instalment plan. Subsequently a friend sent the required $2 extra, and the old gentleman departed.

A young man through Mr. McWilliams pleaded guilty to having been drunk and disorderly. Mr. Kelly, proprietor of the Royal Hotel, testified to the prisoner having raised trouble, when drunk at his place of business, when along with Shannon. The magistrate said, "If this young man is determined to get drunk and make himself a nuisance, as he is, it is just a matter of time, whether he or the city can stand it the longest." It cost him $5.75 for his little indescretion.

That Port Hope Brewery Case Recalled

In our issue of Saturday appeared an article respecting the Port Hope Brewery, that might be mis-interpreted.

It seems as though Messrs. Hogg and Lytle brought an action to determine the payment for certain malt and barley in the brewery. Messrs. O'Connor & Gordon of this city acted for the brewery and the financial aspect of the matter was arranged by mutual consent. It is only fair to add that the arrangement in question did not include any such matter as a receiver being appointed or cast any reflection on the credit of this brewery.

French-Canadians Good to Irish Politicians

So Good, in Fact, That La Press Says They Should Resign Claim to Senate Vacancy.

Montreal, March 2.—La Presse says:

"The different Irish societies declared on Tuesday that they were entitled to the succession of Sir William Hingston in the senate. We live in such a mixed population that we must never deny the policy of legal concessions. We ask, however, our fellow citizens of the other race if they have troubled the right chord in calling the vacant seat in the senate for Rougemont a just claim. They even neglected to give a single reason for the claim. Never, in fact, had the Irish child the least pretension to this division before Sir William Hingston was made the offer by a simple good-hearted impulsion, Hon. Mr. Charbers was an English-Canadian, though his mother was Catherine H. Blanchette.

"Then, again, he was elected as a French-Canadian since 1856 to the legislative assembly by our fellow-countrymen, with whom he was completely identified, and later on the legislative council up to 1907. The French-Canadian electors have always treated the Irish with generosity, as they have just elected Mr. Devlin in Nicolet, as they had formerly elected Messrs. O'Farrell in Lobinière, Drummond in Port Neuf and Rouville, McCarthy in Richelieu, Caley in Beauharnois and Fitzpatrick in the County of Quebec.

"We have yet to learn, in fact, that an Irish division was ever offered in a French-Canadian within the limits of the Dominion. We, therefore, owe nothing in politeness to our fellow-countrymen of the Green Island, and, really, if they want new concessions, they could at least ask us as such things are done amongst friends, instead of exacting it in the name of a minority of 5192 against a majority of 43,500.

Thrilling Work In Saving Lives

Boat Wrecked on the Pacific Coast and One Sailor Drowned.

Eureka, Cal., March 3.—The steamer Corona (Captain Boyd), the best boat in the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's service between Eureka and San Francisco, lies shrouding the north jetty on Humboldt Bay, a hopeless wreck.

With nearly 100 passengers aboard, the vessel struck yesterday as Captain Boyd was attempting, in the teeth of a stinging wind and terrific bar swind, to drive her into port.

Women were hysterical and men were in panic, but reassuring words from the crew finally brought calm.

Then the passengers assembled on the harrowing deck, where they remained until the rescue work was undertaken a few hours later.

Soon after the ship struck a boat in charge of Quartermaster Gunn was lowered to contained three of the crew and three steerage passengers. This boat capsized at once in the roaring surf, and Sailor Herbekste was drowned. Gunn and the others reached shore.

A second boat, in charge of Second Officer N. V. Johnson, was put out. Being battered and leaking this boat reached shore.

Then T. E. Colbern, night saloon watchman, formerly a marine in the United States navy, stripped to the waist and attempted to carry a line ashore. The line parted before he had gone far, both men was picked up by the lifesavers.

Several attempts were made to shoot a line aboard, but each time the line fell short.

Finally Capt. Hennif of the lifesavers, reached the side of the Corona and picked up the line. Several unsuccessful attempts were made to work the life buoy, but it was not until near dark that Capt. Hennig and his men worked effectively. At that time the ship's boats had been working, and at dusk Capt. Body, the last to leave the ship, stepped ashore.

The passengers were brought to Eureka. Nearly all had been drenched, and some were suffering greatly from the cold, exposure and nervous shock, but all will recover.

FIVE TRAIN MEN ARE DEAD IN TWO WRECKS

Collision in Connecticut and Run Off in Ohio.

BLAMED ON CREWS

Coroner Has Ordered the Arrest of Conductor Eaton.

Waterbury, Conn., March 3.—A coroner's enquiry into an early morning collision of two trains on the Naugatuck branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad at Platt's Mills, just below this city, was opened in New Haven yesterday afternoon.

In the wreck three trainmen were killed, the engineer of the special train appears to be missing, and fully thirty other persons were more or less injured. Among the latter was Governor Roslin S. Woodruff, who, during the excitement incident to the collision, did not believe he was hurt, but found later that one arm was badly sprained at the elbow.

Coroner Mix has ordered Conductor George Eaton of the special train placed under arrest pending an investigation.

The special train was taking home Company F, Second Connecticut Infantry, which had been entertained by Company A, of this city.

The former is known as the New Haven Grays, and is one of the representative companies of the state, fully half its number being lawyers, court officials or business men. One of the injured Fred C. Russell, of New Haven, a lawyer, is in a critical state from a fractured skull.

An official statement issued from the office of the railway company at New Haven at noon places the blame on Conductor Eaton and Engineer Fisher of the extra train.

The impact of the trains was of sufficient force to crush the ponderous locomotives together like paper, twist and bend them, and topple them from the track down an embankment and into a ditch beside the track.

It was at first supposed that Engineer Fisher of the special was killed, but no trace of his body has been found, and the belief is growing that he has fled.

OVER EMBANKMENT.

Coshocton, O., March 3.—A freight train on the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus Railroad ran past the block at Warsaw Junction yesterday, and went down a 30-foot embankment.

A. C. Hutton, foreman, of Delaware, Ohio, was buried under the wreckage and is dead. C. T. Morman, conductor, was fatally hurt.

SCORES LEOPOLD FOR CRUELTY

Senator Charges That Concessionaires Are Empowered to Subdue Natives.

Washington, March 2.—Senator Morgan reported favorably from the committee on foreign affairs today his resolution calling on the president for information as to any concessions Americans may have received from King Leopold for the gathering of India rubber in the Congo Free State.

Senator Morgan recites how capitalists of the civilized nations were pushing into the rubber forests "with all manner of monopolistic arrangements for subjecting this great product—the gift of nature—to their craving for wealth."

He arraigned scathingly Leopold, King of the Belgians, for the manner in which he has exploited the Congo lands by imposing tasks of personal labor to the extreme of cruelty upon the native population.

Mr. Morgan charges that concession accounts have been empowered by King Leopold to "exercise the same distressing authority over the people, which they have proceeded to enforce without restraint and without the responsibilities to public opinion which should check their avarice and greed in dealing with an ignorant and subjugated people."

Mr. Morgan takes the position that the United States, by reason of its negro population descendant from Congo parentage, is especially obligated to support the movement to reserve to the native population the wealth of Congo products. He says any concession granted by King Leopold to wealthy citizens of the United States is not valid, unless confirmed by the signatory powers to the Brussels Act, signed in 1890.

The senator declares that if the American company has not communicated its transaction to the government of the United States, it is the plain duty of the United States Government to enquire into all the terms and conditions of the grant.

Kingston, March 3.—W. Fannon, a vagrant, was found dead in the streets this morning. He was aged 60 years.

Tweedie in Odd Plight

Can't Resign His Premiership Until Lieut.-Governor Sanctions and That's the Place He Wants.

Ottawa, March 3.—The cabinet yesterday afternoon recommended the appointment of Hon. Lemuel J. Tweedie, now premier of New Brunswick, as lieutenant-governor. The commission will be signed by the governor-general at the earliest moment, as the province is suffering great inconvenience by the vacancy in the office. Not even a marriage license can be issued in New Brunswick, except by the governor. His excellency the lieutenant-governor-elect will leave for Fredericton on Monday.

Constitutional lawyers are, however, noticing a fine point that may occasion some trouble. It is said that Mr. Tweedie cannot become lieutenant-governor since he ceases to be premier and he cannot cease to be premier unless and until the lieutenant-governor accepts the resignation.

It is said also that Attorney-General Pugsley will temporarily become premier, but it is an open secret that his ambitions point towards a career in federal politics, and that at the next Dominion general elections he will stand for the City of St. John.

Mr. Tweedie's place as premier will soon be taken by Speaker Robinson or some other lifelong Liberal.

Sick Woman's Suicide

New York, March 4.—Fearful that she might never regain her broken health, Miss Mary Maroney, who came here from Norwich, N.Y., to enter a hospital for treatment, threw herself from a third storey window in her brother's home early yesterday and was instantly killed.

Miss Maroney's condition was such that a watcher sat by her bedside all night, as she tossed restlessly about. Soon after daybreak she became more quiet, however, and sank into what appeared to be a deep sleep.

The tired watcher, believing the patient would sleep for some time, went into an adjoining room to rest. An instant later Miss Maroney crept from her bed and jumped from the window.

Her life was crushed out when her body struck the sidewalk. She was 25 years old.

Great Battle

Washington, March 3.—News of an important engagement between the forces of Nicaragua and Honduras was received at the state department today in this cable message from U.S. Consul at Managua, Nicaragua: "El Corpus, key of position at Tegucigalpa, was taken by Nicaragua today. Four battalions of Nicaraguans and a strong force of Hondurans were engaged. Action brilliant."

New Orleans, March 3.—Nicaragua and Honduras may now ship fire arms from the United States without fear of detention, according to a ruling by Attorney-General Bonaparte, made public here today.

Shipments of fire arms for both governments have been held up here pending instructions from Washington.

COFFEE THRESHED HER

15 Long Years.

It is torment to look upon a tempting dinner and realize that to eat many meals means sickness and suffering.

Let us tell you how you can enjoy eating, so that the heartiest meals will set well and cause no pain, distress or uncomfortable feeling of fullness.

If you cannot eat and enjoy three good, hearty, satisfying meals a day without any feeling of discomfort, your stomach is weak and needs the strength which Mi-o-na stomach tablets will give it. You cannot afford to delay treatment for the longer you allow the digestive organs to be weak, the harder it will be to get help.

The remarkable curative and strengthening power of Mi-o-na is attested by the guarantee, given with every 50 cent box.

If you find that eating well-cooked and properly cha ved food is followed by heaviness and load on the stomach, by heating, by gulping of acids and wind, by distress, nervousness, headache, trouble to sleep, or by any other symptoms of disordered or weak stomach, you should begin the use of Mi-o-na at once.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50c box of Mi-o-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c.

Write today for a free sample package, and also give us your symptoms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give your case his careful and personal attention without charge. Booth's Mi-o-na Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

Marks Bros. End a Successful Week

Messrs. Marks Bros., after crowded house at both Saturday's matinee and evening performances here, completed one of the best attended full week-long stands in Peterborough's theatrical history. This company never played during the whole week to any but crowded houses, several days every seat in the Orchestra chairs, parquet and dress circles being sold by five p.m. Their company is exceptionally strong and the specialities of a high class. Messrs. Turner & Sons, the new opera house proprietors seem to have jumped quickly and firmly into the theater-going public's confidence.

The closing feature of the evening was the presenting of a five-dollar gold-piece; the lucky gentlemen being Mr. Howard Haup.

Mr. I. Eastwood in Large Land Deal

Mr. Thos Payne of Regina, and Mr. G. Lang, of Montreal, are guests of Mr. Isaac Eastwood. Mr. Payne is vice-president of the Saskatchewan Land Company with headquarters in the Stokes Block. Mr. Eastwood on Saturday, purchased 1000 acres of land near Strasburg, some 25 miles from Regina.

MR. HYMAN TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

Little Truth in the Story of a Coming Cabinet Shuffle at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 2.—There is absolutely no warrant so far as can be ascertained for the Montreal story about a prospective Cabinet shuffle between this and Sir Wilfrid Laurier's departure for England. Indeed, the Prime Minister has far too much else to do to have any time to devote to the consideration of such matters.

Hon. C. S. Hyman is said to be assured of reelection in London, possibly by acclamation, and it is idle at this stage, therefore, to be speculating as to who his successor will be. Mr. Hyman will succeed himself.

There is not much doubt but Sir Ferderick Borden will succeed Lord Strathcona in the Canadian High Commissionership in London, when the latter makes up his mind to withdraw therefrom. When this will be, however, nobody knows just yet.

Sir Wilfrid would, no doubt, be glad to avail himself of the services of Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, as a member of the Dominion Cabinet. Mr. Murray is conceded by all who know him to be one of the strongest men in Canadian public life. The government has a very strong man in Mr A. K. MacLean, M.P., for Lunenburg, if they did not wish to go outside the ranks of their present following in parliament for a successor to Sir Frederick Borden.

DEVLIN A COMER.

There is a very general feeling that the government will avail itself of the services of Mr. C. R. Devlin, as soon as an opportunity offers, but, at the present time, there is no vacancy to which he could be appointed.

Mr. Devlin's name is freely mentioned as successor to Hon. R. W. Scott in the secretaryship of State, but this appointment can hardly be made without some other Cabinet shuffle, as Mr. Devlin is a Quebec man, whilst the State portfolio now belongs to Ontario.

As regards Hon. Mr. Brodeur's future plans, there is no member of the Government who is more thoroughly interested in the work of his department, and who possesses more fully the confidence of his leader and of the Liberal party. There has never been the least authority for newspaper announcements of Mr. Brodeur's desire for appointment to the bench and there is none now.

Rome, March 2.—The Osservatore Romano today published a note from the Vatican which characterizes as misrepresentation the alleged revelations published in Paris in regard to the documents taken from Mgr. Montagnini, secretary of the papal nunciature, who was expelled from France. The note says that the documents which were seized have been used to make false statements, especially against ecclesiastics enjoying the confidence of the holy see.

Live Bat Seen in the City Friday

Last Friday night a gentleman residing on Aberdeen avenue, near the site of the coming Normal school, had a unique experience for March weather. His little boy seven years old, went down to the cellar to shake the furnace. As soon as the electric light was turned on the little fellow was somewhat frightened at seeing and hearing the flattering of wings. A large bat, that must have been hibernating in the cellar had evidently come to full possession of its faculties and mistook the bright light for spring sunshine. The little fellow pluckily picking up a stick, meeted the bat, an enormous one of its kind, down, and bringing it upstairs put it into a pasteboard box, intending to have it stuffed as a memento. He left the box cover partly off, and after an absence of a few minutes, returned to find the bat had escaped through and escaped by an open door to the cold weather outside.

France to Ignore Pope in Church Law Policy

Government Virtually Decides to Carry Out Policy Without Regard to the Vatican.

Paris, March 2.—The French government virtually has decided to proceed with the program mapped out in regard to the churches, regardless of the wishes of the Vatican. Archbishop Richard having declined to submit a new proposition for the leasing of the churches to the parish priests there seems to be no prospect of a resumption of negotiations.

The policy which was decided upon before the conferences were held between Mgr. Amiette, the coadjutor bishop, and M. De Selves, prefect of the Seine, probably will be adhered to rigidly.

Contracts between mayors of communes and parish priests, where they are legal, will be allowed to stand and elsewhere the government will confine itself to keeping the churches open. The only new step will be the creation of a central fund out of the revenues of the ecclesiastical property for the repair of church buildings where the charge is too heavy for the commune to bear.

ENJOY EATING

Good Digestion Can be Readily Gained With Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets.

For over fifteen years," writes a patient, hopeful little Ills. woman, "while a coffee drinker, I suffered from Spinal Irritation and Nervous trouble. I was treated by good physicians, but did not get much relief.

"I never suspected it might be aggravating my condition. I was downhearted and discouraged, but prayed daily that I might find something to help me.

"Several years ago, while at a friend's house, I drank a cup of Postum and thought I had never tasted anything more delicious.

"From that time on I used Postum instead of Coffee and soon began to improve in health, so that now I can walk half a dozen blocks or more with ease, and do many other things that I never thought I would be able to do again in this world.

"My appetite is good, I sleep well and find life is worth living, indeed. A lady of my acquaintance said she did not like Postum, it was so weak and tasteless.

"I explained to her the difference when it is made right—boiled according to directions. She was glad to know this because coffee did not agree with her. Now her folks say they expect to use Postum the rest of their lives." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

A GREAT COMPANY'S SUCCESS

Mr. C. F. Sise, the capable President of one of Canada's greatest and best managed utilities, the Bell Telephone Company, at the annual meeting of that company held on February 28th, very effectually replied in non-contradictable words to the attacks made by certain Toronto papers on that organization. He intimated very plainly that, whilst the company courted the fullest investigation, they will adhere to the policy hitherto pursued of managing their own business and see that all employees are fairly treated.

Mr. Sise showed beyond peradventure that their girl operators frequently obtained employment at from $30 to $90 a month, after leaving situations in various stores where their wages had been from $3 to $3.50 per week for longer hours.

Referring to the suggested establishment of a Government system in Manitoba, Mr. Sise demonstrated that the Bell Company had increased their lines as rapidly as compatible with existing conditions in that province. Within the past year the company has added 5,580 subscribers and constructed 11,000 miles of ordinary wiring and some 1,000 miles of long distance connections.

As regards prices for telephone connection with central offices in the larger cities, Mr. Sise, by actual comparison with the rates charged in various cities in the United States, showed that Canada gets cheap as well as efficient telephone service.

That the general public in Canada is fully satisfied with the service and management of the Bell Telephone Company is clearly proven by the extraordinary demand for instruments; during the past year 16,960 new subscribers have been added and the company now has 95,145 instruments actually earning revenue. The company now owns and operates 671 exchanges and has 1160 agencies. It will be of interest to note that the company now owns and operates 44,400 miles of long distance lines. As demonstrating the faith placed in the company by Canadian investors, it is interesting to note that last year $1,658,000 of their 6 per cent. bonds were sold at a net profit of some $51,900, which latter was carried to the contingent account. On 10,000 shares of stock sold a premium of $344,015 was made, this also being carried to the contingent account.

Taking the general statements submitted at the annual meeting, the public of Canada are evidently not be be beguiled by carping and irresponsible critics who would find fault in this great Canadian utility, nor made to believe that, as a business proposition, so long as the present conditions exist, the Bell Telephone Company can or will permit the intrusion or adoption of unasked for interference.

Sin Against Health

Why the Usefulness of All Organs is Destroyed by Costiveness.

Most important to health and comfort is the proper action of the bowels.

By nature these organs are intended for the removal of the waste particles of matter which accumulate in the system.

Retain these wastes and you poison the blood, ruin digestion, bring on nervousness and anaemia.

Habitual costiveness is best overcome by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which establish regularity that is exactly consistent with nature.

Not a drastic purgative—not even a pain or sensation of grip, because Dr. Hamilton's Pills are vegetable and free from irritating widely advertised remedies.

In every case Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure and bring sure relief from headache, biliousness and other manifestations of constipation.

Jas. McConnell, of Walkerton, writes; "Since I was comparatively a young man I have not enjoyed real good health.

"My appetite was good and strength kept up, yet I knew something was wrong.

"Frequently I took bilious attacks and violent headaches. My stomach was disordered, skin was murky, under my eyes were heavy dark rings.

"Last winter I read through the Poison's almanac and decided my trouble was constipation. I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and can hardly tell the help they have been. I am now as fresh, strong and well as a boy."

Just try the wonderful magic of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Sold by all dealers. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn. U.S.A.

HARNESSING THE WIND

Sweden has been not inaptly compared to Ontario. There are several features in the make-up of the two countries which are similar. These are, both have little or no coal, they have extensive iron deposits, vast resources in the shape of water powers, and in both agriculture is the principal industry.

The Swedes, impressed with the advantage they have in their water powers, have set to work earnestly in their development. It is estimated that in a short time they will be using one and a half million horse-power in the form of electrical energy, of which nearly one-third will be applied to the operation of railways and one-seventh to iron and steel smelting. A public institution in the south of Sweden has erected a station, provided with windmills, which develop power for plowing, reaping, threshing, and the operation of the dairy. When there is plenty of wind, the power required is developed by means of wind, transformed into electrical energy, and in this way applied to the farm operations named. When the wind is strong, and power is not required, the energy is stored in accumulators; if the wind and storage both fail to supply demands when these arise, the nearest power station deriving its energy from water falls is drawn upon to make up the deficiency. In this way an abundant supply is always available for the purposes required.

In the extent to which it has developed its water service and in the use made of wind as a supplementary form of energy, the Swedes are clearly in advance of the people of this Province.

Joked at Warning, Was Shot Dead Soon

St. Petersburg, March 2.—The following details of the murder Wednesday at Karmoyarsk, Sibera, of General Kosiewsky, the commandant of that town, have been received here:

The general was walking on the street at five o'clock in the afternoon with some friends, and he referred jokingly to a threatening letter that he had received that day, saying he would be killed at five o'clock that afternoon. Drawing his watch from his pocket the General remarked laughingly to his friends; "You see I am still alive."

About six o'clock, when General Kosievsky was returning home alone a man suddenly called upon him to halt, and then fired three revolver shots at him. The general dropped dead.

THREE-FIFTHS MAJORITY

Correspondent Thinks Ontario Premier is Right.

(To the Editor of The Times).

Sir—Will you kindly publish the following from The Mail and Empire: "I was greatly pleased to see Premier Whitney announce some time ago that he would not change the three-fifths vote re local option. As long as he refrains from pandering to any party, be it temperance, liquor, labor, Orange, Roman Catholic, or any particular section of the public, so long will he retain the confidence and esteem of the people. But apropos of the temperance people's demand for a change in the vote on local option, Mr. Whitney would certainly be foolish to listen to them, for every one knows that at least three-fifths of that party are Grits first and temperance people afterwards. If you look around in Toronto, London, etc., and see the leading officers in their associations you will find three-fifths are prominent workers in the Grit party. And what a misnomer "Temperance Union" is to apply to three-fifths of its members. If they called themselves "Prohibitionists" it would be more correct, although I doubt if three-fifths of them could qualify as total abstainers; but to call themselves temperance people is ludricous, as a more intemperate lot of people in language and actions against those who do not agree with them it would be difficult to find! refer to the majority of them, not to all of them, because there are a lot of good Christian people amongst them; but if you read the letters that appear in the public press, written by their chief officers, you cannot but fail to notice the venom, the uncharitableness, and the intemperance of their language, and also the disregard they have for changing and altering statistics to suit their arguments. I have seen letters by the doezn in the local press from the ministers of the churches and from laymen, high up in office in the temperance party, complaining about billiard rooms, cigarette smoking by juveniles, cocaine habit, reduction of licenses, etc., etc., but during the investigation held in Toronto about the London election I did not see a single letter from any of these people making any protest about the young men of this city being corrupted by politicians, or any protest from them about the wholesale perjury, the buying of votes, the stuffing of ballot-boxes that took place here and throughout Ontario, without any protest from the W.C.T.U. It is all right to sell your vote, but it is certain damnation to take a glass of beer or whiskey; it is all right to swear you have a vote when you have not, but it is a mortal sin to smoke a cigarette or play billiards. Such are the views of the majority of the temperance party, a party three-fifths of whom are Grits, and whom Mr. Whitney will do well to avoid as he would the smallpox. Mr. Graham, the Opposition leader, is pandering to them, as did his predecessor, Mr. G. W. Ross. Let him have them; the Conservatives don't want them."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, etc.

READER.

Some Notes on "Origins."

"Humpty Dumpty Sat on a Wall," etc., has come down to us from the days of King John. "The Babes In the Wood" dates from the fifteenth century, being founded upon facts, an old house near Wayland Wood, Norfolk, having the whole story in carvings on a mantelpiece. "Little Jack Horner," "Little Miss Muffett," "Old Mother Hubbard," "Mother Goose" and "Goosey, Goosey Gander," are each traceable to the sixteenth century. "Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat, Where Have You Been?" belongs to the reign of Queen Elizabeth. "Three Blind Mice" first appeared in a music book dated 1609. "A Froggie Would a-Wooing Go" was licensed to be sung as far back as 1650. "Boys and Girls Come Out to Play" and "Lucy Locket Lost Her Pocket" both hail from the period of Charles II. And last of all, "Cinderella," "Jack the Giant Killer," "Bluebeard" and "Tom Thumb" were published by their author, Charles Perrault, in the year 1697.—London Notes and Queries.

Plain Words.

Freeman, the historian, it was said, was apt to grow irritable over matters of intellectual difference. One day he was at the Macmillans' when the conversation turned upon the subject of Ireland. Mr. Macmillan said that, for his part, he was in favor of granting autonomy.

Whereupon Freeman began to growl at the use of a Greek word.

"Why can't you speak English," demanded he, "and say home rule instead of speaking Greek, which you don't know?"

One of the guests flushed with anger and ventured to reprove Freeman, calling his attention to the respect due their host and at the same time paying tribute to Mr. Macmillan's remarkable abilities. But, although Freeman did not apologise in so many words, he smoothed the matter over by a humorous repetition of his criticism. Later some one mentioned gout. "There you go again!" exclaimed Freeman. "Why can't we call it toe woe?"

Lumber King Ill.

Fredericton, N.B., March 2.—Alexander Gibson, the lumber and cotton king of New Brunswick, is seriously ill at his home in Marysville, from an attack of pneumonia. As Mr. Gibson is in his 87th year, it is feared that he will not be able to survive his present illness.

Mr. C. M. Manning, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia branch here, has been transferred to London, Ont. Mr. Benson, son-in-law of Premier Tweedle will succeed Mr. Manning.

Hockey Players Fined

Montreal, March 2.—Charles Spittal, of the Ottawa Hockey team, was fined $20 and costs or two months in jail and bound over in the sum of $200 to keep the peace for one year for assaulting Cecil Blackford during a hockey match on February 12. Alf. Smith, charged with assault on H. Stewart in the same match, was fined $20.

How Birds' Nests Are Made Round.

The little abandoned nest had fallen from the tree. The nature student lifted it from the ground.

"How round it is," he said. "No cup rim could be rounder. Don't you wonder how the bird, with neither rule nor compass, can make her nest so round? Well, she does it easily. She builds the nest about her breast, turning round and round in it, and its circular character comes spontaneously and inevitably. The circle is found everywhere in the buildings of the lower animals. The straight line, on the other hand, they can never achieve."

Vulgar Fractions.

Everything that Bobby learned at school he endeavored to apply in his daily life and walk. When his mother asked him if one of his new friends was an only child Bobby looked wise and triumphant.

"He's got just one sister," said Bobby. "He tried to catch me when he told me he had two half sisters, but I guess I know enough fractions for that!".

The Reason For It.

"No," said the imbittered person, "when I want financial assistance I go to strangers. I do not ask friends or relatives."

"Well," answered the logical man, "maybe that's the best way. Friends and relatives are in a position to keep posted on a man's record."

Man's Love For Woman.

"If a man loves a woman for her looks he will love her for five years. If he loves her mind he will love her for ten years. If he loves her ways he will love her forever." And every woman believes when she marries that her lover loves her ways.

An Impression.

"Did that lawyer get a clear view of the case?" inquired the litigant's friend.

"No. I'm afraid he didn't. I told him that my trouble was about money, and he seemed to be proceeding on the theory that by relieving me of my money he would cause the trouble to disappear."

Russia Is Anxious.

St. Petersburg, March 2.—The fighting between Chinese bandits and Russian troops at a point twenty miles north of Harbin, which resulted in the sending of Russian reinforcements to the scene, has occasioned increasing apprehension here, as the Russian troops in that section have been reduced to numbers of bare necessity, and would not be able to cope with a large outbreak.

The Foreign Office is not willing to give an opinion as to what steps will be necessary until it will be better informed as to the nature of the hostile forces arrayed against the Russians.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds strength-es: it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves — re-establish them as needed, with

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of Two full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide" The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent one one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company, that the company has no debt or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took ten or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"I had rather stay there forever than expose my wife to such devils."

"Aye, devils they are if ever devils walked upon earth. And now we are on the very borders of the clearing, and the blockhouse lies yonder among the clump of maples. You did not come as near to Ste. Marie unchallenged, and yet De Lannes is as old a soldier as De la Noue. We can scarce see now, but yonder, near the river, is where he exercises his men."

"He does so now," said Amos. "I see a dozen of them drawn up in a line at their drill."

"No sentinels, and all the men at drill," cried Du Lhut in contempt. "It is as you say, however, for I can see them myself, with their ranks open and each as stiff and straight as a pine stump. One would think, to see them stand so still, that there was not an Indian nearer than Orange."

Du Lhut advanced from the bushes as he spoke, and the four men crossed the open ground in the direction of the line of men who waited silently for them in the dim twilight. They were within fifty paces, and yet none of them had raised hand or voice to challenge their approach. There was something uncanny in the silence, and a change came over Du Lhut's face as he peered in front of him.

"My God!" he screamed. "Look at the fort!"

They had cleared the clump of trees, and the outline of the blockhouse should have shown up in front of them. There was no sign of it. It was gone.

So unexpected was the blow that even Du Lhut, hardened from his childhood to every shock and danger, stood shaken and dismayed. Then, with an oath, he ran at the top of his speed toward the line of figures.

As they drew nearer they could see through the dusk that it was not indeed a line. A silent and motionless officer stood out some twenty paces in front of his silent and motionless men.

They were lashed to low posts with willow withes, some twenty of them, naked all and twisted and screwed into every strange shape which an agonized body could assume. For a moment the four comrades stared in silent horror at the dreadful group. Then each acted as his nature bade him. De Catinat staggered up against a tree trunk and leaned his head upon his arm, deathly sick; Du Lhut fell down upon his knees and said something to heaven, with his two clinched hands shaking up at the darkening sky; Ephraim Savage examined the priming of his gun, with a tightened lip and a gleaming eye, while Amos Green, without a word, began to cast round in circles in search of a trail.

But Du Lhut was on his feet again in a moment and running up and down like a sleuthhound, noting a hundred things which even Amos would have overlooked. He circled round the bodies again and again; then he ran a little way toward the edge of the woods and then came back to the charred ruins of the blockhouse.

"There is no sign of the women and children," said he. "They are keeping the children to burn at their leisure in their villages. The women they may torture or may adopt, as the humor takes them."

"Ask him, Amos," said the seaman, "why we are yawing and tacking here when we should be cracking on all sail to stand after them."

Du Lhut smiled and shook his head. "Your friend is a brave man," said he, "if he thinks that with four men we can follow a hundred and fifty."

"Tell him, Amos, that the Lord will bear us up," said the other excitedly. "Say that he will be with us against the children of Jeroboam, and we will cut them off utterly."

But Du Lhut waved aside the seaman's suggestions. "We must have a care now," said he, "or we shall lose our own scalps and be the cause of those at Ste. Marie losing theirs as well."

"Ste. Marie!" cried De Catinat. "Is there, then, danger at Ste. Marie?"

"Aye, they are in the wolf's mouth now. This business was done last night. The place was stormed by a war party of a hundred and fifty men. This morning they left and went north upon foot. They have been cached among the woods all day between Poiton and Ste. Marie."

"Then we have come through them?"

"Yes, we have come through them. They would keep their camp today and send out scouts. Brown Moose and his son were among them and struck our trail. Tonight"—

"Tonight they will attack Ste. Marie!"

"It is possible. And yet with so small a party I should scarce have thought that they would have dared. Well, we can but hasten back as quickly as we can and give them warning of what is hanging over them."

And so they turned for their weary backward journey, though their minds were too full to spare a thought upon the leagues which lay behind them or those which were before.

Dark as it was, Du Lhut walked as swiftly as during the sunlight and never hesitated about the track. His comrades could see, however, that he was taking them a different way from that which they had gone in the morning, for twice they caught a sight of the glimmer of the broad river upon their left, while before they had only seen the streams which flowed into it. On the second occasion he pointed to where on the farther side they could see dark shadows.

"Iroquois canoes," he whispered. "There are ten of them, with eight men in each. They are another party."

"How do you know that they are another party?"

"Because we have crossed the trail of the first within the hour."

De Catinat was filled with amazement at this marvelous man who could hear in his sleep and could detect a trail when the very trap trunks were invisible to ordinary eyes. Du Lhut halted a little to watch the canoes and then turned his back to the river and plunged into the woods once more until they came to the edge of a moonlit clearing. Du Lhut was about to skirt this, as he had done others, when suddenly he caught De Catinat by the shoulder and pushed him down behind a clump of sumac, while Amos did the same with Ephraim Savage.

A man was walking down the other side of the open space. He had just emerged and was crossing it diagonally, making in the direction of the river. His body was bent double, but as he came out from the shadow of the trees they could see that he was an Indian brave in full war paint, with leggings, loin cloth and musket. Close at his heels came a second, and then a third and a fourth, on and on, until it seemed as if the wood was full of men and that the line would never come to an end. Last of all came a man in the fringed tunic of a hunter, with a cap and feather upon his head. He passed across like the others, and they vanished into the shadows. It was five minutes before Du Lhut thought it safe to rise from their shelter.

"By Ste. Anne!" he whispered, "Did you count them?"

"Three hundred and ninety-six," said Amos.

"I made it 402."

"And you thought that there were only a hundred and fifty of them!" cried De Catinat.

"Ah, you do not understand. This is a fresh band. The others who took the blockhouse must be over there, for their trail lies between us and the river. In their camp there are now nearly 600 warriors. Unless we warn them at Ste. Marie these devils will lay some trap for them. Their parties are assembling by land and by water, and there may be a thousand before daybreak. We must push on and give our warning."

The Good Little Cent.

A popular clergyman had just closed a successful religious campaign. A great many pennies had been put in the offering, and his attention was called to this. One night he held up a silver dollar and a copper penny and, gave a conversation held by the two coins. "You poor little red cent, you; you don't amount to anything. I'd hate to be you," said the big dollar. "I know I'm not very big," replied the cent, "but the children like me, and I can buy a good many things." "Huh, you can't buy anything at all!" said the dollar. "Just look at me, big and bright and shiny. I can buy a whole lot more than you can." "Maybe so," said the little red cent meekly, "but I go to church a heap oftener than you do anyway."

Calhoun and Randolph.

When John C. Calhoun became vice president of the United States and consequently president of the senate he announced that he had not the authority to call the senators to order for words spoken in debate, as he regarded each senator as an ambassador from a sovereign state. The eccentric John Randolph of Virginia took advantage of Mr. Calhoun's ruling to abuse him personally. One day he began a tirade by saying, "Mr. Speaker—I mean Mr. President of the Senate and Would Be President of the United States, which God in his infinite mercy avert!"

What to Name Your Dog.

There are certain English names for dogs that have meanings that might be given when appropriate. Alan means a hound; Ashur, black; Blanco, white; Crispin, curly; Duncan, brown; Julius, soft haired; Leonard, lionlike; Linus, flaxen haired; Rufus, red; Vivian, lively; Clara, bright; Constance, loyal; Joyce, sportive. Such names as Scud, Rover, Dart and Patter are suggestive in themselves. Two classic names suitable for dogs are Bluon and Lixus.

Reciprocity.

"No," snapped the sharp faced woman at the door. "I ain't got no food fur you, an' I ain't got no old clo'es. Now git!"

"Lady," replied Harvard Hasbeen, "I could enjoy you well. Give me a square meal and I'll give you a few lessons in grammar."

A young lady rushed into a drug store and asked for some floor wax. The clerk told her they had no floor wax, but had some sealing wax. She replied, "We are going to give a dance and want to wax the floor, not the ceiling."

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1281-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

Heaviness, Lassitude, Drowsy and Dull

Do You Feel That Way?

How provoking these symptoms are! You sleep well, but when you awaken there is none of the exhilaration that sleep and rest should confer.

Instead of being alert, having quickness of apprehension, there is languor, dullness, a disinclination to do things.

Three causes for this feeling.

Lazy liver, lazy kidneys, and a mighty lazy stomach which does its work very poorly and compels the other organs to do things they are unequal to for any length of time.

Note the consequences—blood is filled with wastes—poisons weigh down the nervous system—rebuilding processes are absolutely stopped.

You'll note an instant change when you take Ferrozone.

Appetite improves, digestion becomes good as ever—skin grows ruddy and clear, all sense of langour, unsteadiness and depression fades away and finally disappears.

Ferrozone clarifies the brain, supplies tone and vigor, imparts clearness and strength. You feel like a new person, full of life, full of ambition, ready to do things—and able to do them also.

Think it over. Ferrozone is a tonic that uplifts, upbuilds, that nourishes and restores the sick by supplying the elements their weakened system need.

It can't help but do you good. For men, women and children, in fact anyone seeking strength and health, Ferrozone is invaluable; try it, sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes.

Power Purchase Considered Tonight

On Saturday afternoon the city council's power committee, composed of Aldermen Stevenson and Bradburn and Mayor McWilliam, met and considered a letter received from Mr. Robt. Stuart, of Orillia, in reference to the proposed sale of the Peterborough Electric Light plant and gas plant to the city. It will be remembered that Mr. Stuart promised to furnish the sub-committee of the council with details of the business done by the companies and the condition of the plant, etc. They will present a lengthy report to the council tonight, giving account of the progress todate.

Rev. E. A. Pearson for George Street Church

On Saturday a telegram was received here from Rev. E. A. Pearson accepting the invitation to become the pastor of the George street Methodist church, after the meeting of conference next June, when the invitations will be considered by that body, and, if ratification is given he will move to Peterborough in in June.

At the last meeting of the official Board, an unanimous invitation was directed to be sent to Mr. Pearson, the present pastor, concurring. Rev. Mr. Pearson is at present pastor of the Centennial Methodist church, Toronto, a new structure, built three years ago, and the congregation does not want him to leave until the usual four years are up, however Peterborough's call is so urgent Mr. Pearson has accepted, subject the former ratification.

Rev. Mr. Pearson is a son of Rev. M. Pearson a former pastor of the local George street church.

Mr. H. Stock Sells His Business

Mr. Harry W. Stock has sold out his tailoring business at 170 Hunter Hunter street, to Mr. George Evins, who has been the former's assistant cutter. Mr. Evans who is a Peterborough boy, is now in New York, looking up the latest wrinkles, patterns, etc. Mr. Stock will probably leave here shortly and locate in Winnipeg.

Rev. Dr. Crothers for St. Catherines

Rev Dr. Crothers, pastor of George street Methodist church has received a call to St. Paul's Methodist church, St. Catharines. He will probably accepted subject to the approval of the transfer committee of the General Conference, which meets in Toronto shortly, St. Paul's church has a large and influential membership. The transfer will take place in June next.

Question of Nationality Settled

Whilst a conversation took place between a few gentlemen in the Snowden House, the subject of various nationalities came up. One claimed that a child born of English parents, in the United States must be called an American, etc. One gentleman asked, "Well, suppose a Frenchman married an English woman in Belguim, and whilst the parents were crossing the English channel in a balloon, what nationality would the child belong to if born in the balloon?" An Irishman present said, "Well I guess it would be a Skye Terrier."

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in "small of back," gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, ... sour "risings" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more completely than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dom. Bank Tile Floor Finished

Mr. Angelo Maguire, of Buffalo, who is in charge of the gang engaged in putting in the marble flooring in the Royal Bank, on Hunter street is a guest of the Queen's Hotel. In conversation with Mr. Maguire, a Times representative earned that whilst pink, white, black, mottled, blue, grey or any other colored marble may be found in Spain, America, Italy, England or other countries, the only green marble in the world, as so far known, comes from Connemara, Ireland. This is believable in view of Ireland's national flag. Mr. Maguire expects to complete this contract during today.

BELL CLAIMS RATES ARE NOT EXCESSIVE

The President Tells Annual Meeting What Telephones Cost Other Cities.

The annual meeting of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada took place at 11 o'clock, Thursday, February 28th. Mr. C. F. Sise, President of the Company, acted as chairman.

The President in discussing the investigation of his company in Manitoba and Ottawa, stated that in not one instance had any improper management been proven on the part of the company. In certain places individuals were still amusing themselves at the expense of the Bell Telephone Company, but the company on its side was continuing business. Mr. Sise said that the Railway Commission, under whose jurisdiction they now were, was at present investigating their affairs at headquarters, a lawyer and an accountant being in attendance. They had nothing to fear from them, however, as they courted the fullest investigation of their affairs.

Referring to the strike in Toronto, Mr. Sise stated that this was the first occasion in twenty-seven years, that they had had any trouble with their hands. The operators had struck without any complaint to the company, while operators from every other section of Canada had generously stuck to them, volunteering to take the places of the strikers. The Company had no reason to feel ashamed of the treatment accorded their employes. For seven hours work their operators were paid from twenty to thirty dollars per month. When ill they were taken care of, and were given a month's vacation every year. Their pay continued during any illness and during their vacation. In view of what department stores and other such corporations paid girls, and considering the difference in the hours, they certainly were not badly treated by the Bell Company.

Referring to the municipal ownership campaign, which has been carried on in Manitoba and the other Western Provinces, Mr. Sise said that the Bell Company proposed continuous work as heretofore. In the old days when the West had a crop failure and the Bell Company was losing money hand over fist the citizens there had begged them not to withdraw from the territory, and they had remained at a large cost to themselves. Now that the settlers were getting prosperous they talked of municipal ownership, forgetting the days when the Bell took care of them. Mr. Sise stated that the Company would proceed, as in the past, building new lines as fast as the country required them.

Referring to the charge made in some quarters that rates were excessive in Canada, he would state that in comparison with a rate of $50 in Montreal, Pittsburg was paying a rate of $125; Cincinnati, $100; Buffalo, $72; Cleveland, $84; St. Louis, $150; Baltimore, $90 and upwards; Milwaukee, $96; Minneapolis, $90; Kansas City, $96, and Indianapolis, $51.

The directors submitted their twenty-seventh annual report as follows: 16,550 subscribers have been added during the year, the total number of sets of instruments now earning rental being 96,14?.

The company now owns and operates 671 exchanges and 1,160 agencies

8,918 miles of wire have been added to the Long Distance System in 1906. The long distance lines now owned and operated by the company comprise 43,400 miles of wire on 9,991 miles of poles. $1,033,000 of 5 per cent. bonds were sold during the year, the net premium on which $51,500 has been carried to the contingent account.

10,000 shares of New Stock were offered to the shareholders at 25 per cent. premium, and are included in this statement, bringing the paid up capital to $9,980,800. The premium on these shares and on the last two instalments of the previous issue, amounting to $344,015.00, has also been carried to the contingent account.

From the balance of revenue account, amounting to $311,496.71 have been carried to insurance reserve account; $2,804.40 to accident reserve account and $200,000 to the contingent account, leaving a balance of revenue account to be carried to 1907 of $61,037.16.

CARTERS' SHELTER.

Ald. McIntyre submitted the following report;—

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

1. That a bylaw be passed requiring permits to be taken out for the erection or alteration of any building in any part of the city, andrequiring all applicants for permits to file an application with the city clerk specifying the kind, dimensions, value, etc., of the building or alteration, and to receive the permits from the clerk, the permits to be countersigned by the city engineer if the application refers to any part of the fire limits.

2. That the chairman be authorized to rent from the Chamberlain estate for a carters' shelter, part of lot No. 1 south of Charlotte street east Water street, containing sheds at a rental of $60 a year, the owners to give an agreement for one year and to continue until one of the parties gives six months' notice to terminate it, and that the chairman be also authorized to put sheds in proper conditions for the purpose of a shelter at an expense not to exceed $60.

3. That this committee be authorized to sell the market tolls and charges, for the year beginning April 1st next, by auction, and to have the necessary steps taken to complete the sale.

4. That the chairman be authorized to purchase a desk and chair for the city engineer's office.

The report was adopted.

POWER COMMITTEE REPORT.

Ald. Stevenson submitted the following.

Gentlemen,—Your special committee appointed to enquire into the purchase of the business of the Peterborough Power and Light Company, beg leave to report as follows;

Immediately after our appointment we communicated with the company and requested a meeting with Mr. Stuart, which was had on January 22nd. At this meeting much information was given as to the extent of the present business, the revenue, the price asked, and other conditions of the sale, and the company agreed to furnish all the information asked for by your committee in a few days On January 23rd, we wrote the company stating in detail the points in regard to the company upon which we desired full and exact information but no reply was received from the company until February 28th.

The points upon which the committee requested information were the following;—

1. Whether the company would be willing to consider the sale of the gas plant or of the street lighting plant separate from the other parts of the business.

2. A statement of the assets proposed to be sold in detail showing the condition in which they are in, the year constructed and any reconstruction and distinguishing clearly how much of the plant at the power house is included.

3. A statement of the revenue and cost of operation for each month during the years 1905 and 1906 with the service of each kind rendered.

4.—The amount of gas produced and the amount used by consumers for the year 1906 with sufficient of the previous records to show the effect of the recent construction of part of the mains.

5. A statement of the amount of electricity metered on each circuit distinguishing that used for light from that used for power, and showing the maximum loads and also the amount of water-power required for production of the amount so used.

6. The rates at which present contracts are being carried on with the extent to which rates different from the present standard are still in use.

7. The amount of power which the company would be willing to supply to the city for a term of years at $15 per hp. in the event of thecity finding it necessary to secure more power than would be at their disposal on the expiration of the three years mentioned in your offer.

8. The amount asked for the business and the method upon which the amount is calculated.

9. The terms upon which the company have had power from the Peterborough Hydraulic Company.

From the verbal statements of Mr. Stuart and his officers, and their letter dated February 26th, the following points have been made clear;

1. The company are not willing to consider the sale of the gas plant or of the street lighting plant separate from the other parts of the business.

2. The business would be transfered to the new free from all liabilities and would include the entire plant of all of the added companies now on the streets of the city.

3. The company are ready to sell unencumbered the properties of the Peterborough Power and Light Company as on January 1st, 1907, for the sum of $207,500, plus the actual plant expenditures from January 1st, 1907, to date of transfer and the market value of materials and supplies at such time of transfer. This figure is the amount paid by the present owners for the assets and business of the company with interest at six per cent., no dividends having been drawn, together with the amount borrowed by the local company for permanent improvements.

4. The Hydraulic Power Company will give the city a lease of from 800 to 1500 hp., at $15 per h.p., peryear for a period of from five to thirty years with the right to the city of cancelling any portion of this power by giving twelve months notice.

5. The company will also furnish the city with power at $15 per h.p. sufficient to provide for the present business and extension of the lighting system for three years.

Your committee has also been furnished with summarized statements of the receipts and expenditures of the company and other information but in fairness to the company these figures should not be published until the negotiations have reached a more advanced stage.

Your committee have also considered the question of the supply of power necessary for the carrying on of the light and power business if purchased. The committee finds that this power may be obtained in one of three ways.

(a) By the purchase of power from the companies now carrying on business in the city.

(b) By the development of the water works dam.

(c) By the purchase and development of some other water power convenient to the city.

The offer of the Peterborough Hydraulic Company above stated affords one means of supplying most of the power required if it is for other reasons desirable to purchase this power and it is the only power at present available.

Your committee have consulted the Water Commissioners with regard to the power available for the development of their dam and have received the following statement;

The power available at the present water works dam is 400 hp.

The power with a new dam with a ten feet head would be 1250 h.p.

The power available with a new dam with a twelve feet head would be 1500 h.p.

The power that the commissioners would require to reserve for water works purposes would be 800 h.p.

"The commissioners believe that considering the power requirements of the water works they could not do more than offer 700 h.p. after the new dam with twelve feet head was built and with the right after five years to resume the control and use of the whole power on giving one year's notice."

In view of all the above facts your committee would recommend;

1. That the committee be authorized to engage a competent accountant to examine into the details of the business of the Peterborough Power and Light Company for the purpose of obtaining and verifying the information asked for as above and that Mr. Adams, city treasurer, be granted permission to take up this work.

2. That the committee be authorized to engage an expert for the purpose of valuating the plant of the Light and Power Company.

3. That the committee be authorized to enquire into the terms upon which any other water power in the vicinity of the city could be purchased and to consult in regard thereto with the Hydro-Electric Commission and that the incidental expenses connected therewith be paid by the treasurer on the certificate of the chairman.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted as read.

BYLAWS.

A bylaw fixing the rate at 17 1-2 mills on the dollar passed its several readings.

A bylaw to amend the building bylaw as lines already published, was in its second reading referred to the Committee of the Whole, Ald. Bradburn contending that very few of the council understood its provisions.

A bylaw fixing the salary of the city engineer at $1400 a year, passed its several readings.

A bylaw to execute an agreement with the Peterborough Hardware Co. for 5,000 barrels of cement at $1.91, including storage, passed its several readings.

A bylaw to appropriate one-half mill rate for street watering, passed its several readings.

THE KENNEAR SIDING.

No action was taken in the matter of the Kinnear Company's application to construct a siding on George St. into their premises. The council considered that they could and should enter their property with a siding in the rear.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL.

Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by Ald. Stevenson,—That the School Board be asked to confer with the Committee of the Whole Council on the question of enlarging the North Ward schools.—Carried.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.

Ald. Johnston, chairman Fire, Water and Light Committee, submitted an agreement drafted yesterday by this committee and Mr. Webber, sales agent of the Bell Company's fire alarm system, under which this company's electrical alarm system shall be installed in Peterborough, at a cost of $2,694. This system will ring the number of box and ward at the fire hall, in firemen's houses, and in the tower. Should an alarm be sent in by phone it canbe rung from the fire hall as above.

Ald. Duncan moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That the matter be referred back to the Committee of the Whole Council.

Ald. Leary moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson,— That this agreement be signed by the Bell Co., in the event of which a bylaw be prepared and put into force.

The motion carried.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That the following gentlemen be a deputation to go to Toronto re the city's bill for special legislation; The Mayor, Aldermen Morrow, Phelan, Stevenson and Bradburn, the city solicitor. Also that the Mayor be empowered to add to this committee as he thinks advisable.—Carried.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That notice of arbitration to fix the value of property needed for the extension of George street be served on the property owners concerned.—Carried.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan,—That the Board of Works be authorized to advertise for tenders for street watering.—Carried.

SIGN QUESTION AGAIN.

The Mayor drew attention to the fact that a bylaw recently passed prohibits all overhanging signs except illuminated ones paying a license. There are a large number of small cheap business signs, in some cases protruding from the wall but from a few inches to a foot, and the engineer wants to know if they are to be removed or not; the reading of the bylaw provides for their removal.

Ald. McIntyre moved, seconded by Ald. Phelan,—That the city engineer be instructed not to enforce their removal until after next meeting of the council, and that the matter be referred to the Board of Works for consideration.

Ald. Wilson,—"Those signs were put up years ago in defiance of the law, and the bylaw should now be enforced."

The motion was lost, and the sign question must come down.

ICE ON SIDEWALKS.

The mayor drew attention to the fact that the bylaw calling for the removal of ice and snow within the fire limits, is not being enforced. Some people clean in front of their premises, and others do not. This he thought a menace to the general public.

Ald. Tovey moved, seconded by Ald. Leary,—That the matter be left in the hands of the mayor to enforces the bylaw in the business district as soon as practicable.

Ald. Phelan moved in amendment, seconded by Ald. Morrow,—That no action be taken.

The motion carried, and the snow and ice will have to be cleaned off the sidewalks in the business portion of the city, or conviction enforced.

FIRE ESCAPES.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee were authorized to take up the question of fire escapes for large buildings. Ald. Leary raised this question.

COMPLETION OF TRENT CANAL.

The mayor raised the question of co-operating with other municipalities to urge upon the government the urgent need of a big appropriation being included in the supplementary estimates for the early completion of the Trent canal.

Active steps will be taken in this direction.

Council adjourned at one o'clock a.m.

Increase of Discount to Water Consumers

At a meeting of the Water Commissioners held yesterday afternoon, the practicability of increasing the discounts to water consumers from 25 to 33 1-2 per cent. was discussed, and there is every prospect of the measure coming into force.

TURKS ARE TRYING BRITISH TEMPER

British Government Insists on Controlling Tigris River Trade.

OPPOSES BAGDAD RAILWAY

There is Keen Rivalry Between the English and Germans for Valuable Concessions.

Constantinople, March 3.—There is every probability of the British Government soon being at loggerheads with the Turks. The British embassy is keeping the matter quiet at present and not allowing any news to be sent out concerning the affair, but this is the situation: In 1895 Messrs. Lynch Bros. got permission to run two steamers on the Tigris between Bussorah and Bagdad and have continued ever since. At various times the Turks have tried to stop the steamers running and to put the business into the hands of Turks, but the British Government has always upheld their rights. A few years ago what is called the "civil list" got a few steamers and ran them in opposition, but the trade had increased so much that enormous quantities of goods are always awaiting transport. On the strength of this the Messrs. Lynch, two or three years ago tried to obtain permission to run a third steamer. The Turks would not allow it. At first the Turks said that their own steamers would do the work. Now they say that they are getting new steamers and, in fact, have ordered two in Belgium.

BRITISH LOSE PATIENCE.

The British Government has got tired of being always put off and, moreover it now realizes that as long as the river is in British hands it can always hold its own against the Bagdad railway, which the British are now opposing tooth and nail. About a fortnight ago the British embassy sent in a very strong note insisting that the Turks grant permission for the third steamer. The Turks have given no reply, but have appointed a special commission, which is working for all it is worth to arrange for the construction of several more steamers. The embassy has instructions from the Foreign Office to obtain the permission at all costs and the Turks are doing all they can to delay till they can get more of their own steamers on the river and then be able to deny the principal point in the English claim, that there are not enough steamers, by saying they have made good the deficiency. At the same time they are treating with English firms for the supply of the steamers in order that when the facts come out they can pretend that they ordered the steamers in England, so as to please the British Government.

AFRAID OF BAGDAD LINE.

The main reason for England's taking up this line now is the Bagdad railway, which has become a bete noire to English statesmen and the completion of which they will do their utmost to prevent. If the English lore their hold on the river now they will leave the field clear to the Germans, whereas if England remains there the trade, which at present is all English, will remain in her hands and can be increased enormously. Desperate fighting is going on here and in Paris over the Bagdad railway and it will be curious to see how it will end. It will remembered that the Germans got the concession for the railway, to be built in sections of 200 kilometers, with a kilometric guaranty of 15,000 francs per kilometer, but then they came to work they found they could not get the money in Germany. The French government officially opposed the scheme and there seemed no chance of getting the cash required for the first section. Finally the Germans made arrangements with French capitalists, who advanced the money without the consent of the government, and the first section was built. Now the question of the second section has arisen, only this time there is a new difficulty, as there are no Turkish revenues available to supply the kilometric guarantees.

Police too Officious Over Pavements

It was rumored yesterday that the local police were unreasonably officious last Saturday when they notified all the merchants and business men that if they did not remove the ice from their sidewalks at once they would be prosecuted. In this city snow is allowed to stay in the walk when it falls until it is packed down and becomes ice.

To offset this breach of the law and to prevent the walks becoming sloppy, the police order the merchants to remove the ice as soon as the weather turns mild.

Now there is a bylaw forbidding the use of axes or other implements absolutely necessary to remove such frozen snow but the pavements be used. It seems that the unfortunate property holder is here between the devil and the deep sea.

Would it not be better for all concerned, except for those who would spend a few hours' work, to have sand placed by our supposed snow howel operators on our slippery ice-covered pavements to prevent citizens particularly those troubled by age and infirmity, getting their legs, backs, thighs and other portions of their bodies fractured by falling?

G. Walter Green Thanks City Council

He Did Not Know That Gilchrist Street Pond Was the Site for a Manufactory to Turn Out New Moons for the Sky.

The City Council last night received the following sarcastic letter from Mr. G. Walter Green, returning thanks for the consideration extended him concerning his proposal to purchase a portion of Gilchrist street on which to extend his rapidly growing factory;

"I take pleasure in conveying to you my genuine appreciation of the kind and considerate manner in which you entertained my recent request re Gilchrist street.

"Had it not been for the factious opposition of a few otherwise well-meaning citizens, I am satisfied you would have been a unit in granting my request. Other manufacturers have been accorded similar privileges without any one being injured or inconvenienced thereby, and as I have never asked for any favors from the municipality; not even a fixed assessment, I believe, and I think you did too, that this much encouragement to a growing industry of the city might at least have been conceded to me. Of course you could not ignore the objections of the little clique; but I know you will be pleased to learn that the development of my business will not be blocked thereby, not even a little bit. It would have been some advantage to me to have been able to build my new extension so as to connect it with my factory, but when it was found that the Gilchrist street pond was to become the site for an extensive manufactory to turn out New Moons for the sky, why of course I could not conscientiously press my claim and continue to be a good citizen.

"Thanking you again, gentlemen, I remain,

"Yours respectfully,

"G. WALTER GREEN."

Fire Alarm System Considered

Mr. F. G. Webber, sales agent for the Northern Electric Company, of Montreal, was in the city yesterday. This company manufacture an electric telegraph fire alarm system which is handled by the Bell Telephone Company. Negotiations have been under consideration for some time and an effort was made yesterday afternoon to definitely settle it before the council met last night. It was claimed by some that the Bell Company put in a tender and included many conditions. This matter however, was threshed out at last night's session of the city council. A full report of which appears in this issue.

The Ministerial Association held its regular monthly meeting yesterday morning in the Y.M.C.A. hall, with Rev. Canon Davidson in the chair. Rev. D. Normac, returned missionary from Japan, was present. Routine business was transacted. An interesting paper was read by Rev. J. R. Webb, pastor of Murray street Baptist church on "The Growth of the Soul." A general discussion followed the reading of the paper.

Breaks Up a Cold in Ten Hours

Breathe Hyomei and get Quick Relief Cures all Bronchial Troubles.

As a usual thing a remedy that has immediate action contains powerful drugs that should be used sparingly. This one one of the reasons why the ordinary tablets that are sold for coughs and colds should not be taken by people with a weak heart, as they have a dangerous stimulating effect.

When Hyomei, however, is breathed quick relief is obtained in a natural way. Its healing medication goes right to the spot where the disease germs are present, at once soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane. The action in this way is similar to spreading a soothing salve upon a burn.

No other medicine for the cure of coughs, colds and bronchial troubles is as rational as Hyomei. Breathing it through the neat pocket inhaler which goes with every outfit, it can be used either in the nose or mouth, thus getting full medication into the nasal passages or the throat and lungs as desired. It gives almost instant relief in all affections of the bronchial tubes, and is guaranteed to break up a cold in ten hours.

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a bottle of Hyomei, an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and a medicine dropper, costs but one dollar, with a guarantee that if it does not give satisfaction the money will be refunded.

Should extra bottles of Hyomei be needed they can be obtained for only 50c.; the inhaler lasts a life-time.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei, or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it cdats nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with a treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. NO POWER FROM THE OTONABEE CO. AT $15.

The Company Withdraw Their Offer---Not Satisfied With Conditions Imposed by the City Council.

In connection with the proposal advanced by the Otonabee Power Company that the city endorse their application to the Dominion Government for the lease of No. 4 dam, in return for which the company would guarantee 500 electrical horse power for new industries at $15 per horse power, the following letter was received from the Otonabee Power Company;

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk,
Peterborough, Ont.

Re dam No. 4—

Dear Sir,—We have carefully perused the resolution passed by the City Council at their meeting, held on the 25th ult.

Our object in suggesting to the council to endorse and support our application to the government for a lease of dam No. 4, was toenable our company to obtain such lease on such favorable terms that the company would afford to supply the citizens of Peterborough and new industries with power and light at the lowest possible cost.

We regret to state that the concessions which the council desire to have made in favor of new industries are so excessive that it would be necessary for our company to make a general advance in the price of electric power and light to every one of our present consumers in Peterborough, in order to comply with its demands and in order to give a fair return to our shareholders on their investment.

We prefer to stand by the customers we have and see that they are fairly treated, rather than give, at their expense, more favorable terms to strangers. Moreover, the terms imposed by the council are so onerous that it will not pay this company to accept a lease, rent free, accompanied by a very substantial bonus per annum. It is needless to say that we do not desire assistance from the council to obtain a lease at any such sacrifice to our company and its customers.

Hence we desire to withdraw our application and honor, and in doing so we beg to state that, should we obtain a lease on terms we are prepared to accept, we shall be glad at any time to co-operate with the council in assisting them to attract industries to Peterborough by offering our surplus power on fair and reasonable terms.

Yours respectfully,
Otonabee Power Co., Limited.
W. H. MELDRUM, Manager.

The mayor explained that the Otonabee Power Co. themselves offered to reserve 500 horsepower for new industries at $15 a horsepower if the city would pass a resolution to be forwarded the Dominion Government supporting the company's tender for No. 4 dam. The city would take this step with a view to securing cheap power for new industries. When it came to drawing up an agreement with the Otonabee Power Co., there were but two important matters in dispute between the city's committee and the company. First, the company would not agree to reserve 500 horse power for any definite period; they would only sell it so long as they had it to sell, without any restraint whatever. The council understood that horse power up to the number of 500, at $15 per horse power, would be held for new industries during the life of the company's lease—21 years. The company pointed out that it would be unfair to expect them to hold 500 horse power, or any portion thereof, if their business reached a point where all their power was in demand at their ordinary rates. The council then agreed that they should reserve 500 horse power for two years only, and any or allof this amount contracted for by new industries within that time to be sold at $15 a horse power for a period of 21 years.

The other point at issue was whether the power should be measured before or after transforming. The company wanted to measure it before transforming at the substation; in fact they objected to bringing the power down to their substation and thence carrying it back to, say the Coates factory. On the first transformation there is a loss of ten or fifteen per cent, and it is customary to bring 6,600 volts down to the substation, and there again transform it into 2,300 volts, and then convey it to the factory where it is again transformed into 100 or 200 volts is required. Now the company want to run a special wire straight to the Coates factory for instance, and thus avoid transformation at the substation. This would mean that the Coates people would be charged for the loss of ten or fifteen per centin first transformation, which is saved to factories taking their power through the substation. By such measurement the Otonabee Power Co. would be really charging $16.50 or $17 per horse power instead of $15. The council contended that new industries should get their power at $15, the same as the Cordage Co. is getting theirs, through the substation and such power measured after transforming at that point.

Ald. Wilson pointed out that a member of the Power Co., contended that it would cost them $20,000 to bring power down to the substation and convey it back again to the Coates people, away to the north of the town. They would be willing to run a special wire to the Coates factory and let them transform it themselves.

Ald. Stevenson replied that that is exactly what the committee objected to—transforming from 6,600 volts to 100 volts direct, at a loss to the manufacturers.

Several members thought some new effort should be made to arrive at an agreement with the Otonabee Power Co., in the interest of cheap power for new industries.

The mayor here remarked that the city had only sought a very reasonable agreement with the Otonabee Power Company in return for the city's endorsation of their application for No. 4 dam, whereas the company apparently did not wish to concede any advantages to the city in return for such support. However cheap power could be secured from the Hydraulic Power Co., who have offered 800 or 1500 electrical horse power at $15 per horse power.

Stop That Headache

Foolish to Suffer When a Simple Remedy Will Prevent and Cure.

Ever stop to think what caused your headaches?

Probably not. Then look to the bowels and stomach, and you'll find plenty of cause. Chances are you'll find constipation, liver is sluggish, stomach overburdened with half-digested food.

No wonder you are dull, tired, restless day and night.

You need the cleansing influence of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which cure your condition in short order.

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver and bowels. In consequence food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callander, who writes; "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion, and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

You can rely on Dr. Hamilton's Pills with implicit confidence; their effect is wonderful. Sold by all dealers. Price 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00, or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., and Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

GOOD BUSINESS

Charles M. Schwab has sprung a surprise on the public by arranging to take three thousand boys into the employ of the big steel works of which he is the principal owner. All they will have to do will be to apply at the gate of the mills the same as anyone else seeking work. If they are healthy and intelligent they will be taken in.

They will be developed into highly trained and thoroughly skilled mechanics, artisans and metal workers. A great technical school will be established in connection with the plant. It will be for the free instruction of the boys. They will be paid something from the start, and their wages will increase as their usefulness becomes greater. Mr. Schwab has designed prizes of money and sets of tools for those who excel in the different kinds of work.

While Mr. Schwab cannot be unmindful of the benefit he is about to confer upon the boys and upon American industry as a whole, his principal motive is one of plain business. He and his associates in the steel business are determined to make their plant the most perfect in the world in all grades of work. They wish to compete with all the world. They know they cannot turn out fine work without superior workmen. They intend to develop the best workmen to be found anywhere.

This is but another striking illustration of the fact that benefits conferred on employes and work done as perfectly as possible are "good business."

DON'T WANT A TUNNEL

The French are not unanimous in favor of the proposed tunnel beneath the British Channel. Protests are made by Boulogne and Calais. Those two cities, situated each at a short distance from Cape Gris Nez, the proposed French terminus of the tunnel, depend for their livelihood almost entirely upon England and the sea. The growth and improvement of both ports depend chiefly upon a duty on the tonnage passing through them and a capitation tax of 1 franc 75 centimes per head on the passengers. The construction of the tunnel would deprive them of almost all the revenue which they derive from the constant exchange of goods and passengers between France and the United Kingdom. In 1905 the capitation and tonnage taxes amounted in round numbers to $130,000 for Calais and to nearly $170,000 for Boulogne. This revenue serves as a guarantee for the port extensions and improvements at Boulogne, reckoned at $1,500,000. It is estimated that the tunnel would diminish the trade to Boulogne by nearly two-thirds, while the condition of Calais would be still worse, since it is more entirely dependent upon its commercial relations with England than Boulogne.

As the tunnel scheme is once more knocked into a cocked hat the Frenchmen need not be afraid of it until the Englishmen are not, and that time does not seem to be near.

Strathcona Presents Tupper With Painting

London, March 3.—At the Westminster Palace Hotel yesterday, Lord Strathcona, the high commissioner for Canada, acting on behalf of a number of his friends, presented Sir Charles Tupper, the former prime minister of Canada, with a life size oil portrait of himself in appreciation of his services to Canada during the last sixty years.

In his address, Lord Strathcona recalled that in that very room Sir Charles had attended the conference forty years ago, which finally settled the provisions of the British North America Act, under which the Dominion of Canada was constituted.

In his reply, Sir Charles said the time would come when homes would be provided in Canada for as large a population as now inhabited the British Isles, and that the future depended largely upon the realization of Joseph Chamberlain's message to the Canadian people, in which he said:

"I am profoundly convinced that of all the bonds uniting this nation, the bond of commerce is the strongest."

Britain's Latest Admiral.

To look at him, says M. A. P., no one would imagine that Sir Alfred Wyndham Paget, who has just been promoted to flag rank, had served for over forty years in the navy, but this is so, his first commission being dated December, 1865. Sir Alfred is a younger brother of the popular Gen. Sir Arthur Paget, whom he greatly resembles in many ways. For some time past he has been one of the naval aides-de-camp to the King, with whom he is a great favorite. His last service was as Commodore of the North American Squadron to command the Scylla in protection of the Newfoundland fisheries. He has seen much fighting on land, and was promoted commander for his gallantry at Suakin. All who have ever served with him speak highly of his abilities and his pleasant, genial manner when off duty. He often tells a neat little story of how a more than ordinarily cheeky "middy" once scored off him. He happened to meet the youngster during a house party, and was criticising him in a friendly manner for not having made better progress. "When I was your age I was a sub-lieutenant," he remarked. "Yes, sir," replied the boy with an affectation of simplicity, "but then is it not a fact that the navy was never so efficient as it is to-day?"

A Photo Detective.

A lady with an exceptionally clear complexion sat for her photograph. On receiving the proof she took it back to the artist and complained of a number of small spots on the face, which marred an otherwise perfect picture. The photographer was quite at a loss to account for this, an examination of the negative failing to give the slightest clue to the source of trouble. A fortnight later, says a correspondent of The Daily News, an eruption of spots broke out on the lady's face, which proved to be the first outward symptoms of a very severe attack of smallpox.

Prey of the Sparrow Hawk.

The sparrow hawk almost invariably catches a dying bird for its meal, even striking down birds as large as the wood pigeon, though usually going no higher than a blackbird. If it does not exactly swoop like the larger hawks, yet it must have conditions of chase of its own choosing. That is why the small birds usually mob it with impunity when they are numerous enough to bewilder it. Once, however, I saw a sparrow hawk that had been molested for some minutes by a perfect cloud of green finches dart among them and secure a victim. One day I had one of these birds pointed out as the one which a few days earlier had come close to the house toward dusk and caught a bat on the wing. That, however, is a very unusual meal.—London News.

HUMAN BOMB-FENDER

St. Petersburg, March 3.—On those rare occasions when Czar Nicholas ventures on a railway journey, the royal special is not in the habit of making a record run, for half a mile ahead of the train rides an official on a foot-propelled tricycle, whose duty it is to act as a human bomb-fender.

Acting on the not unfounded suspicion that his appearance abroad is fraught with danger, Nicholas lays this courageous Russian the largest salary, it is said, of any government official in St. Petersburg, to precede the train in this way, travelling at most about twenty miles an hour.

FAITH.

When I am dead—when I am dead—
Well, won't the same red roses blow
And won't the paths I joy to tread
As glad and lightsome footsteps know?
And won't the birds sing just as clear
And won't the streams sing just as sweet
And won't the ways of yesteryear
Still coax the laggard's wayward feet?

Why should I muse—"When I am dead?"
Why give to death a thought or care?
Where blossoms of last year lie dead
This year spreads newer ones, and there
The same birds come to lilt and sing,
And sweethearts tell old tales anew,
And children, too, will come and swing
'Neath trees whose shades knew me and you.

And other men will dare the sea
For other loves, as I have done,
And fight—aye, lie, too—and will be Another me, and they will run
The selfsame course for the same things
My heart holds dear, and love shall be
Their splendid spur, their lifting wings,
As it is mine, to win me thee.

So let the years come down and snuff
Me out from this abiding place;
Beyond all earthly paths and rough
I yet shall win and see your face.
And we shall, poised in our own star,
Whence God's own lights are flung and furled,
Look back to now where we two are
And know this for a good old world.

STATISTICS OF MURDER.

Deductions Drawn By an Eminent British Law Officer.

A remarkable analysis of the crime of murder for the last twenty years by Sir John Macdonnell, Master of the Supreme Court, is the principal feature of the criminal statistics of England and Wales for 1905, which was issued the other day. The number of people sentenced to death for murder from 1886 to 1905 was 488 males and 84 females. In the last decade the actual number of cases in which execution followed the death sentence is shown in the following table:

	Sentenced.	Executed.
1905	33	17
1904	36	18
1903	40	27
1902	33	23
1901	28	15
1900	20	18
1899	29	15
1898	27	11
1897	14	6
1896	33	20

Sir John writes: "The first fact to be noted is that murder, as might be expected is a crime of men. Murder means murder by men in a great majority of cases. Out of 532 sentenced to death since 1886 488 were men. The figures are more remarkable because as regards women they include cases of child murder, to which they are of course much more prone than men.

"The next noticeable point, which is rarely mentioned, is that a great majority of the persons murdered are women. They are as three to one.

"A great majority of the murders are committed by persons between the ages of 21 and 40, that is, during the period of greatest physical vigor.

"A further notable point in regard to murders committed by men is the very large proportion of murders of wives. Out of a total of 488 murders for which men were sentenced to death in the twenty years under consideration, no fewer than 134, or about 1 in 4, were murders of wives by their husbands. Most of the men convicted of murder belonged, like the women, to the laboring classes.

"The principal causes or motives for murders during this period were: Jealousy and intrigues, 98; drink, 90; quarrels or rage, 68; revenge, 77; robbery, 50; extreme poverty, 39; illegal operations, 19, and for insurance money, 3. Saturday is a favorite day for murder, 108 cases having been ascertained to have taken place on that day."

Sir John Macdonnell makes this remarkable declaration of the relation of drink to crime.

"Drunkenness is no doubt the cause of many crimes, and is the accompaniment of many others, but the theory of the close correspondence of crime and drunkenness must be viewed with caution."

Early Celtic Christianity.

Lecturing at the Manchester University recently on "Early Celtic Christianity," Prof. Kuno Meyer spoke of the monastic institutions in Ireland during the seventh and eighth centuries, when the island was the high school of learning of Western Europe. He combated the idea that St. Patrick founded the monastic See at Armagh, principally because the work of the saint did not go beyond the missionary stage. The ancient Irish Church was of a strong national character. The reasons why many of the old Irish manuscripts had not survived were that they were written in Irish, and, for that reason, after the conquest by the Vikings in 795 A.D. they were of little use on the continent, and also many of the Latin works were written in a peculiar angular character difficult to understand on the continent.

His Idea of a Wife.

Discussing with a representative of an Irish paper the qualities a wife should possess, a tramp said the other day that she should be "an all round woman," between forty and fifty years, not handsome, but temperate. "If there is any drinking to be done," he said, "I can see to it. She should be able to walk twenty miles a day and be good at begging bottles and potatoes and also at ballad singing. She should be able to fight a round or two to defend her husband when in action."

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 6200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 59 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"They had one who was dressed like a white man," remarked Amos.

"Aye, and the most deadly of the lot. His father was a Dutch trader, his mother an Iroquois, and he goes by the name of the Flemish Bastard. By Ste. Anne, I have a score to settle with him, and I may pay it before this business is over."

CHAPTER XXII.

DAY was just breaking as the four comrades entered the gate of the stockade, but early as it was the censitaires and their families were all afoot. De Catinat burst through the throng and rushed upstairs to Adele, who had herself flown down to meet him, so that they met in each other's arms. Together, with his arm around her, they ascended to the great hall.

"Ah, monsieur," said the old nobleman, with his courtly bow, "I am indeed rejoiced to see you safe under my roof again, not only for your own sake, but for that of madame. You are doubtless hungry and weary. When you are yourself again, I must claim my revenge in piquet, for the cards lay against me the other night."

But Du Lhut had entered at De Catinat's heels with his tidings of disaster.

"You will have another game to play, M. de Ste. Marie," said he. "There are 600 Iroquois in the woods, and they are preparing to attack."

"Tut, tut! We cannot allow our arrangements to be altered by a handful of savages," said the seigneur. "I must apologize to you, my dear De Catinat, that you should be annoyed by such people while you are upon my estate. Now, when I played piquet last with De Lannes of Poitou"—

"De Lannes of Poitou is dead, and all his people," said Du Lhut. "The blockhouse is a heap of smoking ashes."

The seigneur raised his eyebrows.

"I always told him that his fort would be taken unless he cleared away those maple trees which grew up to the very walls. They are all dead, you say?"

"Every man."

"And the fort burned?"

"Not a stick was left standing."

"Have you seen these rascals?"

"We saw the trail of a hundred and fifty. Then there were a hundred in canoes, and a war party of 400 passed us under the Flemish Bastard. Their camp is five miles down the river, and there cannot be less than 600."

"You are fortunate in escaping them."

"But they were not so fortunate in escaping us. We killed Brown Moose and his son."

"Excellent! Excellent!" said the seigneur, clapping gently with his dainty hands. "You have done very well indeed, Du Lhut. You are, I presume, very tired?"

"I am not often tired."

"Then perhaps you would pick a few men and go back into the woods to see what these villains are doing?"

"I shall be ready in five minutes."

"Perhaps you would like to go also, Achille?"

His son's dark eyes and Indian face lit up.

"Yes, I shall go also," he answered.

"Very good. And we shall make all ready in your absence. Madame, you will excuse these little annoyances which mar the pleasure of your visit. Next time that you do me the honor to come here I trust that we shall have cleared all these vermin from my estate. You will excuse me now, as there are one or two things which demand my attention. De Catinat, you are a tried soldier, and I should be glad of your advice."

It was bright daylight now, and the square inclosure within the stockade was filled with an anxious crowd who had just learned the evil tidings. The scouting party under Du Lhut and Achille de la Noue had already left, and at the orders of the seigneur the two gates were now secured with huge bars of oak fitted into iron staples on either side. The children were placed in the lower storeroom with a few women to watch them, while the others were told off to attend to the fire buckets and to reload the muskets. The men had been paraded, fifty-two of them in all, and they were divided into parties now for the defense of each part of the stockade. On one side it had been built up to within a few yards of the river, which not only relieved them from the defense of that face, but enabled them to get fresh water by throwing a bucket at the end of a rope from the stockade. The boats and canoes of Ste. Marie were drawn up on the bank just under the wall and were precious now as offering a last means of escape should all else fail. The next fort, St. Louis, was but a few leagues up the river, and De la Noue had already sent a swift messenger to them with news of the danger. At least it would be a point on which they might retreat should the worst come to the worst.

And that the worst might come to the worst was very evident to so experienced a woodsman as Amos Green. He had left Ephraim Savage snoring in a deep sleep upon the floor and was now walking round the defenses with his pipe in his mouth, examining with a critical eye every detail in connection with them. The stockade was very strong, nine feet high and closely built of oak stakes, which were thick enough to turn a bullet. Halfway up it was loopholed in long, narrow slits for the fire of the defenders. But, on the other hand, the trees grew to within a hundred yards of it and formed a screen for the attack, while the garrison was so scanty that it could not spare more than twenty men at the utmost for each face. His face darkened as he thought of the young wife who had come so far in their safe keeping and of the women and children whom he had seen crowding into the fort.

"Would it not be better if you could send them up the river?" he suggested to the seigneur.

"I should very gladly do so, monsieur, and perhaps, if we are all alive, we may manage it tonight if the weather should be cloudy, but I cannot spare the men to guard them and I cannot send them without a guard when we know that Iroquois canoes are on the river."

"You are right. It would be madness."

"I have stationed you on the eastern face with your friends and with fifteen men. M. de Catinat, will you command the party?"

"Willingly."

"I will take the south face, as it seems to be the point of danger. Du Lhut can take the north, and five men should be enough to watch the river side."

"Have we food and powder?"

"I have flour and smoked eels enough to see this matter through. As to powder, we have all our trading stores to draw upon."

"We have not time to clear any of these trees?" asked the soldier.

"Impossible. They would make better cover down."

"But at least I might clear that patch of brushwood round the birch sapling which lies between the east face and the edge of the forest. It is good cover for their skirmishers."

"Yes; that should be fired without delay."

[To be continued]

THE HUMAN BODY.

It Is a Mass of Tiny Soapy Globules Called "Myelins."

Man is made of soap and not of dust, according to a statement recently delivered before the Harvey society at the Academy of Medicine in New York city by Professor J. G. Adami.

Man is not entirely made of soap, of course, but there are scattered through his body an unknown number of tiny globules called "myelins," which are now believed to be a primitive form of true soap. It is the only pure type of soap on earth, and scientists say it may be that man was originally constructed on a self cleansing principle. All he had to do was to exercise his will power—think hard—and set his myriads of soap globules in motion.

The soapy nature of human beings has been discovered by means of the polarizing microscope. Professor Adami gave a history of the curious researches which led up to the great "find." Fifty years ago Virchow stumbled on the presence of myelin globules in nearly every tissue of the body. They were plentiful in the brain. They dissolved in hot alcohol. Strong alkalis caused them to shrink. Virchow thought the myelins were albumens.

It was not until 1808 it was discovered they possessed peculiar refractive power. Finally Professor Lohlein of Carlsruhe made an elaborate study of the globules and showed under the polarizing microscope they had queer cross markings and were in reality "liquid crystals," showing precisely the same markings as soap globules. This was considered sufficient to demonstrate their identity with soap.

The myelins, or soap globules, seem to contain a remarkable substance intermediate between fluids and crystals.—New York World.

The Three Peanut States.

Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia are the leading peanut states. In Virginia the white peanut and the small red peanut are the varieties chiefly produced, while Georgia also largely produces this small red nut. In Tennessee the white nut, which is larger than the red, and the larger variety of the red nut are raised. The chief peanut counties are Humphreys, Perry, Hickman and Dickson, but the area of peanut cultivation has been enlarged in more recent years. Few peanuts are produced in east or west Tennessee, but in the counties named they are the chief money crop of a large per cent of the farmers. The peanut has many names—goober, pindar, earth nut, ground nut, groun' pea. Northern soldiers called them goobers, and there was a well known song entitled "Grabbing Goober Peas," which was a favorite with troops "marching through Georgia."—Nashville American.

The Long Lived Orchid Flower.

Even when orchid flowers are fully developed they may remain uncut upon the plants for two or three weeks without apparent deterioration. This gives them a manifest advantage over most flowers that have to be cut immediately upon or even in advance of reaching full maturity.—Country Life in America.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 30 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolilite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

Rosy Cheeks

The Ambition of Every Woman

Hollow cheeks with dark lines, sallow complexion—how a woman hates them.

But rosy cheeks, clear skin, bright eyes—give them to a woman and she is happy.

In the blood is found the first sign of trouble.

It grows thin and watery, its color fades, and increasing pallor and sallowness give the outward evidence of the change within.

Soon the nerves weaken, the heart easily tires and palpitates, strength declines.

The delicate mechanism of the womanly functions is interfered with, and pleasures, activities and even duties are loaded down with the burden of declining health.

Why is it that women neglect the first warnings?

Usually she waits till she is ready to drop—often then it's too late.

These conditions are easily checked, easily cured at the beginning,—but even when long established Ferrozone will remove the cause and cure the trouble.

Ferrozone's action aids the three principal functions of the body—digestion, assimilation, elimination.

By strengthening digestion it forms an abundance of rich, red blood—this gives good color.

By perfecting assimilation Ferrozone supplies nutrition—this gives strength, vim, stability.

Elimination is assured because Ferrozone quickens the actions of the liver, kidneys and bowels—this guarantees the maintenance of vigorous health.

Ferrozone puts you on the right road—the one that leads to health.

Not a man, woman or child needing blood, vigor, endurance—not a person who is weak, nervous or sickly, not a person in ill-health who won't receive immediate help from Ferrozone.

As a tonic and restorative, as a health-bringer and body-builder, Ferrozone is unrivalled. It cures because it feeds and nourishes, because it contains the elements that build up and strengthen. Try it yourself—sold everywhere in 50c. boxes.

County Farmers Going West

Among the prevailing exodus of farmers to the far West, are several from the County of Peterborough. Real estate men report the sale of many farms in Peterborough county this year. It is estimated that at least a hundred farmers from this county will go West this spring. Several left yesterday morning and others will go during the week. Among those who went yesterday were Mr. Jas. McConnal, to Winnipeg; Mr. W. T. Huntingford to Alameda, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Bell to Calgary, and Mr. Charles James to Gainsboro. All the above bought tickets via C.P.R.

A Havelock Burglary

A burglary happened in Havelock last Friday, when Mr. F. C. McMaster's hardware store was entered. The entrance was made by cutting a hole in the back door. A rifle and revolver were taken, as well as knives, razors, pipes and ammunition. The cash register was robbed of twenty-three cents, but the safe was not touched, thus saving the robbed hardware man from the loss of [illegible]

A DOCTOR SAYS

Grape-Nuts Food Contains all the Elements Condensed.

There was a time when doctors depended almost entirely on the use of drugs in treating disease. That day is happily past, and our doctors of today are men of wider views—they have learned that proper food is most important in curing disease. A practicing physician in New York City says:

"Disease is often an effort of Nature to get rid of impurities in the system as the result of incorrect habits—wrong living. The cause of disease ought to and can be removed by right living and right thinking.

"Nature requires good air, sunlight, food of proper quality and quantity, plenty of pure water, exercise, cleanliness and sleep. When these conditions are met, health follows, but when they are denied or neglected, sickness and disease are sure to result.

"The important question is to decide what is the proper kind of food to supply the physical and mental necessities of man? I have had experience with all the various food stuffs known to our markets but up to the present time I have met with no other answering so fully all the requirements as does Grape-Nuts food. In my own experience and observation in my practice, I have found Grape-Nuts to be not only more satisfying, but more lasting in the benefit derived from its use. It sends a man forth to his labors in a state of physical comfort, with a cheerful and buoyant spirit; and the end of the day finds him with reserve strength—he suffers less from exhaustion and depletion of powers.

"I particularly recommend Grape-Nuts food to those whose occupations involve a great deal of brain work. There could not be a food better adapted to the strengthening and conservation of the faculties and energies. It supplies a more sustained mental vigor than any other food I know of.

"Grape-Nuts food contains all the elements that form the valuable part of natural diet in a condensed, toothsome and easily digestible form." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Free Evangelists at Havelock

A report comes from Havelock that an Englishman and a Scotchman are evangelizing in that burg, and to the surprise of the one reporting the circumstances, are neither taking up collections nor asking any financial aid. Havelock has no kick coming, but such things are apt to be received with apparatus or hands kept firmly over purse pockets.

New C. P. R. Extensions

A Havelock despatch says that the C.P.R. have recently got out blue prints with the plan of the various extensions which they intend to make in the near future. Among them is a plan of the Georgian Bay grain route from Victoria Harbor, showing the line to pass through Lakefield, Warsaw, and join the main road at Havelock.

Opera House Last Night

Last night the beautiful pastoral drama, entitled "The Volunteer Organist" was presented at the Grand Opera House to a very large and thoroughly appreciated audience. The play was fully up to the highest expectations, the characters all being well sustained. The singing of the boy soloists was a very attractive feature of the entertainment, and was alone worth the price of admission. Messrs. Turner & Sons, the enterprising and popular proprietors of the Opera House, are certainly bringing good shows to the city. This is becoming more and more in evidence as the business increases.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

—Mr. W. M. Graham, Lakefield, was in the city yesterday on business.

—Mrs. W. F. Miller left yesterday for Chicago, on a visit.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. Dickson Hall spent yesterday in Toronto.

—Mr. E. H. Oliver, Sherbrooke St., is visiting friends in Cunningtoh.

—Mr. Wm. Patterson, Belleville, was a guest at the Snowden House yesterday.

—Mr. Richard Lee, late of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company leaves today for Boston.

—Miss Nellie Whiten has returned from Toronto, where she has been the guests of friends.

—Mr. James Marsh, of Hamilton, is visiting his parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Marsh, Springville.

—Mr. Stanley Madill, who has been spending several weeks in Toronto has returned to the city.

—Mr. F. Bruce Patterson, the George street tonsorial artist, spent yesterday in Belleville on business.

—Mr. Harry Maxwell Wolgus, who has been spending a few days in the city, left yesterday morning for Barrie.

—Mrs. T. Ed. [illegible], accompanied by her little daughter, Noura, left yesterday morning on a visit to Brantford and other points.

—Rev. J. G. Lewis goes to Toronto yesterday to attend a committee meeting of the General Conference on "Temperance and Moral Reform."

—Messrs. J. H. Greer and J. Arthur Ash have returned from Cobourg where they were attending the funeral of their mother on Sunday.

—Mr. Gregor McGregor, who has sold out his confectionery and bakery business, George street, will leave shortly for Saskatoon, Sask., where he expects to locate.

—Mr. Geo. B. Hilliard of Lakefield was in the city yesterday and gave The Times a friendly call. Mr. Hilliard who is a director of the Lakefield Canoe Co., of that village, reports that the company is kept working full time and has difficulty to fill the orders rapidly pouring in from all parts of the Dominion.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

Yesterday Truant Officer George Cochrane laid a number of information at the police station, concerning children who loiter on the streets during undesireable hours and thus neglect their proper education. The cases will be tried on Wednesday morning.

This is a decided move in the right direction, and, whilst having no personal animosity against these or other children, it is to be hoped that the magistrate will take such action as will effectually prevent immature children, both boys and girls, and (preferably including) a number of callow cigarette inhaling youths, from spending hours on the public streets, when they ought to be in their respective homes or engaged in more profitable pursuits than exposing their hearing, and educating their minds to the use of the too prevalent foul language heard on said streets. It is pitiable to see, apart from boys and girls on the streets at night, the large number of hobble-de-boys, able bodied and able to work who spend many hours hanging round our streets, and whose greatest intellectual treat seems to be attendance at the foul smelling and mind degrading police court. Either work in Peterborough must be very slack or a genuine desire for procuring the same is much slacker. In nine-tenths of such case, i.e., truant scholars or young street corner loafers might be traced pretty clearly to lack of discipline and decent control on the part of too indulgent and careless parents. A few examples made, backed by such severity as will bear good fruit for the future, will not only tend to save the youngsters and make them decent citizens, but will cause more than one parent to "Sit up and take notice."

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliance vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Few young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant pelvic drains and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate womanly organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form at once witness to the fact in restored comeliness. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native, American, medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken-down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nervine nicely adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Harry Long Has Gone West

Mr. Harry Long, one of Peterborough's best known citizens, left yesterday for the far west on an extended tour. After spending a couple of days in Toronto, he will proceed to Edmonton, Alta., where he will visit his brother Charles Long, who lives about ten miles outside of Strathcona, a suburb of Edmonton. The brothers have not met for many years. In the summer he will visit British Columbia and also Seattle and Portland. Mr. Long, who was booked by Mr. W. Molloy, may be away for six or nine months.

RUSSIAN PARLIAMENT IS NOW IN SESSION

Only Conservative Members of the Second Duma Cheered for Czar---Finanoes Show a Good Surplus.

The first Russian Parliament, representing the people, was dissolved last year because the Czar found it too revolutionary. The government tried to control the subsequent elections, but the new duma is almost as radical in composition as the old one, though its members are likely to be more cautious. Stormy scenes may be expected later. The choice of a Constitutional Democrat as president indicates a desire to avoid an immediate clash with the Autocracy. Ultimate disagreements of a critical future are inevitable.

St. Petersburg, March 6.—The Duma or Lower House of Parliament was formally opened at noon yesterday, in the presence of all the ministers, and many other high functionaries. No member of the imperial household was present. The first ceremony was a religious service, in which the Metropolitan, Antonius, the higher clergy of the diocese, and a full choir participated.

The session was held in the Tauride Palace.

M. Goluboff, vice-president of the Council of the Empire, accompanied by Baron Uexkull de Gyldenbandt, secretary of the Empire, entered the hall after the service. The former immediately called the lower house to order, and invited the members to sign the oath of allegiance to Emperor Nicholas. The Conservatives cheered the mention of the name of the emperor, but the Opposition remained silent. The Social Democrats did not enter the hall until M. Goluboff had finished speaking. When they came in a body, demonstratively.

After signing the oath, the balloting for president of the lower house commenced.

There was no serious disorder, but the crowds outside the palace were unruly, and several times had to be driven back by infantry and mounted gendarmes.

GOLOVIN IS PRESIDENT.

Feodor Golovin, president of the Moscow Zemstvo and Constitutional Democratic member of parliament, from Moscow province, was elected president of the house.

The finance minister presented the budget estimates for 1907, accompanied by a memorandum, in which the minister pointed out that the expenditure covered up to January 1, 1907 amounted to $1,299,000,000. He also showed that the revenue for 1906 exceeded the expenditure by more than $15,000,000, enabling him to cover the extraordinary expenditures, as well as the deficit for 1905, and redeem the short term treasury bills issued in 1905.

When Everything Will be Free as Air

The Toronto papers have been discussing free street cars—that is a traction system operated by the municipality which shall be supported by the taxpayers rather than by the passengers.

All of which sounds very good, but could be made even more so if our confreres had not stopped at free car fares. If free rides to and from our homes and places of business on street cars supported by the general taxpayers, why not free shoes, free hats, free clothing, free jewelry, so that we shall all look equally comfortable and prosperous as we face each other in the free street cars?

If we may ride free, why pay rent? Why pay interest? Why pay our debts? Why not free drinks, free smokes? If everything should be as free as air, why not, ah, why not—free lunches—for all?

Perhaps these will be among the first free things to follow the free street cars. They will probably not be exactly free lunches. Heretofore when we have become so jaded by prosperity that we hated even the name of good times—when we have succeeded in doing something that has cut prices in two, cut wages in two, cut family supplies in two, cut the family itself in two, sending half of it far away from home to look for work and halt out on the cold world to look for help—heretofore when we have become so well off all around that we have felt like having a hard time of it for a change—the first free thing that has come to many of us has come by way of the kitchen back door or the municipally operated soup house.

Sir Christopher Wren

Dublin, March 3.—Sir Christopher Wren, M.D., of the Catholic University of Ireland, an eminent physician and exemplary Catholic, was recently made a baronet by the Crown. He has been unanimously elected vice-president of the Royal University of Ireland, and it is a sign of better things when the nomination, made by the Catholic archbishop, Dr. Healy, of Tuam, was quickly seconded by a Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Dr. Hamilton, president of Queen's College, Belfast.

TO BREAK UP A COLD

An eminent authority on lung trouble, who effected many remarkable cures in his camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine, advises the use of the following formula: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whisky, one-half pint. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. It will break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients are not expensive and can be secured from any good prescription druggist, but great care should be exercised to have them pure, as there are many adulterated imitations of this pine product which create nausea and never effect the desired results.

Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up in half-ounce vials for druggists to dispense in filling prescriptions. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case with engraved wrapper, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leeds Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario—plainly printed thereon. To avoid substitution, it is best that the ingredients be purchased separately and the mixture prepared at home.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

"Lovers and Lunatics"

At the Grand Opera house last night the curtain rose to a large audience, who were unstinted in their applause of the clever musical comedy presenting the rollicking musical farce "Lovers and Lunatics." The offering is a lively and laughable musical piece, replete with sparkling music, funny incidents and irresistible comedy. The many songs are bright and catchy, while the dancing numbers are in the hands of talented artistes. The company is a large and evenly balanced one and thoroughly earned the demonstrative applauses showered upon them last night. The piece is very prettily staged and apparently no expense has been spared in the many varied, beautiful and unique costumes carried.

While "Lovers and Lunatics" presents but two acts, each act is a lengthy one, and contagious with mirth, humor and vocal and dance numbers from start to finish, which are sandwiched in between a sufficiency of plot to allow of the comedians to demonstrate their no small measure of talent.

Joe Morris, who plays the leading role, likey the Jew, is a clever comedian with a wonderfully powerful voice. He sings a splendid song, and his every effort calls for encores that will not be denied. George P. Watson, the lieutenant, was highly acceptable in song and his double-voiced offerings—baritone and treble—were enthusiastically received. Chas. E. Mack, as Richard Hamilton, also sangs a good catchy tenor song, and J. Maurice Holland as the eccentric old maid, advertising for a husband, is irresistibly funny. Florence Little, as Nellie Richmond, sustained her character very acceptably both in vocal solos, duets and histrionic efforts. Lillian Lawson and Master Jack Ward are exceedingly clever and dancers and their number called for more than one repetition, and deservedly so.

"Lovers and Lunatics" offers a splendid two and a half hours of versatile entertainment.

Yankees Were Sore Over Game Here

They Say It Was Not Hockey But a Slugging Match.

It now seems that the New York Crescents who recently played hockey in this city and happened to go down to defeat were sore over the said defeat, as yesterday The Times was in receipt of a marked copy of the "Brooklyn, N.Y., Life," which contains the following scurrilous report of the game here. This report reads as follows:

"From a competitive viewpoint the trip of the Crescent hockey team to Canada last week was by no means as satisfactory as the excursion to Montreal a year ago, when the champions, as they were then, scored a brilliant victory over the Montreal Hockey Club on soft ice. The Montreals on that occasion played clean straight hockey; but last week Friday evening at Peterborough, Ontario, the Crescents run up against the real Canadian game as revised and brought up to date, it consists in endeavoring to "do up" the opposing seven, or at least, incapacitate its most formidable players, and when this has been accomplished, the rest of course, is easy. The fact that they were playing against strangers and guests did not so far arouse the hospitable instincts of the Peterborough seven as to cause any reluctance to inflict physical injuries, and though the trip was made purely for sport, several Crescent men were so badly done up that it is rather difficult to see where the fun came in. The Peterborough team won by a score of seven goals to four against a Crescent combination, which included neither Wall nor Shirreff, so that the victory was nothing much to brag about. It is a pity that these two were not on hand, for they are perhaps, when aroused, the two most pugnacious players on the Brooklyn team, and would most assuredly have left a few substantial marks of esteem upon the persons of their kindly and attentive hosts."

"After these gruesome at Peterborough, the visiting team was no danger up that to find an easy victim on the following evening to the University of Toronto."

We might note that the hoarse scream of the great American Eagle over this unpardonable defeat of the American team included, but was not stated in the Brooklyn paper the loss, for that particular game, of Harry Morgan, one of the regular O. H.A. team.

Price of Hard Coal Will Take a Jump

New York, March 6.—Notice has been given by the anthracite community of interests to independent producers that there will be an increase in price of coal to consumers within a short time. The opinion prevails that the advance will come about April 1st. Coal companies contend that the cost of mining has increased greatly in the last ten years and that at present prices it is impossible for companies to realize a fair return on their money. In most places, they assert, the coal now lies very deep and is exceedingly expensive to mine. The cost to keep the mines free of water is also said to be enormous.

Rockefeller's Dividends

New York, March 6.—The statement recently issued to the effect that Mr. Rockefeller's income was never more than $20,000,000 a year, does not harmonize with the announcement that he is worth less than $500,000,000.

The Standard Oil Co., over the last nine years, has disbursed to stockholders $371,473,700. Based on Mr. Gates' statement that Mr. Rockefeller's holdings of Standard Oil are equivalent to 30 per cent. of the capital of $100,000,000, Rockefeller's income within the period in question from Standard Oil stock alone was $74,294,000.

From 1898 to 1907 inclusive the Standard Oil Co. will have paid to stockholders approximately $400,000,000, of which John D. Rockefeller's share, based on his alleged holdings of 30 per cent., will be $80,000,000. The interest on this sum would run the total close to $100,000,000.

Hamilton Pays for Troops

Hamilton, March 6.—It cost the city about $3,000 to have the soldiers from Stanley Barracks here at the time of the street car strike. After considerable delay the cheque has just been paid by the Hamilton authorities. It represents the difference in the regular pay, which is paid by the Dominion Government, as usual, and the special service pay, to which they are entitled when on active duty.

At St. John's Church Tonight

Rev. C. E. Sharp, rector of St. Thomas church, Toronto, will deliver an address at St. John's church tonight at eight o'clock. Mr. Sharp is well known as one of the most eloquent clergy in Toronto, to which city he was called from British Columbia. On Monday evening next, Rev. A. H. Ben Oliel will deliver a lecture on "Jerusalem," in St. John's church school house.

OUT IN IOWA

They Had Coffee Drinkers.

An Iowa lady shows that Postum Food Coffee has proved a great promoter of health. She says:

"During nearly all of my life till a year ago I used coffee daily, without knowing it kept me thin and feeling bad. I was induced to quit coffee and try Postum. I liked it from the first, and found I felt better than I did while I was using the old kind of coffee. So I continued to use it.

"After a few weeks I began to realize that I was growing plumper, and was pleased to find the other day that I had gained 15 pounds in the twelve months. Postum gives me a splendid appetite. In fact I can eat and digest my food perfectly now.

"My husband has, all his life, been troubled with 'bold-hives' and has been quite a sufferer from catarrh in the head. He also quit coffee, and began to use Postum Food Coffee about a year ago, with manifest good results. His catarrh has vanished and he has not had an attack of 'bold-hives' for six months. My friends, noting the change in both of us say, 'Why, how well you look! Do you really suppose it is Postum that has made the change?' and I reply, 'Most emphatically I do, for it is the only change we have made in our mode of living.'

"My sister who used to suffer greatly from biliousness quit coffee and began to drink Postum Food Coffee 2 years ago. She never has bilious attacks any more. Like my husband, my father has found that his catarrh has disappeared since he gave up coffee and began to use Postum Food Coffee. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. 'There's a reason.' MRS. EDDY OWNS MILLION IN CASH

Fund of Her Church, However Exceeds Twelve Million.

STATEMENT BY TREASURER

Declares There is Nothing in Affairs of Church to be Exposed.

Boston, March 6.—While lawyers say Mrs. Baker Eddy's personal fortune amounts to at least $1,000,000 cash, which is in a Concord, N.H. bank, Stephen H. Chase, of Fall River, a retired banker, converted, as he says, when he was cured of blood poisoning, holds the purse strings of the Christian Science Church.

Alfred Farlow, spokesman of the Church in Boston, says that these purse strings enclose a fund of between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000. Treasurer Chase makes no estimate, but says Farlow is generally correct in any statements he makes.

Mr. Chase has an office fitted up in his Fall River home, where he keeps two clerks constantly at work. He is a man of large executive capacity, and has been looked upon among the followers of Mrs. Eddy as a man whose services the Church is fortunate to possess.

Treasurer Chase has put a large amount of his personal property in his wife's name. He denied with emphasis that he had ever deposited any of the Church funds in his wife's name or that he had ever said that he had. Any statement to the contrary, he averred, was an error.

Confidence is felt by leaders of the Church in the sagacity of their treasurer; they believe that he will not be found wanting in this time of anxiety. He is fully able to keep his own counsel, and he is an adept at parrying questions from those who seek information as to the millions of which he had control.

"What of it if Mrs. Eddy's son has entered suit against her?" said Treasurer Chase yesterday. "Is that any reason why the Mother Church in Boston and the entire Christian Science fold should be dragged into it, too? I cannot see it in that light."

ONLY A PERSONAL MATTER.

"In my eyes, it is nothing more than a personal matter between our beloved leader and her son. Mind you, we stand ready to furnish all the information necessary to the proper authorities, should the courts so rule. But me say with emphasis that there is absolutely nothing to be uncovered or exposed. Everything is straight as a string. I am willing to have my accounts inspected any time. I made my last report last May."

"I repeat that everything is in most accurate form. All things pertaining to Mrs. Eddy and our Church are. There are no crooked lines in anything with which our Church or our beloved leader are concerned. It is not true that I ever signed over any of the Church funds in my wife's name. Such a report is preposterous. What authority would I have to do anything of the kind? I have personal property and funds in my wife's name.

"As Mr. Farlow says, Mrs. Eddy has always been generous to her son. I don't see whatever possessed him to take this step, unless there were outside influences. But what right have the public or the newspapers to pry into the affair? Why should the private business of a legitimate, honest, prosperous and universally respected society be dragged before the public gaze? And it won't be. Wait and see."

CANADA FOR HER RIGHTS

Present Unfair Postal Arrangements Will be Abrogated.

Ottawa, March 6.—The American postal authorities now en route to Ottawa will, today, discuss with the Canadian postal authorities the whole question of postal relations between the two countries. The United States postal department was notified some months ago that the postal arrangement in respect to the delivery in Canada of second and third-class matter would be abrogated on May 7. Canada has been carrying 10,000 tons of newspapers and periodicals from the United States to every 1,000 tons sent from this country, and insists upon a new arrangement upon more equitable basis. The Dominion will probably be represented at the conference by Hon. Rodolphe Postmaster-General; Dr. Coulter, Deputy Minister, and Mr. William Smith, Secretary of the Department.

RECORD RUN FOR EMPRESS

Ireland Beats the Britain's Figures by Over Three Hours.

Montreal, March 6.—The Canadian Pacific Royal Mail steamship, Empress of Ireland, which sailed from Halifax on the previous Sunday morning at 1.15 arrived at the Bar Light at Liverpool at 7 a.m. on Saturday.

Allowing four hours for difference in time, she made the run from Halifax to Liverpool in six days, one hour, and forty-five minutes, or just three hours and fifteen minutes faster than her sister ship, the Empress of Britain, on her last trip. This is the record.

Same Old Story

Washington, March 3.—E. H. Harriman, who is in Washington for a few days, accompanied by his family, in discussing the recent investigation by the Inter-State Commerce Commission in New York, said yesterday: "There was not a single new point brought out in the enquiry. It was simply a rehash of matter that was given wide publicity seven years ago. The continual reform agitation simply shows the animosity that exists today against men and corporations that have made a success.

Man Hurt at Lift Lock

Yesterday morning as Mr. John McWilliams was making some repairs at the lift lock, along with some other men, and was working about the machinery, his right hand was caught in a derrick and the index finger was cut off at the first joint. A doctor was called. The injury will incapacitate Mr. McWilliams from work for some time.

In Bad Company

Rochester, N.Y., March 6. — Lena Pallow, aged 22 years, an attractive young woman, said to be from a respectable and well-to-do family of Cobourg, Ont., was arraigned in the police court in this city on Thursday on a charge of vagrancy. She was tried and found guilty and sentenced to serve a period of three years in the Western House of Refuge for Women at Albion, N.Y.

When the young woman was arrested she was in an Italian saloon with two other notorious police court characters.

Shall Miss Sadie Holmes Be Given Dental Priviliges?

Toronto, March 6.—An interesting contest is surrounding the bill now before the legislature to grant to Miss Sadie Holmes the right to practice dentistry in Ontario. The young lady undertook the task of furthering her application personally, and has been for some days a unique figure in the legislative corridors, the lady lobbyist.

The measure, however, is meeting with the vigorous disapproval and opposition of the dental profession. Yesterday a petition, signed by the leading dentists of the Province, was presented to the House opposing the measure, and a deputation, consisting of Dr. H. R. Abbott, of London, President of the Board of Directors of the Royal College of Dental Surgeons; Dr. Fred. Coghlan, of Guelph, President of the Ontario Dental Association, Dr. J. B. Willmott, Dean of the Faculty, and Dr. A. W. Thornton, of Toronto, waited upon Hon. J. P. Whitney, the Prime Minister, in protest against the granting of the bill.

Hon. Mr. Whitney assured the deputation while at every session there were a number of such bills in connection with all the professions, he personally had no sympathy with this means of evading the law and asking the legislature to establish "short cuts." He said that unfortunately the public was beginning to look upon the professions as close corporations, and did not recognize that while the contention was in one sense true, the condition existed not for the sake of the profession but to protect the public from quackery and empiricism.

It is understood that the bill will come before the Private Bills Committee Thursday morning.

SPORTING TOPICS

HOCKEY.

It is said that Harry Smith, the rack center of the Ottawa Eastern league team, will play here tonight with the Arnprior team. Smith has played several games with the Arnprior team this season.

• • • •

Tonight there will probably be a large audience at the Brock Street rink to see the Arnprior bunch go up against the locals. The visitors are the champions of the Upper Ottawa hockey league. Just how the Easterners will line up is not known. It is said that they will play several Ottawa men.

Ingersoll, March 6.—Ed. Hoier, a plumber, employed by W. H. Jones, hardware merchant, was admitted to the sanitarium yesterday, suffering from scalp wounds sustained while at work at the John Morrow screw works. He fell from a ladder, his head coming in contact with a machine. Forty stitches were necessary to close the wounds.

SALVATION ARMY HAVE THREE GREAT SCHEMES

To Aid Those Who Have Failed in Life---General Booth Has Arrived in New York en Route for Canada.

New York, March 6.—Gen. William Booth, the aged leader of the Salvation Army, arrived in this city yesterday on the steamer Minneapolis from London. He will spend two days here as the guest of his daughter, Commander Eva Booth, and then will leave for Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa, Vancouver and Seattle, whence he will sail for Japan. After a short stay in that Kingdom, he will go to India, and thence return to England. In the fall he will again come to the United States, this time for a general tour of the country, during which he will hold a number of public meetings in the larger cities. His present visit is purely a private one and he will make no public address. During his stay in Ottawa he will be the guest of Earl Grey, the Governor-General.

General Booth was enthusiastically greeted on his arrival here by Commander Miss Booth and her personal staff, together with a large number of the leaders and soldiers of the movement which the venerable divine started from a cracker box in Mile-End Waste, East London, in July, 1865. He showed a remarkable vigor for a man who, on April 10, will celebrate the 78th anniversary of his birth. When reporters accosted him on the steamer, General Booth declared that he was in perfect health, and that he had enjoyed his voyage.

"We met with troubled waters, troubled winds, snowstorms, all sorts of storms, just as we do through life," he said. After outlining the plans for his present visit, he turned to the subject of work for the amelioration of the condition of those who have failed in the struggle of life.

THREE GREAT SCHEMES!

"I have three great schemes on hand," he declared. "First, I hope to complete by experiment of putting the people in possession of small land holdings, say, of five or six acres near market towns, where they can support themselves.

"I have one tract near Colchester, England, and have been given $5,000 for the work there.

"Next, I have a great Colonization scheme, with Rhodesia, South Africa, as the location. We shall have a new world in the center of South Africa.

"My third scheme is to create two institutions, one in London and the other in New York, to teach suitable persons the proper way to deal with the vices, sins, misfortunes, and miseries of mankind generally."

The general then dwelt enthusiastically upon the success which already has attended the founding of anti-suicide bureaus in many cities of England. The first five weeks of the work in London brought 500 cases.

"They represented every walk and circumstance of life, and we helped most of them," he asserted.

General Booth said he would need $5,000,000 to accomplish all he outlined in his three plans, and he would "accept anybody's money, regardless of whether it was tainted."

Inquiry Into the "Dominion" Accident

Evidence Being Taken at Chatham Regarding Said Incident.

London, March 6.—The inquiry into the charge of negligence laid against Captain Charles E. Kingsmill, Navigation Lieutenant Noake and Lieutenant Clarkson, in connection with the stranding of H.M.S. Dominion was commenced at Chatham yesterday before Rear-Admiral Finnis and has been adjourned.

Evidence was given to show that a bush fire was mistaken for Gourlis Point light, which in turn was mistaken for a steamer's masthead. It was also shown that no allowance had been made for the current into Casapedia Bay.

Captain Kingsmill is a son of the late Judge J. J. Kingsmill, of Toronto. He entered the British navy in 1869, served for a time on the Royal Yacht Victoria and Albert, saw active service, and was given a ship of his own in 1895, the Archer. He was given the first-class battleship Dominion on her completion two years ago, and on crossing the Atlantic last summer to be presented with a service of silver plate by the citizens of Canada she unfortunately veered from the proper channel in the St. Lawrence and wrenched her plates on a boulder necessitating a thorough overhauling.

Toronto Girl Lost by Her Guardian

Missing From His Home in Boston—A Mysterious Case.

Boston, Mass., March 6.—Miss Nellie Taylor, a pretty twenty-year-old girl who lately lived in Toronto, has been mysteriously missing since Saturday from the home of her guardian, Mr. R. M. Chapman, proprietor of the New Winthrop Hotel, Winthrop, Mass., Saturday morning Miss Taylor started for Hampden Falls, N.H., to get some things she had left there while on a summer vacation. She was due back in Boston at 5.30. When she did not arrive her friends thought she had been persuaded to stop over in New Hampshire. At 10.15 Mr. Chapman answered a telephone call, and this mysterious message came over the telephone. "Nellie is well-housed and all right." This was repeated in a woman's voice, apparently disguised. Mr. Chapman called up the telephone central girl and found that the call had come from the Revere House Boston. He could learn nothing there. Mr. Chapman is puzzled, as he knows of no reason why the girl should leave home. "I am beginning to fear foul play of some sort," he said, "I fear some strange woman has succeeded in gaining the little girl's confidence while she was on the train, and is now holding her a prisoner." Nellie Taylor is an orphan. She is described as five feet, tall, about 100 pounds, and quite pretty. She has a brother in Toronto.

Dropped Dead After Fighting Conductor

New York, March 6.—Ira Kilburn, a wealthy retired manufacturer living in Prospect avenue, South Orange, N.J. dropped dead in a police station in Newark, N.J., last night after a fight with a conductor on a street car. He had been knocked off the car, and with the conductor, James Kelly, taken to the police station. He was 72 years old.

Mr. Kilburn was on his way home from Newark and boarded a car. He and the conductor exchanged words and then blows, and both were taken to the police station. Kilburn started to tell his story, and fell dead in front of the desk. He was one of the best known men in the State, not only his long connection with the Agricultural Society, but because of his reputation as a breeder of trotting and road horses. He was an expert driver.

Kelly was held pending the result of an autopsy.

Proper Medicine For The Blood

Drives Away That Tired Feeling; Makes You Feel Brisk.

To every one is sure to come that tired, exhausted feeling.

When the blood is weak, thin and debilitated, circulation is slow, and in consequence the system is congested with poisons and wastes that should be driven off.

The sensible person acts on the teachings of experience and cleanses his system with a course of Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

No medicine can be more certain to quickly cure. Convenient to take, just one pill at bedtime; safe, because entirely vegetable; unfailing, because proved by thousands that Dr. Hamilton's Pills set you up in a few days.

From Chebogue Pt., N. S., comes the following from Mrs. W. A. Reynolds; "A year ago my health began to fail, I lost appetite, became nervous and sleepless. My weight ran down, I became thin, hollow-cheeked, and had black rings under my eyes. I really felt as if the charm of life had left me and when springtime arrived I was in the "Blues." I read of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and got five boxes at once.

"Within a month my appetite and color were good. I gained strength and felt like a new woman. New life and vigor returned, and my friends scarcely knew me. A medicine that will do this should be in every home."

Good health means much to you. Success and happiness depend upon it. The maintenance and source of health is found in Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

HOW LAWLESS ARE YOU?

Let the good work of reforming the very rich go on. It is wise and fine to expose the shortcomings of the high-placed and the powerful, and to put an end to those shortcomings if possible. At the same time it is worth while, in a period of hot indignation at the great and far away, to keep a level head and to see things in due proportion. The very rich and the great corporations probably stand in no greater need of reform than you and your next door neighbor. How lawless are you? Do you spit on the sidewalk? Do you run your automobile faster than the law allows? Do you deposit trash in your alley? Do you tempt men with the price of a drink to violate the Sunday closing law? Do you comply with the law in returning your personal property for taxation? Or do you perjure yourself once a year? And cheat the state of its legal dues? If the street car conductor overlooks you, do you volunteer your nickel? Do you commit robbery by not paying your debts? Do you spend any time or effort toward securing good government? In this country every individual holds one office—the office of elector. If you neglect the duty of that office in order to make money how much better are you than a thieving public treasurer?

Don't forget yourself. Your information about your crimes is much more accurate than your information about the crimes of others. And you can get at yourself better and quicker. Don't forget yourself. How mendacious, lawless, and dishonest are you?

Paste Diamonds Are Easily Made

"Counterfeit diamonds are worn much more generally than most people suppose," said a dealer in jewellery recently. "They are advertised as made out of a variety of materials—even to quartz crystals made with a solution of diamond dust in hydrofluoric acid; a total impossibility by the way—but there is nothing for the purpose like the good old French 'paste.' What is it? Why, nothing in the world but a fine quality of gas, with a large percentage of lead as an ingredient. But the processes employed in making this kind of glass must be conducted with the utmost nicety in order that it may have the requisite brilliancy and hardness; whereas for the best table glassware white quartz sand is employed, for paste this material is mixed half and half, with powdered rock crystal. Then carbonate of soda, calcined borax, saltpetre and red lead are added in due proportions, and the mass is fused by heat in a crucible, being finally permitted to cool slowly. Upon the care taken in the details of the process depend the density, transparency and beauty of the 'paste,' which when the stuff is cold is ready to be cut up into pieces suitable for preparation as 'diamonds.' Such preparation consists of cutting, with the help of a wheel and diamond dust, much in the same way as real diamonds are made ready for the market. The artificial gems thus made—the best of them, that is to say—possess considerable brilliancy and fire, so that any person not an expert would be likely to be deceived by them. Millions of the imitation diamonds cut in France, where the manufacture of them is a great industry, are imported to this continent annually for use in cheap jewellery. The ordinary ones cost five cents apiece wholesale, and are set in plated pins, rings and brooches. From the same kind of 'paste,' but of a superiative quality, are made high-class counterfeit diamonds, which sometimes sell for $10 or more apiece. They are cut by skilled diamond cutters, almost as carefully as real diamonds, and to the casual eye they are just about as brilliant. So much depends in this sort of work upon the correct utilization of optical principles that a perfectly cut 'paste' gem may actually have more fire and beauty than a poorly cut real diamond."

THE SCHOOL CANTEEN.

Provision of Meals Act in England—Hungry Children Fed—Parents Must Pay If They Can.

Among the useful measures passed by the British Government, and which went into force on New Year's Day, is the education (provision of meals) act, which empowers local education authorities to assist voluntary efforts for feeding underfed school children by providing buildings, furniture, apparatus, etc.—the food to be provided by voluntary effort.

Where the local education authorities are satisfied that there are children in want of food, and that earnest voluntary effort is not forthcoming, they may, with the consent of the Board of Education, provide the food also, to the extent of a half-penny rate.

Provision is made for requiring payment for the meals from parents able to pay.

Writing to The Chronicle on the working of the act, Dr. Macnamara says:

The scheme is, so far as the really necessitous child is concerned, simply this: The local education authority may, with the consent of the Board of Education, provide meals for it at once, and may spend a half-penny in the pound on the local rates in doing so, if necessary. But immediately it has fed the child it must at once ascertain whether the parent has neglected his duty. If it appears that the parent is honorably unable to pay, nothing more is said. Neither parent nor child suffers any taint or disability of pauperism. If, on the other hand, the necessity of the child is the fault of the parent, then the new law will pursue him for payment of the cost of the meal. Carry that out courageously for five years, and you will be astonished at the extent to which what was originally a mere self-protecting fear of legal consequences has developed into a genuinely self-respecting sense of moral obligation.

Take the compulsory attendance clauses of the education act of 1870. They drove into the schools tens of thousands of children the parents of whom would never, in the absence of legal compulsion, have dreamt of sending them there. Abolish those clauses to-morrow, and ninety per cent. of the same class of children would continue to be sent just as regularly as they are to-day. Why? Because a legal obligation has gradually transformed itself—as it always does in a case like this—into a sense of moral duty.

But our little act does more than provide for the necessitous child. It initiates a scheme of school canteens such as has long been a feature of the French primary school, and of our own secondary day schools. The local education authority may associate itself with any voluntary feeding agency in existence in its area. It "may aid that committee by furnishing such land, buildings, furniture, and apparatus, and such officers and servants as may be necessary for the preparation and service" of meals. The school canteen having been thus set up, the parents should be invited to allow their children to use it at midday. They will have to pay for any meals served; for, except to meet the case of the necessitous child, no public money may be spent on food; and even then only if voluntary funds are not available or are insufficient.

Frankly, I hope to see the school canteen plan widely developed. It is a fine thing to bring the children all together for a midday meal. The meal of good soup and pudding is far better than the little packet of bread and cheese (wrapped in a bit of rough brown paper that the rain as often as not has reduced to a soddened pulp), munched in a corner of one of the class-rooms. Working-class mothers would soon find that the penny or three half-pence spent daily on the school canteen represented to them a great economy of time and labor, and to their youngsters a midday meal far more nourishing and acceptable than could be provided, as a rule, by the little menage of the artisan home.

Mulloy to Oxford

Ottawa, March 3.—A movement is afoot among regimental officers to send the blind trooper, Milloy, injured in the South African war, and who is a B.A. at Queen's University, to Oxford University. The desire is to obtain for him a Rhodes Scholarship.

Weak Women

Be weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, making the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

Unearthed an Old Phoenician Temple

Madrid, March 3.—In the suburbs of Carmona, in the province of Seville, while making excavation in an ancient Roman necropolis, the workmen unearthed a Phoenician temple of great archaeological and artistic value. It is in a remarkably good state of preservation and contains several mosaics and frescoes depicting pastoral scenes. In one of the best preserved mosaics is seen a fisherman plying his trade, while at a short distance an excellent reproduction of the three-oar boat of the classic Phoenician type. Besides the golden bull adored by the Phenicians are found many inscriptions which are deemed of such importance that Professor Schulter, of Gottingen, has departed for the scene of the discovery.

Alligator's Skin.

The outer layers of the alligator's skin are said to contain a large percentage of silica; hence the hardness of the animal's hide.

Pittsburg.

Pittsburg was originally Fort du Quesne, then became Fort Pitt, in honor of the great British premier. The Delaware Indians called the place Menachsink, the walled place. The Senecas called it Deundaga, the forks of the stream.

Yiddish.

Yiddish is derived from the German world Judisch, meaning Jewish. It means a dialect spoken by the Jews in various localities.

Preserving Wood.

It is said that wood may be thoroughly preserved by being impregnated with a strong solution of calcium bisulphate and afterward with caustic lime. The pores are thus filled with the two solutions, which are oxidised by exposure to the air and become practically a part of the wood itself.

Land Tortoises.

The land tortoises of many countries bury themselves in the mud at the bottoms of streams and marshes on the approach of winter and also, it is said, at the coming of a protracted drought.

Minneapolis.

The word Minneapolis is a compound of an Indian word meaning curling water and a Greek word meaning city.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of Two full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the

BIG VEINS OF SILVER QUEEN MINE

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

to the 300,000 shares of stock at par value of $1 each will be received up to 12 o'clock noon on February 25th, 1907.

Applications will be filed in the order of receipt, and over-subscriptions will be returned by earliest mail.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Extra,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 6200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Nay; I think that I might do better," said Amos. "We might bait a trap for them there. Where is this powder of which you spoke?"

"Theuriet, the major domo, is giving out powder in the main storehouse."

"Very good." Amos vanished upstairs and returned with a large linen bag in his hand. This he filled with powder, and then, slinging it over his shoulder, he carried it out to the clump of bushes and placed it at the base of the sapling, cutting a strip out of the bark immediately above the spot. Then with a few leafy branches and fallen leaves he covered the powder bag very carefully over, so that it looked like a little hillock of earth. Having arranged all to his satisfaction, he returned.

"I think that we are all ready for them now," said the seigneur. "I would that the women and children were in a safe place. Has any one heard anything of Du Lhut?"

"Jean has the best ears of any of us, your excellency," said one man from beside the brass corner cannon. "He thought that he heard shots a few minutes ago."

"Then he has come into touch of them, Etienne, take ten men and go to the withered oak to cover them if they are retreating, but do not go another yard on any pretext. I am too short handed already. Perhaps, De Catinat, you wish to sleep?"

"No; I could not sleep."

"We can do no more down here. What do you say to a round or two of piquet?"

They ascended to the upper hall, where Adele came and sat by her husband, while the swarthy Onega crouched by the window, looking keenly out into the forest.

"Men are rushing from the woods!" cried Onega.

"Tut! It grows serious!" said the nobleman. "We can finish the game later. Remember that the deal lies with you. Let us see what it all means."

De Catinat had already rushed to the window. Du Lhut, young Achille de la Noue and eight of the covering party were running with their heads bent toward the stockade, the door of which had been opened to admit them. Here and there from behind the trees came little blue puffs of smoke. As the gate swung into place behind the little party the brass cannon at the corner gave a flash and a roar, while the whole outline of the wood was traced in a rolling cloud, and the shower of bullets rapped up against the wooden wall like hail upon a casement.

Having left Adele to the care of her Indian hostess and warned her for her life to keep from the windows, De Catinat seized his musket and rushed downstairs. As he passed, a bullet came piping through one of the narrow embrasures and starred itself in a little blotch of lead upon the opposite wall. The seigneur had already descended and was conversing with Du Lhut beside the door.

"A thousand of them, you say?"

"Yes; we came on a fresh trail of a large war party—200 at the least. They are all Mohawks and Cayugas, with a sprinkling of Oneidas. We had a running fight for a few miles, and we have lost five men. We had best have all ready to retire to the house if they carry the stockade. We can scarce hope to hold it when they are twenty to one."

Eight of the covering party were running with their heads bent.

"All is ready."

"And with our cannon we can keep their canoes from passing, so we might send our women away tonight."

"I had intended to do so. Will you take charge of the north side? You might come across to me with ten of your men now."

The firing came in one continuous rattle now from the edge of the wood, and the air was full of bullets. The assailants were all trained shots, men who had lived by their guns and to whom a shaking hand or a dim eye meant poverty and hunger. On the other hand, the defenders were also skilled in Indian fighting and wise in every trick and lure which could protect themselves or tempt their enemies to show. They kept well to the sides of the loopholes, watching through little crevices of the wood and firing swiftly when a chance offered. A red leg sticking straight up into the air from behind a log showed where one bullet at least had gone home, but there was little to aim at save a puff and flash from among the leaves or the shadowy figure of a warrior seen for an instant as he darted from one tree trunk to the other. Seven of the Canadians had already been hit, but only three were mortally wounded. The other four still kept manfully to their loopholes. The women sat in a line upon the ground, beneath the level of the holes, each with a saucerful of bullets and a canister of powder, passing up the loaded guns to the fighting men.

At first the attack had been all upon the south face, but as fresh bodies of the Iroquois came up their line spread and lengthened until the whole east face was girt with fire, which gradually enveloped the north also. The fort was ringed in by a great loop of smoke save only where the broad river flowed past them. Over near the farther bank the canoes were lurking, and one, manned by ten warriors, attempted to pass up the stream, but a good shot from the brass gun dashed in her side and sank her, while a second of grape left only four of the swimmers, whose high scalp locks stood out above the water like the back fins of some strange fish. On the inland side, however, the seigneur had ordered the cannon to be served no more, for the broad embrasures drew the enemy's fire, and of the men who had been struck half were among those who worked the guns.

The oft nobleman strutted about with his white ruffles and his clouded cane behind the line of parched, smoke grimed men, tapping his snuffbox and shooting out his little jests.

"What do you think of it, Du Lhut?" he asked.

"They seem to be drawing closer upon the east face, and I think that they will make a rush there before long," said Du Lhut.

The Wash Boiler.

Many watchful housekeepers complain that the wash boiler has an unfortunate way of rusting and iron molding the clothes. This may be avoided very simply by smearing the bottom of the boiler with a thick coating of good soap before putting it aside after the weekly washing is over. This little device will not only prevent rust, but the soap will serve as an excellent foundation for the suds of the coming wash day. Incidentally there comes to mind at this moment another excellent bit of advice—never use cold water to dampen clothes. Hot water does this work in a much more satisfactory and even manner.

Using Face Lotions.

In using buttermilk or any lotion for the face the manner of applying it is important. It is best to pour as much as you will need at one time of whatever you are using into a saucer. An excellent way of applying it is to use sterilized absorbent cotton or gauze, which can be bought reasonably by the pound or package at the chemist's. You can make some little balls of the cotton or pads of the gauze and put them into a clean wide mouthed jar with a screw top and use them as needed. Dip them into the lotion and gently wash it over the face, using fresh ones from time to time during the process.

Useful Seats.

In every house there are boxes, traveling trunks, etc., which some of us are obliged to have in our bedrooms, for the average house or flat does not rise to the dignity of a storeroom. Wherever they may be, they are an eyesore. But a tight fitting cover of sateen or cretonne will transform them, if not into things of beauty, at least into something more pleasing to the eye than originally, especially if the colors be chosen with due regard to the other surroundings.

Passing of the Old Maid.

Old maids are dying out. In a few years' time the typical old maid of our youth will rarely be seen, and a hundred years hence she will probably be dead altogether. The term "old maid" is now seldom or never heard; the expression "bachelor girl" has taken its place, and many and happy are the bachelor girls in Britain today, with their independence, their little homes and their own well arranged lives.—London Queen.

Grace In Sitting.

When a woman seats herself she should always take note of the lines of her gown. This should be gracefully hung across her knees, so as to bring out the line of the figure. A woman should seat herself in such a manner that she looks long, so to speak. The skirt can be so arranged over the feet that one takes on a nice height, even though one be built short.

Unterrified.

"Georgie, why did you take those pennies out of my purse?"

"I wanted some candy, mamma."

"Do you know where little boys who steal pennies go?"

"To the penitentiary. I guess [illegible]"

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 40 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 30 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains, making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 6 inch nicollite, 12 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

Sure Cure for Sciatica.

Sciatica is really inflammation of the sciatic nerve, the largest nerve in the body.

This passive inflammation is the product of a run-down condition, and in every case you may be sure the nerves are worn down fine.

The pain is the cry of the nerves for more food—for richer, redder blood.

Rubbing on a greasy liniment can't help very much—you must treat the blood and rebuild the nervous system.

This can be promptly done with Ferrozone.

No builder of nerve force is more powerful.

No tonic so quickly fortifies the muscular system, imparts such strength, such endurance and vigor.

Any traces of Uric Acid and rheumatic poison are quickly driven out by Ferrozone. The powered condition of the system is changed into a reserve of vigor that defies further attacks of Sciatic.

Marvellous in its preconstructive and rebuilding power, quick to give relief, absolutely sure to cure,—where can you find a better treatment than Ferrozone? Sold by all druggists in 50c. boxes; try Ferrozone.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners and the Amalgamated Carpenters and Joiners, have decided upon a minimum rate of 27 1-2 cents an hour for a nine-hour day. The report in the press a short time ago that 30 cents an hour would be asked was incorrect.

A Childrens' Aid Case Today

In our issue of yesterday we had an article, that, whilst received from supposedly reliable information, was partly right and partly wrong. In our report of yesterday we noted that Truant Inspector George Cochrane had issued a number of informations against certain children for being on the streets in undesirable (for children) hours. We find however that Mr. Cochrane was acting in one of his numerous jobs in this particular instance as representative of the Children's Aid Society. The case is one of some children taken to the Shelter and the parents will be before the magistrate this afternoon at three o'clock.

Local Presbytery in Session Yesterday

Yesterday morning the Presbytery of Peterborough met in St. Andrew's church, with some thirty-five present, including the ministers in the territory embraced by the Presbytery. Rev. Mr. Duncan, of Colborne, was appointed Moderator of the Assembly for the coming year. Rev. Mr. Peckover, of Omemee, and Rev. Mr. Sterling, of Lakehurst, were introduced as new members of the Presbytery.

A letter was read from Rev. Mr. Knolls, Port Hope, regarding the sale of that church property to the G.T.R. Mr. McNaughton, of Port Hope, was heard on this matter, and a committee was appointed to confer with a committee from that church regarding union with St. Paul's church.

The application of Rev. Mr. Duncan, of Colborne, to retire from active service in the ministry and be placed on the Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund list was granted.

The congregation of Lakehurst asked permission to erect a new church, which was granted.

Rev. Mr. Reeves read a satisfactory report of the Home Mission Committee.

Rev. Mr. Camp, of Havelock, wrote, asking that a student be appointed to take charge of the Round Lake, Oak Lake, South Lake and Stony Lake settlements during the summer.

Rev. Dr. J. B. Wilkinson of Winnipeg, was recommended for the chair of Church History and Practical Theology in the Presbyterian College, at Halifax.

Rev. Mr. McFarlane and Rev. Mr. Duncan were appointed representatives from the Presbytery to the W.F.M.S. Presbyterial, to be held at Cobourg in June.

Rev. Dr. Duval was recommended as Moderator of the General Assembly.

Mrs. John Middleton's Funeral Today

This afternoon at two p.m., the funeral of the late Mrs. John Middleton who passed away on Monday, will be held from the family residence in Dummer to the Warsaw cemetery.

The late Mrs. Middleton was 54 years of age, and had been ill with pneumonia for about a week. Her death was a great shock to a large circle of friends. Mrs. Middleton's maiden name was Mary Newell, and she had lived in Dummer practically all her life. She was a member of the Methodist church, and had a large number of friends.

The deceased is survived by her husband, one son, Mr. James Middleton, of Warsaw, and six daughters, Mrs. Glen Douglas, Warsaw; Mrs. (Capt.) May, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Brown, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mrs. Jos. Newell, Dummer; Mrs. H. Castle, Peterborough, and Mrs. Alfreda, who resided at home. Mrs. Frank Darling, of Dummer, who passed away a year ago, was also a daughter. One brother, Mr. John Newell, of this city, and three sisters, Mrs. Edward Armstrong of Dummer; Mrs. James Gouldie, and Mrs. Parker, of Minden, also survive.

License Inspector's New Office

License Inspector Jos. Stewart has taken and is now furnishing an office in the old Opera House block, just next door to the Crown Timber office. Inspector Stewart, whose admirable administration of his present position is now recognized by both those directly concerned and the public in general, has a newly papered and well lighted office centrally located. In connection with the office is a fire proof vault, in which the Government books and papers will be kept.

Cures Woman's Weaknesses.

We refer to that boon to weak, nervous, suffering women known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Dr. John Fyfe one of the Editorial Staff of THE ECLECTIC MEDICAL REVIEW says of Unicorn root (Helonias Dioica) which is one of the chief ingredients of the "Favorite Prescription":

"A remedy which invariably acts as a uterine invigorator * * * makes for normal activity of the entire reproductive system." He continues "In Helonias we have a medicament which more fully answers the above purposes than any other drug with which I am acquainted. In the treatment of diseases peculiar to women it is seldom that a case is seen which does not present some indication for this remedial agent." Dr. Fyfe further says: "The following are among the leading indications for Helonias (Unicorn root). Pain or aching in the back, with leucorrhoea; atonic (weak) conditions of the reproductive organs of women, mental depression and irritability, associated with chronic diseases of the reproductive organs of women: constant sensation of heat in the region of the kidneys; menorrhagia (flooding) due to a weakened condition of the reproductive system; amenorrhoea, suppressed or absent monthly periods, arising from or accompanying an abnormal condition of the digestive organs and Anemic (thin blood) habit; dragging sensations in the extreme lower part of the abdomen."

If more or less of the above symptoms are present, no invalid woman can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, one of the leading ingredients of which is Unicorn root, or Helonias, and the medical properties of which it most faithfully represents.

Of Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of "Favorite Prescription," Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago, says: "It is an important remedy in disorders of the womb. In all catarrhal conditions * * * and general enfeeblement, has useful."

Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, says of Golden Seal root: "In relation to its general effects on the system, there is no medicine in use about which there is such general unanimity of opinion. It is universally regarded as the tonic useful in all debilitated states."

Prof. R. Bartholow, M. D., of Jefferson Medical College, says of Golden Seal: "Valuable in uterine hemorrhage, menorrhagia (flooding) and congestive dysmenorrhoea (painful menstruation)."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription faithfully represents all the above named ingredients and cures the diseases for which they are recommended.

Government Attacked on Railway Policy---The Chief Issues Before the Electors Outlined.

(Special to The Times).

Winnipeg, Man., March 7.—The campaign just closed was the hottest in the history of the Province. The voting, which takes place today, will decide the fate of the Roblin Government. Conservatives express most decided opinions that the party will be returned by a majority as large as it had in the last Legislature, which was 33 seats.

Liberals are courting on a big upheaval in the country vote because of the agitation which they have worked with some success in leading agriculturists to believe that the Roblin Government is aware of the combination of interests led by members of the Winnipeg grain exchange to keep down prices of grain and thereby prevent the farmer from getting what is coming to him as the result of his toil in raising the crop. Liberals are also riding the temperance horse and church people have responded to a marked degree. In some cases clergymen of the Methodist faith have taken the platform in interests of Liberal party. Prof. Osborne, of Wesley College here, has been one of the most prominent speakers against the Roblin administration, and Rev. Prof. Bland, also of Wesley College, has published a circular calling on the electors to turn out the Conservatives, which he has distributed widely. Rev. C. W. Gordon spoke against the Government from his pulpit Sunday.

Mr. Edward Brown, of Portage La Prairie, the new leader of the Liberals has personally made a good impression. On the platform he is of a quiet demeanor, his delivery being free from fire works, but convincing.

Premier Roblin, on the other hand, is possessed of much eloquence, forcefulness and personal magnetism. He has conducted an exceedingly active campaign, speaking in almost every constituency of the province since the election date has been announced. During the past week he has been speaking morning, afternoon and evening in his own riding of Dufferin.

THE GOVERNMENT PROGRAMME.

The Government has made a strong appeal to the patriotism of the electors on the ground that the Province has been badly treated by the Dominion administration in the way of boundary extension and that Manitoba is being deprived of territory which rightfully belongs to her, that eventually this territory is to be divided between Ontario and Saskatchewan and that this Province will thus be debarred from a direct outlet to Hudson's Bay for shipment of wheat for transportation by steamer across the bay and thence to the old world markets.

Premier Roblin has also sent forth the edict that the Union Jack is to fly from every school house in the Province on each school day of the year.

The administration is being fiercely assailed because of its railway policy, Liberal campaigners asserting that the Canadian Northern Railway, the bonds of which are guaranteed by the Province, has been maintained in an entirely inadequate manner, that many of the lines have been closed all winter, thereby occasioning heavy loss to farmers who could not get their wheat moved, and that the Government has overbonded the C. N. R. to the amount of $2,000 per mile; which the Liberals promise to withdraw if they are returned to power.

PURITY CRY IN EVIDENCE.

The Opposition has made some headway in the purity cry. Its arguments outline an alliance between the Roblin Government and the liquor interests, principally because Mr. Aime Benard, Government candidate in Assiniboine, is a kind of hotel license broker in Winnipeg and controlled many of the licenses granted. It is pointed out by Government speakers, however, that the license law is more strictly administered in Manitoba than in any other Province of the Dominion, and that there is a total absence of the sale of intoxicants during prohibited hours.

Party papers are filled with the hottest kind of campaign literature and there is much betting on the result. Single wagers as high as $5,000 have been placed at even money that Brown will defeat Armstrong in Portage.

There is not much betting on the general result, however, as it is almost conceded that there will not be a sufficient upheaval to counteract the large majority which Mr. Roblin had in the last House. In Winnipeg, which last election returned three Conservatives, being the complete ticket, there is on this occasion much uncertainty. There has been added to the lists here 10,000 new names, the majority of the young men voting for the first time, and going to the polls with minds unbiased by previous connection with either party.

Preventics, as the name implies, prevent all Colds and Grippe when "taken at the sneeze stage." Preventics are toothsome candy tablets. Preventics dissipate all colds quickly, and taken early, when you first feel that a cold is coming, they check and prevent them. Preventics are thoroughly safe for children, and as effectual for adults. Sold and recommended in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes by J. D. Tully.

Mr. Gillespie Will Act for Dairymen

Yesterday morning, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, the well-known local cheese buyer who is a member of the Eastern Dairymen's Committee, received notice to attend the meeting as noted in a former issue to decide whether a dairy show will be held or not. The joint committee will confer in the morning, and in the afternoon will interview Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture, to ascertain what assistance the Ontario Government will give.

Mr. Gillespie's notice read as follows:

"A meeting of the representatives of the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Associations, and of the Ayrshire, Holstein and Jersey Cattle Breeders' Associations, who have been appointed to confer with one another in reference to the holding of a national dairy show, will be held in Toronto, at the Iroquois Hotel, Wednesday, March 13th, at ten o'clock a.m. At 2.30 p.m. on the same day, the representatives of these associations will hold an interview with Hon. Nelson Monteith, the Minister of Agriculture, in regard to the proposed show.

"Arrangements are being made for representatives of the Toronto and Peterborough City Councils to be present, to state what these cities will do in the way of a show. It is probable, also, that representatives of the leading manufacturers of dairy machinery will also be on hand to furnish any information that may be required from them in regard to the probable exhibit they may make."

Mr. W. R. Morris' Father is Dead

Yesterday morning the father of Mr. W. R. Morris of this city, passed away in Toronto, at 332 Huron street. The late Mr. Morris was 75 years of age, and was stricken with paralysis a short time ago. Mr. Morris is survived by his wife, two sons, Mr. W. R. Morris of Peterborough, and Mr. H. C. Morris, of the Bank of Commerce, Victoria, B.C., and one daughter, Miss Frances, who resides at home in Toronto.

The funeral will take place today at Perth, Mr. Morris' old home. Mr. W. R. Morris of this city was called to Toronto by his father's death. He will have the sympathy of many friends in Peterborough in his bereavement.

Coates Co. May Not Come Here

It is now rumored on fairly good authority that Peterborough will not get the long heralded Coates Company Works. It is said, and we think such is correct that the gentleman who was to have been Canadian manager has returned to Scotland. This statement, and as it may sound, does not reflect upon the advantages of Peterborough as a location for that industry but, it is said, correctly or incorrectly that this company has decided not to establish a factory in Canada.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

On Tuesday night, an elderly man named Neil Shields, arrived in the city from the farm where he is employed in Cavan, to have a taste of city life and, incidentally, its dissipations of a liquid nature. Ned found the latter. He put up at a local hotel after sampling the goods of various places, where fancy bottles filled with different brands of the stuff that cheers first and then tangles up the users' brains into all kinds of complicated knots. By 11 8-4 seconds before the clock struck six a.m., Ned was at the bar door to get a "hair of the dog that bit him" the night before. Unfortunately for him that particular bar did not open promptly at six as allowed by law. Ned's consuming thirst raged, so he wandered forth to another and still another place where spirits are retailed, until a welcomed door opened and by the exchange of sundry shekels, Ned got what he wanted and more. A few minutes before 10 a.m., Ned succumbed to the influence and reclined ungracefully on the hard pavement. He was taken to the police station and being in a seemingly unconscious state, Medical Health Officer Dr. Bingham was quickly called in. The doctor felt of his pulse, and quickly diagnosed Ned's symptoms as "Spirits Frumentitis." Edward was then escorted to cell No. 2, and placed tarefully upon the soft side of the bakers plank seat, where he peacefully but strenuously slumbered.

ENGLISHMEN AND CANADA

Conservative Club Favors Emigrants From the Mother Land.

(To the Editor of The Times).

Sir,—The Conservative Club, which is so very much alive to the best interests of Canada and the empire, has done well to extend a heartier welcome than usual to a class of immigrant, in this case, the much-abused Englishman. I would like to ask what nationality is there without its faults? Mr. Earl has his, I am told, in abundance. The Examiner has made a great and unpatriotic mistake in formulating discord and unpleasantness. It has done this part of the empire no service, I assure you, and it will be many a day before its part in this unpleasant affair is forgotten by either Englishmen or loyal Canadians.

Yours,

FOR THE EMPIRE.

Collingwood Dock

Ottawa, March 7.—Mr. Louis Coste, former chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, was examined by the Public Accounts Committee yesterday morning in reference to the Collingwood dry docks.

Mr. Coste made a valuation of the property for the Government. He is now a director of the company.

He admitted that the Public Works Department had declined to pay the bonus for two years. He had talked the matter over with Mr. Hyman, and told the Minister that he would not change the valuation of the property by a cent.

WOMEN CREATE A PROBLEM FOR CABINET

In Spite of Popular Sentiment in British Columbia They Ask for the Removal of the $500 Head Tax.

Victoria, March 7.—In the Chinese immigration question the British Columbia Legislature will, at its coming session, be confronted by one of the hardest problems ever set before a Canadian Provincial Government. Shall Chinamen be admitted to the Province, or shall they continue to be rigorously excluded? That is the question that must be answered by the Government, and high tspeedily at that; and whichever way it is answered it is bound to entail dissatisfaction and trouble, if not actual suffering.

When some three years ago the Government practically prohibited the immigration of Chinese by imposing a head tax of $500, the measure had the support of the majority of the people of the province. At that time the only interests involved were those of capital and labor. It was to satisfy the laboring men, who saw the average of their wage rate cut down by the Chinamen, that the law was passed. It was opposed by the owners of the large industries that gave employ to Chinamen—the sawmills, and the canneries, particularly the latter. The law, however, was passed. Chinamen ceased to immigrate into the Province, and the inevitable results followed. The few thousand Chinamen in the Province saw that they had matters all their own way, and refused to work save for almost the same wages as are paid to white men. The average of wage rate commenced to increase, and has been steadily rising ever since, and the supply of unskilled labor has as steadily decreased.

NEEDED AS DOMESTICS.

Labor was satisfied with conditions, and capital had managed to adjust itself to the existing state of affairs. With the increase in wages there has been a proportionate increase in the price of all necessaries, so that the gain in one is compensated by loss in another. Twelve months ago the opposing force of capital and labor were in a nicely adjusted state of equilibrium, and British Columbia might have worked out her salvation without the aid of the Chinese had it not been for the intervention of a third force. And this third force is the most powerful of all. It is the force of the home, and its agents are the women—the housewives of the Province. The Chinaman makes undoubted domestic servants—as cooks they are not to be surpassed by the best Parisian productions, and so long as immigration was unhampered the homes of British Columbia had at their disposal an unlimited supply of the best servants imaginable. Once the head tax was imposed that supply was cut off, and ever since that time Chinese servants have been growing more and more of a perquisite for the families of the wealthy only. Since 1903 the population of the Province has grown immensely; hundreds of new families have settled in the cities of the coast—Vancouver, Victoria, and New Westminster—and the demand for domestic servants has been growing greater and greater. The number of Chinese servants has, however, remained stationary, or grown less, for with the rise all round in the price of yellow labor many of the servants have perferred to leave their household positions and seek more remunerative employment.

BREAKS UP FRIENDSHIPS.

The inevitable result of the increase in demand has of course been an increase in the average wage rate, and to hold a Chinese servant the housewife must now pay as much per week as she was in the habit of paying per month in the good old days. Even then she cannot be sure of holding her servant. Jealously she guards her treasure, hiding him from the prying eyes of neighbors, but, nevertheless, despite all her care, it often happens that by offers of higher pay and shorter hours a neighboring housewife will manage to charm him away. More friendships have been broken in British Columbia during the last year over Chinese servants than over anything else.

Then, too, in the summer time it is a most unusually unfortunate household that manages to retain its cook, for at that season of the year there is employment to be got at the canneries, employment of a nature that a white man can undertake, and that the Chinamen will now only consider for wages many times higher than was formerly the case, for in July on to the end of September there is a general migration of Chinamen from the cities to the canneries, and a large proportion of those who go forth to split the festive salmon are household servants.

ENGLISH GIRLS MARRY.

Various attempts have been made to fill the deficiency caused by the shortage of Chinamen. Swedish and Norwegian girls have been imported but beside the deft and silent Chinamen they appear clumsy and stupid. English girls have been sent out by various charitable organizations, but they have always persisted in getting married just as soon as they arrived on the coast. All possible expedients have been given a trial, and now the housewives of the Province are crying out for the Chinaman again.

Louder and more urgent for the past two years, have been growing their demands, but up to a few weeks ago the ladies had been restrained by husbands, brothers, and sons who hated the yellow man, and had no desire for his return. Now have the women of the Province shaken off the control of their lords and masters, and have commenced to work, and to work in earnest, for the abolition of the head tax. The ladies of Victoria have been the first to take the lead. A petition has been prepared, for presentation to the government, asking that the head tax be taken off, and is even now being signed—a sort of declaration of independence of masculine rule—by hundreds of ladies. Other similar petitions are being circulated in Vancouver, New Westminster, and the other cities of the Province, and the whole will be submitted to the legislature at its coming session.

The ladies will have the support of the capitalistic and agricultural classes of the Province, but the movement will be bitterly opposed by the laboring men. On the streets and in all public places at the present time, the ladies' petition is the common topic of conversation, and the opinions one hears expressed are anything but complimentary to the ladies of Victoria in particular and the fair sex in general. Nevertheless the list of names on the petition continues to grow.

Local Mother Calls Her Boy a Demon

Parents Maltreat Their Son and He Is Handed Over to the Children's Aid Society.

A special session of the police court was held yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, concerning a small boy, named Frank Schwardt, who about a week ago was taken from his parents living on Victoria street, to the Children's Shelter. After several witnesses had been heard, a Mrs. Saide testified that the boy "was not used right, but in every way but right." She said Mrs. Schwardt had often struck him with a fork handle, a hard blow; the parents evidently do not like him. Mrs. Saide heard Mrs. Schwardt frequently said that "that crank ought to be dead and buried long ago." She had seen Mrs. Schwardt frequently abuse and slap the boy.

Bert Tamblin, a stone mason by trade, who lives two doors from the Schwardt residence on Victoria St., said that last Wednesday night, between seven and eight o'clock, he heard the boy crying on the street. He went after the boy, who started to run away. The lad started across a field and, crying, "For God's sake, Bert, don't take me home." The boy said he had had neither dinner nor supper. His mits were frozen to his hands. His feet were wet and the leather of his boots was frozen stiff. Witness said he kept him in his house all night. He never saw Schwardt drunk, but the reputation of the house is bad, and has heard Mrs. Schwardt frequently call her son, "You little devil, you little demon." The boy has a good reputation, and is as far as witness knows, a good boy.

Jos. Spenceley, who boards with the last witness, and is also a stone mason, knew the boy brought into the house that night. The boy could not have lived for another hour. He assisted in trying to get the boy's boots off. The boots were frozen stiff. The boy said his mother had beaten him that morning and when he got a chance to, he ran away.

Mrs. Tamlin, who lives on Victoria street, next door to the Schwardt's, then went into the witness box, and said that the boy complained that he had been whipped. She had, however, seen Mr. Schwardt strip the boy with a stick, "None too thin."

Rev. Canon Davidson then said that whilst he did not appear either for the boy or his parents, he thought Mrs. Schwardt should go into the witness box.

Mrs. Schwardt, in the box, said the boy, her son, is ten years old. She has three children living. Neither she nor her husband maltreated the boy. Her husband does not drink. Her boy is good but does not come to his meals regular.

In reply to a question by the magistrate, "Did you hear the former witness say that you called your son a little demon or a little devil?" the witness replied, "Well, he is a little demon, a perfect little demon."

In reply to a question, "Why did the boy go out once without his trousers?" the witness explained that the day in question he hung on a sleigh and got his pants torn off. The boy once, since going with young Tibault, had stolen a dollar from her. She never beat the boy with a stick, she used her hand. There is no difference made between this boy and her other children.

In response to Rev. Mr. Davidson, she would like her boy back, and would like to see him eat good meals. To Mr. Goldwell, secretary of the Children's Aid Society, she reluctantly said that the boy had slept out one night in a neighbor's hen house, and she then complained to Mr. Cochrane, officer of the Shelter. She did not hit the boy with a knife and make the wound on his head. The boy told her the cut on his head was caused by falling on a sleigh. She did not even examine the boy's wound. "Very unnatural for a mother," murmured his Worship.

Conreid Schwardt, father of the boy then went into the box, and said his boy was bad. The boy robbed his mother and his brothers' saving banks. He had beaten the boy, but had recently tried kindness with no avail. He had no control over the boy, but (to Mr. Goodwill) he would not consent to letting the boy go to the Children's Shelter, adding, "I have brought him up this far, and I want to do the same till he is 21 years old."

The magistrate clearly showed Schwardt that he Schwardt could not take proper care of the boy.

Schwardt said he would not sanction the boy being taken by the Shelter unless he would get him back at 14 years of age. "Yes," said the magistrate, as soon as he is able to earn money."

The magistrate in summing up, after being told by Schwardt that he could not pay anything towards the boy's keep, asked Mr. Davidson if he had anything to say. Mr. Davidson said that the parents were foreigners, and consequently their statements might be misjudged. This remark was given due consideration by his Worship.

One point that might but possibly did not have significance, was made by the boy's father, who said his boy, who at ten months old, was taken by his grandmother in Germany until five years old, was insured for some $150, still in force.

The magistrate handed the boy over to the Children's Aid Society, saying that the parents on their own confession had lost all control of his conduct.

Peterborough Was Again Victorious

Yesterday evening the local hockey club made their debut as "pros." when they played the Arnprior team, champions of the Upper Ottawa Valley League, who came here well recommended as being able to play fast hockey.

The game was played on keen ice, but the play was what one might term "sloppy," being one sided from beginning to end. At half time the score was 4—0, and at the finish the result was 13—3 in favor of the locals.

THE SUFFRAGETTES VOW VENGEANCE

Will Make it Warm for Parliamentary Opponents.

CONSTITUENCIES STORMED

Meetings to be Held in Ridings Represented by Members Who Attack the Sacred Cause.

London, March 6.—If the words of certain women truly with their dictionary definitions, there is a terrible vengeance hanging over all the members of the House of Commons who oppose Mr. Dickinson's Women's Suffrage Bill when it comes up on March 8th.

"We are going to make it warm for them," says Christabel Pankhurst. "We will storm their constituencies, and they will be only too glad to get out." They have already begun the process of making it warm for one of the unregenerate members. They are holding meetings in the Hitchin division of Hertfordshire, which is represented by Mr. Bertram, who opposes women's suffrage. The meetings are constantly interrupted by wicked men, who boo and jeer, while the women in the intervals of hymns, solemnly declare their readiness to face death for the storied cause.

ANOTHER GATHERING PLANNED.

Claxton Hall, where the feminine army lately mustered for the attack on the House of Commons, will be the scene today of another gathering to support the Dickinson Bill, the fate of which is awaited with daily increasing anxiety.

If the bill is brought to a division there seems to be every chance of its passing, but a division will not be reached unless the Speaker grants closure, because the Government has given only one evening for its discussion. Innumerable hostile amendments will open the floodgates of talk, and, if closure is not granted, the bill will be talked out.

Saturday's rout of the Progressives in London seems to have greatly strengthened the opposition to the bill by the Liberals, who ascribe the defeat on that momentous occasion largely to the women ratepayers. The suffragettes scoff at this idea.

"The cowards," says Christabel Pankhurst, "are only seizing this event as a peg on which to hang their real views of women suffrage. We have known their opinions all along, but they have been too cowardly to declare them."

NOT LIKELY TO PASS.

Apart from amendments to the bill there are no fewer than eight motions to reject it. One of the chief grounds for the Liberal hostility is expressed by Mr. Hemmerde, who points out that the bill as it stands simply multiplies the rich man's plural votes, as he could procure votes for his wife, daughters, nieces, and aunts.

If the bill passes and gets through the House of Lords, which is altogether unlikely, it is possible that it may even lead to an early dissolution of Parliament, inasmuch as precedent, since the Reform Bill of 1832, demands dissolution as soon as possible after the enfranchisement of any body of electors.

Wants U.S. to Cut Duty

London, March 7.—In the house of commons yesterday, Mitchell-Thomson, Conservative, suggested that Foreign Secretary Grey utilize the most favored nation clause of the Anglo-American treaties with the view of securing the admission of British goods into the United States on the same terms as Cuban goods.

The secretary, however, said he did not believe any benefit would result from such representations at the present moment, owing to the differences shown to exist in the views of the two countries by exchanges of communications between the late Balfour government and the government of the United States on this subject.

House Clean Your System!

Keep it Pure and Clean if You Desire Good Health.

The inside of your body requires attention just the same as the outside.

A great accumulation of effete matter is clinging to the various organs, and must be moved off.

Some gentle laxative and tonic should be used.

The system must be relieved of its burden, if you are to enjoy a happy, healthy summer.

Physicians who have examined the formula of Dr. Hamilton's Mandrake and Butternut Pills say no medicine could be better.

Whether ill or not, thousands rely on Dr Hamilton's Pills which are truly marvelous in preventing debility and sickness.

Begin Dr. Hamilton's Pills without delay. You'll feel stronger, eat better, digest better, sleep sounder, and gain more in weight.

Mr. Ed. Maynard, an old resident of New Westminster, B.C., writes: "I don't say Dr. Hamilton's Pills will cure everything, but they made a quick job of building up my run-down system. I had kidney disease and constipation and was wholly unfitted for work. Pains shot through my limbs and lodged in my back. Headaches often made me desperate. I had no appetite, an awful color, and felt despondent. Sometimes I was a little rheumatic. After a few days I began to mend, and kept up Dr. Hamilton's Pills till I was restored to my present tip-top condition."

Can you afford to miss the benefit of this marvel-working medicine. Think of it. All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Poison and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

TO HELP THE CHILDREN

Considerable interest has been taken in the question of juvenile courts, which have wielded such a potent influence for the reformation of juvenile offenders in certain cities on this continent, and especially in that of good Ben B. Lindsay, the "Kids' Judge," in Denver, Colorado.

It was, therefore, no doubt, gratifying to those who have interested themselves in this great work for the betterment of society, to notice that a measure is before the Dominion authorities for the widening of the powers of the juvenile courts, like that of Judge Lindsay. The measure does not propose to establish such courts, but only to make the new law applicable in a province which has already passed an act providing for children's judges, detention homes for children and probation officers for children. It is thus an optional measure, and one which makes it possible to bring the criminal law into touch with this latest philanthropic enterprise. It is also provided that a separate city or town, which has the facilities, may come under it even when the province has taken no action.

The theory of the law is that a child is always a child, even when it breaks the law. He is to be tried in private by a sympathetic paternal judge, who will not overawe him with much distant formality or confuse him as to "the nature of an oath." His name is not to get into the papers where it will be an incitement to him to seek further notoriety by crime, or an embarrassment to him in after years. He is not to be herded with adults in jail where past masters in crime will teach him more in an hour than he would learn amongst his companions in a year. He is—in a word—to be saved, not trained to the profession of crime.

It is an effort to make the State the parent of the parentless—or the poorly parented—child. In Denver, it has been an immense success. Very much depends upon the men who are chosen to preside over the juvenile courts. These are judges who must be born—not made. They need not know a great deal fo law; but they ought to be able to read the heart of a child. The law gives them great powers—almost almost dangerously great. They might be used to shelter criminals in the hands of a weak or a wicked judge. The clauses of the bill must be carefully considered with this peril in view. But these juvenile judges must be given enough power to rescue every boy and girl who may come before them as the helpless victim of iron circumstance.

41 Witnesses in the Canfield Case

Cayuga, March 6.—Forty-one subpoenas have been issued by Magistrate Cline in the Perkin case, 28 from Canfield, 7 from Welland, 4 from Hamilton, Dr. Ellis of Toronto, and Dr. Kerr of Dunnville.

Dr. Harrison, of Selkirk, has consented to sit on the case with Magistrate Cline, Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, counsel for the prisoner, arrived last night. The witness in whom the greatest interest is taken will be Thomas McDonnell, of Canfield.

It is fully expected that the entire countryside will be present at the preliminary hearing today. Detective Greer is now in town.

Mountaineers May Riddle Prosecutor

Lexington, Ky., March 6.—Accompanied by a company of the State Guard from Lexington, and a portion of the Frankfort Battery, Judge William Carnes will go to Jackson today to preside at a special term of court, to try Judge Hargis, charged with the assassination of Dr. J. B. Cox.

In case of the anticipated courtroom fight, it is believed Judge Hargis, his attorney, W. A. Young, and Prosecuting Attorney A. Floyd Byrd may be killed.

Byrd said yesterday that he would be killed if such a fight occurred.

The town of Jackson, he said, is full of excited mountaineers.

Tim Hurst's Baseball Troubles.

At the close of that memorable season when Tim Hurst managed the Browns for Von der Ahe he laid over in Philadelphia on his way to his home up the state, and while in the Quaker City he told his daily experiences while running the Mound City club.

"My Mondays," said Timothy, "were devoted to telling the St. Louis sporting editors how I was going to win the pennant the next year. Tuesdays I would be kept busy denying to the club owners that I had ever made any such statements. Wednesdays I would be explaining to the newspapers why we weren't winning games. Thursdays I would be fighting with Chris to keep him from fining the players all the money they had coming to them. Fridays I would generally be busy all day getting the terms of pitchers that no batter could hit."

"And on Saturdays?"

"On Saturdays I would spend the day signing players that couldn't hit any kind of pitching."

Paint and Ocean Travel.

"The worst feature of ocean travel is never mentioned in steamship company prospectuses or in books of travel," said a returned tourist. "It is not seasickness, for only a few are taken that way in the ocean greyhounds that neither rock nor pitch. It is not the narrow quarters or the inferior cooking or the tipping habit. It is paint. There is always wet paint on an ocean steamer, and there is never a sign on it to warn passengers. The modern sailor is a painter, constantly wielding the brush, always painting some part of the ship or other. There is hardly a passenger on an ocean liner that does not land from a voyage with some article of apparel damaged by paint. A sailor told me once that every ship is entirely repainted inside and out at least three times a year. The work goes on constantly in port and on the sea, and the passenger never can escape."

March Canadian Magazine

Mr. Ira A. Mackay, a well-known barrister of Halifax, has contributed an article to the March number of The Canadian Magazine entitled "Canadian Nationality." Many will think that he is a little too frank in his confessions of Canadian dependence on Great Britain, for while he is correct theoretically the theories and outward appearances of many of our forms of government are merely forms, which in actual practice are greatly modified if not entirely changed. Take, for instance, the function of the Governor-General of Canada. Government is done through him, and in theory he governs; but every thinking person knows that he does not govern. Nevertheless The Canadian Magazine is doing a creditable work in helping to make these weaknesses in our system more generally known.

TO PUNISH TATTLERS

Pekin, March 6.—At a conference between the Ministers of the Foreign Board and the Board of Posts and Communications, it has been decided to award the penalty of summary decapitation upon any telegraph employe who may in future be found guilty of revealing the contents of secret official telegrams to outsiders.

Upon the one revealing ordinary official telegrams to outsiders, the penalty will be 10 years' imprisonment. Anyone knowing that an official telegram has been revealed to outsiders and failing to report the same to the proper authorities will be sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

These new regulations have been officially transmitted to the officials of the Chinese telegraph administration throughout the country.

RIGHT USE OF BOOKS.

Lord Rosebery's Excellent Advice—Guides in Libraries Necessary to Extract Best Literary Food.

Lord Rosebery, as Chancellor of the London University, in accepting a gift to the University Library by the Goldsmith's Co., offered some excellent advice as to the proper use of books. His lordship said in part:

There was a misconception in some minds as to the function of a library, which they must not indulge in that afternoon. A library was an adjunct to a university, but it was not the staff on which a university leaned. There was a famous heresy that the true university of our day was a collection of books. That was one of those fallacies which passed current because it appeared under an illustrious name, but there was no greater misconception of a library than that it could take the place of a university. They might just as well say that the true regiment was a butcher's shop, for the reason that soldiers who were well-fed fought better than ill-fed soldiers. Food was necessary for a regiment, but it was not a regiment, any more than a library was a university.

No doubt a student must be fed by books, and it was impossible for him to proceed far without books, but the mere habit of reading, even reading copiously, without any exercises or output for his knowledge, was injurious rather than beneficial to the mind. It was apt to produce a condition of mental debility, if not of mental paralysis. If the mind was in the condition of receiving nothing but imports, and was not able to produce any exports, it was in a condition fatal to intellectual progress. If a university were only a collection of books, a student might enter a library and say, "A fig for your degrees; Mr. Carlyle has told me that this is the true place of my education, and Mr. Carlyle is good enough for me." His lordship said he wished to protest strongly against such an argument, and he hoped no student would ever believe that the library of this university was intended as anything more than a staff and an assistance.

What could be more fatal than a library without a guide? A young and ardent mind, let loose in the collection of the University of London would, as President Lincoln said, "Browse about indefinitely" without finding any fixed point on which it could concentrate its reading. Rather than browse about like a wild buffalo one had better be as a Dutch cow, that was tethered to a peg and could only eat within a limited circle. A student might enter a library, take down the first few books that came to his hand, and devour them without knowing till long afterwards that the books were quite obsolete and had been superseded by a hundred better ones on the same subject. A student entering a library must go there with an object, and must have guidance. He was quite aware that many eminent men dated their success from their haphazard reading in libraries at home. He would remind those who relied on that argument that those men confined that desultory reading to a very early period of life; if they had carried it on into middle age they would never have been eminent men.

His lordship went on to say that there were many Royal Commissions nowadays—it was almost the primary function of Government now to appoint Royal Commissions, but he was inclined to think the Royal Commission most required for intellectual purposes had not yet been appointed. It would be a Royal Commission of experts in the various departments of knowledge, who would tell us which were the books that were obsolete on any given subject—the books that had been superseded, and that, for all practical purposes, might be said to have no further existence. There was no student who had not felt that deficiency a great one in his own line of study. In the domain of history there should be no difficulty about an authorized inquisition condemning books to literary death, and thus enabling the student confronted with a list of books on any subject to discard a great number of them as practically dead.

New Theory of Birth Rate.

That a high birth rate does not necessarily involve a larger, effective addition to the population than does an average or even low birth rate, is the assertion of Sir William Dunbar, the Registrar-General, in a report on British vital statistics for 1906. This reads like a new theory in the steady fall in the birth rate, which is generally held to be a sign of a nation's decay.

In too many cases, claims Sir William, high birth rates are associated with excessive sickness and mortality during the first few years of life, the result being that fewer than the normal proportion of children survive for five years, while those who do survive fall below the normal standard of physical fitness.

There is some ground for the opinion that moderate birth rates, associated with low mortality, may be more effective towards keeping up the population than high rates associated with high mortality.

Among other facts, the death rate in England and Wales in 1906 was the lowest on record, while only four European countries had lower birth rates. Fifty-eight centenarians, of whom 47 were women, died that year.

running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide" The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east on sinking is found native silver." . . . The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent one one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the panning bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

The fire had indeed grown much fiercer upon the side which was defended by De Catinat, and it was plain that the main force of the Iroquois was gathered at that point. From every log and trunk and cleft and bush came the red flash with the gray halo, and the bullets sang in a continuous stream through the loopholes. Amos had whittled a little hole for himself about a foot above the ground and lay upon his face, loading and firing in his own quiet, methodical fashion. Beside him stood Ephraim Savage, his mouth set grimly, his eyes flashing from under his down drawn brows and his whole soul absorbed in the smiting of the Amalekites. De Catinat was bearing himself like an experienced soldier, walking up and down among his men with short words of praise or precept—those fire words, rough and blunt, which bring a glow to the heart and a flush to the cheek. Seven of his men were down, but as the attack grew fiercer upon his side it slackened upon the others, and the seigneur, with his son and Du Lhut, brought ten men to re-enforce him. De la Noue was holding out his snuff-box to De Catinat when a shrill scream from behind them made them both look round. Onega, the Indian wife, was wringing her hands over the body of her son. A glance showed that the bullet had pierced his heart and that he was dead.

For an instant the old nobleman's thin face grew a shade paler and the hand which held out the little gold box shook like a branch in the wind.

"The De la Noues always die upon the field of honor," he remarked. "I think that we should have some more men in the angle by the gun."

And now it became clear why it was that the Iroquois had chosen the eastern face for their main attack. It was that the clump of cover lay midway between the edge of the forest and the stockade. A storming party could creep as far as that and gather there for the final rush. First one crouching warrior and then a second and then a third darted across the little belt of open space and threw themselves down among the bushes. The fourth was hit and lay with his back broken a few paces out from the edge of the wood, but a stream of warriors continued to venture the passage until thirty-six had got across, and the little patch of underwood was full of lurking savages. Amos Green's time had come.

From where he lay he could see the white patch where he had cut the bark from the birch sapling, and he knew that immediately underneath it lay the powder bag. He sighted the mark and then slowly lowered his barrel until he had got to the base of the little tree as nearly as he could guess it among the tangle of bushes. The bullet penetrated the bag, and there was an explosion which shook the manor house and swayed the whole line of stout stockades as though they were cornstalks in a breeze. Up to the highest summits of the trees went the huge column of blue smoke, and after the first roar there was a deathly silence, which was broken by the patter and thud of falling bodies.

The blow was a heavy one. Of the thirty-six warriors, all picked for their valor, only four regained the shelter of the woods and those so torn and shattered that they were spent men. Already the Indians had lost heavily, and this fresh disaster made them reconsider their plan of attack. Their fire gradually slackened.

"Is it possible that they are going to abandon the attack?" cried De Catinat joyously.

But the wily Du Lhut shook his head. "A wolf would as soon leave a half gnawed bone as an Iroquois such a prize as this."

"But they have lost heavily."

"Aye, but not so heavily as ourselves in proportion to our numbers. They have lost fifty out of a thousand and we twenty out of threescore. No, no; they are holding a council, and we shall soon hear from them again. But it may be some hours first, and if you will take my advice you will have an hour's sleep, for you are not, as I can see by your eyes, as used to doing without it as I am."

De Catinat was indeed weary to the last pitch of human endurance. Amos Green and the seaman had already wrapped themselves in their blankets and sunk to sleep under the shelter of the stockade. The soldier rushed upstairs to say a few words of comfort to the trembling Adele, and then, throwing himself down upon a couch, he slept the dreamless sleep of an exhausted man. When at last he was aroused by a fresh sputter of musketry fire from the woods the sun was already low in the heavens, and the mellow light of evening tinged the bare walls of the room. He sprang from his couch, seized his musket and rushed downstairs. The defenders were gathered at their loopholes once more, while Du Lhut, the seigneur and Amos Green were whispering eagerly together.

"What is it, then? Are they coming on?" he asked.

"They are up to some devilry," said Du Lhut, peering out at the corner of the embrasure. "They are gathering thickly at the east fringe, and yet the firing comes from the north. It is not the Indian way to attack across the open, and yet, if they think help is coming from the fort, they might venture."

"The wood in front of us is alive with them," said Amos. "They are as busy as beavers among the underwood."

"Perhaps they are going to attack from this side and cover the attack by a fire from the flank."

"That is what I think," cried the seigneur. "Bring the spare guns up here and all the men except five for each side."

The words were hardly out of his mouth when a shrill yell rose from the wood, and in an instant a cloud of warriors burst out and charged across the open, howling, springing and waving their guns and tomahawks in the air. Some of those in front bore canoes between them, and as they reached the stockade they planted them against it and swarmed up them as if they had been scaling ladders. Others fired through the embrasures and loopholes, the muzzles of their guns touching those of the defenders, while others again sprang unaided on to the tops of the palisades and jumped fearlessly down upon the inner side. The Canadians fired while they had time to load, and then, clubbing their muskets, they smashed furiously at every red head which showed above the rails.

The din within the stockade was infernal, the shouts and cries of the French, the whooping of the savages and the terrified screaming of the frightened women blending into one dreadful uproar, above which could be heard the high, shrill voice of the old seigneur imploring his censitaires to stand fast. With Du Lhut, Amos, De Catinat and Ephraim Savage, he was ever in the forefront of the defense. So desperately did they fight, the sword and musket butt outreaching the tomahawk, that though at one time fifty Iroquois were over, the palisades they had slain or driven back nearly all of them, when a fresh wave burst suddenly over the south face, which had been stripped of its defenders. Du Lhut saw in an instant that the inclosure was lost and that only one thing could save the house.

Lightning Flashes.

Lightning flashes in a storm are found by an English observer to be much less irregular in period than they appear. Such storms have usually two foci, sometimes three, from which the flashes radiate, and the discharges from each come at regular intervals. The apparent irregularity is due to the varying rates of the different centers. In one storm noticed the two foci were about a mile and a half apart, and in an hour the northern center emitted thirty flashes at intervals of fifteen, thirty, forty-five, sixty and ninety seconds, and the southern center gave sixteen flashes at intervals of seventeen, thirty-four and fifty-one seconds. Another unexplained observation is that just before each great flash there is a momentary faint lighting up of the sky in the stormy region.

It Made a Difference.

An excited man rushed into a lawyer's office and without any preliminary burst out, "Has a husband a right to open his wife's letters?" "Certainly, sir, certainly," was the reply. "Open all you please." "Well, here is a letter my wife has written to your wife and asked me to deliver. I think there's something unpleasant in it about me. I wish you'd open it and if there is just burn it." "Humph! Does my wife know your wife is going to write to her?" "Yes." "And if my wife doesn't get this letter she'll soon find it out, won't she?" "Of course." "On second thoughts," said the lawyer thoughtfully, "I believe there is a legal finding to the effect that it is a criminal offense to open a wife's letters. I couldn't take the risk, sir; indeed, I couldn't."

Echo Verses.

Echo verses were sometimes used effectively for epigrams and squibs. Thus a critic once wrote:

I'd fain praise your poem. But, tell me, how is it
When I cry out "exquisite" echo cries "quis it?"

And when in 1831 Paganini was drawing crowds to the opera house at extravagant prices the Times printed the following lines:

What are they who pay three guineas
To hear a tune of Paganini?
Echo—Pack o' ninnies!

—London Graphic.

Youthful Misinformation.

Among the answers to questions at a recent school examination were the following interesting examples of youthful misinformation: "Gross ignorance is 144 times as bad as just ordinary ignorance." "Anchorite, an old fashioned hermit sort of a fellow who has anchored hisself to one place." "The liver is an infernal organ." "Vacuum is nothing with the air sucked out of it put up in a pickle bottle. It is very hard to get."

Only Two In Office.

A man in a certain township was elected constable. The members of the family were much elated and could scarcely contain themselves with their newly acquired civic honors. At last one of the smaller children said to the wife, "Ma, are we all constables?" The mother replied: "Gwan, child! Nobody's constable but me and your pa!"

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 16 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the May Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains, making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 56 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 12 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1908.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M. E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

Is the Word "Pants" Singular or Plural

Yesterday two or three gentlemen engaged in conversation in Mr. Pappas cigar store, got on the subject of children's compositions. Mr. Jas. Dolan produced a composition by a child known to him, which had for its subject "Pants," and read as follows;

"Pants were made for men and not for women. Women were made for men and not for pants. When a man pants for a woman and a woman pants for a man—these my friend, are a pair of pants, but such pants do not last. Pants are like molasses, they are thinner in summer and thicker in winter. A fat man cannot keep up his pants in hot weather without suspenders but a dog can. Men sometimes make mistakes in pants, and these mistakes are called "breeches" of promise. There has been much discussion as to whether pants are singular or plural. Now I think that when a man wears pants they are plural, but when he does not, it is singular. Judging by waist measurement Billy B.'s pants are plural.

Former Local Man Goes A-Gunning

That bright little sheet the Quill Lake Quill has the following concerning a son of Sheriff Hall of this city. Mr. Hall's son is manager of the Bank of Commerce at Quill Lake. The report referred to says;

Those who reside in the vicinity of the bank were surprised to hear shots during the small hours of the night. It was doubly surprising as no suspicious characters had been noticed about the town. Investigation proved, however, that the shots were not fired without cause. At least six or seven had succeeded in concealing themselves about the manager's room, and after everyone had retired, started in to make things lively for Mr. Hall. We feel confident that the bank will not be disturbed again as daylight revealed the fact that the shots had resulted fatally, and one of their number was killed—a neighbor's cat.

Norwood Teachers Resign

At the last meeting of the Norwood Board of Education, Mr. Leighton tendered his resignation as science master in the High School in that burg. Mr. J. L. Moore also resigned the principalship of the public school, the same to take effect 1st April, 1907. After some discussion it was resolved to report Mr. Moore's action to the Minister of Education, as it was claimed there was a breach of contract.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels, (as mucous diarrhea), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulas of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

VOL XXXV. NO. 57 — PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 8 1907 — PRICE TWO CENTS

DID H. PERKINS DIE OF STRYCHINE POISONING?

Dr. Bower, of Hamilton, Is Not at all Certain--- Much Evidence Taken at the Cayuga Trial.

Cayuga, March 8.—When the preliminary hearing in the case of Mrs. Mattie Perkins, charged with the murder of her husband, was resumed yesterday morning, the Crown Attorney caused some surprise by recalling Dr. Ellis, the Government analyst. This was done in view of a question asked by the accused's counsel just at the close last night, in regard to the traces of strychnine. The Crown asked the professor if he got the strychnine in crystallized form, and he replied that he did, by an ether and chloroform test.

Mrs. John MacDonald again took the stand. She was somewhat of a disappointment for the defence. In regard to her son being at the Perkins house at one in the morning one night last November, Mrs. MacDonald said, she stayed all night with Mrs. Perkins several times late last fall. Mrs. Perkins was nervous and asked her to stay. On some of these occasions her son Tom was there, but he never stayed all night. She remembered he stayed till after 12 o'clock once. The three remained up talking on these occasions. She said that Tom was connected with some shows, and that he was away at Dunnville several times early in the season.

SYMPTOMS OF POISONING.

Dr. Bower, Hamilton, who made the post-mortem, testified to having sent part of the viscera to Prof. Ellis. He found no organic disease in Perkins that should cause death. The brain and spinal column were much contracted, and there was some inflammation in some organs. The conditions were much as would follow strychnine poisoning, although there were often things which would cause the conditions found. On cross-examination the doctor said that twitching such as described by witnesses might be caused by uræic poison and meningitis, but Perkins did not die from these.

A MISTAKEN DIAGNOSIS.

Dr. Bower stated that the doctor who issued the death certificate made a mistake in his diagnosis of the case. Death was not due to perforated ulcer of the stomach. Eliminating Dr. Ellis' report, the witness said he would certify to the death as being from "unknown causes or heart failure." He would not be able to definitely class the case from the post-mortem or the symptoms described. Strychnine, he said, was often given for heart and stomach troubles. He had administered as much as 4 tenth grain. Regarding Perkins, the doctor said that the eyes were closed, but as a rule the eyes are closed in strychnine poisoning. Some of the symptoms given of the Monday illness were consistent with strychnine.

DEATH DUE TO POISONING.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, Hamilton, said, after reading the report of post-mortem and the analysis of the stomach and hearing the symptoms described, he did not think death could be due to anything else but strychnine poisoning. He was subjected to rigid cross-examination.

"Are you not here taking sides with the Crown?" asked Mr. Johnston.

"Not in the sense of being unfair. I assisted the Crown in framing questions to make the evidence clearer," he replied.

"Then you are here as an advocate, and have disqualified yourself as an expert witness," said the counsel.

"Do you agree with Dr. Bower's evidence?"

"That's a large question."

"But you are a large doctor; you are an advocate and expert witness in one," said Mr. Johnston.

PERKINS FELT SICK.

At the opening of the inquiry yesterday, Mr. Johnston's cross-examination was in several cases quite dramatic.

John S. Darrah, a farmer of North Cayuga, and lessee of the farm owned by the late Henry Perkins, told how Perkins had come to his place feeling sick and had been attended to. He had declared that he had never had an attack of the kind before.

AT THE DEATHBED.

Louis Methenbacher, a Canfield hotel-keeper, said he had gone to the Perkins' home on Christmas morning. Mrs. John Macdonald was attending Perkins, who acted as if he was in pain. There was nothing unusual about his death. About an hour before he died, Mrs. Perkins offered her husband a drink, and he had seemed to draw away from the cup.

Henry Wilkinson, a railway man described the death of Perkins. He admitted that he and Thomas Macdonald frequently went to the Perkins home during the absence of Mr. Perkins. Until this trouble, Wilkinson said, in answer to Mr. Johnston, he had never heard of anything improper between the prisoner and Mr. Macdonald.

at 6.30 he was delivering goods at the Y.W.C.A. When he came out he saw Mr. Foster holding a couple of boys. Foster asked him to look in his rig and see if anything was missing. He missed some goods. A woman standing there told him that one of the boys was young Shear. Shear said young Crouther had taken the goods and run away. He then went back to the shop and Mr. Hamilton checked the parcels on the rig and ascertained that a package of rice and sugar were missing. He went across the street, to where Mr. Foster had seen a bag of sugar that had been left on the snow near a fence.

To Mr. Gordon, acting for the prisoner, witness said that the parcels could not have been delivered by mistake to the Y.W.C.A.

John Foster said that on the day mentioned he saw Hamilton's driver enter the Y.W.C.A. Two boys ran across the street, when he stepped behind a tree. They sorted over the parcels in Hamilton's rig. He saw Crouther pick up some parcels and run up Aylmer street. He followed the boys, when Crouther dropped one of the parcels. He then ran on and caught the boy named LeGros. The parcel of sugar he found had been about half spilled out. It was white sugar, not like the brown sugar produced in court. The Crouther boy ran too fast for him. To Mr. Gordon, he had seen Crouther's father and mother about the theft.

Mrs. Shear said the prisoner did not get the parcels in court from her.

P. C. Adams said that on Saturday prisoner's father brought in the packages, saying his boy had got them from Mrs. Shear on Aylmer street. Prisoner told him he got the parcels from Mrs. Shear.

Herbert Le Gros, 10 years old, said he was with prisoner when the latter took the two parcels. Prisoner said to him, "Come on over and take some things."

Mr. Gordon made a strong plea for his client. The magistrate reserved judgment until Monday next.

A PARTICULARLY SAD DEATH

Master Fred. G. Wyatt, of the East Ward, Passes Away.

It is with sorrow The Times is forced to chronicle the death of Master Fred G. Wyatt, second son of Mr. G. L. Wyatt, Fifth Ward. Fred, as he was familiarly known to his many friends, was taken ill in the early part of January with rheumatism. He was attended by the best medical skill in the city, but notwithstanding this, his condition did not improve. The disease attacked his heart, and the end came yesterday morning shortly after one o'clock. He was seventeen years of age, and was very popular with his companions and all who knew him. He will be greatly missed, especially at The Times office, where he was employed, and where he had earned the confidence and good-will of the management and his fellow employees. The Times tenders its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family in their irreparable loss.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, Driscoll terrace, tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, to the Little Lake cemetery.

How a Lunatic Shot Mr Armstrong

The Hastings Star says; in part, referring to the death of the late Bernard Armstrong, at Fort William by a lunatic named Manson Patterson,

The shooting took place in a Riverside boarding house where Mr. Armstrong of Percy County, was working, when without any notice whatever, Manson Patterson, rushed upstairs, and fired.

Then he ran down stairs and shot a man named Costello, who was just coming up from the cellar.

Costello grappling with his assailant, Costello got the gun away from him and knocked him down. Magistrate Ralling was summoned, and, Mr. Armstrong told his version of the affair.

He was unable to raise his arm to sign the statement, the shot having partly paralyzed it. He said, "I don't know why he should have shot me."

The remains will likely arrive here on Saturday, and the funeral take place on Sunday afternoon or Monday morning, under the auspices of the Catholic Order of Foresters, of which Order the deceased was a member.

City's Bills Before Ontario Government

The city's special legislation will come before the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature, next week. On Tuesday a deputation from the council interviewed members of the committee and made a few changes in the bill which will make it more acceptable to the committee.

The committee appointed by the council last Monday night to look after this matter will leave next Wednesday morning for Toronto. The same committee in charge of the private bill will also meet the dairymen in Toronto that day and endeavor to get the proposed exhibition booked for Peterborough. On Thursday the deputation will be at the parliament buildings.

STORMY SESSION OF COMMITTEE

Mr. Studholme of Hamilton Ran Foul of Members.

CONSIDERING PRIVATE BILLS

Miss Holmes Given License to Practice Dentistry for Two Years.

Toronto, March 8.—The Act to authorize Sadie Holmes to practice dentistry was discussed in committee yesterday morning in the legislature. Miss Holmes herself addressed the committee, setting forth her experience, qualifications and testimonials. She was also represented by Mr. Eric Armour.

Dr. Burns, a professional practitioner, paid a tribute to the work of Miss Holmes.

Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., representing the Dental Association, opposed the application. Dr. Abbott and Dr. Thornton also spoke.

Mr. Studholme made a vigorous appeal against close corporations, but said he was opposed to Miss Holmes' application. He had letters from all the dentists in Hamilton on the matter.

Mr. Dunlop—"Well, aren't they interested?"

Mr. Studholme—"Are you a dentist?"

Mr. Dunlop—"Oh, no."

Mr. Studholme—"Well, then, shut your mouth."

Hon. A. G. Mackay, rose to a point of order. Mr. Studholme was not a member of the committee. He had been accorded many privileges and favors. Now he took it upon himself to deliberately insult a member of the committee. Hon. Mr. Mackay said it was time for the chairman to take action.

Mr. Studholme, interrupting—"I've got letters from all the dentists in Hamilton, and this man doesn't know what he was talking about. I am a working man with sons who may want to study dentistry—"

Hon. Col. Matheson, rose. "I rose to take the same stand as my hon. friend, Mr. Mackay. I think that liberality is beaming to be a virtue in the case of Mr. Studholme when he undertakes to use such language to a fellow member. I think the chairman should insist upon the withdrawal of the ill-advised and uncalled for expression——"

Mr. Studholme, interrupting—"If he quits interrupting me I won't tell him to shut his mouth. If he continues I'll repeat. I am a working man with sons and I speak on principle——"

Chairman Lucas, sternly — That will do now, Mr. Studholme. You are not a member of this committee, and unless you withdraw your statement you cannot further address this Committee."

Mr. Studholme still attempted to continue his remarks, but the members insisted on his ceasing.

Miss Holmes was accorded the privilege of practicing for two years, during or at the end of which time she will pass the dental examination.

KILLS CATARRHAL GERMS

Breathe Hyomei's Medicated Air and You Will Soon be Well.

If you have catarrh in the nose, head or throat, with offensive breath, coughing, irritation of the throat, raising of mucous, difficulty in breathing, sneezing, husky or hoarse voice, discharge from the nose, tickling and dropping at the back of the throat, especially at night, begin the use of Hyomei at once.

Its healing medication breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, will give quick relief in all catarrhal troubles, and its continued use will kill the catarrhal germs, and drive them from the system.

By using Hyomei you get in your own home the same results as though you lived out of doors in the Adirondacks or the Colorado mountains. The germ-killing properties of Hyomei reach the most remote air cells of the respiratory organs, soothing and healing any irritation there may be in the mucous membrane, and killing all catarrhal germs.

Here in Peterborough where Hyomei has been known and sold, there are many who freely attest its wonderful powers but the best testimony that can be offered in favor of Hyomei is the guarantee with every outfit "money back if it fails."

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00, extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents, making it the most economical treatment for catarrh as well as the only one that is sold under a guarantee to refund the money if it fails to cure.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei, or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with a treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. Rev. C. E. Sharp on the Duties of Lent

Rev. C. E. Sharpe, rector of St. Thomas church, Toronto, was the special preacher at the fourth of the special Lenten addresses in St. John's church. Mr. Sharp was for 14 years rector of the Esquimault in British Columbia, and was also chaplain of the British navy. Rev. Mr. Sharp was head of the settlement missions in East London for a number of years. His text was taken from the 28th and 29th verses of the 11th chapter of St. Matthew, "Come unto Me, I will give you rest." "Take My yoke upon you and learn of Me." The speaker said one great object of Lent was that our souls might come out of the atmosphere of restlessness and enter into that rest and peace which was found in communion with God. The reverend gentleman then gave those present a heart to heart talk as to their respective duties during Lent.

Contracts for the New Coll. Institute

It is now up to the local contractors to put in their tenders for the new Collegiate Institute building. These tenders will have to be submitted by March 30th.

The Board of Education as noted in yesterday's issue, met Wednesday night and went into Committee of the Whole and considered the plans and specifications. It has since transpired that during the secret session a few minor alterations were made in the specifications and adopted. The Board then authorized the chairman to call for tenders.

Work on the contract must be started not later than April 15th, and the building completed by Dec. 15th, 1907, if the contract is carried out according to specifications the Collegiate Institute will be opened the first of next year.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

"Uncle Josh Spruceby"

Messrs. Hanks & Fraser last night presented the old-time favorite comedy drama, "Uncle Josh Spruceby" to a good audience at the Grand Opera House. This is a pretty rural piece, faithfully portraying country life, and possessing a thrilling climax in act three, when Uncle Josh's idolized daughter is rescued from the merciless teeth of a gigantic timber saw at the last moment. The company carrying Uncle Josh Spruceby in this its 14th continental tour is meeting with well-earned appreciation at the hands of their audiences, and the play is still good for many more return visits. Darden Lefferts, as Uncle Josh Spruceby, faithfully portrays the character of a good-natured and jolly farmer, and Alsara Verton has the correct conception of what is demanded of her in the role of Uncle Josh's idol.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, lessees of the opera house, are keeping faith with the public in bringing to the Grand attractions worthy of patronage.

The Conservative's Win in Manitoba

Winnipeg, March 8.—At one o'clock this morning the reports from Manitoba indicated that the Conservatives will have a working majority in the Legislature. The returns are not yet nearly complete, but there is every probability that the government will be sustained. The election was one of the hottest that has ever taken place in the political history of the Prairie Province.

A Pretty Wedding at Young's Point

A pretty wedding was celebrated on Feb. 27th at Young's Point, at the residence of Mr. Henry Lane, when his daughter Letitia May, became the bride of Mr. John Harrison of Lakefield. Rev. Mr. Bedford, tied the nuptial knot, as, in front of some of 30 guests, the bridal pair stood under a decorated arch of evergreens.

The bride was attired in white, and wore the customary veil and range blossoms, and was assisted by her cousin, Miss Louise Nelson, of Lang, while Mr. Ross Harrison, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

After the wedding supper had been served, the young couple drove to Lakefield, where they intend residing.

Buys Constantinople Quays

London, March 7.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Mail says the Bank of England and the French branch of the Ottoman Bank have jointly bought the quays of Constantinople from the French company owning them. The purchasers have equal shares in the ownership.

The quays are vital to the commerce of the Near East, and their purchase is probably the most important development in British trade since the early eighties.

DIES FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN MATCH

"Bud" McCourt, Rover of the Cornwall Hockey Team is Dead as Result of Blow He Got From Ottawa Player.

Cornwall, March 8.—Owen McCourt, "Bud," the famous rover of the Cornwall hockey club, died about eight a.m. yesterday, in the Hotel Dieu, as the result of the injuries he received in Wednesday night's hockey game.

The Victorias of Ottawa and the Cornwalls were replaying a Federal League game which was ordered to be played over in consequence of McCourt and Degray having played a couple of matches with the Shamrocks. The game was becoming rather rough, and full of body-checking, tripping, and slashing, as a result of the referee's leniency.

A GENERAL MIX-UP.

Early in the second half McCourt and Throop exchanged blows and separated. As they came to the side, Throop seemed to strike again at McCourt, and as the latter went to retaliate, Charles Masson of Ottawa team struck him on the head, and he went down "like an ox," while Ramsone cut Throop across the cranium.

It all happened in a second or two, and both men were helped off the ice and a doctor sent for. McCourt returned to the game for a few minutes, but complaining that he was "All in," he retired to the dressing room. These were his last words, as he was unconscious when Dr. D. O. Alguire reached his side a minute or so later. He was taken to the Hotel Dieu, where an operation by Drs. Alguire and Hamilton revealed a broken blood vessel in the brain.

REMAINED UNCONSCIOUS.

The fracture was almost in the same place as that of Alcide Larin, the Alexandria player, who was killed two years ago at Maxville. McCourt never regained consciousness, and passed away about eight o'clock yesterday morning.

When it was discovered that McCourt's condition was critical, Chief of Police Smyth laid an information before Hill Campbell, J.P., charging Masson with assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm, and yesterday morning just before McCourt breathed his last, Chief Smyth arrested Masson at the Hotel Duquette, and conveyed him to the lock-up.

NO BAIL ALLOWED.

Masson, who is a son of Alderman Masson of Ottawa, wanted bail, but this was out of the question when it was known that McCourt had passed away. The charge against Masson will be amended today.

The deceased player was a fine young man, standing over six feet in height. He was a splendid player, fast and clever, and his work was generally clean. He had a hot temper, but was never deliberately rough.

He had been playing hockey and lacrosse since his earliest school days, and had been in senior company four years, playing in Woodstock in 1905, and the other years in Cornwall. He played several matches last season with Cornwall lacrosse club.

PREMONITION OF HARM.

He was the eldest son of the late Patrick McCourt and was born in Cornwall 22 years ago. Last fall he had a severe attack of typhoid fever, but recovered, and was able to take part in recent matches. Wednesday night he seemed to have a premonition of something, and did not want to play. He did not come to the rink till nearly nine o'clock, and only went on at the last minute, because the local team were handicapped by the absence of several other men.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The coroner's inquest opened at the Hotel Dieu at 11 a.m. After the jury had interviewed the body, the inquest was adjourned till March 13, at the court house, Cornwall.

So far Masson is the only one arrested, and it is not known whether he will get bail or not till after the inquest.

CURLING.

Whilst The Times is not today given away with a pair of black gloves and a floral wreath thrown in for every issue, we must regret to say that the local curlers went down to defeat at Lindsay, so that the Lindsay Curling Club, have won the cup for 1907. The Scugog curlers won out, being twelve shots up on the round. Four Lindsay rinks came to Peterborough, and four quartettes from the local club went to Lindsay. The Peterborough curlers won out at home being eight shots up at the end of the match. The score at Charlotte street rink being 87—59. At Lindsay, however, the Peterborough men were not as successful, the homesters being 62 shots up, thus giving Lindsay the match by fourteen shots.

Wins Remarkable Suit

Liverpool, March 7.—To bring back the spirits of the dead a medium must herself experience the agonies of death," said Mrs. White, a clairvoyant, in the course of the hearing of a suit in court here yesterday in which she was the defendant. She explained that she had not only felt her throat cut while following her profession, but had also passed through all the horrors of hanging. The prosecutor sued to recover a sum of money paid to Mrs. White under the belief that the spirit of his dead mother, speaking through the medium, bade him give the money for spiritualistic purposes. The court ruled in favor of Mrs. White on the ground that her services had evidently given great comfort to the plaintiff.

St. John's, Nfld., March 7. — The freight steamer Cheronea, bound from Calais, France, for New York, which was reported as passing Cape Race in a damaged condition on March 4, has arrived in Placentia, Nfld.

Captain Liswell stated yesterday that the steamer came in contact with huge ice floes off the Grand Banks, having some of her plates indented, and sustaining a slight leak in her forward compartment. The damage is not serious.

Examiner Team Beats Review by 4-1

Newspaper Socrates Play the Fastest Game on Record

Peterborough's youth and chivalry was gathered there, with both bald heads and auburn hair, and all went merry as seventeen marriage bells, as with vast applause and typos' yells, the newspaperdom of the city mixed up on Brock street rink and ventured near to danger's brink.

To get down to facts last night the two evening papers of Peterborough, each sent a so-called, (and by jingo, well deserved) hockey team to try for the newspaper championship of Peterborough. As the players belonged to the 4th estate we might be allowed poetic license in computing the audience, but in cold bare faced facts, there were at least 600 who paid 10 cents a head towards helping the Children's Aid Society from those seeing one of the most singular games of hockey extant.

This city has reason to be proud of the boys who last night exchanged scissors, paste brush, pencil and mendacity for hockey sticks. A good clean game was put up on Brock street rink by both sides, only two or three being sent to the pink and this more from innocence than design. Mr. Geo. Lynch acted very favorably as referee.

During the whole game, whilst team play was a "non-est," the fun was fast and furious. The Review bunch played a Conservative and no-Tory-ously swift game, whilst the Examiner men showed much Grit and a decided reform in many ways.

By our stop watch we ascertained that "Hutch" slid 2714 times on the northend of his gamentionables, to a distance of 36 feet and 1114 times, making 64 feet, whilst Fred Craig played frog 113 times as goal keeper. McCrea was a thummer and played rust hockey. Craig's stoppage of the puck at times was phenominal, as his skates would spur heavenward just as the puck was arriving, and his not-to-go-out withoutables would interfere with the rubber's progress towards the net. Theobald was a host in himself as he played a fast, scientific and get there game. Had Saul only gotten into the Review team, things might have gone different, as possibly an Examiner Jonathan might have met with defeat.

After a fast game at the end of the first half the score stood, Examiner 3, Review 1.

During the second half the Review team got busy and kept the rubber nearly all the time in their opponents' territory, but luck or (?) prevented their scorings, and the Grits won out by still another goal or 4—1.

THE POLICE NEWS

GATHERED BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Local Happenings Around the Police Court and Station.

The first case tried at yesterday's police court was that brought by Wellington Cannon against a man named Snider for assault. Cannon said that he went to Snider's residence Snider hit him in the mouth with his fist breaking his pipe. Snider said he did not remember anything about the matter having been drunk at the time. The defendant was fined $2 with $2.85 costs, to be paid inten days.

The case of young Crouther was next tried. Crouther was charged with stealing two pounds of rice and four pounds of sugar from Mr. W. H. Hamilton, the Simcoe street grocer. Mr. Hamilton in the box, said that two parcels, produced in court, had been brought, after the theft to his store, and were alleged by him to be those stolen, but they were not the goods stolen. He knew nothing of the real facts of the theft except what his driver had told him. He had a sample of the kind of rice stolen which was of a different kind from that brought him by Crouther. Crouther's father when he brought the parcels (produced in court) that his boy had got the goods from young Shearer.

Bruce Kennedy, Mr. Hamilton's driver, said that on the 26th of Feb.

Beware of Mercury

You May be Using this Harmful Drug and Not Know it.

A favorite method of administering this deleterious drug is in cathartic pills. Beware of "quick-result" articles, they may do more harm than good.

Drastic cathartics will weaken the strongest. With old people they are a positive menace to life.

Merely to restore normal bowel action and gently stimulate the liver is all that the wise physician recommends.

To keep the system pure and clean, nothing is so efficacious, as the vegetable pills of Dr. Hamilton, which are composed of such herbs as mandrake, butternut and dandelion; they contain not an atom of any substance that could injure even an infant.

By their certain action on the Liver Dr. Hamilton's Pills cause bile to be secreted which forms the stimulus that moves the bowels; this is nature's own method and the best one.

Mr R. Hamsby, of French River, Ont., writes as follows: "I was inclined to bilious attacks and frequently was too ill to work. Most remedies poisoned and weakened my bowels, but Dr. Hamilton's Pills gently stimulated my liver, and by strengthening the stomach made a perfect cure. My health has been just splendid since I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Get. Dr. Hamilton's Pills from your druggist or storekeeper, 25c per box or five boxes for $1. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co. Hartford, Conn., U.S.A., or Kingston, Ont.

BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

Britain owes a duty to her unemployed. We do not now refer to the professional unemployed, but to the thousands of worthy men, many of whom have served in the army and obtained honorable discharge, who are said to be suffering for want of work. There is abundant wealth in Britain, but none of it is so valuable as the strong arms and the willing hearts of her stalwart sons, and it is the duty of the people, who have means at their command, to see that this wealth does not become debased through prolonged idleness or lost to the Empire, by being driven to foreign lands. In this broad Dominion there is unlimited opportunity for men, who are willing to do a fair day's work for a fair day's wage. It is perhaps no part of the duty of a Canadian paper to attempt to show to the British people in what direction their duty lies, but even the opinion of a paper may not be wholly valueless upon such a matter. Canada wants the man, for whom Britain seems to have no employment. Canada does not want the off-scourings of the cities, the men, whose fathers before them were "unemployed," the men, who, perhaps through no fault of theirs, do not recognise any obligation to be self-supporting; but she does want, and and cannot get too many men, who are willing to work, if they can get a chance to do so. Possibly the problem of the professional "unemployed" will have to work itself out in its own way. The thing to be done is to keep the ranks of that army from being recruited by those who are forced into unwilling idleness.

We venture to make the suggestion that no better charity could be inaugurated in England than one that would secure passages to Canada for as many able-bodied, respectable men as are willing to come and take their chances of getting employment here. They ought not to be sent out to the Atlantic seaboard of Canada and be dumped there to shift for themselves, but they should be provided with means to go where work is to be done. Let it be supposed that it would cost $50,000 to send 1,000 decent young fellows out to the Canadian railway companies for example. The chances are that the very great majority of them would make valuable citizens of Canada, and do their share in building up the Empire. Such a sum would be a trifle to be raised in England. What seems necessary is for some good organizer to take the initiative. The rest would be easy. We repeat that Britain owes a duty to her sons. To permit them to remain at home in idleness is to injure both them and the nation; to send them to this land of opportunity would be a splendid charity and a piece of practical empire-building worth thousands of columns of newspaper gush about how the imperial idea can be best developed.

—Don't fail to take advantage of the reduced prices of good cloth bound books now on sale at 10 and 15 cents each. In another column we name a few of the titles. Times Bookstore.

British Lords Are Still Safe

The Government Has Modified Its Intention.

London, March 7.—The insincerity of the government's attack on the House of Lords becomes continually more apparent. When questioned yesterday in the House of Commons as to when the government was going to submit proposals to cut their lordships' claws, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Prime Minister, evaded the issue, pleading that the financial proposals were likely to absorb a large part of the labors of the house for some time to come.

The Standard of yesterday's date, says there is good reason to believe that the government has seriously modified its intention in regard to the House of Lords. Large numbers of Liberals, who were formerly anxious to promote agitation in the country against the Upper House, have completely altered their tone. This circumstance is due, without doubt, to the moral effect of the Brigg election, the reduction of the Liberal majorities in Aberdeen and North-east Derbyshire, and the Progressive and Socialist bout in London.

Ship Imperilled by Both Fire and Water

New York, March 7.—Damage from a fire at sea amounting to fully a quarter of a million dollars was reported by the German steamer Vandalia, which arrived here yesterday from China and Japan. The fire started in the Vandalia's hold on the afternoon of Feb. 25, and was subdued only after the hold had been completely flooded with water.

The flooding of the Vandalia's hold depressed the bow and lifted the stern until the screw was out of water. An effort to trim the ship by pumping the water from the hold was made, but the pumps became clogged, and for two days the steamer drifted at the mercy of the high north-west gale which prevailed. When the sea calmed sufficiently to permit men to work on the forward deck the forward tanks were emptied and some of the water in the flooded hold was shifted to water compartments toward the stern. An opening then was made from the forward tanks to the hold, and the water pumps began work to free the tanks. In this way, the hold was finally drained.

Cheap Groceries for Sale Today

In order to obtain permanent premises, China Hall has purchased the large and well assorted stock of groceries, etc., of Mr. A. Rountree, No. 394 George street. This stock, which is one of the finest grocery stocks in Peterborough, will, together with the balance of the China Hall stock, be thrown on the market at cost price, commencing March 2 and continuing until both stocks are entirely disposed of, but no longer than the 15th of April, after which date the store will be re-fitted, and opened about May 1, with an entirely new stock of crockery, china, glassware, cut-glass, plated ware, fine china ornaments, etc. China Hall, after that date, will be beyond a doubt one of the finest and most complete china stores in Canada. The Truth of It.

Teacher—Johnny, can you define for us the difference between "caution" and "cowardice?" Johnny—Yessum. When you're scart to go out on a boat and stay home for fear it'll sink and the boat comes in all right, it's "cowardice." Teacher—Well? Johnny—And if you're scart and stay home and the boat does sink, then it's "caution."

CATARRH

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am distributing packages throughout Canada, small free trial bottles of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. (In this package) I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial benefit, lasting relief, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will be a boomerang, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic cream put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars. Contains menthol, etc., are incorporated into a yellowish, cream like Petrolatum; imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc., usually call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

How Dolls Are Made.

Many big things are needed to make a small doll. She has her beginning in a great trough, where workmen knead up into a dingy paste old cardboard, even old gloves, old rags and gum tragacanth. They are great brawny fellows, these men, naked to the waist, wearing leathern aprons. In an adjoining room the paste is poured into molds for the busts, the arms, the legs of dolls innumerable. There is a special machine for stamping out the hands. I should not like to confess how long I stood in front of it fascinated by the steady stream of queer little hands that fell ceaselessly from the iron monster.' It was awful, uncanny, hypnotising. Indeed, the whole sight was grim and monstrous. The low factory rooms were misty with steam and lit by strange, red glowing fires. Always the great steel machines pulsed and changed, and through the mist sweaty giants of men went to and fro with heaps of little greenish arms and legs until you began to think that some new Herod had killed all the little people in the world.—Everybody's.

Napoleon Trusted His Omens.

Napoleon always had an unlimited trust in his presentiments. When the news came to him that one of the Nile river boats, the name of which was L'Italie, had been wrecked and the crew put to death he gave up all hope of ever completing his conquest of Italy by annexation. Napoleon believed that the stars exercised an occult influence over human destinies. When General Rapp, at one time his aid-de-camp, returned from the siege of Dantzic he found the emperor gazing with concentrated attention at the heavens. "Look there!" shouted the emperor. "It is my star! The fiery red one, almost as large as the moon! It is before you now, and, ah, how brilliant! It has never abandoned me for a single instant. I see it on all great occasions. It commands me to go forward; it is my sign of good fortune, and where it leads I will follow."

The Old Calfskin Shoe Lace.

The modern boot lace is anything but a luxury. It is nearly always just too long or a little too short, and, although made flat, it soon becomes curled with a little wear. In the old days laces were made of calfskin, and nearly every farmer was an expert. He would cut a disk of leather three or four inches in diameter, stick the point of a sharp knife blade in a board, place the thumb nail the thickness of a match from it and quickly draw the string through the opening, the perimeter being reduced the thickness of a match at every measure of the circumference. Then the square string was rolled between the sole of the shoe and the floor till perfectly round, after which it was greased with tallow. Such a lace would last for months. Round laces are now made of fiber, but their shine soon wears off, giving them a much worn appearance.

How to Enjoy Whist.

"How can one learn to enjoy the game of whist?"—Aspirant.

Get yourself roped into a game as partner to some one who helped Hoyle write his book. The other two players must also be experts. Start in pleasantly to enliven the game with a few well chosen anecdotes, now and then making the wrong play. After your partner has slapped your ears and sworn at you and put the black curse on you and all your ancestry and called you a fool a few times you will awake to the real joy of the gentle and intellectual game. We have tried this several times, but not at frequent intervals, and we can guarantee its efficacy. —Chicago News.

Rossini's Watch.

In 1824 Charles X. presented Rossini, the composer, with a repeating watch, studded with diamonds, and playing two of Rossini's melodies. Nobody in Bologna could clean the watch, so it was sent in the care of the tenor, Fabiano, to Paris, where it was destroyed in a fire. Plivee, the watchmaker, thereupon made a second watch, the exact counterpart of the first, except that the diamonds were false, and Rossini, who never discovered this pious fraud, wore the trinket all his life. On his death it passed to a relative, whose son sold it to an Englishman. It is said to contain an excellent portrait in enamel of Rossini as he was in 1824.

MINING CLAIMS NOT PROSPECTS

Lake George Cobalt Silver Mining Co., Limited, is the absolute owner of TWO full mining claims of 40 acres each, located in the

HEART OF THE GREAT COBALT SILVER BEARING DISTRICT

of Coleman Township. Mining men will at once realize the value of these properties by the fact that the south lot adjoins on the north the promising Cleveland Cobalt property, and also has the Hudson's Bay property on the east, and the running west into this lot. The north lot lies in the midst of

EQUALLY VALUABLE PROPERTIES

EXPERT'S REPORT

Mr. S. Lawrence, M.E., who submitted a report after examination of both properties, says that on the South property there is a "strong vein eighteen inches wide." The value of the North claim he submits is "enhanced by the fact that on the claim next east, on sinking is found native silver." The two properties are well located, being only one mile from the railway, and also in the heart of the mineral belt.

Since that report a 40-foot shaft has been sunk, and four exceedingly promising veins uncovered and stripped, showing NATIVE SILVER AND COBALT.

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested out claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 30 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1895, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Hold them for an instant!" he screamed, and, rushing at the brass gun, he struck his flint and steel and fired it straight into the thick of the savages. Then, as they recoiled for an instant, he stuck a nail into the touch-hole and drove it home with a blow from the butt of his gun. Dashing across the yard, he spiked the gun at the other corner and was back at the door as the remnants of the garrison were hurled against it by the rush of the assailants. The Canadians darted in and swung the ponderous mass of wood into position, breaking the leg of the foremost warrior who had striven to follow them. Then for an instant they had time for breathing and for counsel.

CHAPTER XXIII.

BUT their case was a very evil one. Had the guns been lost, so that they might be turned upon the door, all further resistance would have been valu, but Du Lhut's presence of mind had saved them from that danger. The two guns upon the river face and the canoes were safe, for they were commanded by the windows of the house. But their numbers were terribly reduced, and those who were left were weary and wounded and spent. Nineteen had gained the house, but one had been shot through the body, while a second had his shoulder cleft by a tomahawk and could no longer raise his musket. Du Lhut, De la Noue and De Catinat were uninjured, but Ephraim Savage had a bullet hole in his forearm and Amos was bleeding from a cut upon the face.

A few shots from the barricaded windows sufficed to clear the inclosure, for it was all exposed to their aim, but on the other hand the Indians had the shelter of the stockade now, and from the farther side of it they kept up a fierce fire upon the windows. Half a dozen of the consitaires returned the fusillade, while the leaders consulted as to what had best be done.

"We have twenty-five women and fourteen children," said the seigneur. "I am sure that you will agree with me, gentlemen, that our first duty is toward them. Some of you, like myself, have lost sons or brothers this day. Let us at least save our wives and sisters."

"No Iroquois canoes have passed up the river," said one of the Canadians. "If the women start in the darkness they can get away to the fort."

"By Ste. Anne of Beaupre!" exclaimed Du Lhut, "I think it would be well if you could get your men out of this also, for I cannot see how it is to be held until morning."

"Tut! tut! What nonsense is this!" cried De la Noue. "Are we to abandon the manor house of Ste. Marie to the first gang of savages who choose to make an attack upon it? No, no, gentlemen; there are still nearly a score of us, and when the garrison learns that we are so pressed, which will be by tomorrow morning at the latest, they will certainly send us relief."

"If you stand by the fort I will not desert you," said Du Lhut, "and yet it is a pity to sacrifice brave men for nothing."

"The canoes will hardly hold the women and children as it is," cried Theuriet. "There are but two large and four small. There is not space for a single man."

The Iroquois were very quiet now, and an occasional dropping shot from the trees or the stockade was the only sign of their presence. The twilight was gathering in and the sun had already sunk beneath the treetops. Leaving a watchman at each window, the leaders went round to the back of the house, where the canoes were lying upon the bank. There were no signs of the enemy upon the river to the north of them.

"We are in luck," said Amos. "The clouds are gathering, and there will be little light."

"It is luck, indeed, since the moon is only three days past the full," answered Du Lhut. "I wonder that the Iroquois have not cut us off upon the water, but it is likely that their canoes have gone south to bring up another war party."

"In an hour it might be dark enough to start."

"I think that there is rain in those clouds, and that will make it darker still."

The women and children were assembled, and their places in each boat were assigned to them. To Onega, the Indian wife of the seigneur, who was as wary and as experienced as a war sachem of her people, the command of the women was intrusted.

"It is not very far, Adele," said De Catinat. "It is but a league or two."

"But I do not wish to leave you, Amory. We have been together in all our troubles."

"My dear love, you will tell them at the fort how things are with us, and they will bring us help."

"Let the others do that, and I will stay. I will not be useless, Amory. Onega has taught me to load a gun. I will not be afraid, indeed I will not."

"You must not ask it, Adele. It is impossible; child. I could not let you stay. It is for my sake, dear. You do not know what a load it will be from my heart when I know that you are safe. And you need not be afraid for me. We can easily hold the place until morning."

Adele was silent, but her hands tightened upon his arm. Her husband was still endeavoring to reassure her when a green burst from the watcher in the window which overlooked the stream.

"There is a canoe on the river to the north of us!" he cried.

"How many warriors are in it?" asked the seigneur.

"I cannot see. The light is not very good, and it is in the shadow of the bank."

"Which way is it coming?"

"It is coming this way. Ah, it shoots out into the open now, and I can see it! May the good Lord be praised!"

"What is it then?" cried De la Noue impatiently.

"It is not an Iroquois canoe. There is but one man in it. He is a Canadian."

"A Canadian!" cried Du Lhut, springing up to the window. "Who but a madman would venture into such a hornets' nest alone? Ah, yes; I can see him now. He keeps well out from the bank to avoid their fire. Now he is in midstream, and he turns toward us."

"It is a Jesuit," said one, craning his neck. "They are everywhere there is most danger."

"No. I can see his capote," said another. "It is a Franciscan friar."

An instant later there was the sound of a canoe grounding upon the pebbles, the door was unbarred, and a man strode in attired in the long, dark gown of the Franciscans. He cast a rapid glance around and then, stepping up to De Catinat, laid his hand upon his shoulder.

"So! You have not escaped me," said he. "We have caught the evil seed before it had time to root."

"What do you mean, father?" asked the seigneur. "You have made some mistake. This is my good friend Amory de Catinat, of a noble French family."

SMART SET'S LOAD.

Women Who Follow Fashion Will Have Big Burden.

A course of physical culture may be necessary for the smart woman this winter if she hopes to endure the extraordinary load that fashion is laying on her from the lobes of her ears to the toes of her feet. Even her picture hat, light as it is, compared to its size, is so large that it must make itself felt to an extent that no hat should do.

The old-fashioned two-button glove is no longer seen on the smart woman's hands. Twenty or twenty-four buttons measure the exaggerated length of her driving, morning or scented white kid "at home" gloves. Boots have doubled their height, while the simple laces on walking shoes have been replaced by ribbons tied in enormous bows.

A reporter who visited well-known London forms to learn the extent of this craze for magnificent adornments was met by the information that the demand for exaggeration is likely to increase.

"Picture hats are assuming the most extraordinary proportions," a Bond street milliner confessed, "but the most noticeable point is the gigantic shapes of the floral trimmings. A cabbage rose in pink velvet is becoming perilously near the size of a real cabbage. Bunches of grapes adorn the newest hats, each grape being about double the circumference of the genuine fruit.

"Veils are following the fashion in hats. The minute chenille spot is replaced by black velvet patches the size of a sixpenny piece, and as for hat-pins, I doubt if they can increase in size. Most of the latest patterns are adorned with knobs which would not make insignificant door handles."

"The tendency in jewelry is to adopt distinctly exaggerated styles," a well-known jeweler in Regent street said—"Large Oriental rings, heavily studded with jewels, are in great demand. Drop earrings, which weigh down the lobes of the wearer's ears, are made in a most massive pattern.

"Jeweled muff chains can rightly be termed 'fashion's fetters.' The tiny beads or crystals between the links of the chain have been replaced by lumps of turquoise, opal or amethyst in the rough. Cable chain bracelets bear a close resemblance to handcuffs in their proportions.

"We have noticed several points which show how the Brobdignagian mania has affected drapery goods," the manager of an Oxford street firm said. "The tiny glove handkerchief is quite out of date, and has been replaced by silk and cambric of much larger proportions. In the haberdashery departments buttons resemble five shilling pieces, made of paste, glass, silver or leather."

Dante and Beatrice.

Dante in his maudlin love of Beatrice says: "So powerful was the spell of her presence that I had to avoid her. From thinking of this most gracious creature I became so weak and lean that it was irksome for my friends to look at me."

Disraeli and Bigger.

When Disraeli first met Spencer Walpole in the house of commons he said to his fidus Achates, "What is that?" "That, sir, is the honorable member for So-and-so." "Really?" replied the other. "I thought it was a leprechaun," which is a small but malignant species of Irish fairy.

Armenian Butter.

Butter in Armenia is made in churns suspended by ropes from the rafters and shaken from side to side by the women.

Smoking Forbidden.

In Abyssinia it is considered a crime to smoke. The law prohibiting tobacco was at first intended to prevent priests from smoking in church, but it was taken too literally, and nowadays even foreigners have to be careful not to be seen smoking.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 20 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 20 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of copalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 13 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $150,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolilite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1233-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

Womanly Troubles

Should Not be Allowed to Undermine Health.

It is impossible to go into details on this subject but the experience of many a poor woman who is crippled for life, just because she didn't use a good remedy in time, should be a warning to others.

When the first stages of womanhood appear in a young girl a great deal depends in getting her over this critical stage, so that in years to come she will not develop green sickness or consumption.

When she complains of flushed face, headache bearing down feelings, give her a course of Ferrozone which will carry her past the crisis.

In the adult woman if any irregularities occurr, Ferrozone will be found a remedy of remarkable potency and power.

Ferrozone is the ideal regulator and causes all organs of the body to perform their work properly.

It purifies the blood, tones up the nerves and vital energies. The stomach is strengthened, and digestive and assimilative processes are improved by the good work of Ferrozone. It regulates the bowels, cures constipation and piles, and replaces disease and decay by health and strength.

There is nothing better for the complexion than Ferrozone. It removes the dark circles from under the eyes, removes and cures all manner of skin eruptions, gives bright ness and brilliancy to the eyes, a rosy tint to the cheeks, whitens the teeth and developes a well rounded, plump and handsome form.

Ferrozone is the ladies' favorite, and should find a place in every household. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, convenient and pleasant to take. Price per box, 50c, or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists.

LOCAL INCIDENTS

By The Times Man on the Street

—The Review team did well last night.

—Lord! but that young Hutch is a terror on the ice!

—Royal Black Preceptory, No. 261, met last night.

—It now looks as though the Coates Co. are "Turn-coats" on their agreement with this city.

—The Park street Baptist Sunday school held their annual supper and entertainment last night.

—A party of fifty-two girls have arrived at the Barnardo Home. They came over on the S.S. Dominion.

—The local assembly of the Brotherhood of Saint Andrew, of St. John's have passed the following resolutions:

—St. John's choir met in the church yesterday evening for special practice of the "Crucifixion," and Easter music.

—When "Hoot Mon" McCrea got after the puck last night, Glengarry on receiving the latest despatches fairly went wild.

—Rev. A. J. Reid of Campbellford, gave the Lenten address in St. Luke's church, Wednesday evening, before a large congregation.

—Our splendid local musical organization, the 57th Regiment Band, have held their annual meeting, and elected officers for the ensuing year.

—A Peter borough alderman introduced a motion to tax batchelors. That's right. They ought to make 'em wear tags too.—Belleville Intelligencer.

—For the balance of this week we will sell three extra large parcels containing back numbers of newspapers for 10 cents. Times Bookstore.

—The Fire, Water and Light Committee met yesterday. One point considered was the preparations for moving into the new fire hall, and ordering new apparatus.

—The inhabitants of the Children's Aid Shelter are now at a low ebb, only four inmates, now being cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Henry, the very efficient caretakers.

—Last night the opinion of those in this city interested in hockey, that wanted to see the Examiner—Review game, was demonstrated by the audience present.

—When Fred Craig got on the ice last night it was a holy terror. If Fred gets loose on the ice 17111damsels of this city h eld their breath in terror lest he get hurt.

—At yesterday's police court two boys, 10 and 11 years old respectively swore they could not write. In such cases the whip should apply to the parents more than to the children.

—Last night a fine tooth comb run throughout the whole 15000 population of Peterborough could not have found anyone working on a newspaper not present at Brock street rink.

—Re Peterborough Cold Storage Co. (Wilson's and Butaghs cases).—C. W. Kerr, for Wilson and Balagh, R. E. Wood, Peterborough, for liquidators. D. O'Connell, Peterborough, for former directors. Appeals from Master's report enlarged until 20th March.—Osgoode Hall.

—That the mass meeting be held on Palm Sunday, March 24th, instead of next Sunday, March 10th. That an open air meeting be held on Good Friday, March 29th, at 3.15 p.m. The executive committee will meet in Mr. Joseph Bell's office, Water street, Friday, at five p.m.

—A local and much esteemed contemporary referring to Guelph organizing a Canadian Club, wants to know why Peterborough does not have a Canadian Club. The answer is simple, Peterborough is full of nothing but Canadians and no building could hold some 15,237 people.

A Chance for Ald. Tovey

A western man has been awarded damages in the sum of $101 for the loss of his whiskers in an explosion. If whiskers constitute personal property for which damages can be collected, why can't taxes be levied on them? Here is a chance for Ald. Tovey to get in some good work. A tax on bachelors, which he is in favor of, and one on whiskers, might bring a substantial revenue to the city.

Rev. Keith for Knox Church

Knox church has issued a call to Rev. H. J. Keith, M.A., of Smith's Falls, which will be presented to him at a special meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough, to be held in St. Andrew's church, on Tuesday, March 26th, and it is expected that he will accept. Mr. Keith occupied the pulpit at both services in Knox church on Sunday last, and created a decidedly favorable impression.

Magistrate Censures a Teacher

Yesterday a sad sight or hearing was in evidence at the police court when a bright little boy named Le Gros, aged 11, said he could not write his name. The magistrate, after ascertaining which school he attended said, "Well tell your teacher he, or she is not on to his job. Ofcourse the learned dispenser of justice may not have used the words, "On to his job," but that is what he meant all right, all right! Whether his nibs used these words or not, a bright boy of 11 should be able to write.

How the Races Are Run

Yesterday afternoon a Times representative happening into a local hotel, and hearing two horsemen talking, leaning back in a chair, abut up as tight as the proverbial drum and, pretending to be asleep, overheard the following monologue;

"Why yes, all bets were off, our horse was let get in easy for the money as he was afraid he would be arrested if he turned the trick. On the outside, why the guys thought that the suckers would bite in good and sharpe, and we would make a killing and by —— we did.

Strict Bar-room Rules Passed

The License Board for Dexter Simcoe have passed a resolution, calling for the placing of all bars in the front part of hotel premises. Chairman Tyrer, has explained that the move was made to stop bar trade during prohibited hours, and let the public see and judge whether the law was being observed. There had been, it is said, many complaints recently about this phase of the hotel business. If the Barrie people would borrow Inspector Stewart for a short time or be made to keep the law "as she is" here, the bars might be in the 'steenth story or in the cellar.

Get Out Your Smoked Glass

One of the largest sun spots that has ever been observed is now to be seen on the face of the luminary. It is large enough to be detected with the naked eye if precaution is taken to looked through smoked glass. The dimensions of the spot are given as 115,000 miles in legth and 80,000 miles in breadth. The earth could be dropped into it without materially altering its appearance. Sun spots are usually connected with unusual electrical disturbances on the earth. Photographs of them show that they are something like vast whirlpools of flaming gas. No satisfactory cause has ever been offered for their occurrence.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus, and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

ROBLIN GOVERNMENT WINS IN MANITOBA

All the Ministers, Excepting Dr. McFadden, Were Elected---Mr. Brown, Liberal Leader, Defeated,

Winnipeg, March 8.—Although its majority has been considerably diminished, the Robin Administration has weathered the polls. At present returns from 39 constituencies show that the Government have carried 27 seats, the Liberals 11, while one seat is in doubt. When these returns were announced in the Walker theater last night before an immense gathering, the Premier was called upon to speak. He declared that the Government would rest neither day nor night until the desires of Manitoba regarding expansion of railways and telephones were accomplished.

Some surprises in the result are to be noted; The defeat of Mr. Brown, leader of the Liberals in Portage la Prairie, by 222 votes; the narrow majority of 2 plurality by Hon. Colin H. Campbell in Morris; the defeat of Dr. McFadden, provincial secretary in the last Roblin administration.

The new riding of West Winnipeg returned Johnston (Liberal), while the remaining three went Conservative.

Premier Robbin carried Dufferin with a majority of 200. With the exception of Dr. McFadden, all the former Cabinet Ministers were returned.

South Winnipeg, reckoned the safest Conservative seat in the country, elected J. T. Gordon (Cons.) by the narrow majority of 134, while J. F. Mitchell, in North Winnipeg, considered very doubtful, piled up a majority of 400 votes.

The French seat of St. Boniface, contrary to expectation, went to Joseph Bernier, Cons., by 186 majority.

In this election the Liberals have scored 7 gains, while the Conservatives have so far gained five seats. Delayed elections are to be held in Gimli and Gilbert Plains, and they are considered to be acclamations for the Government.

England Guards the Czar's Mother

London, March 8.—The Dowager Empress of Russia arrived here yesterday morning, and was greeted at the railway station by her sister, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the staff of the Russian Embassy. The Empress reached London half an hour earlier than the time publicly announced, and the foreign ministers, who had been apprised of the change, arrived at the station after the departure of the royal party. The expediting of the Empress' arrival was it is understood, planned by the police, have taken stringent precautions for her protection.

While the officials of Scotland Yard have little fear that the anarchists in London will jeopardize their chances of obtaining an asylum in England by any attempt on the life of the Empress, they are taking no chances, and every possible avenue of attack will be guarded. From the railroad station the Dowager Empress and the Queen drove to Buckingham Palace.

A plea of not guilty, was entered and Mason was remanded till Friday, March 15. His father, ex-Ald. Mason, of Ottawa, arrived here last night.

PROMINENT MAN DEAD AT CORNWALL

Conspicuous Figure in Canadian Life Died This Morning.

AFTER A NOTABLE CAREER

Had Large Business Connections in the Dominion.

Cornwall, March 9.—A conspicuous figure for many years in the public life of Canada passed away here early this morning in the person of Colonel Roderick R. McLennan, commonly known as "Rory" McLennan. His illness had been of only a few weeks' duration, and recovery had been hoped for. An operation was undergone on Saturday last, and Col. McLennan had been in excellent spirits until taken worse shortly after midnight Thursday.

He was conscious to the last, and surrounded by all the members of his family who were able to reach him. A few hours before death came he had a short conversation with his friend, Major Beattie, of London, who had come to see him.

AN ACTIVE LIFE.

The late Colonel McLennan was the third son of the late Roderick McLennan, of Glen Donald, Glengarry, a veteran of '37, and grandson of Farquhar McLennan, of Kintail, Rossshire, Scotland, who settled in Glengarry in 1802.

Born at Glen Donald, Jan. 1, 1842, he received his education there, and in early life gained distinction as an athlete, particularly as a thrower of weights.

Subsequently he became an extensive railway contractor. On retiring from that occupation he commenced business as a private banker in Glengarry. He was one of the promoters of the Glengarry Ranch Company, and had been a director of various railway companies, as well as of the Cornwall Electric Light & Gas Company, and was at the time of his death honorary president of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, a director of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company and the Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

PARLIAMENTARY CAREER.

He was president of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Glengarry from 1885 to 1890, and unsuccessfully contested the county for the Ontario Legislature at the general election of 1886, being defeated by only 32 votes. He was returned to the House of Commons at the general election of 1891 and again in 1896, remaining in the House until 1900, when a Liberal, Mr. Schell, was elected.

During his parliamentary career he became a recognized and influential member of the Conservative side of the House, introducing there the bill for the exclusion of aliens from public contracts, which was adopted in 1896.

A graduate of the Royal School of Infantry, he was appointed Major of the 58th Regiment in 1888, and promoted to Lieut.-Colonel commanding in February, 1897.

FOUNDED SCHOLARSHIPS.

Colonel McLennan was a strong advocate of British connection, and opposed to any policy that might tend directly or indirectly to discriminate against the Mother Country.

One of his notable benefactions was the foundation of the McLennan Scholarships at Queen's University, which made provision for the education of four young men or women from the county of Glengarry continuously at that institution.

The funeral will take place on Sunday at one o'clock to St. Andrew's cmetery, Williamstown.

A Great Year in Life Insurance

Wonderful Record Made During 1906 by the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada.

In these days when such searching enquiries are being made into the standing and responsibility of some of the great American insurance companies, and in many cases not to the credit of some of those investigated, it is a matter for appreciation that the Canadian insurance companies, almost without exception, stand in the limelight of thorough investigation not discredited as to their respective modi-operandi.

The recent annual general meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada developed that this great company is run on conservative but progressive lines: the company, which is one of the most solid on the continent, has made a most enviable record. During the past year, whilst in fact it sounds almost incredible, The Sun Life carried a surplus amounting to nearly a million dollars, or to be exact, $824,724.34, of which $208,958.97 was distributed among policyholders in the company. $207,763.61 was set aside to place reserves on all policies issued since December 31st, 1902, on a 3 per cent. basis. This company now has, over and above all liabilities and capital, a surplus of $2,226,247.45. This latter statement must be most re-assuring to those holding policies in the company. By way of comparison, as showing the enormous growth of the company's business and financial standing, it might be noted that in 1872 they had $1,044,360 of life insurance in force, whilst in 1901 this amounted to $62,400,931, which by 1906 had jumped to the enormous sum of $102,545,928, a most phenomenal increase.

The local branch of the Sun Life Co., as is generally known, is under the control of Mr. W. H. Hill and his very efficient staff, with offices on Hunter street, near the Oriental hotel. Mr. Hill is admitted to be one of the best posted and most successful insurance men in Central Ontario, and has been fortunate in the choice of the men assisting him.

Suffrage Bill Was Practically Killed

London, March 9.—The debate on the woman suffrage bill yesterday, was a repitition of the familiar argument for and against female suffrage, and there was no complete divergence from the usual party lines, the rejection of the bill being moved by Mr. Whitehead, Liberal, another opponent being Mr. Greiner, also a Liberal, while both Conservatives and member of the Labor party were found among its supporters.

An attempt was made to closure the dicussion, but the Speaker declined to accept the motion, and the opponent of the bill held the floor until five p.m., when the sitting was closed automatically. They thus won the day, a this practically kills the bill for the present session.

Edward Cochrane Has Passed Away

Ottawa, March 9.—Edward Cochrane, M.P., for Northumberland County, Ont., who died yesterday morning, had been, for many sessions, one of the most familiar figures on the Conservative side of the House of Common, and sent many a touch of humor to the dullness of debate.

Mr. Cochrane entered the House in 1882, and had held his seat with the exception of the parliamentary term ever since. He was operated on some week ago for cancer, but without any avail.

Casgrain Is Dead

Windsor, March 9.—Senator Casgrain died yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Dieu here. He was one of the best known politicians in Canada.

THE WHOLE FAMILY

Mother Finds a Food for Grown-ups and Children as Well.

Food that can be eaten with relish and digested by the children as well as the older members of the family, makes a pleasant household commodity.

Such a food is Grape-Nuts. It not only agrees with and builds up children, but older persons who, from bad habits of eating, have become dyspeptics.

A Penn. lady, after being benefited herself, persuaded her husband to try Grape-Nuts for stomach trouble. She writes;

"About eight years ago I had a severe attack of congestion of stomach and bowels. From that time on, I had to be very careful about eating, as nearly every kind of food then known to me, seemed to cause pain.

"Four years ago I commenced to use Grape-Nuts, I grew stronger and better and from that time I seldom am without it; have gained in health, and strength and am now heavier than I ever was.

"My husband was also in a bad condition —his stomach became so weak that he could eat hardly anything with comfort. I got him to try Grape-Nuts and he soon found his stomach trouble had disappeared.

"My girl and boy, 3 and 9 years old do not want anything else for breakfast but Grape-Nuts and more healthy children cannot be found." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the little booklet, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

SEND THAW CASE TO THE JURY FRIDAY

Mrs. William Thaw Said to Have Been Dissatisfied Because Her Evidence Was Restricted--- Case Adjourned.

New York, March 9.—The defence in Thaw case rest, and the court adjourns to Monday. All the evidence which it has hoped will save Harry K. Thaw from the electric chair is in the hands of the jury, except what may be given in sur-rebuttal. District Attorney Jerome, as well as most persons who have followed the trial closely, was surprised at the sudden determination of the defence to rest its case, for as the district attorney was not quite prepared to go on with his rebuttal testimony, the trial was postponed until Monday.

To Delphin M. Delmas, chief counsel for Thaw, is ascribed the latest move. Personally, he was impressed with the testimony given by Mrs. William Thaw, Wednesday, and in thinking of this future plans that night there flashed into his mind the thought that with this picture of the grief-stricken mother on the witness stand, fresh in the minds of the jurors, it was a good place to close the case of the defence. He knew that the jurymen had had a surfeit of expert testimony, and as that was about all he still had to offer he deemed it wise that it should be eliminated. Thaw and his relatives are said to be satisfied with the decision of counsel and with the prospects of the prisoner.

IS MRS. THAW DISSATISFIED?

Mrs. William Thaw was reported to be dissatisfied that she was not allowed on Wednesday to testify on the question of hereditary insanity in the Thaw family. She wished to explain the statements made during the trial that members of the Thaw family have been in insane asylums. Mrs. Thaw, it was stated, felt that a great injustice had been done the Thaw family by these statements, hence her desire to publicly deny them.

With this object in mind, Mrs. Thaw sent for Clifford W. Hartridge yesterday and he had a conference with her lasting nearly three hours, during which she told him that if she could not tell her story on the stand, she would communicate her side of it to the newspapers. Mr. Hartridge, however, is believed to have persuaded her to postpone the explanation at this time.

Mr. Hartridge denied that Thaw's mother was displeased, and said that she was satisfied with everything when the lawyers explained the underlying reasons for the manner in which her testimony was restricted.

District Attorney Jerome is still receiving many threatening letters, which abuse him for prosecuting Thaw. Some of the writers threaten that if Thaw is convicted to blow Mr. Jerome into atoms, to boil him in oil, to shoot him and to doother cruel things.

NO WITNESSES READY.

At the opening of the court, District Attorney Jerome stated that he had no witnesses ready to proceed with in rebuttal. This action was not unexpected, for Mr. Delmas served notice late yesterday upon the District Attorney that the defence had abandoned its plan of calling two more experts. Mr. Jerome did not consider the notification as official, and so came into court, prepared to listen to more testimony as to Thaw's unsound condition of mind.

GREETED BY HIS BROTHERS.

Thaw was bright and smiling as he walked to his place at the counsel table. His two brothers, Edward and Josiah, were again in court, and he smiled a greeting to them. The prisoner's arms were filled as usual with the big brown envelopes containing correspondence.

"When court adjourned last Wednesday evening," said Mr. Jerome, addressing the court, "I had no reason to expect that I would not be confronted this morning by experts called upon to answer a hypothetical question which Mr. Delmas was to frame extemporaneously.

"Yesterday evening Mr. McPike called upon me with a letter from Mr. Delmas saying the defence had changed its plans and would call no more witnesses.

"Under the circumstances I must ask for an adjournment, as I have no witnesses available today. My experience with hypothetical questions framed extemporaneously has been that they require a long time in the asking, and are subject to more or less discussion. I had expected the putting of these questions would require all of today's session."

Justice Fitzgerald turned to Mr. Delmas, who said; "There is not the slightest objection on our part."

Justice Fitzgerald then ordered the adjournment until Monday, admonishing the jurors not to discuss the case with anyone or among themselves, and, above all, not to read the newspaper.

District Attorney Jerome said he was not prepared to add anything further to his statement of the previous night that the evidence he will have to offer in rebuttal will be before the jury by Wednesday evening.

He added that the case should go to the jury by Friday next. Mr. Evelyn Nebit Thaw was in the witness room yesterday, and when court adjourned he immediately went to the Tomb to visit her husband.

Were Dumping Him on to This Country

London, March 9.—Recently the Magistrates of Carlisle and Cumberland discharged a prisoner, suggesting to his friends that they send him to Canada. Bruce Walker wrote to the magistrates protesting against making Canada a dumping ground for such people. The magistrates replied, expressing regret at this suggestion, and promising the man would not be sent. Yesterday, however, Mr. Walker discovered the same man under a different name, on a passenger on the Empress of Ireland, and had him topped. The Salvation Army have taken charge of the man.

Lease Coal Lands

Ottawa, March 9.—An important change has been made by the Government in the regulation governing the acquirement of coal-bearing land in the West still under Government control, with a view to preventing any further alienation of western coal area to absolute control of private parties, and also with to securing the prompt development of all further area opened to private enterprise. Instead of having them held merely for peculative purposes by the permaking actual development. Hereafter, according to an order-in-council there who have no intention of pused in Saturday last, the Government will only lease rights to mine coal on all land still comprising domain in the West.

Washington, March 9.—Ambassador Bryce called upon Secretary of State Root yesterday, and had a general talk about pending matter of business, in which the State Department and British Embassy are mutually interested. The ambassador has arranged to go to Canada next month to confer with Earl Grey, the Governor-General, concerning all questions of a diplomatic nature now at issue between the United State and Canada.

SCIENTISTS CLAIM CONSUMPTION IS SPREAD BY SPITTING IN PUBLIC.

The bacillus of tuberculosis starts tubercles in the lungs. These cause, soften and are ejected from the lungs in coughing. A dry cough will spray the air full of these germs; a loose cough will deposit the sputum on the sidewalks, where it will dry, be ground to powder, whirled about in the wind for healthy people to breathe, and so start up new plantations of these bacilli. Dr. Knopf says that an advanced case of consumption will eject about seven billions of these germs every twenty-four hours.

It is a murderous practice to spit where others may bring the infection into the house, on shoes or skirts, where it may dry and become a powder, to be sent into the air and breathed into the lungs. If the lungs are sore from colds or any other cause, these germs settle on the sore spot and set up what is called a "mixed infection." This is the starting point of consumption, and prompt treatment is required.

An eminent authority on lung trouble advises the use of the following simple formula, which can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost: Half ounce Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), two ounces of Glycerine and a half pint of good Whisky. Mix and use in teaspoonful doses every four hours.

It is said that the mixture will break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients should be pure, and to avoid substitutes, they should be purchased separately and mixed in the home of the patient. The Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half-ounce vials, put up by druggists to dispense. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leeds Chemical Co., Windsor, Ontario—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are put out under similar names and style of package. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

About Female Ailments

Not Hard to Cure if Properly and Promptly Treated.

Ask any intelligent physician what causes nine-tenths of all female diseases, even including anaemia, nervousness and consumption.

Back comes the answer quick and sharp "Constipated Bowels."

There is scarcely a single female ailment that had not in its earlier stages symptoms of constipation.

How much better off the system is without the poisonous accumulations caused by constipation. How much clearer the complexion, how much fresher one feels when the system is pure and clean.

Think it over yourself.

Isn't it apparent that a bowel regulator and liver stimulant like Dr. Hamilton's Pills is sure to do good?

Gay spirits, good looks and happy health have returned to many a sick woman through Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Better get a few boxes today; purely vegetable, free from injurious ingredients, healthful and antiseptic. Dr. Hamilton's Pills will assist you in a thousand ways.

As delay is always dangerous, your plain duty is to follow the example of Mrs. F. Rowe, who sends the following letter from Gravels, Port Au Port, Newfoundland; "Four years ago I got kidney and bladder trouble. I thought it was 'female trouble' and treated it accordingly. Even my doctor in St. John said it was so.

"In reading about Dr. Hamilton's Pills I noticed symptoms like mine and I bought six boxes. These pills went right to work on my sick condition and helped me from the first. My supposed female trouble, which was bladder disease, was cured. My weight increased eight pounds and never before was I as well as today. Dr. Hamilton's Pills did it all."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., or Kingston, Ont.

TRAVEL AS AN EDUCATOR

Travel is a great educator. It brushes away the cobwebs from the human brain, removing mental kinks, dissipating exaggerated ideas of personal consequence, and pricking the bubble of self-importance that at home often becomes inflated.

The traveler soon learns that he is but a small unit in the great human aggregate. No matter how big a man he may deem himself when seated under his own vine and fig tree, he wanders abroad among strangers to find that his local renown has not followed him—that the affairs of his native town are known only within a small circle and that it is not, as he fondly supposed, the one place fitted to give social, moral and educational laws to the universe.

The local dignitary soon learns to measure himself with others. His mind becomes receptive, his eyes open to new conditions and new truths; he finds that he has much to learn, and if he is a wise man he diligently improves his opportunity. He soon ceases to judge men and things by the narrow home standards; he finds that there is a great, intelligent, busy and progressive world outside his native burgh.

Travel is also a good test of character. In journeying from place to place one bears along with him his worse faults as well as his most shining virtues, and both are likely to come to the surface. One's own inbred selfishness chafes against the selfishness of others, and mutual courtesy and concession can alone prevent the latest fires of moroseness and ill-temper from bursting into flame.

In travel one meets such throngs that the whole world seems on the move, each individual pursuing his own pleasure, but well aware that he cannot insist on his own rights to the utter disregard of the rights of others. Hence it happens that the true gentleman or lady appears nowhere to such advantage as in traveling, where, more than in any other situation, there is a demand for the constant practice of that Golden Rule, which is the basis of all good breeding.

To set forth the educational value of travel would require volumes. It opens to the close observer new words of art and learning, new ideas, social, political and esthetic. Its advantages far more than repay its dangers and discomforts.

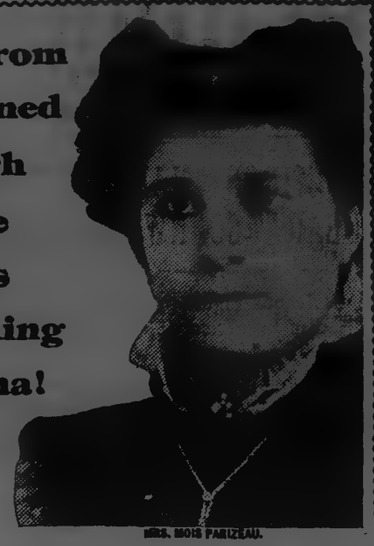
Women Suffragists Are Troublesome

London, March 8.—The woman suffragists, by insisting upon martyrdom, are pleasing the authorities in an embarrassing position. Mrs. Despard, a sister of General French, and several of her fellow-agitators, were released from prison yesterday after a term of confinement for participation in the recent agitation at the House of Commons. James Keir Hardie, M.P., who has a reputation for Tom eccentricity, presided at a public break fast given in honor of these women several of the suffragists delivered speeches in which they announced their purpose of forcing the authorities to keep them in prison by committing breaches of the peace whenever the opportunity, until such time as suffrage legislation is enacted.

Since also British law is no respector of persons, the women of refinement have shared the prison life of the common criminals of their sex, and the regime of English prisons is remarkably severe. The question of woman suffrage comes up before the House of Commons next Friday, and preparations are being made for another demonstration on that day.

Saved From Threatened Catarrh of the Lungs By Taking Pe-ru-na!



MRS. MOIS PARIZEAU.

Mrs. Mois Parizeau, Ste. Julie de Vercheres, P. Q., Canada, writes:

"I hardly know how to thank you for the good Peruna has done me.

"I suffered five years with pain in the stomach. About a year ago it became so bad I could hardly bear it.

"I coughed day and night and grew weaker and weaker. The pains extended through my body and I also had difficulty in breathing, which made me cough. Everyone thought I had consumption.

"My husband heard of Peruna and bought five bottles.

"This treatment virtually cured me and now I recommend Peruna to every one who is suffering.

"I thank Dr. Hartman for this excellent remedy."

—MRS. MOIS PARIZEAU.

A NEGLECTED cold is generally the first cause of catarrh.

Women are especially liable to colds. These colds occur more frequently during the wet, sloppy weather of winter and spring than any other time of the year. Often they are not considered serious and so are allowed to run on, or they are treated in such a way as to only palliate the symptoms, while the cold becomes more deep-seated and the patient finally awakens to the fact that she has a well-developed case of catarrh.

WOMEN SHOULD BEWARE OF CATCHING COLD.

By reason of their delicate structure, the lungs are frequently the seat of a cold, especially if there is the slightest weakness of the organs. The treatment of catarrh of the lungs is also more difficult and discouraging than catarrh of any other organ of the body.

It would be wise, therefore, to guard against it by every precaution possible.

Peruna has been found the most reliable of all remedies for coughs, colds and catarrh, by reason of the fact that it goes at once to the very seat of the trouble.

It searches out every crevice, every duct of the body. It quickens and equalizes the circulation of the blood, thus relieving the congested mucous membranes. It exercises a healing and soothing effect upon the mucous membranes, no matter whether they are the more exposed membranes of the head and throat, or whether they line the remotest cells of the lungs.

PE-RU-NA THE REMEDY FOR CATARRH OF THE LUNGS.

A word to the wise woman is sufficient. Take Peruna at the first appearance of a cold.

Those desiring special instructions regarding the use of Peruna, should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

KEENE

An entertainment, oyster supper and assembly is to be held in the Town Hall, Keene, on Friday, the 15th of March, under the management of the Orangemen of this place. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to spend a profitable and entertaining time.

I have been informed by reliable authority that a certain individual has made use of some very ungentlemanly insinuations as to what he can and will do to the Keene reporter. Now, to relieve this fellow's anxiety, I wish to inform him that I can be found in Keene at any time, and will endeavor to accommodate and entertain him to the best of my ability.

Stillman Bros., our enterprising tinsmiths, have increased their stock of hardware; and we trust will receive a goodly share of patronage from the citizens of Keene and surrounding vicinity.

The sound of the corporation fiddle can now be heard in all parts of our village.

Keene Argyle L. O. L., No. 494, has organized a fife and drum band. Great credit is due to the members of this band for their improvement in music and their punctuality in attending the practices.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,

THE REFUGEES

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"This is Amory de Catinat, the heretic and Huguenot!" cried the monk. "I have followed him up the St. Lawrence, and I have followed him up the Richelieu, and I would have followed him to the world's end if I could but bring him back with me."

"Tut, father! Your zeal carries you too far," said the seigneur. "Whither would you take my friend, then?"

"He shall go back to France with his wife. There is no place in Canada for heretics."

Du Lhut burst out laughing. "By Ste. Anne, father," said he, "if you could take us all back to France at present we should be very much your debtors."

"And you will remember," said De la Noue sternly, "that you are under my roof and that you are speaking of my guest."

But the friar was not to be abashed. "Look at this," said he, whipping a paper out of his bosom. "It is signed by the governor, and calls upon you, under pain of the king's displeasure, to return this man to Quebec. But I have you now and I shall never leave you until I see you on board of the ship which will carry you and your wife back to France."

De Catinat could but admire the energy and tenacity of the man.

"It seems to me, father, that you would have shone more as a soldier than as a follower of Christ," said he, "but since you have followed us here and since there is no getting away we may settle this question at some later time."

A great brown cloud had overspread the heavens and the night had fallen so rapidly that they could hardly see the gleam of the river in front of them. The savages in the woods and behind the captured stockade were quiet, save for an occasional shot. Suddenly a dull red glow began to show above one of the roofs of the cottages.

"They have set it on fire!" cried Du Lhut. "The canoes must go at once, for the river will soon be as light as day. In! in! There is not an instant to be lost!"

There was no time for leave taking. One impassioned kiss and Adele was torn away and thrust into the smallest canoe, which she shared with Onega, two children and an unmarried girl. The others rushed into their places, and in a few moments they had pushed off and had vanished into the drift and the darkness. The great cloud had broken and the rain pattered heavily on the roof.

"Thank God for this storm!" murmured Du Lhut. "It will prevent the cottages from blazing up too quickly."

But he had forgotten that, though the roofs might be wet, the interior was as dry as tinder. He had hardly spoken before a great yellow tongue of flame licked out of one of the windows, and again and again, until suddenly half of the roof fell in, and the cottage was blazing like a pitch bucket. The flames hissed and sputtered in the pouring rain; but, fed from below, they grew still higher and fiercer, flashing redly upon the great trees and turning their trunks to burnished brass. Their light made the inclosure and the manor house as clear as day and exposed the whole long stretch of the river. A fearful yell from the woods announced that the savages had seen the canoes.

"This is Amory de Catinat, the heretic and Huguenot!"

"They are rushing through the woods. They are making for the water's edge," cried De Catinat.

"They have some canoes down there," said Du Lhut.

"But they must pass us," cried the seigneur of Ste. Marie. "Get down to the cannon and see if you cannot stop them."

They had hardly reached the guns when two large canoes filled with warriors shot out from among the reeds below the fort.

"Jean, you are our best shot," cried De la Noue. "Lay for her as she passes the great pine tree. Lambert, do you take the other gun."

The two wrinkled old artillerymen glanced along their guns and waited for the canoes to come abreast of them. The fire blazed higher and higher, and the broad river lay like a sheet of dull metal, with the two dark lines which marked the canoes sweeping swiftly down the center. One was fifty yards in front of the other, but in each the Indians were bending to their paddles and pulling frantically, while their comrades from the wooded shores whooped them on to fresh exertions. The fugitives had already disappeared around the bend of the river.

As the first canoe came abreast of the lower of the two guns the Canadian made the sign of the cross over the touchhole and fired. A cheer and then a groan went up from the eager watchers. The charge had struck the surface close to the mark and dashed such a shower of water over it that for an instant it looked as if it had been sunk. The next moment, however, the splash subsided, and the canoe shot away uninjured save that one of the rowers had dropped his paddle, while his head fell forward upon the back of the man in front of him. The second gunner sighted the same canoe as it came abreast of him.

It was a beautiful shot. The whole charge took the canoe about six feet behind the bow and doubled her up like an eggshell. Before the smoke had cleared she had foundered, and the second canoe had paused to pick up some of the wounded men.

"Quick, quick!" cried the seigneur. "Load the gun! We may get the second one yet!"

But it was not to be. Long before they could get it ready the Iroquois had picked up their wounded warriors and were pulling madly downstream. As they shot away the fire died suddenly down in the burning cottages, and the rain and the darkness closed in upon them once more.

"My God!" cried De Catinat furiously. "They will be taken! Let us abandon this place; take a boat and follow

Means Death to Join this Cabinet

Rome, March 8.—Signor Gallo, the Minister of Justice, died yesterday of syncope. He was born in 1849, and formerly was Minister of Public Instruction, President of the Chamber of Deputies, and Minister of Education.

Signor Mirabelli, the minister of finance, who was stricken with apoplexy yesterday, is said this morning to be in a dying condition.

The impression caused by the death of Signor Gallo, and the condition of Signor Mirabelli, is intensified by the fact that the former is the sixth minister of different Giolitti Cabinets who has passed away while in office. The Opposition newspapers are even hinting at the possibility of a ministerial crisis, but in well-informed circles this is not considered to be likely.

Wins Remarkable Suit

Liverpool, March 7.—"To bring back the spirits of the dead a medium must herself experience the agonies of death," said Mrs. White, a clairvoyant, in the course of the hearing of a suit in court here yesterday in which she was the defendant. She explained that she had not only felt her throat cut while following her profession, but had also passed through all the horrors of hanging. The prosecutor sued to recover a sum of money paid to Mrs. White under the belief that the spirit of his dead mother, speaking through the medium, bade him give the money for spiritualistic purposes. The court ruled in favor of Mrs. White on the ground that her services had evidently given great comfort to the plaintiff.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 16 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 80 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 30 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 60 feet, and in it shows 6 inch niccolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1283-492-1162 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

Peterboro' Conservative Wins in Manitoba

It seems that among the successful Conservatives elected in the recent Manitoba elections was a former Peterborough boy, Mr. James Argue, who was chosen as the representative of Avondale. Mr. Argue is a former Peterborough man, who managed a farm for the late George Hilliard, ex-M.P., in Douro, and later a farm for Mr. D. W. Dumble in that township. In 1881 he left for the west in company with Mr. Frank Dumble and they conducted a large farm together for some years. Mr. Argue has retired and now lives near Elgin, is grand master of the Orange Order in Manitoba.

Mrs. Thos. White of Millbrook Has Gone

We regret to have to chronicle the death of Mrs. Thos. White of Millbrook, whose maiden name was Wood, who passed away last Tuesday. The deceased was born in the township of Cavan and moved to Millbrook with her husband and daughter some six years ago.

Two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Fair, of Cavan, and Miss Margaret, and one son, Dr. W. E. White, of New York, are left to mourn her loss.

Council to Consider the Dairy Show

Englishman Dies at Norwood

Thos Howard, a young Englishman who immigrated to Norwood last summer, and who has been working at the McGregor House, that village, suddenly died Thursday morning. Dr. Pettigrew, medical health officer was called, but the young man died within an hour. Howard had no friends or relatives in this country as far as known. The coroner, Dr. Gray, of Peterborough, was notified of the death, but when he learned the particulars he decided an inquest was unnecessary.

LATER.—It was learned from Dr. Gray late yesterday evening that there would be an investigation into the young man's death. The investigation will open at 2 p.o'clock on Monday afternoon.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R.V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Ameadics of Known Composition.

[illegible] that he is not afraid [illegible] subject them [illegible] scrutiny.

Not only is the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or billousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company

Saw Two Suns Yesterday

There seems to be a lot of controversy over spots to be seen on the sun when (that orb is viewed through smoked glass. Yesterday, Mr. ——— looking at the King of Day through a glass discovered that the Sun had doubled, in fact he saw two suns. If people want astronomical points let them tarry with the cup that knocks out and they will find that present astronomical calculations are weak and not up to date.

Prevention, as the name implies, prevent all Colds and Grippe when "taken at the sneeze stage." Prevention are toothsome candy tablets. Prevention dissipate all colds quickly, and taken early, when you first feel that a cold is coming, they check and prevent them. Preventies are thoroughly safe for children, and as effectual for adults. Sold and recommended in 5 cent and 25 cent boxes by J. D. Tully.

—Norwood Register: Mr. Norman Patterson, who has been clerking in Mr. E. P. Coffe's store for the past four years, has accepted a position with Messrs. Turnbull & Co., of Peterborough.

Public Access to the Lift Lock

Peterborough citizens will now henceforth, with clear conscience, and no fear of a subpoena for trespass be able to go through to the lift lock, via the new Hunter street extension over Armour's Hill. The negotiations between the city and the Armour estate, have been closed. The deed has been transferred, the money paid over by the city, and the by-law signed and sealed. The price paid was $400, and the sale includes sufficient property through the Armour estate to give a full width street.

Cheap Groceries for Sale Today

In order to obtain permanent premises, China Hall has purchased the large and well assorted stock of groceries, etc., of Mr. A. Rountree, No. 384 George street. This stock, which is one of the finest grocery stocks in Peterborough, will, together with the balance of the China Hall stock, be thrown on the market at cost price, commencing March 2 and continuing until both stocks are entirely disposed of, but no longer than the 15th of April, after which date the store will be re-fitted, and opened about May 1, with an entirely new stock of crockery, china, glassware, cut-glass, plated ware, fine china ornaments, etc. China Hall, after that date, will be beyond a doubt one of the finest and most complete china stores in Canada. THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA

A Record of Great Success Last Year—Assurances in Force Crossed the Hundred Million Mark—Current Profits Paid Policyholders Keeping Pace with the Company's Growth—The Insurance Investigation by the Royal Commission

At the annual meeting of the Sun Life of Canada, held at Montreal on February 26, the report of the directors was a significant one, showing that the company's operations during the past year have been exceptionally successful. The report says:

Applications for assurance were received to the number of 16,546, for $27,901,570.65. The policies actually issued and paid for numbered 12,917, and covered $17,410,054.87, the balance being declined or uncompleted. The total assurances in force at the close of the year now amount to $102,566,298.10 under 78,625 policies. The passing of the hundred million dollar line marks another milestone in the company's progress.

Income Rapidly Increasing

The income continues rapidly to increase and has now reached $4,212,615.02. The assets show the same characteristic, and are now $24,292,682.65, the addition for the twelve months being very close to the even three millions of dollars. During the past five years the assets have more than doubled, and during the past ten years they have almost quadrupled.

Growth in Strength and Profit Earning

But while the growth in size indicated by the preceding items is very gratifying, the growth in strength and profit-earning power has been even more marked. The surplus ended during the year was $921,731.34, of which $268,556.97 was distributed in cash to policyholders entitled to participate that year; $207,761.51 was set aside to place the reserves on all policies issued since 1902 on a 3 per cent. basis; and $489,548.86 was added to the undivided surplus. The surplus over all liabilities and capital stock is now $2,235,247.45, which indicates the strength of the company's position and the amplitude of the provision for those policies whose time for participation has not yet arrived.

Liabilities Calculated on Stringent Basis.

The liabilities have been calculated on the Hm. table with 3½ per cent. interest for all policies issued prior to December 31, 1902, and 3 per cent. for those issued since. It should also be noted that the Hm. mortality table in itself calls for heavier reserves than the American table in use in the United States, so that both from the standpoint of the table employed and the rate of interest assumed, the liabilities have been calculated on an unusually stringent basis.

Handsome Current Dividends to Policyholders

Although the increase in the surplus on hand has been great and promises well for future distribution of profits, the dividends actually being paid to our policyholders have kept pace. The steady growth in the profit earnings permitted the company to increase the scale of distribution for the year 1905 beyond that for 1904; and the scale for 1906 in its turn beyond that for 1905. We are pleased to say that the scale which has been adopted for the current year 1907 is again beyond that for 1906. The large earnings have therefore not merely benefited the policyholders by adding to the strength of the company and by increasing the provision for future profits, but also by permitting the distribution to them of remarkably handsome current dividends.

The Insurance Investigation

The most noteworthy feature of the past year in Canadian insurance circles has been the investigation of our life companies by a Royal Commission. The public are already so thoroughly informed in regard to this matter that any detailed reference here is unnecessary. Speaking of our own company, while the commission unquestionably gave the officers an immense amount of additional labor, the results of the inquiry have been very beneficial. The great strength of the company, its profitable investments, the large dividends paid by it to its policyholders, the ample provision for profits on policies not yet participating, and, if we may be pardoned for saying so, the honesty and cleanness in all its business methods, have been brought into the light as never before.

A Most Striking Fact

Possibly the most striking fact brought out was that the company is really much stronger than it has ever claimed to be, having a contingent fund outside its published list of assets, composed largely of bonus stocks obtained in connection with purchases of bonds. This fund is already worth a large sum, and not only adds to the strength of the office but will in time materially increase the payments of profits as the various items are converted into cash.

Mr. Hagerman is Doing Well

We are pleased to note that Mr. Robert Hagerman, living at the corner of Dickson and Victoria streets, who had a severe accident, on Thursday, at the Wm. Hamilton, Manufacturing Company's Works is doing as well as could be expected. It seems that Mr. Hagerman got his hand caught in a machine, his right hand thumb being badly lacerated.

Tenders for Power Next Week

Mr. J. A. Culverwell, managing-director of the Northumberland Durham Power Company, has sent the following message to Mayor McWilliams from Kingston: —"Urgent important business detained me at lake front. Engineers and I will go to Burleigh Falls next week, and afterwards make tender."

REV. VAUGHAN SPEAKS OF SINS OF SOCIETY

Expresses Contempt for the Argument That there is No Sin---World Childish or in its Spiritual Dotage.

London, March 10.—Before a congregation that filled every seat and almost every inch of standing room, Father Vaughan delivered yesterday at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, the first of another course of sermons on the sins of society.

For his text Father Vaughan took the passage from the first Epistle of St. John, beginning, "My little children, these things write I unto you that ye may not sin."

"I ask you," exclaimed the preacher later on, in a passionate outburst, "you of Mayfair, my brothers and sisters whom I love—I ask you, as you look around at the prostitutes in our streets, the gambling saloons, the victims of passion, and those who laugh still make light of the Gospel—in the name of God I ask you, if there was ever a people who helped to heighten Christ's agony in the Garden of Gethsemane is it not ourselves?

NO SUCH THING AS SIN!

"What is our reasoning?" he continued. "It is like that of children playing with nursery toys. We are living in a day when you will find people everywhere—both in society and among the working classes — who will say there is no such thing as sin. They say that we have passed from the shadows of dogma into the illumination of science. What was once thought to be a sin is treated as nothing but a question of nervous structure—growing pains — while conscience is held to be just a bad dream to be cast off in the blaze of the twentieth century. Even in some churches you will hear people contending glibly that there was no Fall, and that a failure to reach the moral standard is only a failure to reach an artificial line of duty.

CHILDISH ARGUMENT.

"What is all this, however, but the argument of the boy who first offended God, and then hoped that there would be no God to find him out? How childish the world is, and how soon it is getting into its spiritual dotage! The Passion of Christ is not treated of in fashionable churches now. If it were, some ministers would find their churches empty. The world and society does not wish to acknowledge sin as an offence against God, because its frivolity and irreligion, and its waste of time and money might come to be classed amongst sins."

From this Father Vaughan went on to speak more in detail of the sins of which society was thus secretly conscious. He referred again to gambling—not only by men and women, but by boys and girls. He noted also the habit prevalent among some society ladies of buying articles for which they did not intend to pay.

"They will ask," he said, "for some beautiful thing to be sent on approbation, to be returned if unsuitable. They will wear or use it for that evening, and then send it back next day as unsatisfactory.

WEST HAM GUARDIANS.

"There are West End ladies," so Father Vaughan assured his hearers, "who could give points to the West Ham Guardians, and there are firms not a stone's throw from this pulpit, who could tell of far worse social crimes than any I have mentioned."

This order of offence was not, however, the chief subject of Father Vaughan's denunciation. "What I do denounce," he said, "both as a priest and as an Englishman, is the vile competition with France for the lowest birth-rate in Europe, and our emulation with America to discover excuses for throwing off marriages to enter into better financial alliances. It may be said that instances of this kind are rare, but they should not occur at all. Above all, they should not be sanctioned in a Christian temple—it is a disgrace, a blot upon the escutcheon of our country.

UNNATURAL FOODS.

"Then," added Father Vaughan, "there are the women who, forgetting Nature's productive source, go to a doctor for decoctions in a bottle wherewith to feed their young, thus helping to decrease the number of children in the world.

"If only this country would imitate France and America in the characteristics that are worthy of imitation! Instead we seem to imitate them, as we imitate the animals in the lower things alone—and we do not even imitate the animals in their feeding of their young.

"We are living, in short, in the artificial light of an artificial, pagan civilization, in which the seven deadly sins are looked upon as amiable weaknesses, and pandering to the passions as the satisfaction of legitimate desires."

Former Peterboro' Boy Dies in Rochester

Mr. John H. Lynch, With Relations in This City Has Passed Away.

The sad intelligence was received in the city Saturday that Mr. John H. Lynch, of Rochester, N.Y., a former resident of Peterborough, passed away in that city.

The late Mr. Lynch is a son of Mrs. James Lynch, of Aylmer street, and has lived for some 15 years in Rochester. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, his mother, two sisters and three brothers, one of the latter being William of the Peterborough Lock Co.

JAMES BAY TO CHICAGO

Dr. Grenfell Thinks Two Places Will be Joined by Railway

Toronto, March 9.—A railway from James Bay to Chicago to handle the fish that can be taken out of Hudson's Bay is a possibility of the future, so intimated Dr. Wilfrid T. Grenfell, C.M.G., in an address before the Canadian Club, and he added force to his remarks by a declaration that Prof. Howey, an eminent engineer of Chicago, already has prepared plans for the undertaking.

As an illustration of the tremendous possibilities there are for trade in fish, and to emphasize his contention that the people of Labrador and Newfoundland, where he is laboring as a practical missionary, have a splendid opportunity to become prosperous if they can be taught to be self-supporting, Dr. Grenfell pointed out that one man has made $2,000 in a year, and two brothers $8,000 in three summer months.

Dusty and Duggan Won the Roosters

On Saturday players in Pappas billiard room, 639 George street, wondered how it was that every now and again a cock's crow was heard. This was explainable by two very live and lustily crowing Hamburg cocks tethered by their legs in Yeates' Bros.' shooting gallery adjoining. These cocks were given as prizes at the Saturday night shooting competition in the gallery. There were two competitions for these birds, in the first Ben Dusty, the champion skater, won out by a score of 56, in off the offhand shoot, and the other, shooting with a rest, was captured by C. Duggan, after there were four ties of 55, Duggan winning in the shoot-off.

More Trouble in Russia

New York, March 9.—Alexis Aladin, delegate of the Russian revolutionists to the United States, in an address at the City Hall last night, said that he saw little hope for the Russian people in the present Douma. "Only a few hours have passed since the second Douma met," said Mr. Aladin, "and it seems unmistakeable that a great opportunity has once more been missed by our crown. If in its speech the crown had only uttered a single word of clemency, the people would have been satisfied. But instead, the crown has followed the advice of the statesmen who surround it."

Arm Torn Off at Power House

Shocking Accident Sustained Yesterday by William Spence.

Yesterday afternoon a shocking accident happened at the power house, on the Otonabee, just near the foot of Murray street, whereby an employee lost an arm.

It seems that William Spence, whose mother resides in the Canadian Bank of Commerce building, was adjusting a belt over a pulley at the above noted power house, the belt revolving at the rate of about 180 revolutions per minute, when his coat sleeve was nipped between belt and pully. The arm was of course instantly caught and frightfully mangled before the unfortunate man could be released from his terrible position. Dr. Greer was at once summoned to attend the unfortunate man, who is about 35 years of age and had him conveyed to Nicholls hospital. It was at once seen that absolute amputation was necessary. The patient was reported later on in the evening as progressing as favorably as could be hoped.

LATER—The Times received word at 11,30 last evening that the unfortunate young man was dead.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA

"Dora Thorne"

At the Grand Opera house Saturday night, "Dora Thorne," Bertha M. Clay's fascinating story of world-wide fame, was presented to a big and highly appreciative audience. The stage version of this charming work does the conceptions of the novelist ample justice, and the piece is being toured by a high class company of histrionic artists, who fit into their several roles with a realism calling for the highest measure of credit.

Under the clever manipulation of Rowland & Clifford's company, "Dora Thorne" is the sweetest story ever told interpreted behind the footlights in the sweetest dramatic manner. The company is a strong one, and exceedingly acceptably balance, and they held the exclusive attention and interest of their audience through out the whole presentation. The denouement of this exceptionally touching drama is intensely pleasing to an audience whose feelings have been worked up to the highest tension, the curtain falling on an apportionment of the wages of sin, and a reunion of Lady Thorne and her husband until death doth part. The story is too well known for description here, suffice it to say that its dramatical offering is wonderfully true and attractive.

Miss Sarah Marion's conception of Dora Thorne, the country wild flower, is full of the pathos the character demands, and her selection for this difficult role has been a happy one for the piece. Miss Marie Reeb as Lady Chartaris is exceedingly strong; her interpretation of the designing, unscrupulous titled woman, a treacherous foe to those to whom she should be bound in gratitude, is appallingly real, but one perhaps loses one's abhorrence of the character in admiration for the actress. Hugh Harper, as Ronald Earl, the love-stricken patrician and subsequently a somewhat regretful and very much perplexed husband, displays high histrionic talent, and he fits his part with a full measure of correctness. The character of Stephen Thorne, Dora's father, and old man of the people is quite safe in the hands of Edwin F. Clarke, whose impersonation of this difficult role on Saturday was admirably true to life, and enthusiastically received. Miss Helen McCabe and Joseph Schiller pair together splendidly in comedy, and their impersonations of Alice Earl and Dick Darce provide an irresistible vein of merriment interspersing the heavier actions of the drama.

Edward H. Horner, as Hugh Fernley, the rejected and unscrupulous tattoo lover, is very acceptable, and presents a good conception of his character.

Music at St. John's

The Lenten services yesterday were replete with beautiful music. Farrant's grand old anthem, "Lord for Thy tender mercies sake," was finely rendered by the choir at Matins. Evensong was heartily sung, the offertory solo being grandly sung by Mr. Fred C. Freehand. It was Sterndale Bennett's famous solo from the "Woman of Samaria, viz., "O Lord Thou hast searched me out." After evensong the choir proceeded to A. J. Cairns and the two choirs rehearsed the "Crucifixion," under the direction of Mr. R. J. Dewey, nearly 50 voices in the chorus.

It seems that the authority of a parent over his son in the matter of the latter using tobacco or not will be tried tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, when William Dixon of Asphodel, will appear before Magistrate Edmison to answer to a charge of assault upon his son alleged to have been committed in the words some time ago. Said assault being alleged to have been made because complaint used the "weed," contrary to defendant's orders.

PARIS IN DARK RECALLS SIEGE

Not Since 1870 Has Such a Situation Been Experienced.

BUSINESS IS SUFFERING

Amusements and Boulevard Life Are Practically at a Standstill.

Paris, March 9.—The strike of electricians, which began here suddenly yesterday evening, has assumed a serious aspect. The men employed by the two remaining independent companies went out early this morning, and unless the dispute is settled immediately it is feared that the workmen of the Gas Company and the employes of the Metropolitan Underground Railroad, on which the majority of the population relies for transportation, will be induced to leave their work in sympathy.

Not since the siege of Paris in 1870 has the city been plunged in such darkness, and last night's experience, coming without a warning, has aroused the most intense resentment. In addition to the inconvenience resulting from the closing of places of amusement and the stopping of boulevards and cafe life, the business interests of the capital are keenly alarmed at the passage of heavy material losses.

If the strike continues the stores will be obliged to close at dusk, many of the workshops and manufactories will be compelled to shut down on account of the lack of motive power, and the foreign visitors, on whom the hotels and many tradespeople largely subsist, will be driven away. The newspapers, with the exception of the out and out Socialist organs, condemn the strikers most severely and insist that the government should intervene and compel the parties to the dispute to reach a prompt settlement.

An announcement by Premier Clemenceau, promising relief, was taken to indicate that military engineers would be placed in the electrical works. The afternoon newspaper presses received power from steam engines and automobiles, which were stationed in front of the offices.

Laid at Rest

Funeral of the Late Frederick George Wyatt on Saturday.

The funeral of the late Frederick George Wyatt, second son of Mr. Joseph L. Wyatt, East Ward, took place Saturday afternoon, from the family residence, Driscoll Terrace, and thence to St. Luke's church, where a touching and appropriate service was conducted by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt. Many beautiful and costly floral offerings were in evidence, including tributes from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Robertson, The Times' employees, the Woodmen of the World, of which deceased was a member, and others who mourn the loss of an exemplary young man, standing high in the esteem of all who enjoyed his acquaintance. The funeral cortege was a large one, being attended by a representative body of the Woodmen of the World, The Times, young men of St. Luke's church, together with many friends and acquaintances. Interment took place in Little Lake cemetery.

Old and Respected Local Citizen Gone

Mr. William Hamilton Has Passed Away After Long Illness.

One of Peterborough's oldest and most highly respected citizens in the person of Mr. William Hamilton passed away at his residence, corner of Sherbrooke and Brethaine streets on Saturday evening. The late Mr. Hamilton was 70 years of age and was born in the same house as where he passed away.

Mr. Hamilton was married to Mary Ellen Hayden of Cold Springs, near Cobourg, and is survived by her. He has two brothers, Messrs. Peter of this city and James of Lindsay, and two sisters Mrs. Robert Innes and Mrs. John Cameron of this city. He also leaves to mourn his loss three sons, W. H. Percy and Frank living at the homestead on Sherbrooke St., and two daughters, Miss Edith living at the homestead, and Miss Margaret, who is teaching at Stirling.

The late Mr. Hamilton has been an invalid for some years, suffering from cholea. He was able to be out for a walk on Thursday last, but succumbed to a general breakdown of constitution on Saturday. He will be sadly missed by all who knew him, being by his kindly disposition beloved by all his many acquaintances. Mr. Hamilton carried on a foundry business some years ago in Fenelon Falls, and was later on associated with the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company. He was a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church, and a reformer in politics. His many friends will remember that the deceased was an ardent and skilled horticulturist, and possessed a handsome collection of orchids.

The funeral, which is private, will be held this afternoon at 2.30 from the homestead to the Little Lake cemetery for interment.

The Young Man's Body Exhumed

Dr. J. W. Gray Leaves at Noon Today and Will Hold an Inquest.

Dr. J. W. Gray, the local coroner, leaves by the 11.50 C.P.R. train this morning for Norwood, to hold an inquest on the body of Thomas Howard, a young Englishman who as noted in Saturday's issue, died last Thursday, under what are now considered suspicious circumstances in the McGregor House at that village. The doctor has been notified that the body of the deceased has been exhumed. As the young man, who has been working on a farm near Norwood, and whose parents and relatives live in England, died just after a physician arrived, the coroner decided it necessary to hold a post-mortem as to cause of death.

Chas. Williams a Missing Man

Wallberton, March 10.—Mr. Charles Williams, who was erecting a grist mill in Southampton, and who mysteriously disappeared when the mill was well-nigh completed, has not yet been heard of. His wife has become exceedingly anxious and fears that he has met with foul play. She has written to the authorities asking them to assist her find her husband. According to her letter Mr. Williams left Southampton in October, 1906, to go to Stratford, and then back to Hanover, to make a payment of $200 on a house he was buying. He had in his possession $760, and Mrs. Williams thinks he has met with foul play around Stratford, Hanover, Walkerton, or Southampton. He had quite a number of business dealings for him who knew he had large sums of money on him when he left.

Mrs. Williams wanted to have all the marshes around Walkerton searched. She also wishes to know if there are any swampy places near Walkerton where there has been an old mill and the structure still stands, as she believes he may have been dazed while looking over one of these places, she describes her husband as a man of good habits, 5 feet 7 inches in height, weights about 190 pounds, one front tooth out, dark auburn hair, fair complexion, clean shaved face. He was dressed in a blue grey suit, light overcoat, white cuffs and collar, and a black and white negligee shirt.

Dog Was Faithful

Halifax, N.S., March 10.—Enos Mosher, who left here on the 1st of August as in the steamer 'Adventure for Hudson's Bay to superintend the construction of barracks for the mounted police at Fort Churchill, has returned to his home in Halifax. Mr. Mosher (was one of the party who went in search of Dr. Floyd the surgeon attached to Major Moodie's party, who lost the trail in a terrific snowstorm and was found after three days' search frozen to death. When the body was discovered the doctor's faithful dog was lying across the body. The dog was alive and refused to allow the searchers to go near the body. The dog, which had been the leader of the doctor's team, was not found frozen alongside his master's body, but was alive when Mr. Mosher left for home. The animal had endeavored to keep his master's body warm, and it was only after much trouble Major Moodie not wishing to shoot it) that it was hauled off the body.

DOUKHOBOR AMAZONS ATTACK THE BAILIFF

His Party Fiercely Fought by Female Furies Armed With Pitchforks and Clubs---Chattels Seized for Taxes.

Shelho, Sask., March 10. — Details have reached here of Bailiff Walter K. Scott's unsuccessful attempt to seize the chattels of the Doukhobors for taxes a few days ago, near Yorkton.

Armed with the warrants for seizure Mr. Scott and assistants went to the village of Karluke. This village is located on the line of the Canadian Northern Railway three miles west of Buchanan. Their visit was unexpected by the Doukhobors, and, before being molested, they effected the seizure of forty head of mixed cattle, fifty-two sheep, and one mare and colt. The mare and colt broke away, and ran to the village, where they were taken in charge by the Doukhobors.

"KING" AT THE VILLAGE.

Mr. Scott had made arrangements to have the sheep and cattle taken care of at Buchanan, and drove them there, but were astonished on their arrival to find the Doukhobors awaiting them. The Doukhobors immediately commenced an attack on the officials with clubs and the small party of four was soon overpowered. Mr. Scott endeavored to persuade one Jim Simerodian and Peter Verigen, who is known as the king of the village, to sign an agreement to the effect that they would allow them to retain all the stock seized. Each member of the Doukhobor party stated that Verigen would not allow them to take a pen or pencil of any description in their hands or make a mark of any kind. They wanted to know what the officers wanted with their stock, and Mr. Scott produced his warrants a second time. They then directed Mr. Scott to go to Verigen, which, of course, was useless.

SEIZED MORE CHATTELS.

Later in the evening Jim Simerodian and others made a promise to Mr. Scott that everything would be all right. Before leaving, three additional teams of horses, with sleighs and harness, and also one pair of ten were seized.

Before leaving, Mr. Scott made some inquiries about the 198 names on the assessment roll. Six of these names were people residing in the different villages outside the district and about nineteen who are residing at Prince and Swan River. The finance of the 198 could not be identified. On the roll held by the bailiff the name of Peter Verigen appeared twice, and all the Doukhobors interviewed disclaimed any any knowledge of any Peter Verigen except the one who is the leader of his people. The general public in that section is naturally curious to know how that man could explain the fact of his name appearing twice on the roll as holder of one-quarter sections. It is also understood that land is being held for small boys.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

One Simeon Rebin twice returned the tax notices sent him with the statement that the amount was too much to pay. Other settlers, however, cannot see things in that light. They believe that when the Doukhobors are stripping the 198 quarter sections in their district of all the wood and logs and have been doing it for three years, why they not pay their share of the taxes. They also have the benefit of a good road constructed from Zimmerman's homestead through their township to the village. Another thing some of the settlers would like to know is how that work was paid for.

WOMEN FOUGHT THEM.

During the adventurous trip of Mr. Scott and his twenty-four deputies into the Karluke village of the Doukhobor district, they encountered the women, who fought like demons. One of the men was knocked down and kicked very severely. When Mr. Scott was taking a horse from a stable he was encircled by a party armed with pitchforks, clubs, and other weapons, and he was lucky to escape without serious injury. An information was laid against two of the assailants. When the police went to serve the warrants the men showed greatest humility. Then another attempt was made to seize the cattle, but the women once more interfered, and again saved their stock, and all that could be taken away was one colt.

A Prominent Chicken Thief

Belleville, March 10.—Residents of Front street have recently been annoyed by the depredations of chicken thieves. The other night a marauder lassoed a fine plump chick, but the theft was discovered just as the culprit was making a hasty exit to a neighboring roof. An considerable commotion was caused by the disappearance of the chicken, and vows of vengeance on the guilty, the guilty party evidently thought it best to return it, and later the bird was discovered dangling in the breeze. The suspect is a young man of high social standing, who is quite prominent in business circles. His friends swear by his innocence, but some others simply wink and look wise.

Sacramento, Cal., March 10. — The senate last night unanimously passed two bills bearing on the Japanese question. One bill limits the age of admittance of all children when first entering the primary schools to ten years, except with the consent of superintendents of schools, boards of education and boards of trustees.

The other bill provides for the expression of the will and sentiment of the voters of California at the next election on the question of Asiatic immigration.

HE IS CORRECT

Dr Hamilton Proves That Piles Are Caused by Constipation and Strong Catharties.

Knowing the frequency with which people suffer from this ailment, Dr. Hamilton made an exhaustive study into the cause of piles.

He found that the lower part of the bowels is like a network of blood-vessels, and if subjected to persistent pressure, a section will bulge out and form what is commonly known as piles.

The only effective mode of curing this trouble is the regular use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which can be taken before retiring. Next day will bring wonderful relief.

"I suffered up to about the limit of human endurance with piles," writes Miss Lueders, from Cornwall, Ont., "I was employed in a factory here, but for a while had to give up work till I got better of this trouble. I read in the Montreal Herald about Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and after using them for two weeks was cured. I can recommend these pills very highly; there are none better. They at once relieve and prevent a constipated condition of the bowels, and from my experience can be depended upon as a perfect safeguard against piles. Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, I am sure, would be a benefit to every girl or woman."

Take Dr. Hamilton's Pills and your system will be regenerated, revitalized, and made proof against disease.

Good for men, excellent for women, and most effective for children. All ages and both sexes find Dr. Hamilton's Pills a marvelous medicine. Although active, they do not gripe or cause inconvenience, system, thereby maintaining a high still they cleanse and purify the standard of health. Sold by all dealers, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, or by mail, from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

MUST GO SLOW

The proposal of the city to take over the gas and electric light plants is a matter that requires serious consideration and investigation.

The theory of municipal ownership of public utilities is not as iridescent as it was. Its iridescence has been sadly dulled by the stubborn facts it has run up against. Easton, Pennsylvania, is one of the places which has concluded that it did not know when it was well off. In a message to the city council Mayor March said that, although he is a believer in the theory of city ownership, nevertheless he would "prefer to hand over the city lighting to private corporations rather than see large districts in darkness, as has often been the case in the last six months." Continuing, he characterised this as "dangerous from the police point of view" and unbearable from the citizen's, adding that if the city continues to operate the plant it "must be run as a private corporation would run it." There should not only be economy, but the machinery should be constantly repaired and renewed, both for efficiency and "to keep up with modern progress in electric lighting." Much of the machinery being almost worn out, he advises that arrangements be made to borrow current from a local company so that in case of breakdown the city streets may not be kept in darkness while repairs are going on.

It is the same old story. Business is business, and politics is politics. The mixture of them in municipal ownership does not work, and never will.

AIMED AT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Massachusetts has a Board of Medical Registration, and Dr. Harvey, its secretary, is trying to get the Legislature to pass an act defining a "medical practitioner" as one "who shall investigate or diagnose physical ailments, defects, or conditions of any person, with a view to treat or relieve the same, by any method or system of practice, whether with or without the use of drugs." This is aimed at the Christian Scientists, who do not want any such law. They claim they are not "practitioners" and should not be compelled to register. Just how they could be harmed by registering does not appear. Yet, on the theory that their claims are correct, the state should not meddle with them. A healer who heals by delegated Divine power has the right to claim exemption from human supervision. Nothing could be more obvious. Here is where the "higher law" comes in, assuming, of course, that the Christian Scientists are just what they claim to be. It is understood that Dr. Harvey's bill will not be passed. A similar measure was rejected by the Massachusetts great and general court last year.

The Potato.

The common potato was at the time of the discovery of America in cultivation from Chile, to which it is indigenous, along the greater part of the Andes as far north as to New Granada. It was introduced from Quito into Spain about 1580 under the name of "papa," which in Spanish it still bears. From Spain it found its way to Italy, where it became known as "tartuffalo," and thence was carried to Mons, in Belgium, by one of the attendants of the pope's legate to that country. In 1588 it was sent by Philippe de Sivry, governor of Mons, to the botanist De L'Ecluse, professor at the University of Leyden, who in 1601 published the first good description of it under the name of "Papas peruanorum," and stated that it had then spread throughout Germany. Recommended in France by Caspar Bauhin, the culture of the tuber rapidly extended in 1592 throughout Franche Comte, the Vosges and Burgundy. But the belief becoming prevalent that it caused leprosy and fever, it underwent an ordeal of persecution from which it did not recover until three-quarters of a century afterward.

Sailors' Side Lines.

"Every sailor has a side line," he said. "Many an old shellback makes more out of his side line than out of punching sails and chewing ropes. Watch 'em come aboard for a long voyage. Here's one with a camera, plates and developer. He'll snapshot spouting whales, icebergs, porpoises, wrecks, anything of interest that turns up, for such pictures sell to magazines and newspapers, and he'll photograph his mates at so much a head. Here's a man with $5 worth of fine wool. He'll knit it all up into ladies' shawls during the voyage. With his skillful work he'll change it into $50 worth of wool. The tattooed chap has a chunk of ivory. He'll carve it into little ships. He's very handy that way. The bow legged feller darns stockings and patches clothes. The cross eyed one shaves and hair cuts. As for me, I run a lottery."

Colors and Seamstresses.

The seamstress, passing her needle through and through the fabric on her lap, said:

"I love to sew white. I love to sew green too. Pinks are easy. So are most of the clear, pale tints. But black! But red! But shepherd's plaid!"

She threw back her head in horror.

"Bright red, when you sew it, inflames your vision, it angers you, it makes you nervous. Black strains the eyes out of your head, the stitches in it are so hard to see. Black is a depressing color too. But worst of all is that combination of black and white called shepherd's plaid. Work on shepherd's plaid an hour or two and the black and white squares will dance under your eyes like living things. Polka dots dance, too," she ended. "They polka; hence the name."

The Childish Voice Too Much.

A good story is told of Signor Foli, the famous basso. Once upon a time he was singing "The Raft," when a childish voice from somewhere in the stalls suddenly piped in and attempted to organise an impromptu duet. Unfortunately the next line of the song was: "Hark! What sound is that which breaks upon mine ear?" This so tickled the fancy of the great vocalist that he burst into a hearty fit of laughter and left the platform, followed by the pianist. Twice they came back and attempted the song, and finally they had to give it up in despair, much to the amusement of the audience.

More Elegant.

"What you have," said Dr. Newman, "is just a common cold, and all you need is a good sweat."

"Sir!" cried Miss Blugore haughtily.

"I beg pardon! It's a fashionable cold, and what you need is a good perspiration."—Philadelphia Press.

Brutal Conduct

Montreal, March 9. — Remarking, "For a brute like you there is no mercy," Judge Choquette, yesterday sentenced James Allan, an Englishman, 30 year of age, to three years in the penitentiary for an "aggravated assault" on his two-and-a-half-year-old daughter. The evidence showed hockingly brutal treatment, resulting in total blindness from a blow on the head. Allan had held the child while naked, under the cold water tap until it had become unconscious, kept it out on the gallery all night, and frequently beat it and pounded it with his fists on the head and face and chest.

PAIN

Pain in the head—pain anywhere, has its cause. Pain is congestion, pain is blood pressure—nothing else usually. At least, so says Dr. Shoop, and to prove it he has created a little pink tablet. That tablet—called Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablet—causes blood pressure away from pain centers. Its effect is charming, pleasingly delightful. Gently, though safely, it surely equalizes the blood circulation.

If you have a headache, it's blood pressure.

If it's painful periods with women, same cause.

If you are sleepless, restless, nervous, it's blood congestion—blood pressure. That surely is a certainty, for Dr. Shoop's Headache Tablets stop it in 20 minutes, and the tablets simply distribute the unnatural blood pressure.

Rub on your finger, and doesn't it get red, and smell, and pain you? Of course it does. It's congestion, blood pressure. You'll find it where pain is—always. It's simply Common Sense.

We sell at 25 cents, and cheerfully recommend

MARRIAGE CUSTOMS.

The Change From the Era When Wives Were Taken by Force.

Marriage customs have changed everywhere with the advance of civilization. Anglo-Saxons in ancient times, it is said, used to capture their wives by force from their fathers or their husbands, it did not matter which.

This was before Augustine came to preach Christianity. Then purchase was more common than capture, although the latter seems to have been frequent enough to the reign of Ethelbert to need regulation by law. By this law a man might run away with a woman, provided he afterward paid her previous owner, be he father or husband, 50 shillings. If it was husband who had thus been deprived of his wife, the woman's captor had not only to pay him the fine, but also to buy him another wife. In any case the stolen woman belonged to her captor.

If a man had purchased his bride in the days of Ethelbert and afterward concluded he had paid too much for her, it was lawful for him to return her to her former owner and claim again the purchase price, provided that he had not previously expressed satisfaction by making the bride a present on the morning after the wedding.

The next step was the "foster lien," when the bride price was paid on the day of espousal and was supposed to compensate the parent for the cost of bringing up his daughter. It seems, however, that this soon fell into disrepute, as there was no law against the father engaging his daughter to numerous suitors, taking from each the "foster lien" and, of course, cheating all but one on the wedding day, which at that time was only the day of betrothal, when the suitor gave a "wed" or pledge for the future performance of his contract. If the suitor did not claim his bride within two years after the wedding day, he forfeited all right to her and to whatever money or goods he had paid for her. If the woman and her father broke their promises, the father had to give the suitor four times as much as the suitor had already paid him.

As civilization advanced the bride price was given to the woman herself and became her dowry, while nowadays the tables are frequently turned, and the bride settles the money on her husband.

LADYLIKE GEOMETRY.

Figures of the same shape don't always have the same style.

Figures of the same size never consider themselves equivalent.

A straight line is the shortest distance between two millinery openings.

A plain figure is one all points of which have been neglected by the dressmaker.

A mixed line is a line composing the reception committee of a club's presidential candidate.

A broken line is a series of successive straight lines described by a woman alighting from a street car.

A straight line determined by two bargain tables is considered as prolonged both ways until the store closes.

Women equal to the same thing are not always equal to each other.—Nellie Parker Jones in Chicago Record-Herald.

A Pointed Prayer.

Aunt Dinah had come to see her old mistress, who had just recovered from an illness.

"Yes, Miss Lila, I sho'ly done prayed fer yer to git well all de time, and now yer see how it done turned out."

"Then you believe that your prayers are always answered, Dinah?"

"Sho'ly, sho'ly!" Then, with a sly glance: "Yer see, I neber tempts de Lord, 'cause I don't pray fer nothin' dat I don't know I'll git. Dr. John, he done tol' me he tort yer was on de recovery road." After a pause she went on:

"Say, Miss Lila, yer know what I prayed fer last night?"

"No."

"Why, I just pintedly begged de Lord fer put it into yer heart fer give me dat brown silk dress yer done outgrowed."

In the Matter of Tips.

The man who tips the highest gets the best service and the most ostentatious deference. "Give this to the cook," said a St. Louis parvenu, handing a dollar to the waiter with his order, "and tell him to cook it my way." "Give this to the cook," said a scribe at the next table, handing a two dollar bill to the waiter with his order, "and tell him to cook it his own way, for he is a better cook than I am." We will not be outshone. We will not shrink in any man's shadow. At the same time the pace is too hot and fast for most of us.

Localized Him.

A stranger wishing to play golf at North Berwick saw some one in authority upon the matter.

"What name?" asked the dignified official in charge.

"De Neufeldt," the stranger replied.

"Mon," said the official in a tone of disgust, "we canna fash oorsels wi' names like that at North Berwick. Ye'll stairt in the morn at ten fifteen to the name of Fairgusson."

Progressing.

Miss Weston—And have you played much golf, Mr. Jones? Mr. Jones—Well, no; can't say I've played much, but I've walked round the links several times in golf clothes, and I'm beginning to understand the language.

A Dog Habit.

The habit of turning around three or four times before lying down has survived in the domestic dog from his savage ancestry. It then served to break down the tall grass and make a bed.

Fashions in Brides.

The natives of the Sandwich Islands estimate women by their weight. The Chinese require them to have deformed feet and black teeth. A girl must be tattooed sky blue and wear a nose ring to satisfy a south sea islander. Certain African princes require their brides to have their teeth filed into the semblance of a saw.

Norway Rats.

In the mountains of Sweden, Norway and Lapland all vegetation would be utterly destroyed by the Norway rats were it not for the white foxes that make special game of the rodents.

Lake Ontario.

The name of Lake Ontario was first noted as Skanodairo (beautiful lake). It was also, at various times and by different men, denominated Lac de Frontenac, Lac de Iroquois and Lac de St. Louis. The Mohawks called it Candiaraqui.

The "great bell" at Moscow weighs 443,772 pounds, is nineteen feet three inches high and measures sixty feet nine inches around the lower rim. The bell metal in it is worth $300,000.

Salmasius.

Salmasius, Milton's antagonist, was a man of mild manners and quiet in speech, but his wife imagined he did not do himself justice in controversy unless he called his antagonist vile names. Some of his manuscripts are extant, containing abusive words interlined in her own handwriting.

Hadrian.

Hadrian, one of the best Roman emperors, was married to Julia Sabina, Trajan's niece, but neglected her to such an extent that she went mad and killed herself.

Cause of Split Nails.

Split finger nails are invariably a sign that sufficient salt is not taken with the food, this causing a softness and brittleness of the nails. Those who are troubled in this way, therefore, should eat more salt than they have been accustomed to do. In addition they must see that they do not wash their hands in water that is too warm.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

them! Come, come! Not an instant is to be lost!"

"I do not think that they will be caught," said Du Lhut, laying his hand soothingly upon his shoulder. "Do not fear. They had a long start, and the women here can paddle as well as the men. Besides, these canoes of the Mohawks are not as swift as the Algonquin birch barks which we use. In any case, it is impossible to follow, for we have no boat."

"There is one lying there."

"Ah, it will but hold a single man. It is that in which the friar came."

"Then I am going in that! My place is with Adele!"

He flung open the door, rushed out and was about to push off the frail skiff when some one sprang past him and with a blow from a hatchet stove in the side of the boat.

"It is my boat," said the friar, throwing down his ax and folding his arms. "I have found you and you shall not escape me again."

The hot blood flushed to the soldier's head, and, picking up the ax, he took a quick step forward. The light from the open door shone upon the grave, harsh face of the friar, but not a muscle twitched nor a feature changed as he saw the ax whirl up in the hands of a furious man. He only signed himself with the cross and muttered a Latin prayer under his breath. It was that composure which saved his life. De Catinat hurled down the ax again with a bitter curse and was turning away from the shattered boat when in an instant, without a warning, the great door of the manor house crashed inward and a flood of whooping savages burst into the house.

CHAPTER XXIV.

WHAT had occurred is easily explained. The watchers in the windows at the front found that it was more than flesh and blood could endure to remain waiting at their posts while the fates of their wives and children were being decided at the back. All was quiet at the stockade and the Indians appeared to be as absorbed as the Canadians in what was passing upon the river. One by one, therefore, the men on guard had crept away and had assembled at the back to cheer the shot and to groan as the remaining canoe sped like a bloodhound down the river in the wake of the fugitives. But the savages had one at their head who was as full of wiles and resource as Du Lhut himself. The Flemish Bastard had watched the house from behind the stockade as a dog watches a rat hole, and he had instantly discovered that the defenders had left their post. With a score of other warriors he raised a great log from the edge of the forest, and, crossing the open space unchallenged, he and his men rushed it against the door with such violence as to crack the bar across and tear the wood from the hinges. The first intimation which the survivors had of the attack was the crash of the door and the screams of two of the negligent watchmen who had been seized and scalped in the hall. The whole basement floor was in the hands of the Indians, and De Catinat and his enemy the friar were cut off from the foot of the stairs.

Fortunately, however, the manor houses of Canada were built with the one idea of defense against Indians, and even now there were hopes for the defenders. A wooden ladder which could be drawn up in case of need hung down from the upper windows to the ground upon the river side. De Catinat rushed round to this, followed by the friar. He felt for the ladder in the darkness. It was gone.

Then, indeed, his heart sank in despair. Where could he fly to? The boat was destroyed. The stockades lay between him and the forest, and they were in the hands of the Iroquois. Suddenly he heard a voice from somewhere in the darkness above him.

"Give me your gun, lad," it said. "I see the loom of some of the heathen down by the wall."

"It is I! It is I, Amos!" cried De Catinat. "Down with the ladder or I am a dead man!"

"Have a care. It may be a ruse," said the voice of Du Lhut.

"No, no! I'll answer for it!" cried Amos, and an instant later down came the ladder. De Catinat and the friar rushed up it, and they hardly had their feet upon the rungs when a swarm of warriors burst out from the door and poured along the river bank.

It was a very small band who now held the last point to which they could retreat. Only nine of them remained—the seigneur, Du Lhut, the two Americans, the friar, De Catinat, Theuriet the major domo and two of the censitaires. The stone staircase ran straight up from the kitchen to the main hall, and the door which had been barricaded across the lower part by two mattresses commanded the whole flight.

The cards were still laid out at one end of the table, with the tricks overlapping each other, as they had left them. But there was something else there of more interest to them, for the breakfast had not been cleared away, and they had been fighting all day with hardly bite or sup. Even when face to face with death Nature still cried out for her dues, and the hungry men turned savagely upon the loaf, the ham and the cold wild duck. A little cluster of wine bottles stood upon the buffet, and these had their necks knocked off and were emptied down parched throats.

For four hours sounds of riot, of dancing and of reveling rose up from the storehouse, and the smell of the open brandy casks filled the whole air. More than once the savages quarreled and fought among themselves, and it seemed as if they had forgotten their enemies above, but the besieged soon found that if they attempted to presume upon this they were as closely watched as ever. The major domo Theuriet, passing between a loophole and a light, was killed instantly by a bullet from the stockade, and both Amos and the old seigneur had narrow escapes.

Slowly the light crept up the eastern sky, a little line of pearl, then a band of pink, broadening, stretching, spreading, until it shot its warm color across the heavens, tingeing the edges of the drifting clouds. De Catinat stood at the window looking out when suddenly his eyes fell on a dark spot upon the river to the north of them.

"There is a canoe coming up!" he cried.

In an instant they had all rushed to the opening, but Du Lhut sprang after them and pulled them angrily toward the door. "Do you wish to die before your time?" he cried.

"Aye, aye!" said Captain Ephraim, who understood the gesture if not the words. "We must leave a watch on deck. Amos, lad, lie here with me and be ready if they show."

The two Americans and the old pioneer held the barricade, while the eyes of all the others were turned upon the approaching boat. A groan broke suddenly from the only surviving censitaire.

"It is an Iroquois canoe!" he cried.

"Impossible!"

"Alas, your excellency, it is so, and it is the same one which passed us last night."

AN ODD WAGER.

The Peculiar Bet a Foreign Prince Laid and Won in Paris.

Gambling has always been a favorite occupation for the sons of royal houses, but none of them probably has ever exhibited so much wit and ingenuity in his betting as a foreign prince did at his stay in Paris.

He laid a heavy wager with a member of the Imperial club of the French capital that within two hours he would be arrested by the police without committing any offense or provoking the officers of the law in any fashion. Accordingly, having clothed himself in rags of the most disreputable appearance, he walked into one of the most aristocratic restaurants in the city and ordered a cup of chocolate. The waiter refused to serve him unless he showed evidence that he could pay. The prince at once drew a roll of bank notes from his pocket and offered one of large denomination to the astonished attendant. The latter took the bill and carried it at once to the proprietor, who sent for the police, in the meantime allowing his strange guest to be served.

As soon as the authorities arrived they arrested the incognito son of royalty and took him to the nearest station, where of course he was released after he had disclosed the facts of the affair.—New York Tribune.

Color Blindness.

The term color blindness implies an entire absence of the color sense, and there are a few persons who are in this condition, but it also includes all the forms of partial color blindness in which the perception of one of the fundamental colors—red, green and violet—is wanting, and which are known as red blindness, green blindness and violet blindness. The line between these various kinds of color blindness and a perfect perception of colors is not sharply drawn, so that a large number of persons have what is called a feeble color sense, which falls short of actual color blindness. There is no doubt that color blindness in its various forms is much more common than is generally supposed, and it is more common among the imperfectly than the well educated classes.

Barbers Ages Ago.

The first barbers of whom there is any record plied their trade in Greece in the fifth century B. C. In Rome the first barbers operated in the third century B. C. In olden times in England the barber and the physician were identical. Thus a king's barber was also his chief medical adviser. In the time of Henry VIII. of England laws were made concerning barbers, of which the following is an extract: "No person occupying a shaving or barbery in London shall use any surgery, letting of blood or other matter, except the drawing of teeth."

After It Is All Over.

When yarns are being spun one hears a good deal concerning the curious antics people go through when highly excited, but very little is said about the man who "gets scared after it is all over." And the latter, not being so constituted that he can faint, as a woman often does after a fright, generally keeps his own counsel and often is given the credit of being cool and "nervy" when the fact is that his knees are ready to bump together for mutual support.—Forest and Stream.

On the Safe Side.

They had been engaged for fully thirty minutes by the cuckoo clock.

"I have a surprise in store for you Alfred, dear," she said. "I can cook as well as I can play the piano."

"That being the case, darling," he replied, "it will be well for us to board."

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 20 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 20 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $180,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 675-1233-892-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. For a limited time only we will accept subscriptions at 50 cents—the stock is slated for a sharp advance very soon. Send marked cheque or money order.

Why Do Women Worry?

First Sign of Failing Health.

Worry is a disease—and it's more—it produces other diseases, because it breaks down the nerves and saps the vitality of the body.

What a pity women don't realise that if they were well—if the blood was nutritious—if the nerves were strong—if all the organs were active—then the little things that irritate and prey on the mind wouldn't receive a moment's thought.

The woman who worries has a poor appetite—she sleeps poorly. If it only lasted for a day or two it might be of small consequence—but she grows limp, miserable, unhappy—worse day by day.

She needs Ferrozone which cures worry by curing the conditions that render worry possible. For Nervous, weak women, no tonic is so good; thousands it has cured just like Mrs. M. E. Etherington, of Troy, who writes, "I am quite willing to give a public testimonial for Ferrozone believing it to be a tonic of superior excellence and one that will rapidly build up strength and supply new energy to anyone not feeling well. Last spring I was in a very poor condition of health. I was nervous, felt tired, and completely worn out. No doubt it's quite a common complaint with ladies of my age, but I placed great reliance in Ferrozone, and took it for several weeks. It made me quite strong, and in fact I have been in better health ever since. I can heartily recommend Ferrozone."

Ferrozone cures by making good good blood strong nerves and a healthy body.

This is why it gives color, clearness to the skin, buoyance to the step brightness to the eyes—because with good digestion and activity of the body in all its parts there's health. Price 50c. per box at all dealers.

A Stock Broker's Law Suit

New York, March 9.—Daniel Leroy Dresser, the broker, was today given a discharge in bankruptcy, after proceedings begun in March, 1903. The creditors agreed to the action in order to enable Mr. Dresser to bring suit for the recovery of $2,000,000, which he asserts he lost through the collapse of a shipbuilding trust by the alleged withholding of securities which he had hypothecated.

Organizer Keys, C.O.F. Kept Busy

Mr. G. R. Keys, C.O.F. organizer, was in Bridgenorth during the past week attending to the business of the Foresters in that locality. Vice-Chief Ranger J. Jobe presided. At a meeting held when eight initations were made, Mr. Keys is now at Young's Point, organizing a lodge there.

House of Refuge Officers Meet

County Warden P. McNulty was in the city on Saturday, en route to attend a meeting of the House of Refuge managers. He conferred with Messrs Robt. Shaw and R. N. Scott regarding the purchase of seed, etc., for the spring sowing on the farm. He was accompanied to Lakefield by Mr. Ed. M. Elliott, county treasurer.

Fight on Charlotte Street

A fierce fight took place at four o'clock Saturday afternoon at the corner of Charlotte and Water streets, between two local young men. After one had had his "claret tapped," and the other fellow got two optics into mourning, one of the local police force was seen approaching. On this the disputants and their respective backers faded away into the far beyond.

Peterborough Capital Abroad

A Western Ontario paper says that Mr. W. J. Kearns, formerly of Peterborough, and Mr. Wm. Hamilton, of this city, with two or three others from Toronto, have been granted a patent for the Maple Leaf mine in the Township of Gladston, Ont. Samples of the ore from this mine have been sent to the Provincial Government assayer at Belleville, Ont., and are found to contain 22.51 per cent. copper with traces of gold and silver.; the vein is 11 feet wide from wall to wall and the indications are that it will be one of the richest mines in Ontario. Active mining operations will be commenced in the course of the next few weeks. Mr. Kearns and his company have also secured the services of two expert prospectors to take up new locations in the vicinity of the mine. They also intend going after silver in the Cobalt district this summer.

Mr. Samuel Griffin Has Passed Away

Mr. Samuel Griffin, one of Peterborough's oldest residents, passed away at the home of his son, 257 Stewart street on Saturday morning from pneumonia. Mr. Griffin who was 91 years of age, has lived in this city for a quarter of a century. He was born in Berthier, Que. His first wife was Adelaine Burnham of Middleton, Vt., who died at the age of 44, leaving five surviving children, viz., three sons, S. J. Griffin, Groton, S.D.; C. S. Griffin, city, and O. B. Griffin, Detroit, Mich., and two daughters, Mrs. B. M. Wylie, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Mrs. M. Otis O'Brien, Minneapolis, Minn.

His second wife was Eliza Ann Simpson of Brighton, Ont., who also predeceased him in 1905.

Since the death of his late wife, he had made this home with his son, Chas. S., at 257 Stewart street.

The funeral will take place this morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of his son, 257 Stewart street, to the C.P.R. station, and thence to Norwood, where interment will take place.

Local Salvationists at Toronto Meeting

On Saturday morning Adjt. Wiggins, in charge of the local Salvation Army, went to Toronto to attend the public meeting in connection with Commander Booth's trip through Canada. Public meetings will be held at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg. A number of the rank and file of the local corps went up by the early train yesterday to Toronto to attend the meeting held in that city.

Local Writer to the Canadian Grocer

In the Canadian Grocer of last week appears a letter written by Mr. Davy, local manager of Messrs. Kinnear & Co., the wholesale grocers of Toronto and Peterborough, in reply to remarks made in the same paper by Mr. E. F. Mason. In this article Mr. Davy denies that his firm never accepted an order from anyone but a retail merchant, but that frequently either letters are received or people call at the office there wanting to buy groceries wholesale, but the firm has refused all such, realizing it would not be fair to the retail merchants.

He further intimates that outside firms which sent travelers here were taking orders from hotels and restaurants and also private individuals.

Navigation for Village of Omemee

It is now said that Pigeon Creek, which as already a navigable depth, but choked by weeds, is to have the latter taken out so as to give Omemee navigation privileges. This would give that hamlet water connection with the Trent Valley canal system and result in giving surrounding farmers cheaper transportation for their grain, wood and farm produce. A petition is now being largely signed at Omemee and Emily, requesting the Minister of Railways and Canals to assist the project.

Tries to Light a Match With Cigar

A well-known George street business man must have celebrated his birthday or some other anniversary on Saturday. About 7.30 he was seen to stop in Charlotte street, near the corner of Aylmer and make three ineffectual grabs at his upper vest pocket. The fourth grab resulted in a fat black cigar being withdrawn. He then made about as many more reaches for the lower vest-picket, when a match was withdrawn. He next gravelly placed the match between his teeth and carefully struck the cigar against a brick wall. As he cloned his hands together to shelter the expected flame from the breeze he soon do, he discovered his mistake and looking cautiously round, to see who, if any had observed his "mistake," spit out the match, and surreptitiously dropping the cigar walked downwards with exaggerated straightness.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless aid to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle-wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fullest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

THE GRIPPE

The Readers of This g.f.j. May Know How to Detect It.

An ache in the back and a pain in the head—
That's the grippe!
A choke in the throat and a yearning for bed—
That's the grippe!
A river of heat, then a shiver of cold,
A feeling of being three hundred years old,
A willingness even to do as you're told—
That's the grippe!
An arrow of pain, now in this place, now that—
That's the grippe!
A feeling of doubt as to where you are at—
That's the grippe!
A stupid sensation—of course, wholly new!—
A foolish depression—why should you feel blue?—
A doubt as to whether this really is you—
That's the grippe!
Strange visions at night, that deprive you of rest—
That's the grippe!
A taste in your mouth, and a weight on your chest—
That's the grippe!
A tired sensation that runs through your veins,
A queer combination of aches and of pains,
A vapid admission of absence of brains—
That's the grippe!
A marvellous weakness, come on in a day—
That's the grippe!
A petulant wonder: "How long will it stay?"
That's the grippe!
A season of fever, a season of freeze!
A quivering weakness that's felt at the knees—
Say, if ever there was a cuss-ed disease,
It's the grippe!

Smoker at Young Conservative Club

On Thursday evening another smoker will be given at the Young Conservative Club. This will be Englishmen's night, and a number of newly arrived scions of Albion will attend. Mr. Wm. Butler, treasurer of the club, will be chairman. Among those taking part are Ald. Phelan, Messrs Chandler, Lucas, Morphet, Firth, Jas. Browne, Mendel, Clarke, Coleman, Schneider, and the quartette, Messrs. Mitchell, Chandler, Hooker and Shepherd. Rev. Dr. Crothers will deliver an address on "The Empire," and Mr. R. R. Renner a short address on Rural England.

Deputation to Ottawa re Trent Valley Canal

Decided on by the City Council Last Night---Will Leave Peterborough on Tuesday, March 19th ---School Board Want Immediate Enlargement of North Ward School.

The City Council met in Committee of the Whole last night, when there were present, Mayor McWilliams, and Ald. Johnston, Phelan, Leary, Stevenson, Wilson, Dunbar, Morrow, Morgan and Elliott.

The mayor introduced the question of co-operating with the Campbellford municipality officials in a deputation to Ottawa to urge upon the Government the urgent need of a substantial appropriation being embodied in the supplementary estimates to forward the completion of the Trent Valley canal, the southern outlet of which has been definitely determined upon.

The Campbellford authorities have arranged for an excursion, leaving on Tuesday noon, March 19th, and returning any train the following Thursday, at a fare of $3.80. The council decided that the exigencies of the situation warranted the city entering into the project in a liberal manner, as a strong deputation from all along the route of the canal would have the desired effect upon the department of railways and canals.

On motion of Ald. Phelan, seconded by Ald. Elliott, it was decided that the city's deputation consist of the mayor and aldermen, city clerk, treasurer, solicitor, engineer, the council reporters, R. R. Hall, M.P.P., T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P.,

Ald. Phelan moved, seconded by Ald. Wilson,—That the clerk write to the Board of Trade and heads of manufacturing establishments in the city, impressing upon them the desirability of hearty cooperation in this matter.—Carried.

The council next took up the question of sending a deputation to meet the Dairymen's Association in Toronto, (Wednesday next, re the proposed dairy show for Peterborough. The deputation will consist of the mayor, Aldermen Phelan, Leary, Wilson, Stevenson, Bradburn and Morrow.

CARTERS NOT WILLING.

Now that the city are prepared to provide a shelter for the city carters, at considerable expense, the carters are not willing to put into the shelter phone accommodation at their own expense. The council felt that if the city furnish a shelter for these men they should provide themselves with telephone connection in the interest of public utility. Without phone service there would be no guarantee that these men would keep off the street corners and use the shelter, which is one of the main inducements for the council going to any expense and trouble in this matter.

This question was left in abeyance until such time as Ald. McIntyre can interview the carters interested, in an effort to secure their acquiescence in furnishing their own phone service. Should they not fall in line with the council's views, the shelter project will probably be abandoned.

Some of the carters object to the above proposition on the ground that they are already paying for phones in their houses.

The council will not endorse a bill before the legislature to fix the municipal nominations for the last Monday in November, and the elections for the first Monday in December.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL EXTENSION

The Board of Education waited upon the council with a view to getting an adequate appropriation for the extension of the North Ward school in compliance with the conditions upon which the Provincial Government located a Normal school in Peterborough.

Chairman Mr. Robert Tait introduced the question, and Mr. D. W. Dumble, chairman of the Board's Building Committee, explained that tenders were already to hand for a ten-roomed school as stipulated by the Government, but could not assume the responsibility of formally allotting the contract without the council's endorsation. The Board asked for $25,000, but did not anticipate needing more than $23,000. Mr. Dumble urged that all unnecessary delay should be avoided, as the cost of material is going up by leaps and bounds. The proposed enlargement will be built on lines similar to those of the King Edward school.

Ald. Morrow moved, seconded by Ald. Leary,—That the council vote $25,000 for the enlargement of the North Ward school.

Mr. Dumble pointed out that the plumbing and heating in the present building would have to be torn out, and complete systems for a ten-roomed school installed. The Board would require eighty per cent. of the cost of construction from time to time on the architect's certificates, and the balance on completion of the contract.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

REARRANGEMENT OF WARDS.

The question of rearranging the wards was taken up. It is proposed by the mayor to create five wards as follows: North, south, east, west and a centre ward. All south of Sherbrooke street to be ward one, all north of McDonnel street, ward four; between these boundaries and terminating at Bethune street, the centre, or ward two; beyond Bethune street, ward three; east of the river to be ward five. His worship explained that changes similar to the above are needed to simplify the new fire alarm system. Twenty-five boxes are to be installed, of which under the present ward divisions, nine are in ward one.

This was considered to be too large a question to decide hastily, and the matter was left over for careful consideration.

In Council

The city fathers here went into council.

MUST FURNISH FIRE ESCAPES.

Ald. Johnston submitted the following report;—

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows;

1. That the following changes be made in the proposed location of the fire alarm boxes;—

From Waterford and McDonnell streets to Weir and McDougall Sts., from George street and Barnardo avenue to George and Smith streets, and from Benson and Manning Av. to Stewart and Edinburgh streets.

2. That the council pay for accident insurance for the members of the fire brigade, and that the chairman be authorized to place the insurance, and that the treasurer be authorized to pay the premiums on the certificate of the chairman.

3. That the city solicitor prepare a bylaw to compel owners of buildings over two stories in height, the third stories of which have not more than one exit and are occupied by ten or more persons at any one time, to provide fire escapes similar to those required for hotels.

4. That the chairman be authorized to purchase a set of harness for the new team of horses.

The report was adopted as read.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.

A bylaw to authorize the execution of an agreement with the Bell Telephone Company for the installation of an electrical fire alarm system passed its several readings.

The council then adjourned.

Banquet Will be Tendered to Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

As noted in a former issue of The Times, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, of Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, is removing this spring to Winnipeg, where he will practice law.

A citizens' banquet will be tendered Mr. Dennistoun on Tuesday evening April 2nd. A meeting of prominent citizens has been held, and the suggestion regarding this slight token of esteem, was received with universal enthusiasm.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun will leave the first week in April.

A strong honorary committee was organized, the personnel of which is—R. R. Hall, M.P., T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., His Honor Judge W. H. Moyer, McW. Boys, Dr. J. T. J. Halliday, W. G. Ferguson, Ald. W. G. Morrow, Black (Wards 1, 4), A. H. Stratton, T. F. Matthews, W. H. Dunbar, F. D. Kerr, L. M. Hayes, J. Hampden Burnham, D. Buchanan, C. S. Gzowski, N. E. Belcher, R. A. Morrow, W. H. Medcalf, W. H. Beck, R. Bradburn, F. H. Dobbin, J. Kidney, J. R. Stratton, E. G. Patterson, Dr. R. P. Rowlett, D. O'Connell, T. H. G. Dunne, Robert Tait, Peter Campbell.

The banquet will be held in the Oriental Hotel, and the number of guests will be limited to 100, and first desirable applicants will secure tickets. Mr. Kent, Fair was appointed honorary secretary.

Mr. J. R. Stratton was elected honorary chairman of the banquet and will propose the toast, "Our Guest." Mr. Peter Campbell was elected vice-chairman.

It seems however, that some of those whose names appeared in the list considered by Mayor McWilliams should be chairmen and decline to take any part in the banquet otherwise. Those desiring Mayor McWilliams as chairman, Messrs. Kirkpatrick, A. E. Fitzgerald, J. W. Sisson, H. Wallis, H. H. Cummings, W. Hattie and F. H. Dobbin.

The new Pure Food and Drug Law will mark it on the label of every Cough Cure containing Opium, Chloroform, or any other stupefying or poisonous drugs but it passes Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure as safe for 20 years, entirely free. Dr. Shoop all along has bitterly opposed the use of all opiates or narcotics. Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure is positively safe even for the youngest infant—and it cures, it does not simply suppress. Get the safe and reliable Cough Cure, by simply insisting on having Dr. Shoop's. Let the Law be your protection. We cheerfully recommend and sell it. J. D. Tully.

Milk Matters Openly Discussed

Now that the balmy days of gentle spring time are within reasonable reach, when the vastly lucrative hen gets in her work and the mild-eyed cow, with mouth watering for green grass in the near future, is letting down greater and richer supplies of lacteal fluid, it seems that our local milk combine, and who will deny that a combine exists, should relent a little and accept fair profits. Whilst many a weakling baby, tired child or weary housewife, has uncomplainingly used the same or paid the raised price of six cents per quart for, in too many cases milk directly related to the milkman's pump or the city waterworks, during the winter months, it is time that reasonable prices once more rule.

Whether the milk barons will return to their former reasonable profits at five cents per quart or not is up to the alleged combine, however, for prices be as they may, and settle Lord he prayed they will drop, Sanitary Inspector Ball, it is rumored, is about to enter a vigorous campaign against such farmers as, not content with present exhorbitant prices, are introducing what chemists designate as H 2.0. into the 6-cent milk.

We understand that at this time of year cows do not supply as plenteous a supply of milk as at others, but, judging by past history, taking into consideration the increased price of fodder and the present demand among all classes of business for greater profits it seems that whether prices lower or keep the same, those having to milk should get milk and less milk and water. Inspector Ball will have the sympathy of the whole community if he goes ahead and shut on the swindle of watered milk. Every citizen, at a small price, can purchase, to any drug store, a lactometer, by which a child can detect whether milk is watered or not by gravity or the sinking point of said lactometer.

The great evil of watering milk is not so much the addition of water, as the susceptibility of milk to nourish bacteria, and our local water not being above suspicion might easily infuse bacteria into milk that the latter would quickly assist in making a culture.

Shylock's Demand on Antonio Discounted

This City Fines For Not Doing Work or for Doing the Same.

Peterborough's bylaws make the laws of the "Medes and Persians" look sick by comparison. In this city if the police warn a property owner or tenant to remove the once sticky ice from the pavement in front of his residence, and the P.C. or T. fails to obey he is stuck $5; it in the opinion of the police the P.C. or T. used the only instrument available for the job, and as is unavoidable, makes a few marks on said pavement, he is liable to a fine of from $5 to $50.

Yesterday a young man who had been warned by the police to remove the ice off a hard and very cold sidewalk from his fronting pavement, got busy in compliance with instructions and used the only instrument available, an axe. In complying with police regulations the unavoidable, i.e., to examine same and according to general use of an axe, made a few nicks in the granolithic pavement. Now if the city collect a gaggle to pass bylaws compelling the removal of ice under penalty for default, and on the other hand, place a schedule of fines for inflicting unavoidable damages involved in complying with said regulations, the council should appoint an expert to note the amount of horse power per minute required at the business end of said axe per minute, according to thickness and toughness of said ice, and also regulate the fines imposed, if any, for the nicks involved in the metric system. As very cogently remarked, by Magistrate Dumble, this second provincial bylaw, is worse than the demand of Shylock against Antonio the Merchant of Venice, for his "pound of flesh," without the shedding of one drop of blood, as demanded by Portia.

It seems to many of our citizens, that with the brass charged in this city for such work, those who assume the work of keeping the pavements scraped, should either do it to the pavement or the present law should be amended as above suggested. It seems unfair that in choosing between black or white under penalty of mistake, such choice should be punishable for either choice.

WAVES SWEPT GREAT LINERS

One Monster Billow, Did Considerable Damage.

New York, March 12 — The French Line steamer La Savoie, from Havre, March 2, arrived here yesterday after perhaps the most severe experience of any of the trans-Atlantic liners that have recently reported rough weather at sea. On board were 1048 passengers, and a crowd better pleased than they to reach port seldom bunched down the gang-bank.

The La Savoie ran into nasty weather on the second day out, a series of north-west to west gales increasing in violence until Thursday, when a monster wave swept the main deck and forced Capt. Tournier to bring his craft to. The steamer drifted eight hours before the voyage could be safely resumed.

About 11 o'clock Thursday morning the La Savoie, having safely ridden a number of mid waves, was lying in the trough of the sea, when a wave measuring in the eyes of the crew anywhere from 45 feet to 60 feet in height broke over the ship from the forward port side.

In a second tons of water flooded the vessel, shattering a heavy oak door which opened into the corridor outside the smoking saloon.

The great volume of water rushed in swept along the corridor, and then poured down the grand stairway into the main dining saloon. The heavy iron stairway leading from the main deck down to the promenade deck, was washed away with the flood. Where the iron did not snap at the force of the blow it was rooted up from the deck flooring. The glass in the port holes of the purser's windows was smashed. Occupants of the smoking room were thrown from their feet, and when, upon recovering themselves, they opened the door to learn what had happened, the water from the corridor rushed in upon them. The water invaded the cabins and every stateroom where an open door invited entrance. Rising at points where it was temporarily stayed to a height, it was declared of four feet. The inrush of water disabled the electric light system for a time, and sudden darkness further terrified the passengers. Many were bowled over, but beyond a little wetting none were seriously harmed.

The Holy City

Described in an Eloquent and Instructive Lecture Last Night.

Last evening the Rev. Herbert Bon Odell, of Millbrook, was greeted by a very appreciative audience in St. John's school house, when he lectured on Jerusalem.

The rev. gentleman, dressed in the attractive custom costume which is commonly seen in Jerusalem, delivered an exceedingly eloquent and learned address relating to the holy city, the nature and characteristics of its inhabitants, and the numerous Bible incidents connected therewith. He explained why Jerusalem is so holy to the Mussulman, the Jew and the Christian, and indeed gave a very instructive as well as an interesting lecture. The proceeds of the lecture, which was under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary, will be devoted to missionary purposes.

Breaks Up a Cold in Ten Hours

Breathe Hyomei and get Quick Relief Cures all Bronchial Troubles.

As a usual thing a remedy that has immediate action contains powerful drugs that should be used sparingly. This one of the reasons why the ordinary tablets that are sold for coughs and colds should not be taken by people with a weak heart, as they have a dangerous stimulating effect.

When Hyomei, however, is breathed quick relief is obtained in a natural way. Its healing medication goes right to the spot where the disease germs are present, at once soothing and healing the irritated mucous membrane. The action in this way is similar to spreading a soothing salve upon a burn.

No other medicine for the cure of coughs, colds and bronchial troubles is as rational as Hyomei. Breathing it through the neat pocket inhaler which goes with every outfit, it can be used either in the nose or mouth, thus getting full medication into the nasal passages or the throat and lungs as desired. It gives almost instant relief in all affections of the bronchial tubes, and is guaranteed to break up a cold in ten hours.

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a bottle of Hyomei, an inhaler, that can be carried in the vest pocket or purse, and a medicine dropper, costs but one dollar, with a guarantee that if it does not give satisfaction the money will be refunded.

Should extra bottles of Hyomei be needed they can be obtained for only 50c.; the inhaler lasts a life-time.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei, or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with a treatise on Catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give your case the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. Booth's Hyomei Company, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Remarkable Year of Financial Success

Hamilton Provident and Loan Society Holds 35th Annual Meeting.

Prominent among the great financial institutions stands the Hamilton Provident and Loan Society, which, on Monday, March 4th, held its thirty-fifth annual shareholders meeting in the head office, with President Alexander Turner in the chair.

The report presented by the directorate was most encouraging in tone and demonstrated that during 1906 the society well maintained its old time record for progressive and conservative business methods. The net profits for the year, after providing for and paying all due and accrued interest on borrowed capital, cost of management, etc., amounted to $114,587.06, out of which two semi-annual dividends at the annual rate of 6 per cent. were paid, together with taxes on capital and income. The balance, amounting to $14,184.42, was mainly added to the reserve fund; the latter now amounts to $190,000.00.

One great feature of the Hamilton Provident and Loan is their refusal to deal with nothing but securities of the highest order, such as first mortgages on real estate and other such indubitably safe investments.

President Turner and the directorate of this great company have every cause for congratulation over the splendid showing made last year and the high estimation with which the society is regarded in financial circles.

INTERESTING POLICE NEWS

Gathered From the Local Police Station.

At yesterday's police court there was quite an audience. The first case called was that of John Kelly, charged with having been drunk in a public place on Sunday. John who comes from Trenton, admitted the soft impeachment, adding "I'm sick from it now." The magistrate said, "Well, other people are probably sick over your drunk, as you." John with trembling hands produced the $5 demanded for a Sunday drunk.

John Nunan was charged with having injured a public sidewalk on Friday night, contrary to bylaw No. 894. Nunan was cleaning the pavement with an axe, and above, when he chipped the pavement somewhat. The magistrate, who unofficially has remarked that his confidence is not as great in this bylaw as might be possible, saying that this bylaw was a case of demanding a pound of flesh without drawing blood.

Mr. Hall, city solicitor appeared for the prosecution. Nunan explained that he had done the work at night and could not see the damage he was doing. This the magistrate remarked was a serious error in judgment, and fined him $5, which was paid forthwith. He further said, "Under this bylaw it seems to me that if a man does not clean the ice off the pavements, he is fined, and if he does he is still fined.

The next case was that of young Crowder. This case was tried some days ago, and the young man allowed out to await sentence. Mr. Gordon made a strong plea for the boy. The magistrate said to the boy that he had done a mean thing in stealing from a grocery cart, as had he not been caught, the driver would have been blamed. He allowed him to go on suspended sentence. Chief Hoaze asked that the boy explain where the false packages, attempted to be substituted for those stolen. This, however, the magistrate considered better not to do.

Inquest Displays No Foul Play

Thos. Howard Died in Norwood From Natural Causes.

Yesterday at noon Coroner Dr. J. W. Gray, went per C.P.R. to Norwood, and held an inquest on the body of the late Thos. Howard, a young Englishman who died suddenly at the McGregor House in that village, and who after being buried last Thursday was exhumed on Sunday. After duly investigating all circumstances surrounding the death of the young man Dr. Gray decided that a post-mortem examination was unnecessary.

The farmer with whom the deceased had been working, testified at the inquest that young Howard, who was a strictly sober man, had been troubled with heart disease. Other witnesses agreed with this statement.

Dr. Gray, after hearing other witnesses, decided that death had come from natural causes.

In conversation with Dr. Gray last night, he asked a Times representative to emphatically note that nothing whatever of a suspicious nature attaches to Mr. Terence Smith, proprietor of the McGregor House, where Howard died. He had clearly ascertained at both Mr. Smith and his staff had not only done all they could for Howard, but had used him as kindly as his parents could have done.

The total enrollment on the Public schools amounted to 1704, of which some 88 per cent. attended.

A request made by the Ministerial Association was read, asking for religious teachings of an undenominational character to be held in the public schools. Mr. Dumble moved that the secretary be instructed to notify the association that the act forbids any religious teaching except after school hours. At the same time he wished it clearly understood that he was heartily in sympathy with the motives of the association.

Mr. Robinson thought that as the act does not give the Board power to have religious instruction during school hours, and as parents should not consent for their children to wait after hours, he agreed with Mr. Dumble.

Mr. Dumble thought the association would do as they did before, viz. make a big start and then drop the matter.

The chairman thought the children should not be detained after four o'clock but some short religious service should be held in the opening of every day's school. He thought in general terms that the association's idea was right. He thought a committee should be formed to meet the association and make some mutual arrangements.

Mr. Dumble's motion carried.

A communication from the Machine Telephone Co., was referred to the Supervision Committee with power to act. This referred to the placing of telephones from Inspector Walker's office to the various school rooms.

A communication was read from the city clerk asking the Board to meet the City Council regarding expenses of the North Ward school.

Mr. Dumble thought that the council had no right whilst not wishing to stand on technicalities to consult our school expenditures.

Mr. Hayes thought a private meeting would do no harm.

Chairman Tait read that there were several new members of the council to be acquainted with the understanding of last year.

Mr. Dumble thought the tenders of last year except for heating were all right, and that the expenses of building were rapidly increasing.

Dr. Burnham moved that the Board go adjournment meet the council in reference to expenditure on the North Ward school.

Dr. Burnham moved that Messrs. Dumble, Pringle, Orme, and the chairman form a deputation to go to Toronto and attend the meeting of the Provincial Association of School Trustees on April 2nd.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Hayes that the chairman and two members of the Board, be a committee to memorialize the Ontario Government concerning the grant for town and city separate schools.

Mr. Dumble advocated this as the Board had something to possibly gain and nothing to lose.

Mr. Pringle, chairman of the Supervision Committee brought down the revised scale of teachers salaries which made a material raise in salaries for beginners, but based it somewhat upon the committee outside and went towards securing and retaining a better class of teachers. All teachers now, and for one year past in the employ of the board would receive the raise on the minimum basis. Mr. Pringle said that the committee had made a careful comparison of their salaries with those paid in other Ontario schools. He quoted many points and cities where Indian salaries were the same, lower and higher, and thought to secure good teachers Peterborough must pay fair salaries. The new scale is very fair.

Mr. Dumble thought that if there was no particular hurry, it would be better to have a copy of the committee's report given to each member of the board so that members could carefully consider the same.

Mr. Hall thought if it ever became public property that an idea might be promulgated that local interests were considered, it would pay to the less fortunate outside here.

Mr. Hayes and other members of the committee had seriously considered the question before the Board.

Mr. Robinson cited a case where that was paying better than paid here. He thought the best teachers should be had for the city. He thought the Board should accept the supervision's report.

The report was adopted.

The question of the recently proposed changes in the regular meeting night of the Board, was considered and on motion it was decided to have the first Tuesday of each month be the meeting night.

Mr. Dumble then brought up the subject of public inspection of the eyes and teeth of the pupils, saying a local optician had offered to inspect the pupils' eyes gratis. He acknowledged that the optician might have an idea as to sale of spectacles.

Dr. Morrison thought that as no man of the dentistry profession here had made any offer of examining the children's teeth gratis, no action could be taken along that line, although he advocated both the optician and dentistry ideas.

Mr. Dumble's motion carried. The Board then adjourned.

Lindsay Midgets Will Play Here

The famous Lindsay Midgets will play the Strathcona champions of the city league in Brock street rink on Friday night this week. This will be the last game of importance here this season and there should be a record crowd present. The Midgets are to show whether they win the junior O.H.A. championship or not. Stratford comes to Lindsay tonight with a lead of five goals, but our Lindsay sportsmen hope to win out.

The Strathconas will face the Lindsay players with the same line-up that won the city league championship. The Midgets will bring down their strongest aggregation, Ruel, Sullivan and the others are the same.

It is up to the hockey fanatics to turn out and see this possibly the last game of the season.

How few realize that twenty-five per cent. of all disease has its origin in some interference with the function of elimination.

The whole body exists by reason of the transfusion of fluids through its component parts.

Up to a certain point the body has power to object to destructive elements, but this power is limited.

When it happens that the body is loaded with wastes and poisons which it can't eliminate, fermentation, decay, and germ life run riot through the blood.

Serious illness is the result unless nature is assisted by a cleansing tonic like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are purely vegetable, contain no mercury, no diamath, no injurious metallic ingredient of any kind.

Such a medicine is the greatest possible assurance to every man and woman of health, spirits and contentment.

Grand results are achieved and famous cures made every day by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, as this letter proves.

From Newfoundland, Miss Lillian Anthony, of Upper Gullies, Conception Bay, writes: "In praise of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I must say that I have used them with grand success for three years. They never fail to cure me of indigestion or constipation. Formerly my face was full of pimples, but now my complexion is clear and ruddy. In more ways than I care to mention have Dr. Hamilton's Pills helped me; they would be good for every woman to use."

NOT A REMEDY

There is so much complaint in this country of the service given by railroads under private ownership that it is interesting to notice what can be and is done under government ownership. In Italy there is trouble all the time over the government management. The Italian premier, Signor Giolitti, continues to assure the Chamber that the government is keenly alive to the necessity of reform in the national railroad service. The other day he definitely pledged himself to legislation to regulate the service of the railroads and institute a permanent Parliamentary commission of surveillance. He declared that the Administration rigorously punished any derelictions of duty on that part of railroad servants, and in one matter alone, the neglect to warm carriages, had inflicted 906 fines. It was from no want of care and will on the part of the management, he said, the railroad inconveniences existed. His protestations, however, were rather coldly received by the Chamber, which has had plenty of promises before. Meanwhile the service seems to grow worse every day. Complaints pour in from all parts of the country of the injury done to commerce. In Milan and Turin industries are seriously hampered by the difficulty of obtaining coal. Deputies from north Italy describe the situation as intolerable. There is a growing conviction that the chief cause of trouble is to be sought in the complete demoralization of the whole body of railroad officials, great and small, and there will be no improvement in the situation except through reorganization.

And yet there are people in Canada who profess to look upon government ownership and management as the cure for evils complained of. It evidently is not, and it goes nigh to be evident that it never will be.

Radicals Won

St. Petersburg, March 10.—The first skirmish for control of the Opposition in the Lowever House of Parliament was won yesterday by the Radicals, who compelled the Constitutional Democrats to abandon their candidates for vice-presidents, and accept the nominees of the Radical Duchkoo, Mm. Beresin and Pusanasky. M. Chelnokoff, Constitutional Democrat, was elected secretary.

Charged With Death of His Father

London, March 10.—Daniel McPherson, junior, is held by the police here on a charge of having caused the death of his father, Daniel, senior, at an early hour yesterday morning. Young McPherson, who gave himself up, states that he came home from a party to find his father in a drunken stupor. As he aroused the old man he was struck over the chest with a stick of wood. He resented this and struck back. His father died.

Some Lives Lost In Great Blizzard

Halifax, March 10.—Reports of death and casualties in Thursday's terrific blizzard in Cape Breton and eastern Nova Scotia are beginning to come in, although, owing to the enormous drifts, communication is not yet restored between the towns. At least two and probably three persons perished in the storm.

Angus Macdonald of Antigonish Harbor, lost this way proceeding from the town, and wandered out on the ice along the shore and perished, his body being found this morning. John Browne, eighteen years old, of Sydney Mines, left home at the height of the blizzard, and this morning was found dead a quarter of a mile from his parents' house.

James and John Macleod, miners at Sydney No. 1 colliery, while coming from work, were struck by an engine. James Macleod's skull was fractured and his condition is very serious. John Macleod had a leg broken.

Two boys employed at Sydney No. 3 colliery, started to walk to their homes at Sydney Mines, and an hour later men returning from work found them unconscious in the snow drift.

Lad of Nine Rescues Chum from Drowning

Thoroid, March 10.—A striking example of youthful bravery and presence of mind occurred in Welland a day or two ago, when a child of seven years was rescued from drowning by a lad of nine. After school a number of small boys were skating on McCarthy's Pond, when they were hailed by a lad named Gred George, who had been skating with them, but who had ventured on the canal. He declared the canal safe, but hardly had the two who responded to his call arrived when he sank through the ice out in the middle of the canal. One of the boys, Mervin Dunn, aged nine, skated swiftly to the hole, and as the other boy's body rose he seized it. Then, exerting his strength to the utmost, he dragged the helpless child from the water.

Will Stay at Home.

Kingston, March 10.—Whether the reports of extreme cold and great depths of snow in the west of the good times in Eastern Ontario, be the causes of the small migration westward this spring, it is certain that the number going from this district is very limited as compared with other years. The sales of farm land and stock are few in number, and at the railway stations the income from cars ordered for settlers' effects will not appreciably affect the income of the big railways.

Many Kinds of Days in One.

A mean solar day is the average or mean of all the apparent solar days in a year. Mean solar time is that shown by a well regulated clock or watch, while apparent solar time is that shown by a well constructed sun dial. The difference between the two at any time is the equation of time and may amount to sixteen minutes and twenty-one seconds. The astronomical day begins at noon and the civil day at the preceding midnight. The sidereal and mean solar days are both invariable, but one day of the latter is equal to 1 day 3 minutes and 56.555 seconds of the former.

A Safe Perch.

At the crowded downtown corner the frightened pedestrians were scurrying out of the way of street cars, automobiles, delivery wagons and policemen on horseback.

"Gosh," exclaimed the window washer, looking down on them from his perch on the narrow ledge of a fifteen story window, "I'm glad I ain't in that crowd!"

Almost as Good as Art.

"Oh, it isn't so bad!" replied Edith. "It looks almost as natural as real theater scenery."—Chicago News.

A SONG, NOT A SERMON.

But It Points a Moral From a Very Ordinary Incident.

It was a merry occasion. The fun was fast and furious. It was in a barroom; the place, Washington.

Inspiring bold John Barleycorn,
What dangers thou canst make us scorn!
Wi' tippenny we fear nae evil;
Wi' usquabae we'll face the devil!

And so one of this party invited seven companions to join him in a drink of "red licker," and they sat—

Bousing at the nappy
An' gettin' fou an' unco happy.

The man planked down a dollar, crisp and fresh from the treasury. The account was squared; the score was paid. He was a family man and walked across the street to a meat stand and ordered two pounds of round steak. The grocer supplied him and asked 30 cents as the price. "What!" the man roared. "What! Fifteen cents a pound for round steak! It is a highway robbery!"

And so we go through life prodigal in buying luxury and miserly in buying necessity. That man had no conception of his illogical action—spending a dollar for liquor that he and his comrades would have been the better without and kicking a hole in the ceiling on account of a purchase of beef to the charge of 30 cents that he could ill do without. Man can live without booze, but the man has yet to be invented who can get along without food.

This is no sermon. This newspaper never preaches. What we intended to say and all we intended to say was to call attention to the truth.

All the world's a stage
And all the men and women merely players.

The very best of us have need of the charity of our brothers and sisters.

GOOD COLLATERAL.

The Way Tom Fitch of Nevada Used to "Raise the Wind."

Tom Fitch of Nevada was a bright fellow and one of the best writers and stump speakers of the west, but he was thriftless and when he got hard up would resort to almost any means to get a stake.

One day he wrote a scathing speech denouncing Sharon, then president of the Bank of California and afterward United States senator from Nevada. In it he charged Sharon with almost every crime known to the Decalogue or the statutes. He put the manuscript in a large envelope and walked into the Bank of California.

"Here," he said to the cashier, handing the package through the window—"here are some securities which I offer as collateral on a loan. Please hand them to Mr. Sharon in person, and I will wait for his answer."

Mr. Sharon was in his private office. Breaking the seal of the envelope, he found the speech and read it through, together with a note from Fitch, informing him that unless he was paid $5,000 he would deliver that speech in every town in the state. In a few minutes the cashier, on Mr. Sharon's order, reported that the collateral was all right and paid the happy Fitch the desired amount.

Three months afterward, having gone through the money in speculation and dissipation, Mr. Fitch made his appearance with another speech, this time of a very complimentary character, which he promised to deliver at every convenient opportunity for the same amount. This, too, proved good collateral, and the story would never have come to light if Fitch had not, in a moment of drunken frankness, told it himself.

He Was Willing.

A good, kind man unfortunately married a shrewish wife, and the woman changed his nature. One morning after his wife had called him a good for nothing loafer and snatched his breakfast away he started off, hungry and sore, for work. A sour looking woman entered the car he was on. She got into a violent dispute with the conductor over her change. Finally, red with rage, she looked about her and said, "Is there a gentleman in this car who will stand by and see a lady insulted?" The hungry man whose nature had been spoiled rose eagerly. "Yes, madam," he said; "I will."

The Nature of Love.

Love is the river of life in this world. Think not that ye know it who stand at the little tinkling rill—the first small fountain. Not until you have gone through the rocky gorges and not lost the stream; not until you have gone through the meadow, and the stream has widened and deepened until fleets could ride upon its bosom; not until beyond the meadow you have come to the unfathomable ocean and poured your treasures into its depths—not until then can you know what love is.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Takes No Chances.

"Remember," said the kind elderly gentleman, "that you may be president of the United States." "Yes," answered the boy whose father is connected with the race track, "but look at the population of this country. I've only got one chance in millions. I ain't playing any long shots like that."

It Depends.

Follette (recently married)—A man is called a "Benedict" when he is married. What is a girl called under the same circumstances? Anna (also recently married)—Well, it depends altogether on what she marries!

We love in others what we lack in ourselves and would be everything but what we are.—Stoddard.

SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

ANY even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent one one-quarter section of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry must be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

The homesteader is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year for three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of the homesteader resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Six months' notice in writing should be given to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of intention to apply for patent.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

N.B.—Unauthorized publication of this advertisement will not be paid for.

Manhattan Gold Field

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district; and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Cattle,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,
"WM. R. PAYNE, President,
"J. ROGER BROWN, Secretary."

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,
Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

"Ah, then the women have escaped them."

"I trust so. But, alas, seigneur, I fear that there are more in the canoe now than when they passed us."

The little group of survivors waited in breathless anxiety while the canoe sped swiftly up the river, with a line of foam on either side of her and a long forked swirl in the waters behind. They could see that she appeared to be very crowded, but they remembered that the wounded of the other boat were aboard of her. On she came, and on, until as she came abreast of the fort she swung round, and the rowers raised their peddles and burst into a shrill yell of derision. The stern of the canoe was turned toward them now, and they saw that two women were seated in it. The one was Onega and the other Adele.

Charles de la Noue, seigneur de Ste Marie, was a hard and self contained man, but a groan and a bitter curse burst from him when he saw his Indian wife in the hands of her kinsmen, from whom she could hope for little mercy. Yet even now his old fashioned courtesy to his guest had made him turn to De Catinat with some words of sympathy, when there was a clatter of wood, something darkened the light of the window, and the young soldier was gone. Without a word he had lowered himself there and was clambering down it with frantic haste. Then, as his feet touched the ground, he signaled to his comrades to draw it up again, and, plunging into the river, he swam toward the canoe. Without arms and without hope, he had but the one thought, that he was by the side of his wife in the hour of her danger.

But there was another whose view of duty led him from safety into the face of danger. All night the Franciscan had watched De Catinat as a miser watches his treasure, filled with the thought that this heretic was the one little seed which might spread and spread until it choked the chosen vineyard of the church. He, too, clambered down at the very heels of his prisoner and rushed into the stream not ten paces behind him.

And so the watchers at the window saw the strangest of sights. There in midstream lay the canoe, with its burden of dark warriors, and the two women crouching in the midst of them. Swimming madly toward them was De Catinat, rising to the shoulders with the strength of every stroke, and behind him again was the tonsured head of the friar, with his dark capot and long trailing gown floating upon the surface of the water. But in his zeal he had thought too little of his own powers. He was a good swimmer, but he was weighed and hampered by his unwieldy clothes. Slower and slower grew his stroke and lower and lower his head until at last, with a great shriek of "In manus tuas, Domine!" he threw up his hands and vanished in the swirl of the river. A minute later the watchers, hoarse with screaming to him to return, saw De Catinat pulled aboard the Iroquois canoe, which was instantly turned and continued its course up the river.

"My God!" cried Amos hoarsely. "They have taken him! He is lost!"

"I have seen some strange things in these forty years, but never the like of that!" said Du Lhut.

The seigneur took a little pinch of snuff from his gold box and flicked the wandering grains from his shirt front with his dainty lace handkerchief.

"M. de Catinat has acted like a gentleman of France," said he.

Du Lhut glanced round him and shook his head. "We are only six now," said he. "I fear that they are up to some devilry because they are so very still."

"They are leaving the house!" cried the censitaire, who was peeping through one of the side windows. "What can it mean? Holy Virgin, is it possible that we are saved? See how they throng through the trees! They are making for the canoe."

On the river the single Iroquois canoe, which held the captives, was speeding south as swiftly as twenty paddles could drive it; but, save this one dark streak upon the blue stream, not a sign was to be seen of their enemies.

"By my faith, I believe that they have gone!" cried the seigneur.

"Take care that it is not a ruse," said Du Lhut. "Why should they fly before six men when they have conquered sixty?"

But the censitaire had looked out of the other window, and in an instant he was down upon his knees, with his hands in the air and his powder blackened face turned upward pattering out prayers and thanksgivings. His five comrades rushed across the room and burst into a shriek of joy. The lower reach of the river was covered with a flotilla of canoes, from which the sun struck quick flashes as it shone upon the musket barrels and trappings of the crews. Already they could see the white coats of the regulars, the brown tunics of the coureurs de bois and the gaudy colors of the Hurons and Algonquins. On they swept, dotting the whole breadth of the river and growing larger every instant, while far away on the southern bend the Iroquois canoe was a mere moving dot, which had shot away to the farther side and had lost itself presently under the shadow of the trees. Another minute and the survivors were out upon the bank waving their caps in the air, while the prows of the first of their rescuers were already grating upon the pebbles. In the stern of the very foremost canoe sat a wizened little man with a large brown wig and a gilt headed rapier laid across his knees.

Swimming madly toward them was De Catinat.

He sprang out as the keel touched bottom and, rushing up to the seigneur, flung himself into his arms.

"My dear Charles," he cried, "you have held your house like a hero!"

"I knew that you would not desert a comrade, Chambly. We have saved the house, but our losses have been terrible. My son is dead. My wife is in that Iroquois canoe."

Sunlight and the House.

Sunlight is nature's most health giving scavenger. A house without sunlight is unhealthy and unsafe for human occupancy, and it is necessary not only to have some sunlight, but to have as much of it as possible. It is, of course, not feasible to admit the direct rays of the sun to every room of a house. The typical plan of all houses is square or rectangular, and at least one side of the house is entirely beyond the reach of the sun. The other three sides, however, can receive more or less direct sunlight, and the problem of the plan is thus reduced to arranging the various rooms so that the amount of sunlight is adjusted to their uses, and it must be sunlight, for mere light itself is not sufficient. The rays of the sun have curative and cleansing properties that nothing else has.

It is generally admitted that a southern exposure is the best for all houses and should be obtained whenever possible. It is immaterial whether the entrance be placed on this side or not, so long as the rooms most in use open on to it. In dwellings of average size the entrance front will also be the front on which any important room opens, but in large country houses the old distinction of a front and back to a house has disappeared, and instead we have the entrance front and the garden front. The service and servants' quarters, so long regarded as characteristic of the "back" of a house, may be relegated to a side end or placed in a wing that abuts directly on the entrance front. In such cases it must be well screened and its purpose thoroughly subordinated. — American Homes and Gardens.

Mint Jelly.

Mint jelly, which gives the cachet of smartness to simple luncheons, may be made from the mint tea and sugar alone or, as I prefer it, with gelatin to stiffen. When used on a hot plate it melts almost immediately, but its flavor even so is a delight, and it looks charmingly green and appetizing when brought on the table. Pour two cups of boiling water over a bunch of fresh bruised mint leaves, then steep on the back of the range for ten or fifteen minutes. Strain and to a pint of the liquid allow a half package of gelatin soaked in cold water reserved from the two cups measured out in the first place. Add sugar to sweeten and lemon juice to make as acid as desired. Stir until dissolved, then set away to cool. As it begins to thicken stir in two tablespoonfuls of capers or picked nasturtium buds, then pour into little individual molds about the size of a small egg cup or in a good sized mold and set away to harden. It should be made the day before it is to be used. When ready to serve turn out on a low glass dish or pretty individual plates and garnish with tiny sprigs of fresh mint. Instead of using the plain gelatin you can take a package of any of the prepared patent jellies, currant or lemon being the preferred flavors.—Washington Star.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 18 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 30 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 30 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 3 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 5 inch nicollite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 672-1253-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 60 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

Your Food Disagrees. You're Tired--Lifeless. Skin is Yellow

You'll Feel Worse Every Day Unless You Brace Up Quick. The Best reatme it is Ferrozone.

Every day comes the good news of wonderful cures with Ferrozone.

In Peterboro it worked marvels for Louis Meehan—put him right on his feet—made him entirely well.

"About three years ago" says Mr. Meehan, "I had the Grippe which left me in a very run down condition that finally developed into Dyspepsia. I was unable to eat but a few things and had a craving for acid. I gave up treating with the doctors because they did not help me and on the advice of a friend used Ferrozone. It not only cured me of Dyspepsia and Billousness, but has built up my strength to what it was before I had the Grippe. I can recommend Ferrozone as an ideal restorative."

Ferrozone gives you force, energy, vim.

It strengthens the stomach, cures indigestion, prevents headaches—guarantees good health.

Thousands use Ferrozone—they all improve—get better health—look better—feel better; try it yourself—sold in 50c. boxes by all druggists.

Property Owners in Trouble

Yesterday a local property holder of considerable extent, had occasion to send an employe to place a "To Let" sign on a certain city property. Unfortunately the property magnate had had his "To Let" signs printed on bright red cards. As he was going to lunch yesterday, he saw a number of people standing in front of the placarded house, and heard one man, possibly short sighted, remark, "Why come away from that house. Willie and Jessie, there's scarlet fever there." The property owner afterwards said, "By jingo, after this I am going to get my To-Let signs printed on cards in a neutral tint."

Bobcaygeon Lineman Escapes

The Bobcaygeon Independent says; Mr. W. Fletcher was engaged at Little Bob in putting a cross arm, on a pole for stringing a wire to one of the houses. He had his belt around the pole and was using both hands in driving a spike through the crossarm when the metal snap on his belt broke. He fell 20 feet, landing flat on his back. Fortunately there was a fairly good depth of snow, which broke the landing sufficiently to prevent any serious injury.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Cheap Groceries for Sale Today

In order to obtain permanent premises, China Hall has purchased the large and well assorted stock of groceries, etc., of Mr. A. Rountree, No. 394 George street. This stock, which is one of the finest grocery stocks in Peterborough, will, together with the balance of the China Hall stock, be thrown on the market at cost price, commencing March 3 and continuing until both stocks are entirely disposed of, but no longer than the 15th of April, after which date the store will be re-fitted, and opened about May 1, with an entirely new stock of crockery, china, glassware, cut-glass, plated ware, fine china ornaments, etc. China Hall, after that date, will be beyond a doubt one of the finest and most complete china stores in Canada. The China Hall Company.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

35th ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Shareholders of the Hamilton Prevident and Loan Society

The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the shareholders of the society was held at the society's head office at 11 o'clock Monday, 4th inst. Among those present were the following: D. E. Sutherland (Winchester), J. K. Rochester, George Rutherford, H. D. Anderson, Alex. Turner, George Watson, F. H. Lamb, Hon. William Gibson, Alex Main, A. E. Malloch, M.D., John T. Glassco, Charles Judd, Alex. McKay, H. H. Robertson, W. D. Long, R. R. Ferrie, E. G. Payne, C. Ferrie, D. M. Cameron, John McCoy, John H. Cox, J. J. Greene, R. E. Young, Judge Snider, George Sweet, E. R. Sweet, H. C. Carscallen, George LeRiche, David Kidd, P. L. Crerar, F. W. Gates, Col. A. H. Moore, George Hope, Capt Fairgrieve, John Hooper.

The president, Alexander Turner, in the chair.

C. Ferrie, treasurer, acted as secretary.

The secretary read the report and annual statements as follows:

The directors have much pleasure in submitting to the shareholders the thirty-fifth annual report of the society's affairs and accompanying financial statements, duly audited.

The net profits of the year, after paying and providing for all due and accrued interest on borrowed capital, paying cost of management and other charges, amount to $111,557.06, out of which two half-yearly dividends at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum were paid, together with taxes on Capital and Income, and the balance, $44,184.42, has been applied as follows:

Added to reserve fund	$40,000.00
Credited to contingent fund	4,184.42
	$44,184.42

After writing off all losses and providing for any possible shrinkage in the value of the securities, there remains at the credit of the contingent fund $14,079.68.

The reserve fund now amounts to $40,000.00.

The society confines its loaning operations for the present to the provinces of Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and the very satisfactory repayments by borrowers have demonstrated the wisdom of this course.

Extensive improvements were made during the year to our office building in the city of Brandon, resulting in an increase of rental, which gives an ample return upon this investment.

The directors have much pleasure in acknowledging the valuable services which our Edinburgh agents, Messrs. Gillespie & Paterson, W.S., have rendered to the society during the past year, as in so many previous years.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEXANDER TURNER,
President.

Peter Hamilton Mfg. Co. Closed

The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company's large agricultural works on George street were closed down all day yesterday in token of respect to the late Mr. William Hamilton, a brother of the founder of this large local industry. Several of the officials and employes in private capacity attended the obsequies Yesterday afternoon.

Second Reading of Mr. Bradburn's Bill.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn's bill to extend the hours of polling at municipal elections to eight o'clock, has passed its second reading in the Ontario Legislature. It will now be considered by the municipal committee and will likely come up some day this week. The City of Peterborough's private bill will come before the Ontario Legislature private bills committee on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Jas. Dolan Dangerously Ill

The many friends in this city of Mr. and Mrs. James Dolan, will regret to learn that yesterday Mr. Dolan received a telegram from Mr. Bert Dolan, Chicago, where Mrs. Dolan has been staying for some time, to the effect that she is very ill suffering with pneumonia. Mr. Dolan leaves this morning for Chicago. We trust that Mr. Dolan on arrival in Chicago, will find his wife improved.

New Local Branch of Ottawa Bank

That Mr. Hollingshead, the popular manager of the Bank of Ottawa, is watching the interests of his growing class of clients closely, is demonstrated by the fact that yesterday morning the bank opened up an agency in the south end of the city, at the corner of Rubidge and Townsend streets. The sub-agency will be under the management of Mr. A. A. Hollingshead, manager of the George street branch. The new branch in that portion of Peterborough will be a great convenience to the business men and others in the rapidly expanding locality and the enterprise of the bank will doubtless be appreciated.

Toulon, March 12.—The Lena was undergoing an inspection of her machinery in the first basin of the Missiessy dock when the explosion occurred. The concussion caused by the explosion of a compressed air torpedo set fire to the after powder magazine, blowing the whole after part of the vessel up.

There were about 030 officers and men on board at the time of the disaster but many of them jumped into the water.

Further explosions on the Iena occur every moment and debris is flying over the dockyard for a distance of 500 yards.

The windows of the workshops around the scene of the explosion are all broken.

The electric wires flash in the fuses and then break down, all about the Missessy dock. A shell weighing 20 pounds was hurled a quarter of a mile before striking and sinking into the ground.

A complete panic prevails among the employes of the arsenal who were returning to work from lunch when the powder magazine of the Iena blew up and many of them made a rush towards the Missiessy dock, whence clouds of thick smoke were rising. No one seemed to know what

Suddenly blackened forms with haggard eyes rushed madly through the lines; spectators not knowing where they were going.

The officials declare that the magazines of the Iena were completely filled with explosives, and that the recurrent detonations indicate that they are all on fire.

As this bulletin is filed the explosions are becoming more frequent.

The number of injured is now known to be about 300, including many officers who were seriously burned. It is impossible as yet to estimate the number of dead. Many of the crew saved themselves by climbing down ladders and reaching the quays, whence they fled to places of safety or to the telegraph offices in Toulon in order to notify their relatives of their safety.

The injured men and officers are being transported to the hospitals. A signal man of the Iena, named Giudicelli, who escaped, says that many members of the crew were gathered in the forepart of the ship listening to a lecture by an officer when the first explosion occurred. Most of these escaped.

Rear Admiral Mimegron was wounded, while Ensign Rouses was killed.

Preparing for the Roller Skate Rink

Mr. S. J. Sheridan, who so admirably managed the roller skating rink on Charlotte street last fall, has said that it would be only a short time when the roller skating rink would be in full swing. If this mild weather continues for two or three days, curling will be over for the season on the Charlotte street rink, and then the ice will be removed at once. The floor itself is in good shape.

As soon as the floor is dry, the roller skating rink management will put a new sand papering machine in the rink. This machine is propelled by an electric motor and runs over the floor removing all manner of roughness or dirt.

Mr. Sheridan has made provision to accommodate nearly double the number he could handle last year. An order has been placed for eight hundred new ball bearing skates, and the goods have been shipped.

Bodies Found Together

Columbia, S. C., March 13.—C. D. Green, 45 years old and unmarried, a merchant of Smoaks, a suburb, was waylaid and killed by Edward Marshall, who himself was killed by Green. Robbery was the motive. The bodies of the dead men were not discovered until early today. When found, Green's clothing was on fire. His body was badly charred around the heart and side where the bullets took effect. The feet of the two men were less than a foot apart. At Green's hand lay a revolver with four empty chambers, and near Marshall's hand one with five empty chambers. Under the latter's body was a sling-shot, and near his head lay two burglars' masks, one having two bullet holes in it.

GOOD FOR YOUR COLD

A noted specialist in throat and lung trouble, who established a camp for consumptives in the pine woods of Maine, and whose remarkable cures there have attracted great attention from the medical world, says that one-half ounce of the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine mixed with two ounces of Glycerine and one-half pint of good Whisky, used in teaspoonful doses every four hours, will heal and strengthen the lungs, break up a cold in twenty-four hours, and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost.

Inquiry at the prescription department of a leading local druggist elicited the information that the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper, showing the name—Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), prepared only by Leach Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.—plainly printed thereon. Only the cheaper Oils are sold in bulk, but these create nausea, and never effect the desired results.

Meeting of Dairymen

To Take Up the Question of Holding an Annual Dairy Show.

In the council's committee room last night there was held a meeting of the joint committee, consisting of the mayor and city aldermen, members of the county council, Mr. F.D. Kerr for the Board of Trade, and Mr. Gilleapie The object of the meeting was to formulate a policy to advance before the committee of the Eastern and Western Dairymen's Association, to meet in Toronto today for the purposes of selecting the best locality at which to hold the proposed annual dairy show and joint convention.

The city and county representatives are a unit in leaving no stone unturned to secure this show for Peterborough.

Should the dairymen decide to hold the show in Peterborough, ample building accommodation will be forthcoming for January, 1908, and for following years it is proposed to have constructed a large and commodious market building, with covered accommodation for 6,000 such structure to be designed with a view to offering all conveniences desired for the proposed dairy show, together with an up-to-date hall capable of accommodating the largest possible convention.

The mayor pointed out that in such a case the present market hall could be used for offices, thus furnishing a revenue sufficient to provide in all probability sufficient monies for the sinking fund and interest on the cost of the new market building and hall.

The delegates who will wait upon the Dairymen's Committee in Toronto today are as follows;

The City—Mayor McWilliams, Aldermen Phelan, Lees, Stevenson, Wilson, Morrow, and Bradburn.

The County—Warden P. McNulty, Councillors Pike, Porter, Moher, Brown, Dunlop, Hiller and Cohen.

The Board of Trade—President D. Hughes, Messrs. F. D. Kerr, Burnham, W. C. Switzer, W. D. Dowson.

While the members of the county council did not pledge themselves to any financial support, they expressed their hearty sympathy with the movement, and recommended that the holding of an annual dairy show in Peterborough will necessarily prove of substantial benefit to the county. In all probability should such be the county will offer some sort of financial as well as moral support.

Competition Closes on March 15th

As has been noted throughout the press of Peterborough, the Ottawa-Rideau Navigation Co., are building a grand, up-to-date, passenger steamer for the waters of the Ottawa, Rice Lake and the adjuncts of the Trent Valley canal and its tributaries.

A short time ago the papers of Peterborough notified their readers that a free and open-to-all competition was in progress, whereby the company named offered a prize of a free family ticket to the one presenting a name that would be chosen by the directorate, for the new steamer. This competetion is open to the whole of Canada. The only stipulations are that only one name is allowed to be forwarded by each individual. To the one presenting the name that is chosen, a free family season ticket will be given, but such ticket is limited to the use of the members of the immediate family of the lucky guesser. Already many names, from Toronto to Montreal, who have seen the notices in The Times and other Peterborough papers, have been forwarded.

We append below a list of names that have been presented. This list omits some names that were obviously absurd and where, contrary to expressed stipulations, correspondents put in a list of names of, from two to twenty. In this competition only one name per correspondent is allowed.

The list closes at 12 p.m., March 15th, so that those desiring to enter a name for the prize, which competition or prize involves no cost must do so before the time noted.

In the list given the names are taken from the actual letters received and it will be seen that in many cases the same name has been repeated. The names suggested so far are, with the exception of those obviously ridiculous, are all follows.

Warkworth is on Fire

Campbellford, March 12. — Fire broke out this morning in Osborne's furniture store at Warkworth, and the business section of the town is threatened with destruction. Assistance has gone from here to help fight the flames.

Later—The fire was confined to the Osborne Building, formerly the Thorne Block, which was totally destroyed. Some of the contents were saved.

CONDITIONS IN CHINA ARE WORSE

Millions Are Starving Crowded Into Death Camps.

PEOPLE ARE IN DESPAIR

Forty Thousand Bags of Food Has Been Distributed.

New York, March 12.—A special cablegram to the Christian Herald from Shanghai, says:

The distribution of relief to famine sufferers by the Missionary committee with headquarters at Chinkiang is proceedingly smoothly. It is recognized, however, as only a drop in the ocean of need. The area of the affected district is enlarging as winter advances, and destitution is longer drawn out. Daily the number of deaths is increasing and in the interior are thousands of deaths that will never be reported.

Authorities are sending many refugees who can travel back to the localities whence they came, promising individual relief when possible. The trouble is so few have homes to which they can return, floods having destroyed houses as well as crops. Isolated riots are reported, but all are unimportant.—Editor North China News.

News from the "Kianpeh" district in Northeastern China continues to show terrible conditions. Upon outside relief, upon American contributions is based the only hope for the saving of millions of lives. Between 4,000,000 and 6,000,000 of human beings are in danger of death by starvation, by exposure to winter's storms and cold, or by diseases bred in filthy camps of refuge. There are thrice as many destitute people in the camps around Tsiangpu today as there were reconcentrados in Cuba in 1898. Official advices from that city, which is practically on the frontier of the devastated district, show that without its walls there are fifty camps, each containing 10,000 or more famine stricken refugees. Tsiangpu proper has a population of 95,000 people, none of whom is in proper case to give help to the suffering.

Other camps there are, around other cities, and it is actually true that in many of the smaller and more remote settlements the only thing the authorities have been able to do for the sufferers is to designate for their use "a place to die in"—sometimes a cemetery, sometimes a vacant area given over, in better times, to refuse, pariah dogs and the outcasts of earth.

A correspondent for one of the English papers in China who made an extensive tour and exhaustive inquiries in Antung, reports that in that province alone there were a month ago 200,000 destitute, all threatened with death. The Chinese officials, confronted by this heartrending state of things, acknowledged their helplessness and said that the only feasible course was to let 400,000 starve and endeavor to get seed and scanty food for the 400,000 remaining. Not all the Chinese officials, are helpless or careless. The ruler or prefect of one district, a mandarin of high rank, great wealth and much local consideration, was brought before the viceroy of the province and convicted of neglect of duty in that he did not report to the higher authorities the approach or the extent of the famine, and that he failed to repress insubordination, peculation by officials and highway robbery. The princely ruler is now serving out a sentence of six years' hard labor on the roads as a convict.

The affected people in normal times live on millet, rice, peanuts, sweet potatoes, maize and wheat and, knowing this the American missionary committee, as early as possible in the famine, loaded boats with 9500 bags of millet and rice and sent them up the great canal. This shipment reached the famine district all right, was distributed effectively and on its heels another, of 30,000 bags was sent and, from all sources, before this is printed, a total of nearly 40,000 bags of flour, bearing the familiar American labels, will have been used to allay suffering and avert death.

COFFEE COMPLEXION

Easily Cleared Up by Simple Means

The coffee habit often causes sallowness long before the cause is suspected. Then the coffee user may be willing to give up the harmful indulgence. The experience of a Penn. lady shows how easily this may be done. She says:

"I have suffered from constipation and stomach trouble since I was a child, when headaches were so severe that I was prevented from studying at school. Since reaching adult age, I have been, until recently, frequently in great pain from ulceration of the stomach and had grown wretchedly thin.

"My complexion has become very sallow and my stomach was an unalleviated punishment to me. For years, we have always had some kind of a cathartic in the house, which I took before retiring, as a matter of regular routine, using one kind until it began to lose its effect, and then another.

"About six weeks ago my husband brought home a package of Postum Food Coffee, insisting that I give up the old kind and try the new. It seemed to be impossible to quit drinking coffee, although I knew it was injuring my health.

"However, after reading the little book, 'The Road to Wellville,' which I found in the package, I concluded to give Postum a fair trial.

"For the past six weeks I have used it three times a day and I gratefully testify that my stomach trouble and constipation have already entirely left me.

"I am growing plumper and rounder in figure and my complexion is clearing up beautifully. You cannot imagine how good it seems not to have that distressing pain after each meal. I have thrown out all the medicine bottles for Nature's own medicine, right food and Postum Food Coffee have made me a well woman." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason." Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Revision of Rules

Governing the Fire Hall Undertaken Last Night by the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the city council met last night and revised the rules and regulations governing the fire hall. Some much needed changes were made, which will go into effect when the new fire hall is opened. There were present Chairman Ald. Johnston and Aldermen Morgan, Duncan and Leary.

The council will appoint for a foreman of the fire hall an expert man capable of looking after the new fire alarm system, and keeping it in repair. He will have full control of the hall, the drivers and engineer.

The foreman will be empowered to suspend temporarily any driver or engineer in the fire hall for violation of rules, after which he shall immediately report such suspension to the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The engineer and drivers shall each be allowed two weeks holidays each year, a suitable substitute to be provided subject to the approval of the foreman; salary of said substitutes to be paid by the treasurer on certificate from the foreman.

Fourth Member to Die This Session

Ottawa, March 13.—Thos. Martin, Liberal M.P., for North Wellington, who underwent a serious operation last Friday afternoon, died yesterday morning. He was 56 years of age, and had been, up till quite recently, in the enjoyment of the most robust health. He was a native of Fergus, Ont., and entered Parliament three years ago.

Mr. Martin's demise makes the fourth death that has occurred in the ranks of Parliament since the opening of the present session. His loss is a severe shock to the House, as it had not been generally understood that his condition was even dangerous.

Adopted Son Enters the Big Eddy Suit

Concord, N.H., March 13.—Fred W. Baker of Epsom, N.H., and a second cousin of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, and Dr. Foster G. Eddy, of Wilbury, Vt., Mrs. Eddy's adopted son, have become additional parties plaintiff, as "next friends" of Mrs. Eddy, to the bill in equity brought to secure an accounting of her property against leaders of the Christian Science Church.

In joining in the bill in equity, Dr. Foster-Eddy says in his petition that he has "become convinced that Mrs. Eddy is, and for a long time has been incapable of intelligently conducting or receiving an account of her business and property, and that the same is being managed wholly by the defendants without giving a proper accounting thereof."

Fred W. Baker tells of having been invited by Mrs. Eddy to visit her and of having been refused entrance to her house by Frye, one of the defendants. He states in his petition that he believes that Mrs. Eddy is virtually a prisoner in her own house; that she is kept secluded by the defendants, Frye and others, and that she is not capable under all her conditions of managing her own business, but that it is all in the hands and control of Frye and the others, so that there has not been a due and proper accounting by these self-constituted guardians of her person and property.

Campbellford Has Dead

Campbellford, March 13.—A message was received yesterday morning announcing the death of Mr. Charles Smith, which took place in the hospital in Toronto at six o'clock. Mr. Smith, who was 67 years of age, was proprietor of the Hungarian flour mill and one of the most prominent citizens of Campbellford. He was reeve of the town for some years and president of the Board of Trade, and a public-spirited man in every respect. In business he was very successful, and was considered one of the best financiers in this part of the country. In politics he was a staunch Reformer and always in the front rank of the party. He leaves to mourn his death a widow, two sons, William and Fred, and a daughter, Mrs. George Hopkins of California, who was with him in his last hours.

DOMINION GOVERNMENT TURNING IMMIGRANTS

From Ontario to the West---200 Agents Have Been Employed at so Much Per Immigrant Captured.

Toronto, March 13.—The danger of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Immigration locking horns was foreshadowed in the evidence of Mr. Thos. Southworth, head of Ontario's Department, before the Legislative Committee on Agriculture yesterday. Mr. Duff presided. Mr. Southworth briefly outlined the past history and present position of immigration affairs in the Province. For the past four years the applications from farmers for farm laborers had averaged about 8,000. Last year there were sent direct to the farms from Toronto 6,500 laborers, not including children or men the farmers had engaged themselves at the depots, nor the large number of immigrants who had not gone to the farms.

The Dominion Government had recently appointed agents in the counties around Toronto to divert some of them from the Bureau. This year, Mr. Southworth had been informed that from 200 to 300 agents had been appointed by the Dominion Government to have immigrants shipped direct to them, and who would receive a per capita fee for each one placed. Although there would probably be a greater number come over, it was altogether likely there would not be so many handled by the Bureau. He was of the opinion that this action of the Dominion Government was unnecessary and harmful, and something should be done to work in unison. The Dominion was also more interested in the Northwest, and diverted them at the seaboard from Ontario, and the Province had no means of keeping tab on them.

ONTARIO'S HARD STRUGGLE.

Ontario was only holding her own against strong opposition. It was a question, in his mind, whether it would not be well to send an agent to the seaboard. Work should be further developed in the Old Country. The Grand Trunk were now organizing a bureau on the same lines as the C.P.R. Until recently the Dominion agents had favored Ontario. Now they were instructed to send those without money here to gain experience, while those with money were directed to the Northwest.

Mr. Dargavel said farmers were being obliged to abandon their farms for want of labor. The future of the Province was practically at stake, and he advocated the most liberal measures of immigration. A number which he had taken to his district had appeared to him to be the very worst class for settlers, but they had turned out good, industrious, capable men.

33,000 ENGLISH-SPEAKING.

Mr. Southworth said 5ver 80 per cent. of last years 57,744 immigrants to Ontario had been English-speaking, over 33,000 being English. The travelling agents in England were useful in view of the fact that the English did not read the newspapers as extensively as Canadians.

In response to a query from Hon. Mr. Monteith he said he thought Ontario's population was holding its own. Although the native-born were going west in larger numbers, their places were being filled by Old Country people.

Mr. Reed emphasized Mr. Dargavel's point that more liberality should be extended to immigration.

Mr. Smyth thought greater attention should be given to New Ontario. Many of the men would never be tempted to the Northwest if they were sent to New Ontario.

In view of Mr. Southworth's statement that the majority of foreigners coming in were Italians and Russian Jews, Mr. Dargavel though these foreigners should be discouraged. They were not a benefit to the country.

Mr. Hislop thought the farmers could assist in solving the labor problems, if the farmers could adjust their work to extend them employment the year round.

Mr. Southworth advocated greater efforts in the Old Country.

"That's right," observed Mr. Dargavel, "we want every British subject we can secure whether he has had experience or not."

The committee will continue the consideration with a view to solving the problem at its next session.

FOOTBALL.

The Fall River, (Mass.) Rovers Football Club will play a game in Peterborough. The crack American experts will meet a picked team in this city some time in May. The arrangements for the game are being made at present. Mr. J. A. MacPherson of Toronto, is arranging the series of matches and so far has arranged for the Fall River team to play at Dundas, Berlin, Seaforth, Toronto Peterborough and Montreal.

The Fall River team defeated the famous amateur team, the Corinthians, during the Englishmen's tour of Canada and the United States. They are champions of the New England league, 1901-2-3-4-5 and 06. The team consists largely of old country players, and will no doubt be a great drawing card here. Peterborough should be able to put a strong team in the field.

The exact date will be announced later.

What Does It Mean?

Dr. Hamilton Gives a Full and Satisfactory Explanation.

Look at your tongue!

Sometimes it's heavily coated sometimes it's clear and red.

Study this out and you'll find some interference with the functional activity of the body.

This means the bowels are not regular, the liver is sluggish and the blood is contaminated.

Strong cathartic pills act so destructively on the intestines as to provoke deathly sickness; this often frightens people from taking medicine when they badly need it.

To the multitude of dangerous purgatives now on the market, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are a notable exception, they neither gripe, cause sickly feeling or headache, yet they cleanse and purify the entire system in one night. No other laxative acts with such mildness and certainty. Giving proper stimulus to the liver and kidneys, strengthening the stomach and lending valuable aid to digestion, it's small wonder that such marvelous results accompany Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Mr. Geo. O'Hagerty, of Amherst, N. S., writes: "Last winter I worked in a lumber camp and neglected my health. I was dreadfully constipated and had a headache that fairly made me reel at times. I was sick and miserable, and hadn't the slightest ambition to work or stir around. I felt heavy and dull and had a bad taste in my mouth. I sent into the city for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which I knew were good for my condition. They fixed me up very quickly and have kept me in good condition ever since. There are other men in the camp that use Dr. Hamilton's Pills also. They say they wouldn't be without the pills for ten times their price."

Every dealer in the land sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills—25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Polson and Co., Hartford, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

We notice that Mr. Graham, the successor of Mr. Ross as the leader of the Provincial Liberal party in Ontario, in a recent speech declared himself in favor of Civil Service reform, and the installation of a permanent service entirely apart from political considerations and interests, the members of which would not owe their positions to partisan influence. Such a declaration comes naturally from the leader of a party that has only just lost control of an administration after thirty years' enjoyment of power, during which nearly every position in the service was filled by a Liberal appointee. The inauguration of Civil Service reform at the present time would tend to continue in power nearly all the officials appointed during the long period of Liberal rule, and it is not uncharitable, perhaps, to assume that this consideration was not entirely absent from Mr. Graham's mind when he made the declaration referred to. As a matter of fact, the Whitney Government, apart from the case of the liquor license inspectors—and Mr. Whitney's decision to put an end to the abuses that had been connected with that department, made changes in the officials essential—has made few dismissals in the ranks of the Provincial Civil Service. The adoption of the suggested reform would also give Liberal aspirants for office a better chance of success than would be the case were political and partisan influence to continue to be an important factor. Since the Liberals in Ontario are not likely to return to power for a good many years, Mr. Graham's declaration, apart altogether from its public interest, seems to us under these circumstances, to be a good party move and one with which large numbers of his followers will be in complete accord.

Without taking party or political interests into consideration, however, there can be no question that both in the Federal and Provincial spheres, the separation of appointments to the permanent Civil Service from political influence would be very much in the public interest. It would relieve the members of a government from much embarrassment and we are inclined to think, without any loss of influence or of power to their party, since for the support that one appointment may secure, there are generally three or four disappointed candidates. There can be no question that the British Civil Service is one of the best in the world, and there are few positions in any of the many branches of the Service that can be secured solely by political influence. The difficulty that would probably be encountered in bringing about such a reform in either the Federal or Provincial administrations in Canada, would arise from the reluctance of the party in power to relinquish the means of rewarding its friends and supporters with the possibility of its successor declining to lose the opportunity of filling the offices with its friends. But we believe that public sentiment throughout the Dominion is steadily growing in favor of such a reform, and that the "spoils system" will yet come to be relegated to the region to which have been banished many other methods that formerly were closely connected with the public life and institutions of the country.

SALT RIVER.

It Is a Real Stream, Although Not a Navigable One.

Salt river, sacred to defeated candidates, is a real stream. While not navigable, it is used every winter as an ice harbor by the towboats which go out of Pittsburg for the south.

Salt river empties into the Ohio above twenty-five miles south of Louisville. It is a small stream, which flows from the Kentucky hills to the great water, and is as tortuous, as crooked and as unpleasant to navigate as the mind can imagine. Yet it is navigated for a short distance from its mouth by steamers of light draft. Flatboats and rafts are floated down upon its bosom. Before the civil war it was an important stream in the matter of bringing Kentucky whisky down in the flatboats to a point where they could be unloaded to a river steamer. Refractory slaves were generally assigned to the task of bringing these boats down, as the work was arduous.

Salt river became a bugaboo among the negroes, and it was from the unpleasant character of the work on this river that "a trip up Salt river" came to be used in politics to express the destination of a defeated candidate.

There is not a river captain or pilot in Pittsburg who does not know Salt river, and there are few who have not sought shelter within its mouth when the ice was running out of the Ohio.

The salt name is supposed to have come from the salt springs which flow into it at its source. It is also said the name grew out of the fact that great quantities of salt produced in the Kentucky country are floated down this stream.—Fuel.

Cheap Groceries for Sale Today

In order to obtain permanent premises, China Hall has purchased the large and well assorted stock of groceries, etc., of Mr. A. Rountree, No. 324 George street. This stock, which is one of the finest grocery stocks in Peterborough, will, together with the balance of the China Hall stock, be thrown on the market at cost price, commencing March 2 and continuing until both stocks are entirely disposed of, but no longer than the 15th of April, after which date the store will be re-fitted, and opened about May 1, with an entirely new stock of crockery, china, glassware, cut-glass, plated ware, fine china ornaments, etc. China Hall, after that date, will be beyond a doubt one of the finest and most complete china stores in Canada. The March "Rod and Gun"

There is no lack of interesting articles in the March number of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada," published by W. J. Taylor, at Woodstock, Ont. Dog hunters will read with indignation and concern the article on Our Vanishing Deer, which opens the number, and will point to the many papers on Wolves as showing that Dr. Murdoch, the writer, is wrong in his conclusions. The subject is one open to differences in views, though the doctor makes a good beginning, and knowing his ground, will be well able to defend his position in any resulting controversy. The wonderful manner in which public opinion is moving all over the continent in connection with the protection of fish and game is well shown by the special descriptive account of the two days' conference of the North American Fish and Game Protective Association at Quebec. At that conference progress was reported all along the line. There is plenty of matter about Wolves, including an account of the hunt organized by the the Canadian Pacific Railway, and those who have had their interest aroused in the matter of wolves will in this number find ample means for gratifying their thirst for information. The Mysteries of the Caribou is a paper of deep interest to all sportsmen, while duck shooters will live some of their experiences over again when reading Black Duck Shooting in the Creeks. There are many other papers dealing with various phases of backwoods' life, while there is a forecast of the International Automobile and Motor Boat Show to be held in Montreal early in April, while the several Departments show the same vigor that characterizes the whole production.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

A Dramatic Death.

A sergeant major of an infantry regiment stationed in Bremen was sentenced to a slight disciplinary punishment for having mortally wounded a man with a revolver in the course of a fight. He appealed against this, but was informed that his appeal had been rejected. He then ordered his men to load their rifles with blank cartridges, but during their absence reloaded them with ball cartridges. He then drew up his men in firing line and carefully showed them how to aim their rifles straight at his heart. With the utmost calm he then ordered, "Fire!" and fell with four bullets through his heart.

To Be Refilled.

In one of the suburbs of a big city is the site of a well known school of theology, from which go out each week end many members of the senior class to try their voices as "supplies."

A passenger on a Monday morning train was surprised at the number of men who got off at that station.

"Who are all those chaps getting off here?" he asked the brakeman.

"Them?" asked the brakeman. "Oh, they're returned empties for the college!"

The Real Cause.

Tommy—What was you bawlin' about last night?

Willie—W'y, when paw and me got home from fishin' maw didn't have supper ready, and I whimpered about it, and paw licked me.

"And he licked you fer whimperin'?"

"Naw; because supper wasn't ready."

WEDDING STATIONERY

WEDDING ANNCUNCEMENTS are always in order. The season for the final result of being a disciple of Cupid finds expression in the Hymeneal ceremony at the altar—that occasion when "two hearts that beat as one" are joined together—pronounced one.

For this auspicious occasion the printing must be chastely dignified—must be appropriate in appearance to this one time of life when everything "best" is donned—when happiness reigns supremely.

Marriage Announcements
Marriage Invitations
Marriage Reception Cards
Post Nuptial Reception Cards

All of these we are able to supply in a proper form and printed artistically. Our work is conducted under the supervision of skilled typographical mechanics and may be unhesitatingly presented to the most fastidious critic.

Our charges for such work are moderate—yet good printing is ever valuable. However, we give quality for our figures, and an order entrusted to our care will be speedily, carefully and satisfactorily executed.

No work can be well done which has to be done hurriedly. Time is necessary for the accomplishment of faultless printing. We will fulfil all expectations if given ample time for completion.

If you never invest you never make

The millionaires of today are the investors of yesterday.

In choosing your investment these things should be considered: the ability, responsibility and integrity of those in charge of the company; that the property is in a proven district, and is owned by the company, and that gold has been found upon the property; that the money is being used for the interests of the company; that the company has no debts or obligations.

We have all these essentials, and own four claims, located in the heart of the Wonderful Manhattan District, from all of which we have taken rich ore, OUR AVERAGE ASSAY BEING OVER $400.00 TO THE TON.

We have so thoroughly tested our claims that WE KNOW WHAT WE HAVE. THE TIME TO BUY IS NOW! Stock selling at 10 cents a share, par value One Dollar, fully paid and non-assessable.

REPORT OF OFFICERS

"To the Directors of the Manhattan Independent Mining Co.:

"We have been in Manhattan, Nevada, and thoroughly tested our four claims, namely, 'American Flag,' 'Anglo Celtic,' 'Peerless' and 'Independent,' and personally took 100 or more samples of ore from different places along the 5200 feet of main ledge crossing our claims, and across the width of same, together with numerous samples from the cross-ledges, and had the same assayed, and the result of the assay was an average of $400.00 to the ton. We also had some of the samples panned, and the pannings bore out the assays. These samples were in no way selected, but were taken from all the ledges with no regard to value. Our property is all we could ask and is easy of access. Throughout our entire 80 acres we have an unlimited rich deposit of free milling gold, as good as the best in this wonderful camp.

"Respectfully submitted,

THE REFUGEES

By A. CONAN DOYLE,

Author of "The Return of Sherlock Holmes"

COPYRIGHT, 1893, BY HARPER & BROTHERS

The commander of Fort St. Louis pressed his friend's hand in silent sympathy.

"The others arrived all safe," he said at last. "Only that one was taken on account of the breaking of a paddle. Three were drowned and two taken. There was a French lady in it, I understand, as well as madame."

"Yes, and they have taken her husband also."

"Ah, poor souls! Well, if you are strong enough to join us, you and your friends, we shall follow after them without the loss of an instant. Ten of my men will remain to guard the house and you can have their canoe."

CHAPTER XXV.

THE Iroquois had not treated De Catinat harshly when they dragged him from the water into their canoe. So incomprehensible was it to them why any man should voluntarily leave a place of safety in order to put himself in their power that they could only set it down to madness, a malady which inspires awe and respect among the Indians. Two warriors passed their hands over him to be sure that he was unarmed, and he was then thrust down between the two women, while the canoe darted in toward the bank to tell the others that the garrison of Fort St. Louis was coming up the stream. Adele was deadly pale, and her hand, as her husband laid his upon it, was as cold as marble.

"My darling," he whispered, "tell me that all is well with you—that you are unhurt!"

"Oh, Amory, why did you come? Why did you come, Amory?"

"How could I stay behind when I knew that you were in their hands? We have gone through so much together that we cannot part now. What is death, Adele? Why should we be afraid of it?"

"I am not afraid of it."

"And I am not afraid of it. Things will come about as God wills, and what He wills must in the end be the best."

"Tell me, monsieur," said Onega, "is my lord still living?"

"Yes, he is alive and well."

"It is good. He is a great chief, and I have never been sorry, not even now, that I have wedded with one who was not of my own people. But, ah, my son! Who shall give my son back to me? Ere that sun shines again we shall all be dead, and my heart is glad, for I shall see my boy once more."

The Iroquois paddlers had bent to their work until a good ten miles lay between them and Ste. Marie. Then they ran the canoe into a little creek upon their own side of the river and sprang out of her, dragging the prisoners after them. Then, after a short council, they started through the forest, walking in single file, with their three prisoners in the middle. There were fifteen warriors in all, eight in front and seven behind, all armed with muskets and as swift footed as deer, so that escape was out of the question.

They could but follow on and wait in patience for whatever might befall them.

All day they pursued their dreary march. Onega had the endurance of the Indians themselves, but Adele, in spite of her former journeys, was footsore and weary before evening. It was a relief to De Catinat, therefore, when the red glow of a great fire beat suddenly through the tree trunks and they came upon an Indian camp in which was assembled the greater part of the war party which had been driven from Ste. Marie. Here, too, were a number of the squaws who had come from the Mohawk and Cayuga villages in order to be nearer to the warriors. Wigwams had been erected all round in a circle, and before each of them were the kettles, slung upon a tripod of sticks, in which the evening meal was being cooked. In the center of all was a very fierce fire, which had been made of brushwood placed in a circle so as to have a clear space of twelve feet in the middle. A pole stood up in the center of this clearing, and something all mottled with red and black was tied up against it. De Catinat stepped swiftly in front of Adele that she might not see the dreadful thing.

"They have begun already, then," said Onega composedly. "Well, it will be our turn next, and we shall show them that we know how to die."

"They have not ill used us yet," said De Catinat. "Perhaps they will keep us for ransom or exchange."

The Indian woman shook her head. "Do not deceive yourself by any such hope," said she. "When they are as gentle as they have been with you it is ever a sign that you are reserved for the torture. Your wife will be married to one of their chiefs, but you and I must die."

"Married to an Iroquois!" Those dreadful words shot a pang through both their hearts which no thought of death could have done. De Catinat's head dropped forward upon his chest, and he staggered and would have fallen had Adele not caught him by the arm.

"Do not fear, dear Amory," she whispered. "Other things may happen, but not that, for I swear to you that I shall not survive you."

As they entered the Iroquois village the squaws and warriors had rushed toward them, and they walked through a double line of hideous faces, which jeered and gibed and howled at them as they passed. Their escort led them through this rabble and conducted them to a hut which stood apart.

An instant later an old war chief, accompanied by two younger braves and by the bearded half Dutch Iroquois who had led the attack upon the manor house, strolled over and stood in the doorway, looking in at the prisoners. The Bastard was smoking a stone pipe, and yet it was he who talked the most, arguing apparently with one of the younger savages, who seemed to come round at last to his opinion. Finally the old chief said a few short stern words, and the matter appeared to be settled.

"And you, you beldam," said the Bastard in French to the Iroquois woman, "you will have a lesson this night which will teach you to side against your own people!"

"You half bred mongrel," replied the fearless old woman, "you should take that hat from your head when you speak to one in whose veins runs the best blood of the Onondagas. You a warrior—you who, with a thousand at your back, could not make your way into a little house with a few poor husbandmen within it! It is no wonder that your father's people have cast you out."

The evil face of the Bastard grew livid as he listened to the scornful words which were hissed at him by the captive. He strode across to her, and, taking her hand, he thrust the forefinger into the burning bowl of his pipe. She made no effort to remove it, but sat with a perfectly set face for a minute or more, looking out through the open door at the evening sunlight and the little groups of chattering Indians. He watched her keenly in the hope of hearing a cry or seeing some spasm of agony upon her face, but at last, with a curse, he dashed down her hand and strode from the hut. She thrust her charred finger into her bosom and laughed.

A CAT'S EYES.

The Chinese Discovered Their Use as a Time Indicator.

The first European to learn of the use of a cat as a time indicator was M. Huc, who in a work on the Chinese empire tells how he was initiated into the mystery.

M. Huc and a party of friends set out to visit a Chinese Christian mission settlement among the peasantry. They met a young Chinaman on the road, and to test his intelligence they asked him if he could tell them the time. The native looked up at the sky, but the clouds hid the sun from view, and he couldn't read any answer there. Suddenly he darted away to a farm and returned in a few moments with a cat in his arms. Pushing up its eyelids with his hand, he told Huc to look at them, at the same time volunteering the information that it was not noon yet. While they were puzzling over the case the boy went about his business.

When the party reached the village, they asked the Christian converts if they could tell the time by a cat's eyes and how it was done. Immediately there was a wild hunt, and all the cats obtainable in the neighborhood were brought before them.

The Chinese pointed out that the pupils of a cat's eyes were gradually narrower up to 12 noon, when they became scarcely perceptible lines drawn perpendicularly across the eye, and after that dilation recommenced. Huc examined the eyes of several cats and verified what the Chinese had told him.—Chicago Chronicle.

Larvae Nests.

By breaking open rotton logs one can find in midwinter the grubs or larvæ of many of the wood boring beetles, and beneath logs and stones near the margins of ponds and brooks hordes of the maggots or larvæ of certain kinds of flies may often be found huddled together in great masses. The larvæ of a few butterflies also live over winter beneath chips or bunches of leaves near the roots of their food plant or in webs of their own construction, which are woven on the stems close to the buds whose expanding leaves will furnish them their first meal in spring.

KENNEDY COBALT, Ltd.

is recommended

Mr. Eggert, M.E., in his report on this property, says:

J. B. 32. This claim is situated on Trout Creek, not 15 chains from water's edge, in Temagami Forest Reserve, on the first bend of the Montreal River, directly at the head of Bay Lake and opposite V. and VI. concession of Coleman. Lease has been granted.

The claim is a 20 acre one and about 60 feet high with the exception of the most westerly part through which the creek runs and a small swamp to the south. Through it from one boundary line to the other runs the celebrated Nadeau vein following the contact between the middle Huronic quartzites and the diabase.

This vein, which comes up from the water on the Kay Foster claim is stripped all the way across the 20 acres of J. B. 32 at which southern end it dips down in a swamp to come up at the Nadeau.

It has a width of 5 feet, carrying a large amount of cobalt bloom, and in it runs a calcite vein 12 inches wide. Parallel with it runs an 18 inch vein of quartz richly mineralized with copper and iron sulphides.

This last vein has been traced for 4 chains while the first one, as already said, is uncovered for all of 20 chains making it plainly seen that the vein crosses the whole lot.

At the Nadeau, for which $100,000.00 was refused, has been sunk a shaft to a depth of 50 feet, and in it shows 6 inch nicolite, 18 inch smaltite together with cobaltite. Assays gave 673-1233-492-1161 oz. silver, or an average of over 900 oz. silver, which at the present price of 70c. is equal to $630.00 per ton, exclusive of cobalt values. The Edison Mine is right above on higher land.

The property is well situated right at water, has enough timber for all purposes and is one which needs only a shaft of 50 feet depth to be ready as a producer.

New Liskeard, 17th November, 1906.

JACOB M. EGGERT, M.E.

We offer a few more shares at Fifty Cents (50c); par value One Dollar ($1.00). The property is being developed as fast as possible, and we cannot promise that stock will be sold at less than par for very long. Don't wait until it is $3.00 to invest, giving others big profits for what you should have bought sooner. We want you to get in on the ground floor and share in the big profits. HOW TO TEST YOUR KIDNEYS.

If any of your family have been troubled with kidney disease make a test of the urine and satisfy yourself whether you need a good remedy before the disease has caused serious complications.

Tomorrow morning put some urine in a glass or bottle and let it stand for twenty-four hours.

If it shows particles or germs floating about, is milky or cloudy, or contains a reddish sediment, then your kidneys are diseased.

Commence at once to take Ferrozone to arrest these unnatural conditions.

Ferrozone is especially intended for the immediate relief and cure of kidney and bladder troubles and its health-giving properties will be felt at once in new blood, healthy circulation, and general strengthening of the system.

Ferrozone quickly corrects urinal disorders, headache, and pain in the back. It improves the appetite, digests the food, makes it nourish the nerves, makes them strong and enduring, and fits one for lots of hard work.

Don't be misled by cheap, so-called kidney cures offered by dealers for the sake of extra profits. There is only one safe and reliable specific for Kidney, Bladder, Liver and urinal troubles, and its name is Ferrozone.

Refuse point blank to accept a substitute, and insist on your druggist supplying "Ferrozone;" price 60c. per box at all dealers.

Charges Against Local Grocer

Many complaints have been made that a grocer on Charlotte street is selling candy to children on Sunday. If the complaint is well founded it should be investigated by the police and the party severely dealt with. The story as rumored is that on Sunday afternoons little children knock at the door when the proprietor admits them and in a few minutes the children come out with candy. Whilst not claiming these rumors are true, the party, if detected is too small for the Electric City.

DON T NEED BREAD

Found True Food for Brain Workers

"I have been employed for several years in preparing a series of historical papers on the Civil War. The necessary research has been laborious and exhausting, involving the examination of more than 100,000 pages of the official records.

"The more than ordinary interest I took in the work (for I bore a part in the conflict) caused incessant worry and proved too great a strain. Overwork brought on brain fatigue; constant worry did the rest.

"Insomnia followed, then loss of appetite followed by absolute inability to control my mind. Labor was without accomplishment. Remedy after remedy was vainly employed but the work began could not be dropped. And yet it seemed as if I was going to pieces.

"At last I tried Grape-Nuts food, and less than a week brought benefit; continued use resulted in steady improvement, and I soon found myself again in possession of full mental efficiency. I am ten years younger in looks and feeling than when I began to eat Grape-Nuts, over three years ago. I can now easily write 2,500 words a day and maintain that rate of production without being overworked.

"Brain fag and insomnia are strangers to me now, and my appetite is all right. I sleep soundly and restfully, and arise ready for work. A sallow complexion has given away to pink and white, my weight has increased 20 pounds, and my cheery, good spirits are in strong contrast to the crossness and irritability that had settled down upon me.
